of the branch, Elder F. W. Curtis, is making arrangements to move nearer Zion. His leaving with his family cause the branch to be in a weak condition, and it will cause the remaining Saints of the branch to make an extra effort to keep the fire burning. There is a spirit for good now manifested in the district. I go from here to Blair, where I am informed much interest exists, and some desire baptism.

I am your fellow laborer,
J. F. MINTUN.

FREMONT, Neb., October 16th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—On the 13th and 14th inst., a two days' meeting was held in the Pleasant Grove Branch, three miles from this place, which was a very pleasant time for the Saints and friends. Bro. W. M. Rumel presided, and Brn. Caffall and Mintun were present, and did the preaching. We held six meetings, and all were well attended. James A. Peck and wife, and Miss V. E. Siders, of Fremont, were baptized. Others were almost persuaded to do likewise, and will in the near future. It was a success. All seemed to enjoy themselves, and many expressed themselves as well pleased with the meeting; nothing to mar or molest any one, but all felt the peaceful Spirit of the Master in our midst. The sisters did their part well in providing for about seventy persons for dinner, on Saturday and Sunday, which was enjoyed by having all things common.

Yours in bonds,
EDWARD RANNIE, Jr.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Ter.,
October 18th, 1883.

Dear Brother:—I hope you are well. Bro. Brand only gave Cheyenne one gospel shot, and dropped one in the gospel kingdom. I followed once and dropped another in the gospel kingdom.

Now the Sun paper has gotten mad, and wants to tear our church to pieces. I am here with the gospel cannon, and I will give them a few broadsides with the help of my Heavenly Father. My Father has plenty of Heavenly powder.

I am pleased to tell you that I went with Bro. Brand to Salt Lake City to conference, and we had a blessed time. Bro. Blair is doing all he can to help on the work of our Heavenly Father.

I hope my brethren and sisters will pray for me, as my wish is to do all the good I can, to help roll on this great work. My desire is to be humble and prayerful.

Your brother in bonds,
JOHN EAMES.

VIOLA, Linn Co., Iowa,
October 22d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I left the Reunion feeling well for active labor, as I had been strengthened, cheered and comforted much.

I went directly to Boonesborough, and on the eve of the 28th, began services. Some things were not just what we hoped for; but as the days came and went, the situation assumed better features, and I think a profitable lesson was learned by those who were actors in the scene. After the first evening, I had liberty seemingly commensurate with the necessity of the occasion, and sometimes the kind Father bestowed the Spirit in power, especially speaking of the second coming of Christ, and the necessary preparation on the part of the Saints to meet him so as to enter into rest. There was hardly a dry eye to be seen. I delivered eighteen discourses and many were favorably impressed. On Sunday the fourteenth we were privileged to baptize four. The four were perhaps not entirely convinced by us, nor do we believe all the seed cast forth was gathered. I have never been better sustained in every way than by the Boonesborough Saints. May God bless them all.

I left there for the present field, worn from incessant labor, but fresh in spirit, thanking God, Saints, and friends for blessings and kindness.

Your Brother in Christ,

R. ETZENHOUSER.

EDENVILLE, IOWA, October 23d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—On the 23d ult., I went to Grundy county, with Bro. Roth. The Free Methodists, learning of our intention, covered our time with appointments at the Grove School-house. We got the opportunity to speak at three, on Sunday. Met their minister the night before, and he promised to hear us, but forgot to come. We contented ourselves by listening to the Rev. R. Scott, at eleven, and learned fully what a false teacher was. Bro. Roth gave answer at three. These people undertook to pray us out of the neighborhood, and before our good Father heard their amens, we were on iron wheels for other parts.

On the 7th I opened up in a large hall at the famous tornado city, Grinnell. About fifty out at eleven, and one hundred at night. I labored hard for some reason, and on the 8th left, but not until I had told the good news to some that were interested. On the 9th Bro. Goreham took me by team to Sr. Kennel's, in Iowa county. We went to the "election," where we posted bills announcing our appointments for 10th and 11th. Time came and a good house. Here we found we were in the midst of Spiritualism, both in practice and doctrine. Learned the Bible had been held up to ridicule, and was no better than the "Old Mother Goose story." We made an effort in defense of the Inspired Record. Showed the untenableness of honest men and thinkers ridiculing a work for a few mistakes that had crept into it by reason of uninspired interpolators, although these men may have been honest. But a work that had been translated one hundred and seventy-seven different times, and printed in one hundred and sixty-nine different languages and dialects, was very liable to contain some mistakes, although translators were ever so careful. Our life was full of mistakes, and we held it under our own immediate supervision. I welded the broken links by the Inspired Translation, and it was remarked by one thinking man present, "That man laid a foundation that is hard to move." By urgent request I left two appointments for the 28th, to be filled by Brn. D. C. White and R. Goreham.

On 12th I took train for Viola, Linn county, to visit some friends, and broke the bread of life for the first time to them. Two appointments were well circulated, for me on Sunday 14th at the M. E. Church. Had a crowded house, and was listened to with interest. Bro. Etzenhouser joined me on the 16th, and we continued in the M. E. Church till Thursday night, when we had read to us by one of the seven trustees, as near as I remember the following: "Whereas, these two Mormon or Latter Day Saint preachers believe in one Joseph Smith and his revelations; and also the Book of Mormon, we therefore in behalf of the Trustees, notify these gentlemen that after this service, the doors will be closed against them." They had previously sent for their minister, and he was present. The notice proved to be from the minister, and without any name. We expostulated, but to no use. Whereas we had not made any defense in favor of the Book of Mormon, nor Joseph Smith and his revelations, we invited an investigation upon the matter. We did not court public discussions, but there are times when principle demands of us to stand for our rights. Therefore we asked that the M. E. Church provide a man to affirm: "That the Book of Mormon was wholly of human origin." The people are in an uproar, and have accused their minister of cowardice. We were asked to go to the school-house, and have held meetings there ever since to crowded houses with the best of interest.

Are billed now up to Friday the 26th. The M. E. Minister has announced that he will show the true inwardness of Mormonism on Sunday, 28th, at 2.30. We leave town Friday night, and will return at the hour above named, we expect to the astonishment of our opponent. We will announce our answer for Sunday night, if thought necessary. It's never been our lot to see a greater excitement under such circumstances than prevails here. We have many friends, and can see good for the work.

I wish to relate one more testimony in favor of the truth. After last Saturday night's services, while a lady of the M. E. Church was going home, one of her brethren in church made the remark, that he would assist to egg us out of the community. This lady rebuked him, and presented radical arguments in our favor. On reaching the house she opened the door, and to her utter astonishment before her on the carpet were two bright, brilliant stars. She gazed at them for a moment, trying to decipher the mystery. She said: She knew we preached the Bible, and she had asked God for some token in regard to the truthfulness of the Book of Mormon. This all flashed to her mind in a moment. To satisfy herself that she was not deceived, she approached the stars, and endeavored to erase them by rubbing her foot over them. The moment she rubbed one, it flashed with brightness more than ever. She was so astonished that she went out doors to inform her husband, who was caring for the team. He came, but on opening the door they were gone. They at once lit a lamp, and made search to satisfy the husband, but nothing could be found to solve the problem. The next day (Sunday) the lady told me of the circumstance, and I had the following interpretation:—The two stars were a representation of the Bible and Book of Mormon, and the more that they were opposed, the more brilliant would their teachings shine forth.

Bro. Etzenhouser and I both feel well in the work, and have been much blessed in our ministry. We received to-day an invitation from Springville (the resident place of the M. E. minister) to come over, and they would furnish us a good hall, and board us while we presented our claims. The sound and influence are being felt for miles around. We go from here to Monticello, Jones county, and any wishing to address us, can do so at that point.

Yours in gospel bonds,

I. N. WHITE.

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss.,

October 13th, 1883.

Mr. Joseph Smith:—I have been introducing the faith and work of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints by way of the Reorganized tracts, that I bought of you some time ago. Some times I give away several Heralds. I have given away one Voice of Warning, which is a great work. I am in a place where the gospel of the kingdom has never been preached as yet. They are ignorant of the gospel in its purity, and also of the gifts and blessings of the same. I hope to see the day when all Israel can hear the voice of the good Shepherd, and hearken, and become obedient to the laws and ordinances of the gospel. I can not see what makes scattered Israel so bashful in receiving with meekness the ingrafted word, which is able to save their souls. But this gospel of the kingdom must be preached unto all people then the end shall come. I fervently believe that the sap that makes the fig tree bud is now rising. If all people would take the same view of the gospel that the Saints of the Reorganized Church do, "and seek for wisdom," (i. e.) divine wisdom, it would not be so difficult to understand the important parts of the everlasting gospel, which were given by inspiration: Any one will have to be in accordance with the same Spirit by which it was written; otherwise they can not comprehend the mysteries of the body which is "compact and grounded together."

"Thanks we give and adoration,
For the gospel's joyful sound,
May the fruits of thy salvation
In our hearts and lives abound.
Ever faithful, ever faithful,
To the truth may we be found."

I am your humble servant,

A. L. LIVINGSTON.

INDEPENDENCE, Jackson Co., Mo.,

October 17th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I having been appointed to preside over the Independence District by the voice of the conference, held here on Saturday and Sunday last, I shall endeavor to give my time and labors to the duties of the appointment, and hope the spirit of peace and good will to men may so obtain in the different branches of the district that my burden in adjusting difficulties may be found to be very light. I chose Bro. Emsly Curtis vice president, which was ratified by the conference. Bro. T. H. Humes, of Kansas City, was chosen clerk of the district. The apparent signs and tokens are on the increase that the Lord is moving the hearts of his people concerning Zion.

Bro. Joseph Luff put in his appearance at our conference, and is with us again. The Saints were cheered by his presence, and he preached a stirring sermon to a well filled house and large congregation on Sabbath night. Among the audience was quite a number of citizens of Independence, one of whom was Mr. Charles Wilson, the owner of the Opera House, who so kindly tendered it for the use of the Saints to hold meetings in at the time of our Annual Conference a year and a half ago.

I was glad to hear it announced by Bro. Alexander Smith (he being a committee on finance of subscription for meeting house) that there was sufficient means to pay off the debt, and some to spare. This is very encouraging, considering the limited circumstances the branch was in at the beginning of its erection.

I have had quite a number introductions of late to Saints that I had not heretofore met with. They are coming in occasionally from the regions round about, also from a distance far away. I was introduced this morning to a Bro. Lee, from Oregon, who has come with his family to stop here, or in this vicinity. Also to a Bro. Evens that lives about seventy-five miles west of St. Louis, who arrived this morning; has come to see the place. Well, Bro. Joseph, a good scribe or reporter we think could find a plenty of material to write up an interesting letter of the present movements and prospects of things in this quarter, but seeing I am neither, lest I weary, I will close for the present. Pray for me. Kind regards to all.

Yours in bonds,

C. G. LANPHEAR.

LAWRENCE, Michigan,

October 16th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I forgot to mention in my last letter to the Herald, the baptism on the 1st Sunday in September, of Bro. Jules Tunour, and Sr. Maud Robinson into the Lawrence Branch. I went to Lapeer county, as expected when I wrote, but being unable to do anything I returned home, where I have been ever since. Bro. Joseph, our trial has been severe, but could have been more so, no doubt.

Your brother in hope,

C. SCOTT.

Summary of News.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Oct. 18.—Final review of the historical books of the old Testament has been carried by the revisers at London as far as 1 Chronicles 2.

Resolutions condemning the Commons for refusing Bradlaugh his seat and favoring the abolition of Parliamentary oaths were adopted with great enthusiasm yesterday at the Leeds conference of prominent English Liberals.

A destructive earthquake Monday on the southern coast of the Gulf of Smyrna, Grecian Archipelago, totally destroyed six villages. About two hundred people lost their lives and many thousands are homeless. The Government has called for immediate assistance, and as soon as possible a commission will be sent to the aid of the suffering community. Slight shocks are reported to be still felt in the Island of Chios.

One hundred and fifty Annamite convicts employed in erecting a light-house on the Island of Poolo Condor, in the China Sea, mutinied and murdered the Frenchman in charge, named Warder, and seriously injured another Frenchman. Sixty convicts seized the arms and stores and escaped in boats. The others fled to the woods and hills.

China is actively preparing to close the port of Canton. Troops from the northern frontier of Tonquin will be landed at Whampoa. The Chinese troops which landed at Whampoa are for the purpose of blockading Canton. The Bogue ports on the Canton River are being provisioned.

High tides and severe gales prevail in the British Isles. Many marine casualties are reported. The Severn Tunnel is again flooded. Vessels arriving have experienced terrible weather. Limerick, Ireland, is partially flooded.

The company appointed to revise the authorized version of the Old Testament finished their eighty-second session at the Jerusalem Chamber, London, Eng.

Seventeen peasants in Styria, Austria, have been condemned to imprisonment for robbing Jews.

Messrs. Siemens are energetically pushing the work on the new Mackey-Bennett cables now being manufactured by them at Charlton pier, Woolwich. They will form a duplicate line from Ireland to Nova Scotia, continued from Nova Scotia by special cable to Cape Ann, and having a branch line from Ireland to France. The work was definitely begun last week, and though the materials are still being prepared and tested, yet it is already possible to determine the character of the cables. Their core will contain a strand of eleven copper wires of the highest conductivity, weighing 350 pounds per nautical mile, and the di-electric will consist of eight coatings of gutta percha placed upon the wire according to the improved method of Messrs. Siemens, and weighing 300 pounds per nautical mile. The deep sea portion will be covered with galvanized steel wire and manilla hemp. All the intermediate cables are armed with steel wires. The shore ends are of the usually heavy types. Messrs. Siemens are convinced that nothing superior has ever come from their factories. They will introduce all the improvements suggested by years of research and experience. The length of the entire system of cables will be 5,000,600 miles. They will be laid by the steamer Faraday in the course of next summer.

Four deaths from cholera occurred yesterday in a village near Alexandria, Egypt.

Yellow fever is raging at Altata, Mex., on the Gulf of California. While the pestilence was at its height, the deaths numbering twenty a day, a hurricane came upon the town, destroying the greater part and killing many people. The inhabitants then fled to the mountains.

In the General Convention of the Episcopalians at Philadelphia yesterday, the proposal to amend the constitution by striking out the words "Protestant Episcopal" was defeated by a postponement of further consideration of the matter.

Among the failures of to day was that of the Bangor Furnace Company of Bangor, Mich., with liabilities estimated at $112,000.

More banks and a greater amount of National bank notes are affected by the recent call of three per cent bonds than was at first supposed. The two calls together will cause a contraction of $12,500,000 in circulation, unless the banks interested shall determine to purchase 4 or 4½ per cents as a substitute for the called threes.

Oct. 19th.—Cholera has reappeared in an Egyptian village. It is attributed to the drinking of water drained from the cemetery where victims of the summer's plague had been buried. Several new cases and one death in the infected village to-day.

An officer of the French expeditionary force in Tonquin, describing the fall of Hue, states that it was "quite a treat" to see the streams of bullets pouring down on the Annamites as they rushed from the village past the fort where the French sailors lay waiting for their victims. They were mowed down by dozens, and even those who tried to escape by swimming the lagoon were shot down in the water. After the massacre the French sailors boldly sallied forth from the fort and still further disgraced their nationality by butchering in cold blood the unfortunate wounded lying about the city. The officers attempted to restrain the mad-men, but they pursued their bloody work, hunting out even the servants of the Annamites, diminutive young boys who followed the troops.

A gale of wind did considerable damage in West and North Germany. Numerous wrecks are reported. A violent storm on Lake Ladoga and the Gulf of Finland caused great loss of life and shipping. Sixty vessels were stranded. The bodies of sixteen persons have been recovered.

The leading weekly grain circular of Liverpool, Eng., says: The dullness of the wheat trade is intensified by the downward movement of American quotations. At British markets prices are maintained for the best native samples. Foreign is in poor demand and lower to sell. At to-day's market there was small business in wheat. Fine qualities realized about late rates. Indian sorts, owing to pressure to sell, declined 1d@2d. Flour was in restricted inquiry, and barley steady. Corn was in moderate demand.

Admiral Galiber is preparing to resume the offensive on the coast of Madagascar, where the Hovas recaptured several places. The English naval authorities are described as very hostile to the French. A battle is reported between the Hovas and the Sakalavas. The Hova Chiefs were summoned by the Queen of Madagascar to declare their opinion in regard to the dispute with France, and advised that passive resistance to the French be continued.

It is rumored that a Chinese reconnoitering expedition is about to proceed in the direction of Annam. Since the riots at Canton there have been signs of hostility on the part of the natives toward the Portuguese. One of the gunboats at Canton has on board a Portuguese watchman who is charged with drowning a Chinaman, the incident which led to the recent riot.

At Warsaw, Russia, Nihilist proclamations appear almost daily. A number of persons suspected of being the authors, including several students, have been arrested.

Brigandage in Sicily is not looked upon with so much of favor as formerly, twelve outlaws having just been sentenced to death and others to the galleys.

Two of a crowd of riotous miners at Kimberly, near Cape Town, were killed by the constabulary.

A terrible oyster festival fight occurred in the Methodist Church of Bayville, L. I., Thursday night. While seated around the supper table, two well known citizens of the town engaged in a violent altercation, which soon terrified the whole assemblage. The men began throwing the festive crockery, and in this manner overturned and extinguished the lights, after which, between the fury of the fighters and the panic of the people, life within the building was exceedingly insecure. No less than ten persons, including the pastor of the church, received severe injuries, the originators of the disturbance luckily carrying away the heroic's share of the wounds.

The noble red men in the Indian Territory are fast learning all the refinements of civilization. In the recent election for Chief, Spiochee was successful on the face of the returns, but the Council resolved itself into a returning board, threw out a score of towns on the ground of irregularity, and declared J. M. Perryman elected, and now is to be heard the charge that Spiochee was "counted out."

Business failures during the week were unusually numerous, exceeding the record of the previous week by fifty-six, according to Dun's report, and being 243 in all. The squeeze is the hardest in Canada. In New York money is plenty for everybody except speculation. The deposits of the banks of that city amount to half a billion. Business men are still far from despondent.

The Woman's Congress closed yesterday. Julia Ward Howe was reelected President. Papers discouraging the present excesses of fashionable and other people in times of domestic grief, and encouraging cremation, received many marks of approbation. The last session was devoted to the questions at the bottom of the agitation—the desire to vote, and the feeling that a woman ought to be able to earn as much as a man.

At the close of the fiscal year, June 30th, 1883, there were 303,658 pensioners, drawing in the aggregate $32,245,192 annually, but there are still left 962,601 living soldiers and sailors and 62,340 pensionable relatives who have not forwarded their applications for assistance.

Mexico is negotiating a $10,000,000 loan in New York City.

Oct. 21.—Eighty-four families of the 134 who constitute the Village of Ermsleben, Saxony, are suffering from trichiniasis. Twenty-three persons have already died. The disease has made its appearance in the village of Aken also.

Gen. Mesney, of the Chinese army, a native of the Island of Jersey, is authority for the statement that the Black Flags who are fighting the French in Tonquin are subsidized by the Chinese Government; also, that they are in the habit of eating the bodies of those Frenchmen who fall into their hands, as they believe that the flesh of ferocious men makes them brave.

Later details confirm the statement that the first accounts of the earthquake in Anatolia were greatly exaggerated.

At Vourla, near Smyrna, where 200 huts were wrecked, only two persons were killed and seven injured. One thousand inhabitants are quartered in long tents outside the ruined village.

Ten hamlets near Chesme suffered more or less. Altogether fifty-seven were killed and 150 injured in that district.

Leaders of the Orangemen in Ireland say that if the Government permits the disloyal Parnellite meetings to continue, it will be impossible to control their followers, and bloodshed, if not actual civil war will ensue.

A treaty of peace between Chili and Peru has been signed.

The total amount of silver dollars in the United States Treasury is $114,000,000. Of this $79,000,000 are held as a deposit against a corresponding amount of silver certificates. The other $35,000,000 the Treasury may be called upon to disburse at any time.

The great tidal wave caused by the Java earthquake was propagated to the Pacific coast of South America. At Talcahuano, Chili, the ocean rose, August 28th, two feet above high water mark, and the day after earthquakes were felt in San Salvador, Colombia, and Ecuador. Alarming detonations about the same time were heard in all the towns of the Bogota plateau, while at Manabi, Ecuador, troops were turned out ready to meet the supposed enemy. This record will enable seismologists to ascertain the extent of the disturbance caused by the Java earthquake. Almost simultaneously with the Andean earth shocks and the Chilean tidal wave the ocean rose on the California coast, as reported by Prof. Davidson, August 29th. In the West Indies an extraordinary tide rose in the harbor of St. Thomas at 7.30 p.m., August 27th. As the tides at St. Thomas seldom go above twelve inches, and that of Aug. 27th, rose three and one half feet and was followed the 30th, by a heavy earthquake shock, there can be but little doubt that this disturbance was the result of the terrible commotion in the Sunda Strait. If to the same agency be attributed the destructive tidal wave which visited our Jersey coast August 28th and 29th, it would seem that the agitation extended to all the oceanic area around the globe, forty degrees on both sides of the equator.

The White River of Arkansas has inundated 1,200 acres of corn and cotton.

Oct. 22.—A French man-of-war has left Tamatave with orders to bombard Mahanaros and other southern ports of Madagascar.

Advices from Yun Nan confirm the report that the Chinese are assisting the Black Flags in Annam, who number 3,000 men, exclusive of those in the garrisons at Bacninh and Sontay. Advices from Hai Phong, Tonquin, say residents dread an attack from a thousand pirates encamped in the vicinity. The French garrison at Hai Phong is small, but it is believed able to repel an attack by the pirates. Reinforcements, however, are anxiously awaited. There is great activity in the Chinese camp to the north of Hanoi, and it is feared the Black Flags will assume offensive operations. Decisive action of the French forces from Hanoi against the Black Flags at Backninh is impending. The weather is cool and the ground rapidly drying. The French garrison at Hanoi is momentarily expecting 3,000 reinforcements, which will furnish an available force there of 7,000. Admiral Corbett has taken command, and will immediately begin an active campaign. The pirates menacing Hai Phong were driven from the coast by the French gunboats. The Viceroy of Canton objects to foreigners traversing the streets. Ten thousand men are concentrated near Canton, ostensibly on account of anticipated popular commotion. Reports of an approaching war with foreigners are circulating in the interior of China. The people in Yun Nan believe the Chinese army is preparing for a war of extermination against foreigners.

The Viceroy of Canton has asked for 1,000,000 taels for the payment of losses incurred in the recent rioting. His agents are asking for arms.

The newspapers state that the French have discovered that the forts at Bacninh are mounted with Krupp guns too strong to be taken by assault. Tonquin generally is in a state of anarchy. The radius of French rule does not extend beyond the French line of sentries. The situation is most serious. If the French attack Bacninh war with China will be inevitable.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt on the Island of Malta, at 2 o'clock this morning. An earthquake shock occurred at Trieste, Austria, at 3:30 this morning.

A fresh shock of earthquake was felt to-day at Tchesme, causing great damage. Admiral Hay has telegraphed Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador, that help is urgently needed.

The first number of the Socialist paper, Will of the People, which is printed abroad, has reached St. Petersburg, Russia. It contains a letter from the Nihilist prisoner Netchajeff to the Czar. Netchajeff was condemned ten years ago, and was supposed to be dead. The writer complains of the inhumanity of the prison officials and the terrible treatment to which he and his fellow-prisoners are subjected. He says he has recently been deprived of the little light hitherto allowed him. The journal adds the letter was originally written in blood on a printed piece of paper, and a great portion, therefore, is illegible. The letter has created much excitement and sensation among the Nihilists at St. Petersburg.

At Christiana the impeachment trial of Selmer, Minister of State, has begun. The trials of the other members of the Cabinet await the result of this case.

Dr. Torres, of the Medical Department of the Mexican army, left Chihuahua yesterday, having received telegraphic orders from the escort sent to Gallego Station, on the Mexican Central Railway, by the authorities at Casa Grande. There has been a skirmish between the Indians and Mexicans at that place. The Indians were driving away a part of the cavalry's horses, when they were pursued by the other portion of the cavalry, and a fight ensued. It is not known how many were killed, but several. It is not known which side was victorious. Dr. Torres was sent for to attend the wounded.

The fearful gale of last Saturday night has caused great loss of life to the fishing and coasting fleet off Cape Cod. It is reported at New York this evening that a Chatham vessel lost the captain and twelve men out of a crew of fifteen. A boat went out with these thirteen men after a school of mackerel, and the squall struck and nothing could be seen of them. The cook and one man were left on board. The squall blew the sails all away. The vessel drifted across the bay under Marshfield, and report says was towed into Plymouth to-day by a Gloucester schooner.

Nothing has been heard from the eight men lost from the schooner Helen M. Crosby. It is generally thought they have perished.

Yellow fever is still raging at Hermosillo and Guaymas, Texas. The number of deaths is much greater than reported. The distress among the poor is very great. Food is also scarce and dear.

On the Great Lakes, one schooner was stranded, another sunk, and another mashed up in a collision.

The Mark Lane Express says: "The weather has been colder. There has been a considerable fall of rain in some localities, but the seed-time so far has been favorable. The demand for seed keeps up the values for the choicest samples of wheat. Flour is in increasing supply, and the market depressed. The best barley tends upward. Grinding sorts have declined 6 pence. Foreign wheat is dull, inanimate, and gradually declining. The supply is again very large. Foreign flour is depressed and maize is cheaper. Fifteen cargoes of wheat have arrived; six were sold; and five withdrawn. Sales of English wheat this week, 65,388 quarters at 40 shillings 5 pence the quarter, against 54,736 quarters at 39 shillings 7 pence the quarter the corresponding week last year."

A great mass-meeting of colored men was held at Washington last night. It was addressed by Col. Ingersoll and Fred Douglass. Col. Ingersoll praised Justice Harlan, and placed the recent opinion of the Supreme Court on a par with the Dred Scott and other ante-war decisions.

The clearings for the week were $1,218,613,915, and New York alone had nearly a billion dollars. A few weeks ago the whole country got along with less than $700,000,000.

For three days a severe snow-storm has been raging at Tellweide, Col., and the mountain passes are now covered to a depth of four feet.

Oct. 23.—Strategic points in the Red River delta are now said to be in the possession of the French forces in Tonquin. The black flags have retreated.

England has sent a note to France complaining of the prolonged occupation of Tamatave, Madagascar, to the injury of commercial interests.

A new circular, containing, under the head "Black-List," the names of the jurors in the Phoenix Park murder trials, was mailed to thousands in Dublin, Ireland, yesterday.

Order has been completely restored in the West Indies. Fifteen hundred lives were lost and damage to the extent of $4,000,000 done during the recent massacre. The Haytian war-steamer Dessalines has arrived under the American flag. In the attack on Miragone the Government troops were repulsed with severe loss and Gen. Piquent mortally wounded.

At 8 o'clock this morning Gen. Lynch, the Chilean commander, left for Barranco, where he has established his "general quartel." At 10 o'clock Gen. Yglesias entered Lima as "Presidente Regenerador." The Chilean troops evacuated Lima at 8 o'clock.

The Portuguese Ministry is again remodeled.

The Egyptians have completely defeated El Mahdi, the false Prophet.

Four more deaths from cholera have occurred in an Arab village near Alexandria.

The Yorkshire colliery-owners refuse to grant the advance of 15 per cent in miners' wages.

The new treaty of delimitation of the Russo-Chinese frontier was officially signed at Tehuguchark the 19th inst.

Near Havre the general Transatlantic Company's steamer Normandie, from New York, collided with and sank a schooner. The Normandie sustained much damage.

The Spanish Cabinet has resolved to summon the Cortes to meet in December.

Oct. 24.—A Tchesme dispatch says: Unless immediate relief is forthcoming hundreds of persons whose houses were wrecked by the recent earthquake will die from fever and exposure. The relief hitherto has been slight. Food is not so much needed as clothes, blankets, medicine, and material to build temporary shelter. A Turk quarreled with and mortally wounded a Greek yesterday, and the rumor spread that the Turks were massacring the Christians. The Governor-General of Smyrna, who is here directing measures for the relief of the sufferers, landed a body of sailors and arrested the assassin. This prompt action prevented dangerous disorders.

The Czar has decided to grant Russia more freedom and such reforms as are suited to the spirit of the people. He has intrusted to Count Tolstoi and Count Katjoff the task of preparing a Constitution.

Secret-service officers in a raid on a counterfeiting den in the mountains of Vermont, discovered the existence of an oath-bound conspiracy of crime with all the paraphernalia of signs, passwords, mystic records, and blood-curdling oaths of secrecy. Thus far the confederated crooks appear to have confined their talents to coining.

The general impression produced by the French, "Yellow Book," a recently published description of Franco-Chinese affairs, is that all negotiations between France and China are exhausted, and that war or successful mediation is inevitable.

Delegates representing 41,000 colliers of Yorkshire, England, have resolved to insist upon an advance in wages.

At Berlin, Mich., Monday night, O'Conner, the ex-Catholic priest, delivered a lecture, reciting the causes which led to his abandonment of the priesthood. After the lecture a mob seized and badly maltreated him. He was then dragged to a millpond, where, in order to escape drowning, he promised never to speak against the Roman Church again. He afterward sought the protection and championship of the law, and will prosecute his tormentors. He repudiates the promise given under compulsion. A riot occurred at Toledo, O., not long ago on account of a meeting which O'Conner attempted to call together.

FIRES, STORMS AND ACCIDENTS.

Oct. 18.—On Sunday, October 14th, the largest cloud burst ever known in that section, occurred near Tucson, Arizona. At one place a river was formed two hundred yards wide, which cut in some places fifteen feet into the ground.

Oct. 19th. Loss by fire at Akron, O., $10,000. Union City, Mich., $6,000. St. George, N. B., $25,000.

Near Tyler, Tex., a freight train was struck by a cyclone, blown over, and almost entirely demolished. One woman and two children were severely injured.

An explosion occurred at a colliery in Wharnclyff, Yorkshire, Eng., yesterday, and twenty miners were killed. Five who were in the shaft escaped with their lives.

Oct. 21.—Loss by fire in Chicago, Ill., $1,300, St. Paul, Minn., $6,000. Grand Haven, Mich., $60,000. Boston, Mass., $25,000. Mount Vernon, O., $20,000. New York City, $50,000.

Three boys were badly injured in New York City, by the explosion which followed the application of a match to a giant powder cartridge, found by them in the street.

Oct. 22.—Loss by fire at Anapolis, Md., $50,000. Two lives lost. Montreal, Quebec, $30,000. Middleville, Mich., $30,000. Four lives lost. Richmond, Indiana, $5,000. St. Louis, Mo., $35,000. Minneapolis, Minn., $10,000.

An explosion occurred in the Lady Pitt Colliery, Stoke-upon-Trent, London, Eng., yesterday while the miners were trying to extinguish a fire. Six miners were killed and three wounded. Another explosion of coal-damp occurred in Wharnclyffe Carlton Mine while an exploring party was searching for the bodies of the victims of Thursday's explosion. Several explorers were injured, and it is said two were killed.

The baggage and passenger car on the Glens Falls Branch of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad crashed through a bridge near Fort Edward, N. Y., and went down into the water of the canal-feeder a total wreck. There were three persons killed and twenty-one more or less severely injured, the only one escaping unhurt being the train newsboy.

Oct. 23.—Loss by fire at St. Louis, Mo., $150,000. Miles City, Mont., $60,000. Geneseo, Ill., $20,000. Peoria, Ill., $24,000. Edgerton, Ill., $7,000.

A broken rail near East St. Louis, on the Louisville & Nashville Road, caused two cars at the rear of a train to leave the track, turn over, and finally break loose from the train. No less than thirty-seven passengers were wounded, ten of them very badly. The scene was very trying to those who kept in a condition to render assistance. None of the victims have died in the twenty hours which have elapsed since the catastrophe. Yesterday afternoon, twenty-two miles east of Crawfordsville, Ind., on the Bloomington Road, a train in running rapidly over the frog of a switch failed to entirely keep the main track, the rear truck of the hindmost car going on the side-track and being at once thrown into the ditch. Eight occupants of the car were seriously hurt, some of them no doubt fatally. A collision of two trains occurred Monday night near Winfield, Kas., on the Santa Fe. The passengers escaped unhurt. At Troy, N. Y., it is said that the Fort Edwards bridge, the scene of Monday's horror, had been considered unsafe for some time.

As a consequence of keeping kegs of loose powder within the reach of sparks, a terrible catastrophe happened yesterday afternoon in the little Pennsylvania Town of Kingstonborough, near Wilkesbarre. By the explosion, eight children of from 11 to 16 years of age were blown yards from the site of the factory where they were employed. Those who were not killed outright will probably die from their injuries.

This afternoon a horrible accident occurred a few miles northeast of Muncie, Ind., in which Jacob Ritter was instantly killed, a man by the name of Ellis had an arm torn off, and J. L. Spark fatally injured. The men were engaged in sawing wood with a steam buzz saw, when the saw burst, flying in all directions, one large piece passed entirely through Ritter's head, another tore off the arm of Ellis, and Sparks was struck in the face and horribly mutilated. The saw is supposed to have been defective, and the high speed at which it was running caused it to burst.

Oct., 24th.—Loss by fire at West Union Iowa, $10,000.

An explosion occurred yesterday in a room of the royal palace at Naples, Italy, in which repairs were being made. Two workmen were seriously injured and the room set on fire, but the flames were promptly quenched. Great excitement prevailed and crowds of people flocked to the piazza of the palace. The explosion is not explained.

BOOK OF MORMON

Roan, sprinkled edges.....1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges.....1 50

DOCTRINE AND COVENANTS.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library.....1 25
Morocco.....1 75

LIFE OF JOSEPH THE PROPHET, HISTORY OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH, & AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH SMITH.

In cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome.....2 20
This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also three very fine steel engravings and a fac simile of the autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, steel engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

[Rejected by the Utah Journal.]

JOSEPH SMITH'S FOURTH LETTER TO L. O. LITTLEFIELD.

MR. L. O. LITTLEFIELD:

Sir.—I am not surprised that you do not like the continued reiteration of the Word of God from the Book of Mormon. That book is one of the essential features of Mormonism. It should be to you and all other Mormons what the Koran is to Mohammedans, the Bible to Christians—the end of dispute. Without it the Mormon Church had not been born. It is the Golden Bible to the devout Mormon. From it I have the undoubted right to select those portions of the text that confirm and sustain my faith in Christ as primitive Mormonism has revealed him. The word of God to the Church, in the revelation charging the Church to remember the Book of Mormon, to “do according to that which I have written,” is directly applicable to the matter in dispute between us. In that revelation the will of God touching the conduct of the Church is plainly stated—too plainly to suit you, hence your dislike to my quoting it. The only reason I assign for not quoting the whole, as complained of by you, is that I desired to make my letter as short as possible to cover the points I tried to make. At the risk of invoking another reproof from you for quoting such passages as suit my side of the controversy, I cite:

“And now it came to pass that the people of Nephi, under the reign of the second king, began to grow hard in their hearts, and indulge themselves somewhat in wicked practices, such as like unto David of old, desiring many wives and concubines, as also Solomon, his son. * * * Wherefore, I, Jacob, gave unto them these words as I taught them in the temple, having first obtained mine errand from the Lord.”

This errand from the Lord Jacob essayed to perform. In doing so he states the object for which the people were led out of Jerusalem:

“Wherefore, thus saith the Lord, I have led this people forth out of the land of Jerusalem, by the power of mine arm, that I might raise up unto me a righteous branch from the fruit of the loins of Joseph.”—B. of M., Jacob 2:6, 7.

The nature of the corruption existing among the Nephites, which was reproved by Jacob, was stated by him at the time his reproof was given. Your explanation of it is not according to the record itself. Whatever credit others may give to you as qualified to explain away the damaging effect of the words of the Lord through Jacob, I do not trust you. The arts of sophistry employed by you are too transparent, the results too ruinous to be accepted. To show you what I mean by this I quote what you assert I refrained from doing for fear the “keystone of the arch of my argument would fall out.”

“Wherefore, [for which reason], saith the Lord, if I will raise up seed unto me, I will command my people; otherwise [in a different manner, under different circumstances, in different respects] they shall hearken unto these things.”

Instead of the closing clause of this sentence being a prophecy, as you assert, it bears no mark warranting such assertion. The purpose of “raising up a righteous branch unto him,” had already been stated by the Lord. It was for this that he led them out from the people at Jerusalem. It was for this that he reproved their departure from the law given at the outset. The language of Jacob’s commendation of the Lamanites in which he states, “For they have not forgotten the commandment of the Lord, which was given unto our fathers, that they should have, save it were one wife, and concubines they should have none,” points to that rule as one commanded long before Jacob’s indictment against the Nephites, and shows its imperative character. The corruption which Jacob reproveth is precisely that of David and Solomon, which God said he would not suffer. The command is sweeping and comprehensive: “There shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none.” The reason assigned, “For I, the Lord God, delighteth in the chastity of women.”

The sophistry upon this question is on your part, not mine. The language of the text will not bear the strained construction you put upon it. The whole sentence taken with its connections can mean nothing more than this. The Lord had wearied of their sin. He set the task upon the prophet Jacob to reprove it. In doing this He uses plain language and does not indulge in double meaning words. That which he declares is like what he declared elsewhere. I am God, I will command my people. They shall hearken unto my words. This is the only force the words have. The word “otherwise,” upon which you predicate your statement that it is a prophecy, because it suits your side of the case, used in two of its senses, as given by Webster, is equivalent to the saying that “under different circumstances,” and “in different respects,” my people “shall hearken unto these things.” The statement, “I will command my people,” is affirmative only of the fixed determination of God to be obeyed. If your theory about this sentence was right, it would render void and meaningless the terrible indictment of Jacob. Such rendition would destroy the force of the statement that it was for the purpose of raising a righteous seed unto him of the loins of Joseph. It would, by antithetical reasoning, declare that the seed he was then trying to raise up by monogamic law, was not his; and that he would have none until he commanded contrary to the strict law then obtaining. “For if I will,” construed as you state it, would mean that he had not at that time willed to raise up a righteous seed to himself; but that when he would so will he would do so by giving a law contrary to and conflicting with the commandment he then gave.

The statement that the polygamic practices of the Hebrew race were “not known among the Nephites” is too glaring to pass without notice. What means the language, “They seek to excuse themselves because of the things written of David and Solomon?” “They understand not the Scriptures?” “I will not suffer that this people shall do like unto them of old?”

The discovery that there are “two kinds of plural marriage,” is unique, and worthy of the cause you advocate. David and Solomon practiced these two kinds, so you say. Please tell me when David began to practice the one and ceased to practice the other? Also please state at what period of Solomon’s life was he practicing the one and abstaining from the other.

It is a very strange thing that while you admit the premises of the argument of my last letter, that Adam, Noah, Lehi are all examples of God’s establishment of the monogamic principle; and that under the dispensations then inaugurated plural marriage would have been a sin, that you can still say that it is no argument “against polygamy.”

The same kind of argument would destroy the basis and fabric of every created thing. For instance: God created man as we now see him, one head, two eyes, one mouth, two ears, two arms, two legs, &c. But this is no argument that God did not intend that a man might not have two heads, four eyes, four legs, four arms, four ears, &c. Yet every departure from the established form is a monstrosity, a deformity, a lapsus naturae. The vine was created to bear grapes, the fig tree figs; but this is no argument that man may not gather "grapes of thorns and figs of thistles." God "set some in the Church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, after that pastors" &c; but that is no argument but what there may be in the church popes, cardinals, prelates, curates, sees, &c.

I cling so tenaciously to the Word of God in the Book of Mormon; because in direct harmony with the law of marriage as defined by Jacob, is the law given to the church "in the fulness of times," as found in the Doctrine and Covenants. It is also in keeping with the dispensations of Adam, Noah, and Christ.

Here I present what may have escaped your memory, that in the coming forth of the Book of Mormon, the conferring of the authority to preach the Gospel, and the establishing of the Church in these last days, the fact was presented that the Adamic dispensation was a gospel one. That the gospel was before the law. That the law was added because of transgression, and that the fruitful cause of God's displeasure towards the people and the giving of the law was the breaking of and departure from the everlasting covenant, the Gospel. That Noah was a preacher of the Gospel; and that the world was deluged to death because it rejected his gospel administration. That in Christ the law which had been added as a school-master was ended. That the dispensation of Christ was also a gospel dispensation. It so happens that you have admitted all this substantially. It follows then that in each of these gospel dispensations the monogamic rule prevailed by the design and introduction of God. You also admit that Lehi and Jacob's dispensation on this land was monogamic. It is also in proof that in the establishing the gospel economy through Joseph Smith in 1830, it was again instituted as monogamic. No surer evidence that in a gospel dispensation monogamy was God's plan and will ought to be asked by any mortal being.

One of the marks upon the revelation which you claim as the basis of plural marriage, which warrants my conclusion that it is not from God is that it contradicts the rule obtaining in each and every gospel dispensation. It can not be from God for it is not like him. It contradicts all former revelations from God upon the same subject. If the phrase "I will command my people," was prophetic, it is far more reasonable, and more in harmony with God's characteristics as revealed by the revelations to the church, to believe that the command of 1831, which "was to be a law to them then and in the New Jerusalem," "was given in fulfillment of said prophecy, than to believe the labored construction you put upon it. For the command of 1831 is like the one given to Lehi; is like the gospel dispensations of the past; and in accordance with the examples set by God when he essayed to people the earth.

David Fulmer does not state that the revelation on celestial marriage was presented to the High Council at Nauvoo, August 12th, 1843, by my father's "knowledge and consent." The statement made in the affidavit, is that on the convening of the High Council that day, Dunbar Wilson, who had heard some rumors about plural wifery, made inquiry about those rumors. Upon this inquiry Hyrum Smith went to his house, got a copy of the revelation and read it to the council, bearing testimony to its truth. Leonard Soby, Austin Cowles, and William Marks would not receive it, nor the testimony of Hyrum Smith. Father was not there. The revelation was not submitted by him nor with his "knowledge and consent." The presentation of it, so far as Mr. Fulmer's affidavit is concerned, was prematurely forced upon Hyrum Smith. It was not formally presented by call of the Seer in an official manner, to test its validity. Is this copy the one that was made by Joseph Kingsbury, kept by N. K. Whitney, until after his death it fell into Pres. B. Young's hands? Is it the copy made by William Clayton and kept by Pres. B. Young in his private desk on which he had a patent lock? Is it the copy of which Emma Smith burned the original? An original which she states she never saw. Mr. Littlefield, when you made this false statement respecting what Mr. Fulmer stated in his affidavit, did you forget that you had published a copy, and that I could read the English language?

Let me repeat, though you do not like it, there is no scriptural evidence that Abraham was a polygamist. Sarah was his wife until she died; Keturah after Sarah's death. Hagar was his concubine, not his wife.

Whatever God may have said to Sarai as stated by Josephus, quoted by you, it was not by any prophet's hand, nor the hand of a king that Abram received Hagar. It was Sarai who took the Egyptian slave to his bed. But your witness proves too much for your case, for he also states that when Sarah decided that Hagar must go, Abraham agreed to it because "God was pleased with what Sarah had determined." Josephus, B. 1, c 12. More than this, the sagacious servant of Abraham when making his statement to Laban, said of Isaac, "He is his (Abraham's) legitimate son; and is brought up as his only heir." Ibid c. 16. Josephus places the marriage of Abraham and Keturah after Sarah's death.

So far as Moses is concerned, it is clear that the daughter of Jethro, was an Ethiopian woman. This woman Moses married before his return to Egypt; and there is no record of his having taken any other.

The allusion made in Numbers 12, is made in relating the history of the people while yet they were in the wilderness; and the sentence "the Ethiopian woman whom he had married," more reasonably applies to Zipporah, to whom Moses was a "bloody husband," because he had circumcised her children, than to a second or concubinal wife. Besides this, if he had married a second wife who was an Ethiopian woman, he would have had two of the same race. In that case Miriam's reproach would have been that he had married two Ethiopian women, not "the woman." Your readers will do well to read Numbers, 12 and Exodus 2, without your befogged spectacles, Mr. Littlefield. The inference that Zipporah and the Ethiopian woman named in Numbers 12 are two separate women, and thus make two wives for Moses in order to fasten polygamy upon him, is not tenable.

Why should you state what is so easily disproved concerning Jacob's marriage. Rachel and not Leah was Jacob's real wife. Leah was palmed off upon Jacob by the designing Laban. "Did I not serve thee for Rachel," was Jacob's indignant remonstrance. Nor is it true that Leah was Jacob's wife in any sense for seven years before he obtained Rachel. The hard necessities of your cause make you to stumble in your statements. Jacob, recognizing the fact that Laban had deceived him, and had the power to enforce the advantage gained over him, and fearful that he might lose Rachel, submitted to "fulfill" Leah's "week;" at the end of which "week" he was married to Rachel, for whom he continued to serve the seven years enforced by Laban. In the eyes of God, and good men, Rachel was Jacob's real wife, and the accepting of Joseph and Benjamin, in whom the succession is named is proof, not that God sanctioned polygamy, but that he had respect to the marital betrothal of these two, Jacob and Rachel.

The first wife given to David was Michal, and she was the gift of Saul. Saul in David's enforced absence married her to Phalti. Was she David's wife? After Nabal's death David took Abigail, and Ahinoam after Samuel's death.

Let me call your attention to what I presume has escaped you. The relation of David's taking the wife of Uriah to be his wife, as you admit, and as it is stated in the so-called revelation on plural wives, was a grievous wrong and not in harmony with the theory of plural marriage, but in contravention of those laws which you hold to in regard to marriage. She is not reckoned as his wife legitimately by you, neither by the monogamic rule, nor the one called by you the righteous polygamic law. David's successor was not the son of any one of his polygamic wives as you count them; but was the fruit of his loins by Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah. It was her son Solomon who succeeded to King David. If then polygamy is approved of God because David had more than one wife; then by a parity of reasoning, the connection between David and Solomon's mother is approved, and the means by which she became his polygamic wife is sanctioned of God. This son is the one selected for the exhibition of favor. David murdered Uriah that he might obtain his wife. Nathan, the one whom you say gave Saul's wives to David, declared that David was a sinner in the matter, your revelation also brands the transaction as a sin; and yet the issue of that marriage is approved and that bloody deed condoned by the favor and blessing of God. No amount of twisting can avoid this conclusion being forced upon you, if you insist upon my acceptance of your argument.

I am no more convinced now that Joseph Smith, the Martyr, practiced "plural marriage" or "polygamy," as it is called and practiced in Utah, than I was before you opened the correspondence in the Journal. You have produced no evidence of which I have not been aware of its existence. No new lines of support to your doctrine have been advanced by you. The same double faced statements and arguments that others have presented have been revamped by you. I give you in as concise form as practicable reasons for not accepting the statements and proofs offered by you to prove that my father was a polygamist, and that the doctrine has not divine origin.

1. Joseph Smith was the human instrument through whom a dispensation of the gospel was committed to man.

2. Every gospel dispensation, Adam's, Noah's, Christ's, on the eastern continent, and Lehi's and Christ's on the western, was monogamic in its institution of marriage.

3. The dispensation committed through Joseph Smith was like each preceding gospel one, in its marriage institution monogamic.

4. Polygamy, the having more than one wife at the same time, was specifically forbidden to the Church of Christ as established by command of God in 1830, by Joseph Smith and others. Book of Mormon, Jacob 2d chapter.

5. Monogamy, the having but one wife at the same time was instituted in the Church of Christ established in 1830, by direct revelation from Jesus Christ the Great Spiritual and Divine Head of the Church. Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 13, (42), par. 7. Ibid, sec. 65, (49), par. 3. Ibid, sec. 109, (111). The latter reference is found in all the editions of the Book of Covenants published by the Church, in Europe and America, except the one published in Utah in 1876, from which it is expunged and the so-called revelation on polygamy put in its place.

6. Monogamy was adopted, and polygamy declared to be a crime by the Church in 1835, in public assembly; and this action was endorsed by the publication of the article then adopted, in repeated editions of the Church articles and covenants from that year until, and including the Liverpool edition published in 1854.

7. No revelation from God authorizing the abrogation of the monogamic rule, and the substitution of a plural wife system, or polygamy, was received, presented to the Church and adopted by it during the lifetime of Joseph Smith.

8. Joseph Smith denounced polygamy in February, 1844, Times and Seasons, vol. 5, p. 423.

9. The existence and teaching of the doctrine of plurality of wives in the Church at Nauvoo in 1844 was publicly denied by Hyrum Smith, one of the First Presidency, on March 15th, 1844, Times and Seasons, vol. 5, p. 474.

10. The official organ of the Church, the Times and Seasons, of April 1st, 1844, contains the following denunciation: "If any man writes to you, or preaches to you, doctrines contrary to the Bible, the Book of Mormon, or the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, set him down as an impostor. * * You need not wait to write to us to know what to do with such men; you have the authority with you,—try them by the principles contained in the acknowl- edged word of God; if they preach, or teach, or practice contrary to that, disfel-lowship them; cut them off from among you as useless and dangerous branches." Times and Seasons, vol. 5, p. 490. John Taylor, Editor.

11. Polygamy is not taught in any parts of the acknowledged word of God.

12. Joseph Smith was a man in the full use of manhood's physical powers, capable of begetting children at the time of his death, and had children by his wife Emma, one of which was born to him after his death.

13. No children were born to Joseph Smith by any of those women whom you assert were wives to him with all that the name implies.

14. There are good reasons for believing that had Joseph Smith been married to those whom you assert were his plural wives, issue must have resulted; and the fact that no children were born to him in polygamy is strong proof that he had no such wives; especially as said women subsequently bore children to other men, no better physically than he.

In regard to the certificates in your last letter: At the time Lovina Walker made the statement respecting what Emma Smith told her, Mrs. Smith was living, and her testimony could have been obtained. Mrs. Smith stated that she neither gave any woman to her husband in marriage, nor knew of his having any wife but herself.

The affidavit of Emily D. P. Young is false upon its face; for at the time that she states that she was "married, or sealed to Joseph Smith, President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, by James Adams, a High Priest in said church; according to the laws of the same regulating marriage;" to wit, May 11th, 1843, there was no law of said church permitting, or authorizing plural; polygamous, or bigamous marriages. This is proved by your own statement that the revelation bears date July 12th, 1843, two full months after said marriage, or sealing took place; and by such giving of the "revelation the law of plural marriage was given to the Church." It did not exist before that; nor then, for it was not until August 12th, still a month later that the revelation was even read to a single quorum; and it was not then read by direction of Joseph Smith, but to still the inquiry of Dunbar Wilson, which inquiry was caused by rumors which he placed no confidence in. Worse than this, that so-called revelation was never presented to the Church for endorsement, sanction and adoption, until August 29th, 1852. The statements in this affidavit, if true, so far as the act of marriage, or sealing is concerned, state that Joseph Smith was a bigamist, having married an unmarried woman while yet his legal wife was living. This was a sin against his wife Emma. If he afterward cohabited with Emily D. P. Young, he sinned secretly against my mother. Now, who thus makes him a sinner, you who assert and believe this affidavit, or I who disbelieve and deny it?

If the affidavit is true, Joseph Smith transgressed two well accredited rules of the law of the church, at that time prevailing. One of these rules is that forbidding to have more than one wife living at the same time; the other that which declares that "he who keeps the law of God hath no need to break the law of the land." If the statement that Joseph Smith was married to Emily D. P. Young in Nauvoo, Illinois, May 11th, 1843, is true, Joseph Smith, Emily D. P. Young and James Adams were all liable to prosecution for violating the statutes of said state defining the crime of bigamy and providing the penalties for such infraction of the law. Who then makes Joseph Smith a transgressor, you who believe and affirm such things, or I who disbelieve and deny them?

In the face of what is above written, how can you consistently expect a man whose legal training you admit gives him the power to analyze evidence and give it true weight, to receive as conclusive what is so unsatisfactory and damaging to your own cause.

As before, while I do not accept the proofs offered by you that my father was a pluralist, or polygamist, as conclusive, I repeat that whether he was, or was not, the gospel of Christ as it was taught by Christ and as recommitted through Joseph Smith, is complete and sufficient for the salvation of man. Nor is it essential to the validity of that gospel that my father be proved to be a polygamist, or that I be compelled to believe that he was.

JOSEPH SMITH.

LAMONI, Iowa, Sept. 12th, 1883.

FAITH CURE.

DURING the last ten years, very much has been said on the above subject, although it was derided by the world in general, when held up by the Saints as an important and precious tenet in the doctrine of Christ. We feel to rejoice that God in his own time, and own way, is teaching the various denominations, that his power is not lost, and that he is willing to bless all persons according to their faith.

We understand that there is saving faith, and faith which produces miracles.

Thousands have died in possession of the former, who knew nothing about the latter; but now in the fulness of times, God is pouring out his Spirit according to his promise.

Various periodicals are heralding the news of wonderful cures in answer to the prayers of faith. Many such reports from the Shut-ins, who are composed of all denominations, but name not creeds, only trust in the one great friend. Amid all those testimonies from reliable sources, many who claim to be teachers and firm believers in the Word, cry out, "Away with such stories, I do not believe them;" but when something of the kind is presented by their own connections, they will soften down into silence.

Some have the idea that if the sick could be healed by faith now, that none need die; but we understand that death is the penalty that every man must pay, and nowhere has it been revoked; but by the grace of God we have many precious promises in regard to the healing of the sick, and we as a people claim to take Father at his word. True, there are sick among us, which is often pointed out by the unbelievers who understand our claim. This thing has a two-fold sorrow; first, on the part of the sufferer; and second, it brings doubts and reproach on the cause of Christ. These things ought not to be. We have known many cases, in our limited experience in the church, in which physical sufferings have been removed by the gift of God through the prayer of faith; and we have been many times blessed, and can truly say, that even life has been prolonged many years beyond all human conception. Yet we do not possess that health which is desirable to make life pleasant and useful. We believe that a full consecration to God is necessary to bring about the desired result, and for such of late we have been trying to live; although some whom we have seen wonderfully blessed do not exhibit such lives.

It is just as necessary that the sick of to day should receive health and cure as it was for the sick of eighteen hundred years ago; and we believe that God is just as able and just as willing to bless his faithful children. The deficiency is on our part. It is just as necessary that the body should be restored to health as it is to be converted; for both fit us for usefulness, and fill our hearts with praise to God.

Disease is caused by sin, the violation of nature's laws, either by ourselves or our parents. In either case both spirit and body may be corrupted, but the Great Purifier is as capable of washing out the stains of the one as the other; although the majority of the Christian world believe it not.

Dear Saints, we feel that it behooves us to live more humbly as a people, that the Savior's love and power may be more abundantly manifested among us. We have obeyed the forms and ordinances of the gospel, and now, we must throw ourselves wholly upon his mercies, striving each day to live nearer his feet. 'Tis humility that we need. Be willing to obey his commands, no matter how simple, because he commands it; and leave the result with him. Be willing to be anything for his sake, because he has made so great a sacrifice for us. Let this be our daily prayer: Cleanse me from all sin, and glorify thyself with me. By such a course we shall be prepared for that which awaits us, whether it is to live or to die.

SR. ALMIRA M. SNOW.

JUDGE HUNTER ON POLYGAMY.

The following is the charge of Judge Hunter on polygamy:

CHARGE TO THE GRAND JURY.

In charging the Grand Jury in the Third District Court of Utah on Friday, Chief Justice Hunter read the act of Congress in reference to polygamy and made the following remarks:

I have specially called your attention to the act of Congress making polygamy, and the other acts referred to, crimes. The act was passed by the Congress of the United States, and, although general in its application to all the Territories of the United States, has peculiar application to the Territory of Utah.

In the enactment of the law, Congress undoubtedly had in contemplation the well-known fact that polygamy was to a great extent committed in Utah; that it was an evil detrimental to the policy of the people of the nation; inimical to good order, and calculated to disturb the social relations of the entire community. The wisdom of the legislators in thus providing a means to reach and suppress the growth of the offense, whether gradual or rapid, can not be doubted, and none but those who have either gone into polygamy or who by a system of sophistical education believe in it, will even doubt it. I am well aware that there are in this Territory a vast number of persons who believe, or profess to believe, that the State has no right or power to provide by the usual mode of legislation for the suppression of such belief, and in that view all may be said to concur. But belief and carrying such belief into effect are different things. That Congress has the power to provide the latter, so far as the punishment of those who actually enter into the polygamous relations is concerned, is not and can not be a question. The highest supreme tribunal of the land has so decided, and whether it suits the views of the actors in the polygamous drama, is a matter of no consequence. Naturally the condition of the marital relations of a great number of persons in the Territory of Utah, and the teachings of the creed of the Latter Day Saints, has attracted the attention of the people of the United States; much has been said and written on the subject and in connection with it much has been said in regard to the peaceableness of this community. Let it be admitted that in Utah this latter state of affairs exists, and that all laws, save one, for the proper governance of the people, are enacted and enforced. That the violations of the penal statutes affecting crimes, except this one, are no more, or if you please, are far less frequent than in the States of the Union, and that this one crime is committed by a very large number, and the influence and the teachings of the leaders and members of a church tend to an increase of it, would not this fact alone take from us all the prestige of being an orderly and peaceful community?

Crimes in this country are purely statutory. That is, certain acts, are by the statutes enacted by the legislators, who are the delegates of the people, and therefore the enactments are by the expressed will of the people, declared to be crimes, and that all persons perpetrating them are amenable to punishment. These acts so long as they remain unrepealed, or are not set aside as being unconstitutional and void, are the laws of the land.

There exists a law upon our statute books, punishing all who steal and convert another's property. Without this law, might would be the only way to determine ownership, and the strongest would seek to convert to his own use, volens volens, the property of the weaker, and so deprive him of it. With the law and the penalty attached to it, upon the stronger, the weaker becomes as strong as the stronger, and is as safe in the property ownership. This law is simply the expressed will of the people, through the agency of a Legislature, and although it may be said to be founded upon the Divine law, that "thou shalt not steal," it is the result of experience in life as well as necessity. Suppose there existed in this community a communistic creed, or sect of people who should enunciate as one of its tenets that property rights were all wrong; that in the very nature of things, there could be no such right; that all things material were the common gift of Deity, and that no one man had a right to an exclusive ownership, could you for an instant so regard that state of affairs, as to make you to refuse to indict one of the sect spoken of who had by force deprived the owner of that property, who had in fact as we say, stolen the property? Laws must be uniform. They must affect all persons the same. The Communist cannot be allowed to assert his views as a defense to his act. He must obey the law by refraining to exercise his belief by acts, and if he violates it he must be made to suffer the penalty.

The same legislative power which enacted the law making stealing a crime, has with equal authority enacted a law making polygamy a crime. Does the fact that a religious body exists in this community that advocates and enunciates that polygamy is right, and that each man who believes in the tenets of that religious organization has the right as a gift of Deity to take to himself as many wives as he sees fit to have, or has the ability to sustain, give to such the right so to do, against the express will of the people declared through the law-making power? Like the Communist, they may believe in the right, but because the law has made it penal to perform the act, like the Communist, they must refrain from the act. I know it will be said that if the majority of the voting classes of the Territory could, without the interposition of the veto power in the Governor, declare their wishes, no law could be passed declaring polygamy a crime, and that that law is against their wishes and affects their belief. But you must remember, gentlemen of the jury, and so must these voters, that while they are in the majority so far as Utah is concerned, they are a very small minority of the people of the Nation. They are, however, supposed to be law-abiding citizens, and are bound, as such, to accept the fact, that so long as our present form of government exists, Congress has the power to declare the act of polygamy a crime, and it having done so, they are legally and morally bound to respect it. No power on earth, at least so far as the United States are concerned, can prevent the sect from teaching the doctrine, except as accessory to the fact, and no one has ever thought to prevent it save as might be done by argument, enlightenment and persuasion, but the act of entering into and committing the crime of polygamy may be punished, and it is your duty to see it is. As citizens of the United States and as grand jurors sworn to enquire into the offenses which have been committed in violation of the laws of the country, it is enough for you to know that there is a law in the United States making polygamy a crime. When you offered yourselves to become citizens of the United States, or assumed the relation of citizenship by taking part in the affairs of the country, you either actually or impliedly took upon yourselves the obligation that you would not only support the laws, but that you would at all times, when called upon, see to it that offenders against such laws should be made to suffer the penalty of their offending. When you were called upon to take your seats in that jury box, you responded as in duty you were bound to do, being citizens of the common country, and in compliance with a conscious regard to the obligations resting upon you. Having thus responded to the call made upon you, and it being ascertained by actual examination of each of you by the law officers of the Government that you possessed the necessary qualifications entitling you to sit as a member of the grand inquest, you are required by the same code of laws emanating from the same supreme authority to take the oath already administered to you. That oath is not one prepared for any emergency supposed to exist only in this community. It is one in form and substance similar to oaths administered to grand jurors in all the States in the Union, and in the older governments where the system of inquiry into crimes is had through the agency of grand jurors. It is the result of long experience, and is so formulated as to place those who take it on the very highest plane of responsibility. Sitting there in that box, as you now do, sworn as you have been, to independence of action, so far as your individual predilections as to favor or affection are concerned, they are yours. But you are held to be custodians of the law and judges whether or not that law has been violated. It is your solemn, sworn duty to see that the laws of the land are not violated, and in every instance, no matter who the person, or what his creed, where there has been a violation, to bring the offender to the bar of the legal tribunal for punishment. If or not the law is constitutional, it is in opposition to the religious tenets of any class of persons, you are not to inquire; that duty devolves upon another tribunal. Satisfy yourselves only that the law exists; that it has been violated, and by the person against whom the charge is made. Present such person in the form of an indictment, to the tribunal legally authorized to receive it, and be assured that your conscience will not hereafter trouble you. Above and beyond all else, remember that the government whose interests you are now doubly sworn to protect, is great, good, kind and beneficent, and that all its laws are made and enacted for the protection of each and every citizen, you and I, and all the rest, and not in a spirit of revenge and resentment. Governments, like all else human, are the result of experience. Advancement in civilization depends upon education and is the endeavor of refinement.

The old things of the past were well enough in their time; on them we build as we or they then understood. Now a broader base is required, and as time goes on this foundation will have to become more expansive. Then a few thought and planned, now the whole mass think and plan, and this combined thought, and their plans tend for general improvement of mankind, and thus it will go on until in reality vox populi est vox dei.

EPISTOLARY.

TO THE Saints in the Northern District of California:—By your suffrages I was, on the 6th day of October, 1883, elected president of said district. I enter upon the duties of my office with many misgivings, owing to the fact, that I depend upon my profession of law to support myself and family,—having no other resources from which to draw; and knowing that heretofore, no ample provision has been made to support an Elder and family, while he was in this field. But the work seemed to demand that I should do all that I could, and that is all the Church can expect of me. There is not a man in the district able and willing to devote any considerable time to the work; while many can like myself do a little.

There is work enough in Oakland, Alameda and East Oakland for one man all the time. Alameda, containing about six thousands inhabitants, has never had a gospel sermon or lecture by our Church in many years, if at all. East Oakland, East and West Berkely, all contiguous to Oakland, are in the same situation. In San Francisco a great amount of preaching and tract distributing has been done by the indomitable energies of our brethren there, especially by the president of the branch, Bro. George S. Lincoln. And yet but a trifle of the territory has been reached. But much good has been done, and some additions to the Church are being made, as well as here in Oakland; proving that where the work can be supported converts will be made. This district is very large. To travel it costs money. For me to leave town is to close up my business. To do that without adequate means, is to neglect my family, and be worse than an infidel. God does not require such a sacrifice of one who has heretofore sacrificed the best days of his life, and his means in the cause. If the scattered Saints in this district desire the work to prosper, they too must make their covenant by sacrifice; and by saving a little here and there, and sending it to T. J. Andrews, Bishop's Agent, 436, Brannon St., San Francisco; or to the District President here who will render a true and just account of the same to the Bishop's Agent; and will be willing that the money shall be expended where the most good can be done, we will guarantee that the work will take a new impetus, and roll onward to the glory of God and the satisfaction of the Saints.

I do not believe in the policy of going from branch to branch, or from one neighborhood to another, and scattering the seed, by preaching one or two discourses, and then leaving the people to harden their hearts. I believe in and have practiced the principle of going to a place and staying there until I make the people understand our mission and doctrine; and bringing into the Church such as gladly hear the word. In this way the Church is built up and souls saved.

I have been writing a dissertation on the priesthood; not exactly the history of it in the strict sense of the word, but an essay upon the subject. I am persuaded that such a work is needed by the Elders, especially the young, for their assistance; but it is also needed to put into the hands of investigators where the Elders are laboring. It is the death knell to Protestantism, and should be in the hands of every honest man and woman in the world. It is entitled, "The Golden Chain, extending from the Eden lost to the Eden regained." A dissertation upon the Melchisedec Priesthood, &c., &c. I intend to publish it as soon as I can obtain the means. I hope to be able to furnish it to subscribers for one dollar per copy. If the Saints throughout the world would send for each head of a family one dollar, I could have it ready by the first of January, or February, 1884.

I shall open a subscription book in which I shall keep an exact account of all subscriptions and donations, with amounts and post office addresses; and as soon as possible after publication, send to the address of each as many copies as are subscribed for. A liberal donation and subscription on the part of the Saints would greatly assist me to close my office and devote all my time to the ministry; a work that my soul would delight in. As soon as I receive enough to justify me, I shall proceed with the publication.

Now, dear brethren, will you in some manner, either by tithing, free will offerings, or otherwise, through the Bishop, or directly to me in aiding in the publication of my work, assist to roll on the glorious work? That the good cause may roll on, and all the Saints be blest temporally and spiritually, is my desire and prayer, in the name of Jesus.

Your brother in Christ,

HIRAM PETTYS BROWN,

Dist. Pres. Northern District of California.
911 Broadway, Oakland, Cal., Oct. 2d, 1883.

Conference Minutes.

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald and Hope for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

SOUTHERN NEBRASKA DISTRICT.

Conference convened at the Stone Creek School house, Cass Co., Nebraska, October 14th, and 15th, 1883. Levi Anthony president, Robt. M. Elvin secretary.

Sunday, 10:30 a. m., preaching by Robert M. Elvin. 2 p. m., fellowship, 3 p. m., preaching by Joshua Armstrong. 7 p. m., preaching by Robt. M. Elvin.

Officials present, Elders 5, Priests 2, Teachers 1, Deacons 1.

Monday, 9 a. m. On account of school, business session in the Hohenbeck School-house. Visiting brethren invited to take part.

Reports.—Elder Levi Anthony, reported.

Elder J. W. Waldsmith, Bishop's Agent reported, for quarter ending September 30th, 1883. July 1st, balance on hand 45c. Received $16.90. Total, $17.35. Paid out, $15.65. September 30th, 1883, balance on hand, $1.70.

Elders Joshua Armstrong, J. W. Waldsmith by letter, (baptized 1), James Ervin, John Goode, Robt. M. Elvin, (baptized 4); Priest Martin Cain; Teacher James Furgeson; reported.

Branch Reports.—Nebraska City, 123, including 1 High Priest, 7 Elders, 4 Priests, 2 Teachers, 2 Deacons; 4 baptized, 1 received by letter, 1 removed by letter, 2 died, 4 marriages. Blue River, 72, including 2 Elders, 2 Priests, 2 Teachers, 2 Deacons; 3 received by certificate of baptism. Moroni, 27, including 1 Elder, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon; 3 baptized. Plattsmouth, 30, including 2 Elders, 2 Priests; 3 baptized, 3 received by letter, 1 ordination. Platte River, 27, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher; 2 removed.

Resolved, That inasmuch as Bro. Wm. B. Smith, was ordained to the office of an Elder, June 6th, 1883, by Elders E. C. Brand, and James Cazier, therefore we herewith ratify and legalize the ordination, and grant to Bro. Wm. B. Smith an Elder's license.

Blue River Branch financial report, received and paid out $21.40.

Nebraska City Branch, financial report. On hand last report 6c. Received $8.01. Total $8.62. Expended $6.40. Balance on hand $2.22.

Report of Brethren J. W. Waldsmith and Robert M. Elvin, church building committee, for nine months ending September 30th, 1883. On hand last report, $54.35. Received $452.67. Total $507.02. Expended $554.92. Balance due committee $47.90.

General and district authorities were sustained, Brn. Joseph B. Gouldsmith, Robt. M. Elvin and Levi Anthony, were appointed a committee to examine and report upon all the resolutions adopted by the district.

Brn. James Ervin and Joshua Armstrong were appointed a committee, to arrange two days' meetings. Preaching by Robt. M. Elvin at 7:30 p. m.

Report of committee on two days' meetings; viz., Nebraska City, December 2d and 3d, Elder James Caffall. Palmyra, October 28th, and 29th, Elder J. Armstrong. Platte River, no date, Robt. M. Elvin. Plattsmouth, November 26th, and 27th, Elder James Caffall. Moroni, October 28th, and 29th, Elder J. W. Waldsmith. Blue River, November 11th and 12th, Robt. M. Elvin. Clear Creek, December 9th and 10th, Elder J. Armstrong.

Adjourned to Wilber, Saline Co., Nebraska, January 13th, 1884, at 10:30 a. m.

BIRMINGHAM DISTRICT.

Conference was held at Temple Row, Birmingham, England, August 4th, 5th, 6th, 1883; Elder C. H. Caton presiding, Elder G. S. Greenwood secretary.

Aug. 4th: Delegates were present from the following places: Birmingham Temple Row Branch, J. E. Meredith. Hanley Branch, W. Clarke. Stafford Branch, J. R. Greenwood. Burton-on-Trent Branch, G. Potts. Birmingham Sommerfield Branch, J. Matthews. Derby Branch, R. Beale.

Branch Reports.—Temple Row 82, including 4 Elders, 2 Priests, 2 Deacons, 3 baptized, 2 received by letter, 2 removed; total gain 3. Hanley 48, including 5 Elders, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, 2 Deacons, gained by baptism 10, lost by death 2; total gain 8. Stafford 15, including 1 Elder, 2 Priests, 1 Deacon, baptized 5, removed 2; total gain 3. Burton-on-Trent 33, including 2 Elders, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, baptized 6, removed 12. Birmingham Sommerfield 28, including 2 Elders, 2 Deacons, 2 baptized, died 1. Derby 12, including 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, 2 Deacons, received by letter 12. The delegates from the above branches reported the spiritual condition of the same good.

Elders' reports by letter: W. Clarke, J. D. Davies, J. Matthews. Elders' reports in person: J. Seville, Thos. Taylor, C. Tyler, G. S. Greenwood, G. Potts, C. H. Caton. Priests' reports by letter: Thos. Taylor, of Hanle, J. Potts, C. Hickling, J. R. Greenwood. Priests' reports in person: J. Kirtland, G. Beale, J. E. Meredith, J. Dyche. Teacher W. Price reported. Deacons' reports by letter: J. Potts, G. Potts. Deacons' reports in person: E. Matthews, W. Ecclestone.

Financial Report.—The district president, C. H. Caton, gave in a financial report, which showed money received £1 2s 4d. Expended £1 9s 1d. Resolved, That Brn. J. E. Meredith and Geo. Potts audit the balance sheet. These brethren reported finding the balance sheet correct.

The balance due District President 6s 9d, was paid by Brn. Taylor, Meredith and Swan.

Resolved, That the president and secretary be authorized to revise the business agenda for next conference.

Resolved, That the ministry of the Birmingham District labor as circumstances permit, and report to next conference.

Resolved, That we sustain, by our faith and prayers, the authorities of the Church in America, in all righteousness.

Resolved, That we sustain by our faith and prayers, Elder Thomas Taylor, president of the English Mission, and Elder C. H. Caton secretary.

Resolved, That we sustain the president of the Birmingham District by our faith and prayers, and also his secretary.

Resolved, That the best thanks of this district conference be given to the brethren and sisters of Birmingham for their kindness to those visiting this conference.

Resolved, That when this conference adjourns it does so to meet again at Hanley Branch, on the first Saturday and Sunday in February, 1884.

Sunday afternoon was devoted to testimony, when a good and happy time was spent. The gifts were manifest for the comfort of those that believe and obey the gospel.

Sunday evening 6:30, preaching was had at 14 Temple Row by Bro. John Dyche and J. R. Greenwood, and at the Sommerfield Branch, by Elder W. Clarke. These brethren had good liberty and good attention, from deeply interested congregations.

One baptized during conference. The sick were administered to with good results.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS DISTRICT.

Conference was held at Mission, October 13th and 14th, 1883; Bro. John S. Patterson president, and W. Vickery secretary.

The minutes of last conference not being at hand, the president referred to them concerning the resolution about the Chicago Branch, as there had been a mistake made by the secretary in adding the words "Not a part of the Northern Illinois District," which was not in the original resolution. Minutes were ordered corrected by dropping those words.

Reports of branches.—Sandwich 72, including 1 High Priest, 1 Seventy, 2 Elders, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon; 4 removed by letter. Plano 169, including 1 of the First Presidency, 1 High Priest, 6 Elders, 6 Priests, 3 Teachers, 2 Deacons; 3 baptized, 1 received by certificate of baptism, 1 removed by letter, 1 marriage. Mission 104, including 2 Elders, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, 2 removed by letter, 1 died. Streator, Piper City, Leland, Amboy, Marengo, Pecatonica, Janesville, Burlington, reported by Bro. Patterson. "Some of those are holding regular meetings, and some only when Elders came to preach for them. Braidwood Branch reported by Bro. John S. Keir, 62, including 4 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher, 2 Deacons.

Bro. Patterson reported his labors as president of the district. Had baptized six, four at Poplar Grove, two at Plano.

Bro. Patterson was continued as president of the district for the next four months.

The president was requested to continue the effort in the Streator Branch.

Bishop's Agent reported having received $32. Paid out $25.

Resolved, That $28.70 of the moneys in the hands of Bro. Thomas Hougas, (subject to the call of the district), he paid to Bro. Patterson to defray his expenses.

Preaching at 7:30 Saturday evening by W. Vickery. Sunday at 10:30 Bro. Thomas Hougas preached. At 2:30 p. m. the Saints met for testimony and partaking of the sacrament. A spiritual time was enjoyed by all present, and the gifts were manifest in tongues and prophecy. At 7:30 Bro. Patterson addressed a full house. Adjourned to meet at Plano, Ill., Feb. 9th and 10th, 1884.

ST. LOUIS DISTRICT.

Conference convened in the Saints' Hall, St. Louis, Mo., Saturday afternoon, October 6th, 1883. John Beard president, John G. Smith, clerk.

Branch Reports.—St. Louis 178, including 8 Elders, 1 Priest, 3 Teachers and 2 Deacons, 5 received by letter. Balance on hand June 24th, 1883, $99.49. Received since, $26.15. Total $125.64. Paid out for hall rent $20. Balance on hand September 30th, 1883, $105.64. Cheltenham 32, including 2 Elders and 1 Deacon.

Elders' Reports.—B. V. Springer, Henry Roberts, John G. Smith, Richard D. Cottam, President John Beard, reported.

On separate motions it was resolved to hold a priesthood meeting in the hall, 1302 Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri, on Sunday, November 4th, 1883, at 10 a. m., and that all the Elders in this district be notified to attend it.

Whereas, reports have been circulated that are calculated to injure the standing and honor of Elder B. V. Springer; Therefore be it resolved, that this conference do hereby express themselves as satisfied with his conduct and his labors; and farther that we discountenance such reports as untrue and unchristian; and also, that we make an earnest effort to sustain him by our faith and means.

Sunday morning session. Preaching by Elder Charles J. Peat. Elder John Beard followed him. Afternoon session was occupied as a sacrament and testimony meeting. The Spirit of the Lord was enjoyed. Officers present, 1 High Priest, 1 Seventy, 11 Elders, 2 Priests, 3 Teachers and 2 Deacons. Evening session. Preaching by Elder B. V. Springer.

On motion, all the spiritual authorities of the Church were sustained in righteousness.

Adjourned to meet in St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday afternoon, January 5th, 1884, for the transaction of business; and on Sunday, January 6th, 1884, at 10 a. m., for worship.

When a man dies they who survive him ask what property he has left behind. The angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.

Science hath no faith-begetting power. Therefore a Christian faith should not rest upon scholastic wisdom, but on the power of God renewing the heart.

ADVOCATE NOTICE.

We send to many parties in Utah, Montana and Idaho packages of the November number of Advocate for free distribution; and we wish those to whom they are sent to see they are put into the hands of those likely to read and circulate them.

W. W. BLAIR, Ed.

Miscellaneous.

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

BORN.

LEA.—Near Florin, Sacramento county, Cal., July 8th, 1883, to Isaac and Sister Mary Hannah Lea, a daughter, named Louisa; blessed September 6th, 1883, by Elder John R. Cook.

MARRIED.

HAWKINS—CLAPP.—At Watsonville, California, October 16th, 1883, by Elder Daniel Brown, Bro. Charles W. Hawkins, to Sr. Mattie L. Clapp; all of Santa Rosa, California.

DIED.

BOYD.—At Boston, Massachusetts, September 19th, 1883, of gastric fever, Annie, wife of Bro. Thomas H. Boyd. Sister Boyd was born in Londonderry, Ireland, August, 1852; was baptized in Boston, March 19th, 1881. She endured her sufferings, which were intense, with fortitude and patience unto the end, which was peaceful. She left four small children to the care of her companion who deeply feels his great loss. May the Lord support him in his afflictions.

JOHNSON.—Near Lamoni, Iowa, August 2d, 1883, Alma Clarence, infant son of Bro. Crist and Sr. Sarah Johnson. Funeral sermon by Elder Joseph Smith.

Our darling babe has gone to rest,
He escapes this world of sin,
To dwell with angels and the blest,
Where God will welcome him.

Wrong doing is a road that may open fair, but it leads to trouble and danger. Well-doing, however rough and thorny at first, surely leads to pleasant places.

We who have lost a paradise by sins may gain a heaven by the cross.

S. G. MAYO, REAL ESTATE AGENT,

West Lexington street, Independence, Mo.,

Collects Rents, Pays taxes for non-residents, Buys and Sells Real Estate. Has a large list of Farm and City Property in Jackson county for sale, cheap, on easy terms.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

A three run Custom and Merchant Mill; one stone on wheat, one on Middlings, and one on Corn, with all the necessary machinery; and also a Saw Mill attached, driven by a 35 Horse Power Engine. Mill building 40x60 feet, four stories high. Also 80 Acres of Land with the mill.

The above property is situated on Little Blue, eight miles north east of Independence, Mo., in a good wheat country; fuel cheap. This is one of the best opportunities offered, for one desirous of buying.

For particulars, call on or address J. P. JOHNSON, Blue Mills; or SMITH & BRACKENBURY, 8sep3m Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

F. C. WARNKY, REAL ESTATE AGENT,

Collects Rents and Pays Taxes for non-residents; Buys and Sells Real Estate. Has a large list of Farms and City Property in Jackson County for sale cheap on easy terms

WEST LEXINGTON STREET,

12may6m INDEPENDENCE, MO.

ALEX. H. SMITH.

J. W. BRACKENBURY.

SMITH & BRACKENBURY, REAL ESTATE AGENTS, Independence, Jackson Co., Missouri.

Rents and Taxes a Specialty. All communications, with stamps accompanying, will receive prompt attention. 19may6m

MASON & HAMLIN

Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN

Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

FARM FOR SALE.

A farm for sale in Decatur county, situated 6½ miles south-east of Lamoni, consisting of 140 acres, fenced in two fields, with house and well and small orchard on each lot; the 40 acre lot is timothy, the 100 acre lot is plow land. Apply by letter to Andover, Harrison Co., Missouri, or on the premises to I. N. DELONG. 1sep

FARM FOR SALE.

A farm of Eighty acres all under fence, fine improvements, plenty of stock water, good range adjoining, six and one half miles south and east of Lamoni, in Iowa.

T. C. JACKSON, Davis City; or J. SMITH, Lamoni, Iowa. 8sep2m

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent, Lamoni, Iowa. 25aug

BUTLER & CLAY,

Manufacturers of

COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,

WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,

903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.

Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

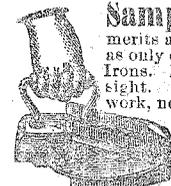

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m

BUTLER & CLAY.

Sample Free of the American Sad Iron Heater. Its merits are seen at a glance. It saves money, as only one half the fuel is required to heat the Irons. Every house keeper will buy one at sight. Brothers and Sisters who are out of work, now is your time to engage in Profitable Employment. One SAMPLE HEATER prepaid, only $1; sells from $1 to $1 60, according to locality; weight but 20 ounces each.

Half doz. $3.50, one doz. $6.50. We prepay charges on Sample Heaters only. If you prefer to sell something for a higher price and make a larger profit, try our

NEW SELF-ADJUSTING BED SPRING.

It weighs but 10 lbs, and occupies less than one cubic foot when packed. No Harbor for Bugs and is warranted to be one of the most durable and comfortable Springs in the market. SAMPLE SPRING sent upon receipt of $2. Sells for from $3.50 to $8, according to locality.

Half dozen, $10; one dozen, $18.

We do not promise you big wages and no work; but you will make money according to the energy you devote to the business. It is enough to say, we have Brothers and Sisters in all parts of the United States and Canada who are doing well selling our goods. If after two weeks' trial, goods are not satisfactory, and all we claim for them, return them and we will refund your money. We send one of our Heaters or Springs free with your first order for half dozen or more of either article, thus giving you a Sample Free. Yours in Bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, Mfgs, Peoria, Ill.

8jun

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.

All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES

HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 548.

Lamoni, Iowa, November 10th, 1883.

No. 45.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa.

Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH . . . EDITOR.

DANIEL F. LAMBERT, ASSOCIATE.

Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 10th, 1883.

THE Boone, Iowa, Standard, states as follows:

The services at Latter Day Saints' Chapel, in Boonesboro, from 28th of September to 15th of October, inclusive, were well attended, notwithstanding it being the time for campaign and election. On Sunday, the 14th, four were baptized at the river, a goodly concourse of people witnessing the scene with respectful attention. The entire number of services were twenty-one, eighteen of which were preaching services. Elder R. Etzenhouser was well sustained by the membership of Boone and Boonesboro, and departed on the 15th for Viola, Jones county, to meet his associate laborer, I. N. White.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Bro. Wm. Street sends us a copy of the Delaware county Advocate, for the 20th of October, for which we extend our thanks.

Sr. Rhuamah Vincent writes us from Bridgeport, Connecticut, that the HERALD is the only preacher she has; not being able to attend the meetings, as she is a number of miles from any of the branches. She would be glad for some one to call on her.

ERRATUM.—For the word "adopted" in line 6, paragraph 7, first page of HERALD for October 27th, read "adapted."

Bro. E. C. Brown sends us from Fonda, Iowa, the second half of Rev. W. J. Conybeare's "Life and Epistles of St. Paul," Seaside Library Edition, for which we return thanks.

Bro. W. W. Squires sends us from Blackwater, Santa Rosa county, Florida, a sample of a Florida Grape. It was as large as a very large orange, round, slightly flattened at stem and flower ends, of a pale yellowish white, and from the appearance good to the taste. Thanks to Bro. Squires. Florida seems to be a land for people to look for the Utopia in, judging from a work called "The New Florida," also sent us by Bro. Squires.

The minutes of the Conference of the Central Missouri District, held at Waconda Branch, July 7th, 1883, and which adjourned to meet at the same place, November 10th, 1883, were handed us too late for insertion in HERALD for November 3d, and to publish in the number for the 10th they would hardly reach the readers in time for notice of the session. We omit them, with a request to the district, as to all others to send their minutes earlier.

BISHOP HUNTER.

THE Salt Lake Tribune, pays the following tribute to the character of the late Bishop Edward Hunter, of Salt Lake City.

From reputation we believe that of the pioneers who came to Utah, Bishop Edward Hunter was the very foremost one in the full average of manly attributes. He bore the reputation of one who leaves the impression behind him that in his rugged nature there was not a thought of deceit; not a tinge of envy, not a question of any man's right to think for himself; not a thought that was not honest and true; not a purpose that was not generous and just. The best test of the sterling stuff out of which he was molded, is the passionate affection which his relatives have always lavished upon him. For ninety years he fulfilled life's duties as God gave him to see the right, and then sunk into his long sleep as the tired child does; because the night of life came down, because the lids of his eyes grew weary, and because the bosom of his mother earth was waiting to hush him in the dreamless sleep which she gives to her o'erwearied children. It is a wonderful thing for a mortal to bear the friction of ninety circling years in such a way that when the worn out machine of his body ceases to longer run, not one thought of reproach follows him out into the beyond. Ninety years! What miracles have been performed since Bishop Hunter became a man! what new voices have been born! what transfigurations have been wrought! The year Bishop Hunter was born the cotton gin was invented; he was fourteen years of age when the hiss of the engine of the first steamer was heard on the Hudson; he was twenty-one years of age when Stephenson built his first locomotive; he was thirty-six years of age when the roar of the first locomotive was heard in America; he was twenty-nine years of age when the first deep respiration of the power press was heard in the world; he was forty-four years old when the first message by magnetic telegraph was sent and received. Since his birth, from a little nucleus by the shore of the eastern sea, the continent has been subdued and peopled by tens of millions of eager souls. No other ninety years since the first hour was struck on the clock of time have been half as momentous, half so filled with mighty transfigurations as those in which he lived. Through them, in an humble path of his own, the sturdy man walked, undisturbed by the roar around him, undazzled by the splendors which were, from time to time, revealed; content to fill the measure of his duty as he saw it; satisfied with the love which was given him, and holding, as a matter of course, that it was man's duty to be brave and just, and industrious and independent; to do what was given him to do in a manly, unpretentious way; to be thankful for blessings and to accept fate calmly, no matter in what guise it came. There is a something grand in a life like that, and it would be a churlish heart indeed that would not lay its humble wreath upon the bier of such a man.

BRO. JOHN EAMES replied to the article in the Sun in the Cheyenne Leader, in the following sharp letter:

To the Cheyenne Leader:—I see a letter in the Sun of October 7th, speaking of the Church I am a member of, that we, as a church, practice polygamy. That is not true. Please give us a fair hearing. I did think that all people knew that the Josephite church do not practice polygamy. We, as a church and people are preaching and publishing to the world that polygamy is not of God. If the Lord wished man to have more wives than one, he would have given Adam twelve in the Garden of Eden to show his plans. We read he made male and female, and I wish to say here, all men who have taken more wives than one have sinned against God, and they have committed a grievous wrong on humanity, and by so doing man has caused the fair daughters of men to be broken-hearted, and malice and hatred have arisen instead of pure love. As we all know, when man and woman love each other and none else there is pure love, and how heavenly is that home where you see the wife looking for the words that may drop from the husband's lips, and the husband looking on his companion in life and saying in his heart, what can I do for your comfort and happiness in this world, and they both look around and see none so precious as themselves. That is a little heaven below. But if you see a man with six wives, what malice and jealousy; there is a hell in that family, and peace is not to be found there. I wish to say that we have several Elders in Utah Territory, preaching and baptizing and leading those who have broken the commandments of God. I am pleased to say that a great deal of good is being done there by the Elders of the Josephite Church. It seems as though a branch of this Church is not wanted in Cheyenne. I do think we have as much right to have a church in Cheyenne as anybody else. We preach the gospel of Jesus Christ and him crucified. We preach that man shall have but one wife and love her with all his heart and none else, and to love God with all his heart and soul. We are spoken evil of because people do not know what we believe. We want to do all the good we can. Jesus said, "Blessed are ye when men shall persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil of you falsely. Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward. If they persecute me so they will you." The letter in the Sun has spoken evil of us as a people. They said, in the days of Jesus: "He was a devil, and cast out devils by Beelzebub, the devil." That did not make him a devil. The letter speaks as if we were doing something in the dark, or that we have an undercurrent that this people know not of. I feel slighted that my name was not mentioned. My name is John Eames. I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ. I am an Elder in the Josephite Church, and I want all people in Cheyenne and all the world to know I am. I am pleased to tell you that I baptized Mrs. Burgess, on the night spoken of, and I must tell you I baptized one in broad daylight in Sloan's lake and helped to cut the ice myself in January, 1880. Also, one young man in the North Park in Jack Creek, Sunday at noon, in August, 1881. One year ago I baptized one in the lower lake in August. Now please show where we have done wrong, or have broken the laws of the land. You speak as though Mrs. Rickbond plays the fiddle to wife numbers two, three, four, five and six. Did you come to the dance. Did you have a good time? And who and all were there at the dance to take part? You speak as though Bro. Brand ought to be tarred and feathered. What for? Because he baptized a man who desired to be a member of the Reorganized Church? Did he run away with anybody's wife? I accompanied him to Salt Lake and I did not see any of my friend's wives with him. You speak as though we were lower than any of the beasts of the field. If you were called upon to prove this statement I think you would be obliged to let it out by contract to some one else.

Then let your feathers be put in a pillow and your tar to cover your roof, and may you ever know that the Josephite Elders are preaching the truth.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN EAMES.

BRO. GEORGE S. GREENWOD of Stafford, England, sends us a picturesque take off on the various differences of religionists. The publisher is John Heywood, Manchester, and at No. 11 Paternoster Building, London. The cartoonist has arranged the different claimants into classes under appropriate names. Agnosticism—Darwin, Huxley, Tyndall, Herbert Spencer, Moncure Conway. Church and Stage Rivalism—Parker ("The" City Temple). Rationalism—Voysey, the late Bishop Colenso, Stopford Brook, Haweis. Positivism—Prof. Beesly, F. Harrison. Dissent—Quakerism, Garrett (Wesleyanism), Spurgeon, Dale, H. Richard, M.P. Broad Church—Archbishop of Canterbury, Archbishop of York, Bishop of Manchester, Archdeacon Farrar. Low Church—Bishop of Liverpool, Church Association, Preb. Cadman. High Church—Canon Liddon, Canon Knox-Little, Canon Gregory, Mackonochie, S. F. Green, Enraght, Hon. O. L. Wood. Mediævalism—Father Ignatius. No-Church Erastianism—Lord Penzance (Birch-Rod-in-Waiting). Roman Catholicism—Cardinal Manning, Cardinal Newman. Pious Mountebankism—"General" Booth, of the Salvation Army, Moody, Sankey. Æsthetic Dunbarism—Archdeacon Dunbar. Political Atheism—Bradlaugh.

The following legend explains the cartoon:

This Cartoon claims to be an accurate bird's-eye view of the relations of the National Church and its Parties, with the outside Sects, Heresies, and Schools of Thought to each other.

Ten years ago a crude sketch with this title was published, which despite its deplorably inartistic quality, met with an unlooked for success. I have now reconstructed, revised, and brought down to date that original sketch, and, being no artist myself, have enlisted the pencil of Mr. F. C. Gould to "invest with artistic merit" my dry bones of design.

The Dome of St. Paul's represents the Church as the umbrella under whose shelter are assembled those who claim to belong to the Church. The bell, "Great Paul," is here placed where it can be seen, as its dismal moan is nigh inaudible in the precincts. The support of the umbrella is the Cross, the spiritual principle, which appears to rest on the Prayer Book and Bible on the seat of the Throne. The Bible is half on and half off, being less entirely relied upon than of old; the Prayer Book is a State Document, but the Revised Version occupies a much inferior position. The Cross has the omnipotent support of of the Sceptre and Lord Chancellor's Mace, emblems of Sovereignty and Law. But while the Cross supports and illuminates the Church, it is itself intangible, and does not need the illusory support of the Throne. The umbrella is tilted to one side, which illustrates the text that the Church is on the rock—very much indeed—and we shall now see why.

Well-placed, close to the Throne, stand the Archbishops and the Broad Churchmen, of less use as buttresses of the Cross than as ornaments to the Throne. Farrar recently renounced his faith in eternal torment, and has basked in promotion and popularity since. These are comfortably under the umbrella however it is pulled about.

At the reader's left hand from the Throne are the Low Church School, numerically and otherwise a feeble folk, who are unable to keep more than a bare shelter over their heads, although they have weighted their side of the umbrella with a Court of Arches that can bite and a Church Ass. that once could kick.

On the opposite side are a more numerous and vigorous band of workers, the High Churchmen. Canon Gregory is getting as good a Gregorian tune out of his bell as he can, and he, with the Knox-Little Canon up aloft are well in the sunshine of the Throne, though pulling very effectively the while. Canon Liddon is head and shoulders outside the boundary line and means to pull the Church with him. Mr. Mackonochie's most intimate connection with it seems now to be merely from behind,

The picture has two sides, sunrise and shadow. On the Rome side, out from the Dome, march con and per-verts chanting the familiar processional, as the great Ecclesiastic Manning, and the greater old man, Newman, give encouragement to the Canonical rope-pullers who so successfully stimulate the New-mania for Romanising the English Church and deserting it.

Ex pede Pontificus; there it is, handy for such as think it Ex pede-ent to kiss. Higher than the High Church, yet not in Rome, Father Ignatius thanks God he is not as other men are, and the rest of mankind, in the interests of the propagation of the race, reciprocate the sentiment.

On the reader's left is a group of Liberation Society Champions, engaged in pulling another sort of rope, fastened not to the Dome but to the Throne. These declare that they do not want to destroy the Throne, but by removing it the Cross will not only stand as before, but more of it will be visible, and the Church will the sooner regain its equilibrium when it rests solely upon its "One True Foundation," or else fall by the hands of those it shelters. Archbishop Benson, who knows the ropes well, does not handle any of the others, but he puts his foot upon this one. The bust of Wesley is within the pale, and the President of Conference seems disposed to a benevolent neutrality "for auld lang syne."

Apart sits a Quaker, serenely indifferent, as a Society, to other folks' umbrellas, though as individuals they act as they like. Sprinkled around the daylight margin of the Church are Haweis, giving himself a few charming airs as his feet stretch out into the open; Voysey and Brooke—anchoring or hankering? Conway plants his tent to catch the latest zephyr breeze and entrap the earliest scientific sunbeam. The late Bp. Colenso (whose decease occurred after the drawing was printed), represented a large section of Church-men who keep a footing in the Church while far advanced outside it. On him the Low and High Church-men turned their back, and the Broad stood sideways. Science, Philosophy and Education look for the dawn of a day whose noontide glory will dispel the gloom and give warmth to the chilling influences behind them.

The remaining actors are engaged in performing the curious farce, "The Dissonance of Dissent."

Booth, Sankey, Moody, Parker, and ex-Archdeacon Dunbar all conscientiously believe in God, and believe that He believes in them, supplementing that comfortable consciousness by believing not less enthusiastically in themselves. Bradlaugh compensates for his inability to accept the first two articles of this creed by a three-fold endorsement of the third.—ION, June, 1883.

"MORAL education is the price of virtuous liberty."

Correspondence.

170 North Union St., CHICAGO, Ills.,
October 23d, 1883.

Dear Herald:—I am informed that some of your readers have been highly displeased with what little I have caused to be published on your pages with reference to the work here since last December. Within the last summer and fall I have purposely given them no cause of offense, in this respect; but have done what I could to bring about a better state of affairs, and reconcile the parties to each other. In this effort, it would seem I have largely failed; and if I were allowed to state the cause of failure, it would be done by a direct appeal to the words of Scripture, "How often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!" In this city I have had the most peculiar and trying experiences of my life; but if I prove unable to weather the storm, or survive, after the last one of these cyclones has swept over my spiritual possessions, will it not demonstrate my unfitness for continued service in the Master's cause, according to his design?

By some it is thought that I have been too lenient with certain transgressors,—even to the positive injury of the work; but by these same supposed transgressors it is believed that I have been too exacting, harsh, and tyrannical! Now to those who are acquainted with the situation here, will not these two complaints commend themselves as the best external evidence that the course pursued by the missionary has been approximately correct?

An oft repeated inquiry among the Saints abroad is, "How is the work progressing in Chicago?" One class of reasoners say, "If the work is not progressing it is the best of evidence that the present policy and management of the missionaries are wrong." These persons forget to inquire whether "the present policy and management" have been adopted and practiced by the Saints of the Chicago Mission. If not, then the matter has never been tested, and all the disaster now seen must be referred to some other cause. Please meditate on the following scripture:

"Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be they of his own household."—Matt. 10: 34, 35, 36.

There are many men of intellect and research, who assert that Christianity has been the leading cause of division, strife, and bloodshed, ever since its introduction into the world, and they quote the above Scripture to prove that it was the desire and purpose of Christ to bring about this deplorable state of affairs! This view is superficial, unjust, and has no proper support, unless it can be shown that the teachings of Christ permit and enjoin the shedding of blood, division and strife in the family circle. The words quoted are prophetic; they simply foretell some of the results of the Savior's mission. Where was the fault? Not in the pure and loving teachings of Jesus, but in the sinfulness of the people. The preaching of Jesus Christ and his Apostles gave the wicked opportunity to oppose the children of God, and fight against the truth; and all this because of their wicked desires, and because they chose to abide in darkness rather than light. When the truth is taught by the servants of God, in the spirit of truth, the devil rages, and his children move in wrath to oppose. Wherever Christianity has been embraced and lived, these evil results have not obtained among its adherents; therefore they are not legitimate results of the mission and teachings of Christ, but of opposition to him and the truth as he taught it.

Our Methodist friends claim that their success in making converts is strong evidence of the correctness of their faith and work. The Catholics and Mohammedans might use the same argument with equal propriety. There was a time when neither Saints nor outsiders would stand by the Apostle Paul in his labors of love in Asia. (2 Tim. 1: 15). Does this prove that his policy and preaching were wrong?

I was told last Summer by the president of the Northern Illinois District that all the branches in the district except two, were in a weak, lifeless, and deplorable condition! Is this the result of bad work done and unwise policy pursued by the district in its official capacity? It may be, or it may not. When the policy and teachings of the late missionaries in Chicago have been accepted and reduced to practice, and the fruits are found to be bad, it will be time enough to condemn. Up to the present time this has not been done, only in part, even by the branch.

After the Kirtland Conference I spent three weeks at home, doing manual labor. I was busy, and made myself tired every day. Some people think these missionaries have a splendid time; nothing to do when they return home but to read, write and visit. That's a mistake. I am slightly acquainted with one of these fortunate men(?) who moved to Lamoni more than a year ago, and has never yet felt that he had time to look through the Herald Office! When at home, he has not yet had time to read even the Herald, but partially; answers some of his correspondents and neglects others; and as for visiting, it is almost out of the question. I trust that time will bring about a change for the better, lest the terrible effects of overwork and heavy burdens prove disastrous for this man and his companion, particularly for the latter. If my condition was what I have good reason to believe his is, and my love and regard for wife and little ones was as strong as I believe his to be, I am confident that I would be willing to say, "If the Church will relieve me from the responsibility of traveling and preaching, I will gladly undertake the task, though under great disadvantages, of providing for the dependent ones with my own hands."

After my return to Chicago, about May 10th, I spent my time in the city, with the exception of two short visits to Plano, and one to Kewanee, Illinois, till the latter part of August. I felt at home in the old Stone Church at Plano, though upon one occasion circumstances conspired against my liberty in preaching. The work there, so far as I was able to see and learn, is in a very fair condition. At Kewanee I was highly pleased. The Saints of that branch, as a body, are united, awake to the interests of the cause, and earnest in their efforts to build it up. Compared with other branches, their music is excellent. I felt unusually well in preaching the word in their neat and commodious chapel. While at home last Spring, Bro. J. F. McDowell held the fort here, with acceptance to those who heard him. His preaching was highly spoken of. Since then, we have been favored with discourses from J. S. Patterson, W. Vickery, C. L. Muetze, and F. M. Cooper, all of which were duly appreciated. Returned here last Friday, from home. Expect to move out for some point in Northern Illinois in a day or two. Letters will reach me if sent to Lamoni, Decatur county, Iowa; or 170 North Union St., Chicago, Illinois, care of T. A. Phillips.

May the good work move on to victory, shall be my prayer, and by the grace of God, I will try to do my part.

JOSEPH R. LAMBERT.

FORESTVILLE, Mich.,

October 16th, 1883.

To all who think it their duty to aid the spread of the gospel I would say that we are building a church here, and we have done all we can do, because we are out of funds. Now I would say to the brethren and sisters throughout the land, if they would give us a little aid, and send us their mites, we would accept it with thanks. A few cents apiece would accomplish the work. I would say to the leading officers in each branch, that if they take up a collection and send us the money by express or by Post Office Order, we would be very thankful to them. If any of our brethren or sisters see fit to comply with our wishes, send the money to A. H. Wiltsie, treasurer, Forestville, Sanilac county, Michigan. I will receipt all I receive.

A. H. WILTSIE.

LAMONI, Iowa,

October 18th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—For an eye opener, I thought I would present a few figures so that our brethren may see while they run, and have no need to stumble. For an example, suppose that one thousand of the brethren are expending $5.00 a year for fire insurance; this for twenty-five years at ten per cent will amount to $546,884,906. Suppose these same members, are expending the same for some other institution outside of the Church; it would double the above to $1,093,769,811.

Now let us remember that the double minded can not expect the blessing of God, and also that we number about 30,000 in the place of 1,000. The Lord has commanded us to feed the hungry and clothe the naked; but if we give our substances to any organization, other than the Church of Christ, do we not add rags to rags. I am told that two of our brethren will put in about $15,000 dollars. I will put in $500, and perhaps more, to buy lands in the regions round about. Come brethren and sisters, let us put our mites together, and labor for each other's good in every time of need. Suppose one thousand of our brethren are laboring for outsiders, and the employer is receiving a profit of one hundred dollars, each per year, and you all know that a good laboring man with the blessings of God upon his labors can do even better than that, with a good farm well equipped, so as to make it yield to its fullest capacity, and putting these together, you have $100,000, to start with. Then take this as an annual income and compound it for twenty-five years, and see what you have saved, besides the hard labor very many are doing who get cheated out of their pay. Now we are promised that by obedience in the work that is placed before us in these last days, the destroying angel when passing through our land shall pass over us. So, as we see him working on every hand, let us fear and tremble and go to with all our mind and might to prepare ourselves to build a place of refuge as the Lord has commanded, so that we may be blessed with a bountiful increase upon all the labors of our hands.

Yours in prayer for Zion's good,
M. N. COLE.

North St., Stone Road,
STAFFORD, England,
October 5th, 1883.

Dear Bro. Joseph, and Readers of Herald:—I am sorry you did not see fit to answer my question, which I sent in company with my last letter, of June 23d, 1883, as I only wanted light on the subject. It gives me great pleasure to again forward you the minutes of our late conference and also of expressing my feelings in the work of God. I, along with my brethren and sisters here, am still engaged in the work of the Master, and hope to be so engaged to my life's end. It is not all smooth paths I find, and my experience teaches me that it is no small thing for a man to take up his cross and follow Christ in this latter day work. I know it would be well for us if we sat down and counted the cost before engaging therein. For all that is contained in the words, "And the world hath hated them because they are not of the world," the Saints will find quite true. For it makes no difference whether they profess to be religious or not. As they all agree in one point; viz., (now concerning the collection), so they all agree in another, to put down the work of God in this the evening of time. Why is it so? Because God has revealed his work in such ample completeness, that it strikes at the very foundations of every man-made system, and shows forth to the world the character of its author in such a light, that they are afraid lest it should be true, and should spread. Hence they (the world) are all agreed to lay by their differences on this point, i. e., Down with the Latter Day Saints. Truly did Jesus say of those of old, "They love the praise of men rather than the praise of God;" and the same will apply now, for we can see it every day we live.

Like as they differ over the origin of man, so they differ over this work, and will not give God the honor of doing anything. We find nowadays the story of God making man, and breathing into his nostrils the breath of life, will not suit. No, it's too simple, too plain, too straightforward, too easy to be understood. But to give forth that some very learned man had made a very great scientific discovery, that through some very mysterious process, he did not exactly understand how, why, or when, we had all descended from some big jelly fish, and so on through the ring tail tribe, and a great portion of the world open their eyes in astonishment and say, "How grand, very good, that's something like. We can now look upon our ancestry any day."

Can not we see this is like poor erring man, not willing to give God credit for doing anything, not even for showing once again in his abundant love to the children of men, through his servant the prophet, that it is his will to save all that repent and obey the gospel. But even as "the world by wisdom knew not God" in Paul's day, neither will these wise know his ways now in this day, except they receive the testimony of his servants. Truly darkness has covered the earth and gross darkness the minds of the people.

I hope and pray to be kept in the narrow path, and to walk in the light as He is in the light, so that we may have fellowship with each other, and that the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, may cleanse me and all my brethren and sisters from all sin.

Dear Bro. Joseph, I was much pleased to read your letters in answer to Mr. L. O. Littlefield. I consider that he has utterly failed to answer your second letter. He says nothing about your quotations in reference to Adam and Noah. He says that polygamy is not for the world; but only for God's people. I should like to know if Father Adam was not one of God's people. Also Noah and family. Were not they God's people? And if so, and the celestial law of marriage was such a great blessing, where could this great blessing have been more wisely bestowed. And as you observe, if ever there was necessity, most certainly it was upon these occasions. But it was not given, thereby proving that it was not God's way of doing his work, or accomplishing his righteous purposes. I wish you God speed, and also all the Saints who do right.

Yours in bonds,
GEO. S. GREENWOOD.

October 17th, 1883.

Editor Herald:—Will you kindly permit a reader of the Herald, a student who, amidst the whirl of mercantile life, has but limited time for study and reflection, to ask through your columns if Bro. S. F. Walker will kindly favor us with one or a dozen of his interesting articles, (scientific and otherwise), giving us the benefit of his instructive researches from time to time, as of yore. The thought of making this request has been running through the writer's mind for the past year.

Also allow me to remind Bro. F. Tubbs of England, that his promised articles on the subjects of Astronomy, Music, etc., are still eagerly anticipated. Last but not least, to ask for a good article upon the seventh day and Sabbath questions. We take the liberty of suggesting that a thesis from Bro. M. T. Short upon this question would be appreciated and used. Sincerely,

STUDENT.

CAHINNUM, W. Va.,

October 17th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I spent about twelve days with brother Masters in Delroy, Carroll Co., Ohio. He got the promise of the Presbyterian Church and advertized meetings, and the next day they informed him that we could not have it. Then we got the building that the Welsh Baptists hold forth in, and spoke ten times with good liberty and fair attendance, all things considered. The last night there were about one hundred present. Some seemed to be very much interested. The Baptists have a nice choir, which sang for us. I hope to go there again soon. I commenced preaching here last Friday. Expect to stay over next Sunday.

Sister Ruley is going to Athens Co., Ohio, to-morrow, to visit her people; and desires me to go next week and establish the work there. Bro. Devore desires me to labor in his district, and I shall fill the calls as fast as possible, and do justice to myself and the work. Ever praying for the advancement of the truth. H. ROBINSON.

GROVE HILL, IOWA,

October 26th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—A singular circumstance happened here last summer. Towards night on a clear day, some one called my attention to the sky. On looking I was struck with wonder and delight. The whole eastern sky was adorned with all the colors of the rainbow, the beams of color diverging from one central spot, as rays diverge from the sun when it draws water, to use a familiar phrase.

I was reading in the Book of Mormon yesterday, of the signs that were to precede the first coming of Christ, and it seems to me that what I have just described is a sign of the second coming of Christ. The Bible says, "There shall be signs in the heaven above, and in the earth beneath."

I am looking for Bro. I. N. White here this fall. There are only two counties between his home and ours, so I think he may come. My neighbors are living forgetful of God and his laws, and it may be some would repent if the true gospel was preached to them.

I take this way of sending my best wishes to the Saints in Blue Rapids and Goshen branches, hoping if I can not have the privilege of their society on earth, that I will have it in Zion. I am seeking the friendship of God, and hope to become worthy of his glorious presence.

ELLA M. FUHR.

HAMBURG, IOWA,

October 29th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Our two days' meeting at Hamburg was a good one; the Spirit of the Lord was with us, and we hope it will continue with us to the end. Our help at this meeting was Brn. Henry and George Kemp, Bro. Stubert and Bro. St. Clair from Independence, Missouri. We thank them for their good visit. We are few in number, but our wants are many. We ask an interest in the prayers of the Saints. I am not able to write much; my nerves are not steady. I am seventy-three years old. I have belonged to the Church of Latter Day Saints fifty-three years. I feel to go on in the work of the Lord. We must keep our lamps trimmed, that we may be ready at the midnight cry to enter in. May God help us, that we may be prepared, in my prayer. Your brother in gospel bonds,

NICHOLAS TAYLOR.

NORTH CUTLER, MAINE,

September 13th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—The prospects seem to brighten up here in this branch, and I think the time is not far distant, when there will be a grand rally about the old standard of truth. Our Sunday School is flourishing, and I try in my poor way to do what I can in presenting the word of life to the people. We received a number of very nice papers for our Sunday School from Sr. Mary Mansfield, of Winter Port, Me., for which I wish to thank her through the Herald, and hope she will send us some more.

Your brother in the gospel,

J. J. HUNTLY.

GERBER, Georgia,
October 21st, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I write that Bro. R. J. Anthony may know there are a few scattered Latter Day Saints yet on Lookout Mountain. I noticed in the last Herald he was going home. We are anxious that he should come by and preach for us. I feel that it would be edifying, and hope as good seed has been sown, that even a few more souls may come into the fold. If Bro. Anthony has gone home already, and should return to the South, we still hope to have him come, or some Elder. They will be gladly welcomed to my home. Our dear sister Gerber died the 12th of this month. She was my only sister in the faith. I miss her, but feel assured she has gone to a better home. She died in full faith. She told me a few days before she died, that she desired so much to send for some of our Elders, but they were too far away. O how thankful I would have felt, if we could have gotten an Elder of the true faith, to have attended to the funeral services. A large congregation was present. I believe it would have strengthened the glorious work here while in so weak a state. I am trying to live as true to the cause as I can, although I feel my many weaknesses. God be praised for the strength that overbalances the weakness. I continue to rejoice from the depths of my heart in this latter day work. I pray daily that a church may be established here, that my three children, so dear to me, may witness, if they wont yield to the voice of the good shepherd. Brethren and sisters, pray for me, that I may be blessed with more of the Spirit.

Your sister in faith,
MARY STEADMAN.

RIVERTON, Fremont Co., Iowa,
October 25th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Bro. Clarence St. Clair is here. He has preached for three evenings. We have been well pleased and edified. I think he has done some good while here. He goes to Hamburg to-day, and from there to Nebraska City. My prayer is that the Lord will bless him, and all that are trying to spread the gospel news to the world.

JAMES W. CALKINS,
Pres. of Mill Creek Branch.

REESE, Michigan, October 28th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I have been in very poor health for some time, but am better now. I have not been able to do much preaching of late. I hope to do more this winter, and shall if prospered. Last evening I was called for to solemnize two marriages; one was sister Maggie Reid, of this Branch, to Mr. Upthegrove. The others, Samuel Reid, of the same family, to a lady from Vassar.

Our conference in Sanilac was a good one. We all felt the thrilling influence of God's Holy Spirit. We felt that to assemble from time to time in conference, is good. Something new and good to be learned. Elder E. H. Gurley's visit to Reese came just in time, and very acceptable. He did considerable preaching while here. The outsiders as well as Saints, felt sorry to part with him. We labored together, some in Sanilac county. We should have liked to have staid longer, but the time came for us to separate. I felt sorry that I could not stay longer with Bro. E. H. I have baptized one since I last wrote to you, and one more ready in Vassar. The work is onward here and elsewhere; and Saints, as we know we shall have reward for all the good we do, let us see that we are doing something all the time. God loves a cheerful doer of his law.

I am as ever, your brother,
E. DeLONG.

GLEN EASTON, W. Va.,
October 26th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—The "Herald" is always a welcome visitor to me. Since I last wrote you, I have been sorely afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism. I was taken the first of June, and was two months or more before I could go about; yet during all my afflictions, the Lord was merciful unto me, and I received many things to establish me more in this glorious latter day work. I have had so many testimonies, and so much evidence of the truthfulness of this work, that I couldn't doubt it. God, who has promised to be physician of both soul and body, was my physician during my sickness. I was insisted on by many to send for a doctor, yet I never felt to do so, for I had faith in the promises made to the children of God, that if it was his will, he would raise me, and if not, I was willing to submit. I can praise him to-day for what he has done for me, and every day I live, the gospel is dearer to me, and so is the people of God. The Lord's people is my people, and my prayer is for all the saints.

This branch is getting along well; most of them. Brother Ells visited us a short time ago, and he preached a splendid sermon. His presence was cheering to the saints. Any Elder passing this way will find a home here, and we will try to make any saints comfortable that will pay us a visit. We have prayer meeting three times a week, when the weather will permit, and we have some cheering times when we meet. I ask an interest in the prayers of all saints.

Your sister in the gospel,
CAROLINE WAYT.

MORGANVILLE, Clay Co., Kan.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I was a Wesleyan Methodist for two years. I tried to tear down the Latter Day Saint church. But I was honest before God, and asked him to guide me aright. My father and mother and one brother belonged to the church of Latter Day Saints, and I could not see them belong to that awful church. I had heard the doctrine for about eight years, so I got the Bible and went to reading it, and tried to convert them; and when I went to reading for truth, the Lord opened my eyes, and taught me the Scriptures in their fulness. So last spring I was baptized into the Latter Day Saints' church, and I can truly say, that since I was baptized, I have been blessed, have received great joy and faith. Some of the Methodists that were wont to teach me the scripture, I have faith to stand before and tell them about God's law. They say, We can prove our doctrine by the scripture, but they wont belong to that awful church, the name they mean. I told them that our Lord, when he was on earth, had a worse name than the saints have. Your brother in the faith,

E. T. MCKNIGHT.

"A PLEASANT cheerful wife is as a rainbow set in the sky when her husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests."

"A PUNCTUAL man is very rarely a poor man."

Summary of News.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Oct. 25th.—The German Sanitary Commission sent to Egypt some time ago to study the causes, etc., of cholera, having now exhausted their inquiries in that country have received permission from the Imperial Government to extend their researches to India, the home and cradle of the disease, and they will accordingly soon embark at Suez for Bombay. The commission, it seems, discovered a new and peculiar microorganism which may have something to do with the propagation of cholera, and the further studies of the savants in India will enable them to see whether their suppositions are correct.

The following table shows the expansion which has taken place since the resumption of specie payments. It is made up from the reports of the Controller of the Currency and the Director of the Mint, but omits the fractional paper currency, most of which is without doubt lost or destroyed:

|                           | Jan. 1, '79.   | Jul. 1, '81. | Oct. 1, '83. |
|---------------------------|----------------|--------------|--------------|
| Gold Bullion .....        | $ 89,017,716  | $           | 61,683,816   |
| Silver Bullion .....      | 3,309,949      |              | 5,107,911    |
| Gold Coin .....           | $ 278,310,136 | 439,776,753  | 544,512,699  |
| Silver Dollars ...        | 106,573,803    | 91,373,705   | 154,379,899  |
| Frac'l Silv. Coin. ....   | 80,087,061     |              | 80,920,424   |
| Gold certificates. ....   | 5,782,920      |              | 82,495,240   |
| Silver cert'ific'es. .... | 51,166,530     |              | 94,490,241   |
| U. S. Notes .....         | 346,681,016    | 346,681,016  | 346,681,016  |
| Nat'l bank notes .....    | 323,791,674    | 355,042,000  | 353,342,671  |

Total.....$1,055,356,619 $1,462,236,650 $1,723,694,907

The United States now has more paper money than any other nation, and more money, specie and paper, than any nation except France. The following from the last report of the Director of the Mint gives the paper and specie circulation of the leading nations according to the latest statistics:

|                   | Paper.        | Specie.        | Total per capita. |
|-------------------|---------------|----------------|-------------------|
| United States ... | $793,074,878 | $ 773,584,790 | $31 33           |
| Great Britain.... | 203,692,764   | 684,600,000    | 24 91             |
| France.....       | 512,129,625   | 1,478,062,000  | 53 32             |
| Germany.....      | 211,122,464   | 607,792,577    | 18 10             |
| Russia.....       | 612,916,209   | 119,209,784    | 7 44              |

It is difficult to estimate the exact military position at Tonquin. Two months ago the Chinese force on the Yunnan frontier numbered 9,000, all armed with modern weapons. At Bac-ninh were 5,000 Chinese troops. It is very probable the French will soon succeed in driving the Chinese from Tonquin, but the real conflict will only commence when the frontier has been reached. Tonquin will then be another Acheen, but on an immensely larger scale. The only apparent solution of the difficulty is a compromise or a French advance on Peking.

The latest Nihilist proclamation is being extensively circulated in Russia. It demands that the Czar summon representatives of the people, and asks for full amnesty, freedom of the press, freedom of speech, and the right to hold public meetings as the only means of preventing revolution. Pitiless vengeance is threatened if the demands of the Nihilists are disregarded.

There were shocks of earthquake Wednesday midnight at Agram and in several districts of Western Croatia, shaking houses and shattering windows.

Many inhabitants of Smyrna Asia Minor, are fleeing from the city on account of fear of further earthquakes. The Government has sent a sufficient quantity of lumber to construct 5,000 sheds for the shelter of those rendered homeless by the catastrophe. The editors of the local papers have formed a committee for the aid of the sufferers. Slight shocks are still occurring at long intervals, but are doing no damage.

Lewis Cohen, a hebrew gentleman, has been exempted from serving on a Coroner's jury on the ground of being the lineal descendant of Aaron, the High Priest.

Solomon Schisgal, a youth of St. Petersburg, has invented an electric watch, having two wheels and no springs.

Cholera is still a menacing danger to all the western nations. The disease is again epidemic in Egypt, and worse where it gained the weakest foothold last summer. Nine deaths occurred yesterday in Alexandria. The people are disheartened, as well they may be.

No further doubt exists that the Apaches have been badly cut up in a recent fight with Mexican troops in the Swisshelm Mountains. A large body of the routed Indians passed Stuart's ranch, south of Tombstone, Ari., going north. They were poorly clad, but one-third of them had fire-arms.

In the middle of August last J. A. Robertson and a party of five went down to Mazatlan, Mexico, with the intention of purchasing a sugar plantation. Yellow-fever was found to prevail to such an extent in the place that the party immediately beat a retreat; and as soon as they had gone into the country every one of them was taken down with the disease, one dying. After recovering, Robertson returned to Mazatlan, waiting an opportunity to get away from the pesthole. Up to the time of leaving, Oct 15, 5,000, or one-third of the population, had died. The local papers stated that during the first week of September there had been 480 coffin burials; but as a large portion of the population was in abject poverty it was estimated the death roll was fully 900 during the week. The day Robertson left eleven bodies were thrown overboard from the Mexican gunboat Democrata lying in the harbor. Of the large American colony only two escaped an attack of the fever, and the names of seven well-known San Franciscans are given as having died. Robertson believed the fever was at an end, it having nothing more to feed on. The virulence of the plague was such that in some cases persons died thirty minutes after being attacked.

The schooner sunk in Vineyard Sound Saturday night was the William H. Rourke, from Perth Amboy, with a cargo of coal for St. John, N. B. She was capsized in a squall. All hands were lost except the mate, William A. Finney, who clung to the vessel's bottom, bottom up, for twelve hours, and drifted ashore at Gay Head, where he remains in an exhausted state. The lost are Captain Finney, William Fowler, cook, Mel Whalen, seaman, and one unknown. Nearly 200 vessels are in Provincetown harbor for safety. The fishing schooners Alaska and James Bliss are believed to have been lost, with their crews of fourteen men.

By the capsizing of a schooner off Vineyard Haven, Mass., the Captain and three seamen were drowned.

Gold is reported to have been discovered in Dakota Territory at a place called Ransom.

Judge McCrary, of the United States Court, eighth judicial circuit has decided that a State law regulating railway transportation passing into or through other States violates the provision of the United States Constitution which prohibits State legislation affecting commerce between the States.

Near Gardner, Colo., a number of Mexicans murdered four men at a dance. Wednesday night a band of armed men captured one of the murderers, placed a rope around his neck, made the other end fast to a horse, and then frightened the animal into a run, the Mexican being dragged over the rocks until life was extinct.

At Kent, Portage County, O., a town once known as Franklin Mills, a tramp yesterday leaped into a flaming furnace used for making glass. The men by quick work raked out a good portion of his body for decent burial, the chances of which he had so lightly thrown away. At Warrenton, Mo., a lunatic killed himself by hugging a red-hot stove.

Today David, son of Apostle Rich, of the Utah Mormons, was sentenced to the penitentiary for robbing the Zion's Savings-Bank.

Diphtheria in Guilford County, N. Y., has carried off, it is thought, no less than 300 children. So alarming was the condition of affairs for the time that there was a quarantine by people of some of the adjoining counties.

Midway between Canal Fulton, and Clinton, O., a new field of hard coal has been discovered, now believed to be of excellent quality.

Oct. 26th.—Germany and Russia are largely increasing their forces on the frontiers. The Russian villagers are crowded with Cossacks, while the German garrisons and fortifications are being strengthened. It is reported that a press for printing Nihilist periodicals has been discovered in the Imperial Marie Institute at Moscow, and that two female teachers have been arrested in connection with the publication of the papers. The Russians have located a force of 11,000 troops at Askabod, in the Tekke country, and another thousand have been recently dispatched towards Teijend River, near the Persian frontier.

The cholera has reappeared in Fayroom, on the west side of the Nile, and at Zifteh.

At Vienna a large number of seditious placards in the german and Czech languages signed "executive committee," were circulated last evening. The authors are not yet arrested.

Another outbreak has occurred at Valenca do-Minho, Portugal. The males are resisting the arrest of the women who recently compelled the burial of the body of a woman within the church.

The leading weekly grain circular of Liverpool Eng. says: There is no noticeable change in the wheat trade. The lowness of prices promotes steadiness and a desire of buyers to pick up parcels pressed for sale. At the provincial markets the finest sample of English wheat maintains late prices. Inferior samples are neglected. Cargoes off coast are steadily held. In cargoes on passage there have been a few forced sales of California for cash at low figures. Today's market was well attended. There was a better tone for wheat and improved business at late rates. Flour was in fair consumptive demand at previous figures. In mixed corn there was fair trade and the market was slightly easier.

Five thousand little Indians are now attending school daily near Chicago, Ill.

Geronimo, Juh, and their band of hostile

Apaches have succeeded in eluding the Mexican soldiers, and with 2,000 head of stolen cattle are now making their way through Chihuahua to the American line. On the other hand, a troop of seventy Chiricahuas have surrendered and will be taken to Fort Bowie, in Arizona.

For violating the neutrality of the United States by furnishing arms and ammunition to the Haytian insurgents the Captain and first officer of the steamer Tropic were sentenced at Philadelphia to one year's imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Oct. 28th.—Many burglaries have been perpetrated recently in Neuilly, a Parisian suburb. The thieves defy the police and frequently exchange shots with them.

Two thousand Orangemen, armed with revolvers, have assembled at Belleck, Fermanagh, Ireland, to prevent the Nationalists from holding a meeting. It is feared there will be bloodshed.

The treaty between Germany and Mexico may be summarized as follows: First—As to stipulations inserted as favorable to Germany: 1. That in event of war between Germany and Mexico, Germans may nevertheless remain in Mexico and shall not be molested in their business. 2. That Germans shall have liberty to engage in retail trade throughout the Republic, not withstanding any regulations restricting the liberty of other foreigners in that regard. 3. That all Mexican port regulations touching German shipping shall emanate exclusively from the Federal Government of Mexico, and the Mexican Government engages to give seasonable notice to Germany in advance of any change in customs duties. 4. That in event of the taking of any property of a German residing in Mexico for public use in time either of peace or war, he shall receive indemnity. 5. A "most favored nation" clause with regard to customs duties. Second—As to stipulations inserted as favorable to Mexico: 1. That Germany will recognize Mexican jurisdiction as extending four leagues from the coast line. 2. That no claim of Germans against Mexico shall be presented to the German Government through its diplomatic agents until after all remedial proceedings shall have been undertaken and exhausted in the Mexican courts. 3. That the Mexican Government shall not be regarded responsible, or held to provide indemnity for any depredations committed upon Germans or their property by revolutionary forces or by Indians.

Things look very bad for Ferry's French Cabinet. War with China is nearer than ever. The exchange of dispatches between Marquis Tseng and Challeml-Lacour shows fierce ill-temper on both sides and utterly irreconcilable claims. The general impression here is that China wants to fight. She can pour 50,000 troops at once into the South, armed with breech-loaders, fairly drilled, and officers are being sought in England and America. The French troops, on the other hand, have a short season for operations, a bad climate, and are too few. While the war divides parties at home hopelessly, the Government is denounced by the Orleanists as stupid and by the Reds as wicked. Clemenceau will not consent to operations on a large scale. Ferry hopes for a big victory to carry all France with him, and Challeml-Lacour does not believe in the courage of China.

There is a small cloud in Eastern Europe and a little uneasiness. The dispute between the prince of Bulgaria and the Czar has reached an acute stage. The Czar recalled the Russia aides-de-camp and the Prince retorted by dismissing the remaining Russian officers of his household. A Bulgarian Envoy has gone to St. Petersburg to patch up the quarrel.

Austria has been getting mad over some attacks in the Russian press and at the construction of fortresses on the Austro-Russian frontier, but Count Kainoky told the parliament that they need not be afraid of Russia, because she was too weak and Austria too strong. The triple alliance of Austria, Germany, and Italy was also perfectly secure in spite of the howlings of irreconcilable Italian journals and mobs.

The military measures of the new war Minister in Spain cause great uproar.

The protectionists combat the free-trade tendencies of the Home Minister. The King is sick.

Twelve cholera deaths occurred in Alexandria Saturday. Deaths from cholera are averaging eight to ten daily. The fatal cases are chiefly Europeans. Private advices announcing that several cases have appeared in the interior.

Another shock of earthquake was experienced today, damaging the wall surrounding the town of Smyrna, Asia Minor, the aqueduct, and a mosque. At Varla 169 persons were seriously and sixty-one slightly injured. Sixty-nine are in the hospital. A sharp shock of earthquake occurred the afternoon of the 20th. The oscillation continued fully twenty seconds. The shock was felt throughout Bermuda. The damage was slight.

During a heavy fog on Lake Michigan last evening the lumber-laden steam-barge Starke bound for Chicago, ran on a reef near Milwaukee. The crew is safe.

A strange disease prevails among cattle in the northwestern part of De Witt County, Ill. It is unknown and one that is very destructive. No check has been placed on its prevalence, and farmers have already suffered much loss. The State Veterinary Surgeon has been applied to.

The Apaches have broken into small bands for the purpose of robbing and massacreing. The Governor has offered $250, for every scalp of a grown Indian, and is rousing his people by means of swift messengers riding night and day, to a war of extermination.

Oct. 29th.—Six deaths from cholera occurred Sunday at Alexandria, and the disease has now broken out at Messa.

Advices by mail from Hue confirm the reports of terrible atrocities committed by the French sailors on the occasion of the capture of the town.

Several ironclads have been ordered to be put in readiness to reinforce the French squadron in Chinese waters, in view of the possibility of war between France and China.

No public league meetings were held anywhere in Ireland on Sunday, they having been forbidden by the Government. At Castle Lyon, county Cork, a procession was broken up by the police.

While passing through the Sineat defile on the Nubian frontier early this morning, a detachment of Egyptian troops was attacked and routed by a horde of savage hill tribes, who poured down from the narrow passes in small bodies and captured and slaughtered 150 of the Egyptians, but few of the detachment escaping to tell the terrible story.

The defenses at Canton, China, are being actively pushed forward. Large quantities of arms and ammunition were conveyed to that city yesterday, in Chinese gunboats. An immediate attack on the Chinese ports is not generally expected. It is thought for some time to come, the fighting will be confined to Tonquin, but it seems inevitable that hostilities will eventually extend to China.

The river Salembri, in Thessaly, Greece, has overflowed its banks, causing widespread devastation. One hundred houses have been destroyed and several lives lost. Larissa and the villages in its vicinity are surrounded by water. Communication with the flooded district is much delayed, and the railways are greatly damaged.

Since the outbreak of trichiniasis over 400 persons have been attacked and eighteen died in Saxony.

The Posen Gazette announces that a great private council, at which all the Governors-General of the provinces are to be present, will be held at St. Petersburg about the beginning of December, for the purpose of elaborating new constitutional measures.

Oct. 30th.—London had a startling sensation to-night. Two explosions took place almost simultaneously. Two tunnels of the Underground Railway fell. In one many people were injured. In the other great damage was caused. The wildest rumors are afloat. The English papers do not hesitate to attribute the explosions to Fenians. A train had arrived at Praed street from the Mansion House a few minutes before eight o'clock. Many passengers and people from the country had been spending the day at the Fisheries Exhibition. The train had scarcely entered the tunnel-way of the Edgware Road when the explosion came. There was a loud noise like the firing of cannon, then sudden darkness. All the gas was extinguished. There was a breaking of glass and splinters flying in all directions. Then came the shrieks of the wounded and screams of panic. The stricken train rushed through the darkness to the station. Guards and passengers brought help. Many were carried up-stairs to the main road and taken to St. Mary's Hospital. Others walked to the dispensaries and chemists' shops. The rest were badly frightened, but finished their journey in cabs. The first surmise was that an explosion of gas had occurred. The chief-engineer examined the wreck. Two third-class carriages were shattered. The heavy wood-work of the roof, beams, and floor were pulverized. From every window and doorway every particle of light wood had disappeared. There were no signs of a gas explosion. Moreover the cylinders had been already burning seventeen hours, and were now nearly empty. It was then suggested that foul air had collected in the tunnel and exploded by contact with an inflammable substance, but the officials decided that the disaster was caused by an infernal machine. The sleepers on the line were reduced to match-wood. The indentation in the side of the tunnel showed the concentrated force of the explosive. A line right across the arch indicated the direction which the explosive traveled.

A severe shock of earthquake, accompanied by subterranean rumblings, was felt at Kamience, the Capital of the Government of Podolia, Russia, Monday evening. The shock lasted thirty seconds.

The landlady of a public house at Oldenburg frequented by journeyman bakers found loaded bombs on her premises, where two hundred persons were assembled. The merest chance prevented a terrible catastrophe.

When the steamer City of Berlin entered the Mersey she collided with her Majesty's ship Hawk, damaging the latter's starboard bows and carrying away some of her boats. The steamer sustained no damage.

Muscat is being besieged by the brother of the present ruler. The British gunboat Philomel is shelling the camp of the besiegers. The siege has already lasted four days. All British subjects have left the town and gone on board the Philomel.

At Frankfurt-on-the-Main a quantity of dynamite was maliciously exploded in the office of the Chief of Police last evening. The building was badly damaged, but not many of the officials were in at the time and none of them were injured.

Morris Ranger, a heavy Liverpool cotton merchant, has suspended, with liabilities estimated at £650,000. Two firms of brokers were carried down by the failure.

The lumber-laden schooner Mary Nan, of Chicago, is on the beach at Grand Haven. A steamer ran on the rocks in the Lachine Rapids and will doubtless go to pieces. Her passengers and 140 head of cattle have been rescued. Sailing down Lake Huron the schooner Homer Hine waterlogged and the crew abandoned her. They were picked up. The vessel is supposed to be lost. An unknown schooner was off Port Rowan, Lake Erie, last evening, flying a signal of distress.

In their report to the Secretary of the Interior, submitted yesterday, the Utah Commissioners declare that unless the Territorial Legislature shall adopt laws looking to the extirpation of polygamy (which it will not likely do) the commission will be prepared to recommend to Congress the most stringent enactments compatible with the limitations of the Constitution which may be considered necessary for the suppression of so great an evil.

Oct. 31.—Investigation by Government inspectors leads to the belief that the accidents in the London underground railways were caused by the explosion of nitro-glycerine.

The excitement over the explosions on the underground railway line last night, in London, Eng., is very great. A large number of policemen under special inspectors were on duty all night at the various railway stations and guarding the line. A heavy force also watched the Houses of Parliament and other public buildings. The explosion at Charing Cross occurred at a distance of 200 hundred yards west of the station. There was no train there at the time. The walls of the tunnel were battered, but the rails were not misplaced. The windows in the station were blown out. The roof is not damaged. No person was hurt there. The force of the explosion under the train of cars at Praed Street Station (underground) was terrible. Although workmen have been busily engaged all night in removing the debris they have not yet finished their task, nor has the damage at that place been repaired. The tunnel there was not destroyed, but a deep hole was excavated in the road-bed. The brick wall was blown out and the gaspipes and telegraph lines were broken. The refreshment saloon was wrecked, and the windows of the other rooms of the station smashed. The explosion occurred immediately under the passing train, forty yards west of the station. All the persons injured were in the last two carriages. Twenty-eight persons wounded were taken to St. Mary's Hospital. Four of them are seriously hurt, but they passed a favorable night and are expected to recover. The others were able to go to their homes during the night. Both explosions occurred about 8:10 in the evening.

Hicks Pasha, after two battles, entered El Obeid, Egypt, which was abandoned by the forces of the False Prophet. Many of the False Prophet's soldiers have been killed in two battles, and his forces are broken up. His fate is unknown.

Communication between Khartoum and the Egyptian army is completely severed.

There were two cholera deaths at Alexandria, Egypt, yesterday.

The Government has received advices from Duem stating that 1,200 rebels were killed at Adelat and Melbis, Egypt, some distance from El Obeid, during engagements with the forces under Hicks Pasha. El Mahdi, the False Prophet, stood under fire during the engagements.

A dispatch from Khartoum says between 25,000 and 30,000 Arabs attacked Hicks Pasha's army. Ten thousand Arabs divided into two columns attacked the Egyptian square on two sides, thus enabling Hicks Pasha to use his 6,000 Remington rifles, Krupp guns, and Nordenfelt rocket batteries. The Arabs were only armed with lances. Failing after some time to reach the square they fled, leaving 8,000 dead, all their wounded, food, animals, baggage behind. Hicks Pasha pursued the main body of fugitives and overtook them at Melbas, where he found El Mahdi posted with the fugitives and a body-guard of 2,000 cavalry. The Arabs again attacked and were repulsed with great loss. El Mahdi's horse was killed under him. He is reported to have been cut down by light cavalry sent in pursuit of him. Hicks Pasha has taken possession of El Obeid and the Government treasury. The Egyptians' loss was nothing.

When twenty-five miles off Holyhead, in the Irish Sea, the British steamers Alhambra and Holyhead came into collision, and both sank. Thirteen seamen from the Alhambra and two from the Holyhead were lost, the rest of the passengers and crews escaping in safety.

Nine Cherokee Indians yesterday established a national bank at Vinita, I. T.

Nearly $60,000,000 were disbursed for pensions during the last fiscal year.

FIRES, STORMS AND ACCIDENTS.

Oct. 25.—A planing-Mill, five dwelling houses, and a million feet of lumber were destroyed by fire at Pittsburg this morning.

Loss by fire at Bronson, Mich., $18,000. Shelbyville, Ind., $3,000, Chicago Ill., $19,000.

Four men were killed in an accident at Le Creuzot. The accident occurred through the carelessness of a workman, who let molten lead into a place where the four victims were at work.

Oct. 28.—Loss by fire at Salt Lake, U., $10,000 Toledo, O., $6,000. Germantown, Pa., $100,000. Lordsburg New Mexico, $55,000. Davenport, Ia., $3,500. Pittsburg, Pa., $18,000. Hartford, Conn., $30,000. Kansas City, Mo., 20,000.

A passenger train on the Pan-Handle Road collided with a freight train on the Michigan Central at the Joliet crossing, about thirty miles from Chicago, yesterday morning. The engines were smashed into pieces. Mr. Norris, the engineer of the passenger train, the brakeman of the freight train, and a flagman at the crossing were killed almost instantly. The engineer of the freight train jumped for his life when he saw danger, but struck against a fence and was horribly injured. He died about three miles away from the place of the accident, in intense agony. None of the passengers were hurt.

Near stockwell Ind., two freight trains collided, smashing twenty-eight cars, and killing one man.

Oct. 29.—Loss by fire at Springfield, Mo., $35,000. Charleston, S. C., $100,000. Near Beloit, Wis., $7,000.

At Paris K. Y., a wind-storm killed two colored persons and did $50,000 damage. Reports of great winds come from several parishes in Louisiana. Southern Indiana is flooded.

Twelve hundred pounds of dynamite exploded near a tunnel on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, eighty-five miles from Pittsburg, Sunday morning instantly killing five of the crew of a freight train who were walking on the track near the scene of the explosion, their bodies being literally blown to fragments. Trees were uprooted and rocks blown into thriver in the vicinity. At Mobile, Alabama, four men were killed by a tug explosion. Two men were killed and several injured at Pittston, Pa., by an explosion of firedamp. By the falling of a scaffold at Dubuque, Ia., two men and a boy were killed.

Oct. 30th.—Loss by fire at Chicago, Ill., $30,000. Homestead, Pa., $15,000. Pekin, Ill., $8,000. Aurora, Ill., $2,000. East Saginaw, Michigan, $15,000. Grass Valley, Cal., $15,000. Minneapolis, Minn., $15,000.

By a railroad accident, near Charleston, S. C., one man was killed and three injured.

Oct. 31.—Savannah, Ga., was visited by an awful calamity. Shortly after noon a fire broke out in a large cotton warehouse, which spread with terrible rapidity, destroying 300 houses and rendering homeless fully 1,500 people, who are now wandering panic-stricken along the outskirts of the flame-swept district. To add to the horrors of the calamity, three bodies have been recovered from the ruins and several other persons are known to have perished. The loss will aggregate fully $1,000,000. The Secretary of War has ordered the barracks in the city to be placed at the disposal of the authorities, and vigorous measures will at once be taken to relieve the suffering multitude.

Loss by fire at Rome, N. Y., $17,000. Garfield, Col., $51,000. Parnell, Ill., $5,000. Indianapolis, Ind., $55,000. Charleston, S. C., $107,000. Money Point, Va., $100,000. Whiting, Kan., $13,000.

Five men and a hand car ran off a twenty-foot trestle in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday. One of the men was killed and the rest badly hurt.

CROP REPORTS.

A local dealer has completed his estimates on the probable yield of the corn crop of the United States for the year 1883. The estimate is made up from the official returns of the several State Agriculture Departments and from private sources, and is as trustworthy and correct as estimates can be made at this early date. Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Minnesota have suffered considerably by the frost, the damage amounting in some cases to a loss of fully 50 per cent. In the aggregate, however, the loss in these States amounts to but little compared with the increase in some of the larger producing States. New York and some portions of Pennsylvania and West Virginia show some damage from frost, but not of a serious nature. Illinois and Indiana promise a good average yield. Kansas and Missouri report no damage of any account, and promise an abundant outcome. The report shows a total production of 1,621,100,000 bushels, or a slight increase over last year.

The United States Agricultural Department reports the total crop of 1882 to be 1,617,025,100 bushels.

The crop of corn this year will probably be the largest ever raised in the United States, with the exception of 1880. That year the country produced 1,717,435,000 bushels. The following is a carefully prepared tabulated statement of the probable yield by States:

| State.           | Bushels.   | State.           | Bushels.      |
|------------------|------------|------------------|---------------|
| Maine.....       | 800,000    | Arkansas.....    | 34,000,000    |
| N. Hampshire..   | 800,000    | Tennessee.....   | 75,000,000    |
| Vermont.....     | 1,800,000  | W. Virginia..... | 15,000,000    |
| Massachusetts..  | 1,200,000  | Kentucky.....    | 75,000,000    |
| Rhode Island...  | 300,000    | Ohio.....        | 70,000,000    |
| Connecticut..... | 1,200,000  | Michigan.....    | 25,000,000    |
| New York.....    | 20,000,000 | Indiana.....     | 100,000,000   |
| New Jersey.....  | 10,000,000 | Illinois.....    | 170,000,000   |
| Pennsylvania.... | 40,000,000 | Wisconsin.....   | 25,000,000    |
| Delaware.....    | 4,000,000  | Minnesota.....   | 20,000,000    |
| Maryland.....    | 16,000,000 | Iowa.....        | 165,000,000   |
| Virginia.....    | 35,000,000 | Missouri.....    | 190,000,000   |
| N. Carolina..... | 35,000,000 | Kansas.....      | 190,000,000   |
| S. Carolina..... | 15,000,000 | Nebraska.....    | 90,000,000    |
| Georgia.....     | 36,000,000 | California.....  | 3,000,000     |
| Florida.....     | 4,000,000  | Dakota.....      | 6,000,000     |
| Alabama.....     | 32,000,000 | Other States     |               |
| Mississippi..... | 30,000,000 | and Territories  | 5,000,000     |
| Louisiana.....   | 15,000,000 |                  |               |
| Texas.....       | 65,000,000 | Total.....       | 1,621,100,000 |

"A MAN in Silesia was arraigned for the crime of bigamy. On the trial it appeared he had successively married nine wives, all of whom were in Court. The Judges decreed that the best punishment would be to make him live with the whole nine. The unhappy culprit pleaded the capital punishment on hearing their decision, but without effect—the Court was inexorable."

"When in a foreign land, 'mid strange scenes we roam:
Tho' blest with health and friends, our hearts still sigh for home.
Fortune may kindly smile, and golden prospects rise;
Not all the hopes of gain can sever those sweet ties.
'Tis home in the desert bare, where the hot simoon blows—
'Tis home in Greenland wilds, where dwell eternal snows.
And not a wretch so poor, how low so'er his doom,
But has some spot he loves, and calls that spot his home."

It seems that a desire for, or a love of home, is an innate part of every human, fish, beast, bird and insect. And a longing for a happier home beyond, is the luster of every intelligent hope, and one of the greatest stimulants of love to God that the human heart can possess.

"Lost wealth may be regained by a course of industry—the wreck of health be repaired by temperance—forgotten knowledge restored by study—alienated friendship soothed into forgiveness—forfeited reputation won back by penitence and meek virtue."—Mrs. Sigourney.

"PRAISE not the unworthy on account of their wealth."

"SLANDER lives upon the slime it engenders."

Always write the Business portion of your Letter on a separate piece of paper, and let it be brief and explicit.

If you have anything to say to the Editor, or something you wish published, do NOT write it on the back of a business letter. Business is Business, and MUST BE done in a business-like manner.

Original Poetry.

A MEMORIAL TO FREDERICK G. SMITH.

BY DAVID H. SMITH.

He has suffered long and borne it well,
His sorrows came thick and fast,
Oh call him not back in pain to dwell,
He has gone to sleep at last.

CHORUS.

Then go dig him a grave on the warm hillside,
'Neath the shade of the green locust tree;
Where the birds will sing; and the wild flowers bloom,
And the long grasses wave mournfully.

You know how he loved the sweet sunshine,
And wished it might shine for aye.
He has gone to the land where the father and son,
Will make it forever day.

Then weep, mother weep, and bow thy head,
O'er the corpse so still and white;
Yes, give to thy grief a little sway,
E're they bear him from thy sight.

They gathered around with a mournful tread,
The couch where a brother was laid;
They have folded his hands and have combed his head,
And have laid him away with the dead.

They have filled his grave on the warm hillside,
'Neath the shade of the green locust tree;
Where the birds have sung, and the wild flowers have sprung,
And the long grass waves mournfully.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

FETTER FROM SISTER EMMA.

Dear Herald:—This evening I feel as strong here in my native land, as if I was in the uttermost parts of the earth. We have been traveling for the last three weeks, in an altogether new portion of the country to us, but until the last five days there has been here and there a family, or a person, that we have known or heard of before, and during that time had two very pleasant and profitable visits; one in Parrsboro, where my sister and her husband live. They were baptized before we left. Another in Amherst, where we found a family of "Israelites" in deed, and in heart, if not in name. She had seen us in a dream some time before we got there. I will give a brief extract of the dream. She had been bitten by a white horse, and wounded to death, as her friends thought, though she was alive; but had no power to move or speak. They put her in a rough box, and carried her to the grave yard, and left her beside an open grave. Then she saw a man and woman coming towards her, the man carrying a valise in his hand. She had never seen them before. The woman took water and bathed her wounds, which revived her, and she sat up. The woman said, What are you doing among the tombs? She said, My friends thought I was dead, and brought me here to bury me; but I will not die, will I? The woman answered, No, I hope not. She then asked, Where are you from. The woman said, We are traveling through the country, and come a long way out of our way to see you. She asked again, Will I live? The woman still bathing her face said, Yes, I hope so. She told me she did not distinctly remember the faces, but when she saw us she recognized in us the two she saw in her dream. We had left our horse at the stables and come to her house on foot, Joseph carrying the valise, and she almost started, when in answer to her question, Where are you from, I told her we were traveling through the country on our way to Cape Breton; but had come a long way off our road to see some people in Amherst, by request of some of our friends. In telling me the dream a few days after, she said, but you did not tell me for certain whether I would live or not. I answered that is not for me to say. I can only hope so; we can point out the way of life, but it is for you to say whether you will walk therein or not. My prayer is that God may help her to make the sacrifice that will be necessary for her to make, if she obeys the gospel.

During the last five days we have been altogether adrift on the broad ocean of strangers, and for the last two days the strangest strangers I have ever met. They are Scotch, and consist of only two classes, Presbyterians and Catholics. Yet the Lord has opened their hearts towards us, and we have been provided with our daily bread and nightly shelter. To-day's drive has been mostly through an uninhabited region of country, with here and there a little tumble down settlement, with perhaps one man to be seen, or now and then a hen scratching about the yard, just enough to show that life was not altogether extinct; but made me feel as if every body was all alone in the world. This afternoon, as the sun neared the horizon, the habitations grew fewer and farther between, and soon they appeared to have come to an end, for a time at least, and we were alone between two high mountains, nothing to be seen but woods, woods. Night was fast approaching, our horse was much fatigued as well as ourselves. I do not know as I felt exactly homesick, but I thought of our quiet, restful home in California, and of many of the Saints there, as well as elsewhere, and wondered if they knew how to appreciate their comfortable homes, when night came on. The solitude of our surroundings seemed too deep even for conversation, and I amused myself by looking at the beautiful leaves, which at this season of the year are of almost every shade and color, and felt glad we were on a down grade for the poor horse's sake; and looking up at the stately companions of our journey, (the telegraph poles), I found a sort of companionship in even them, and their mute language seemed to say, Don't feel too dreary, I will take you through all right. After an hour or so we saw an opening, and to our great delight there were two real houses, with big barns close by. We stopped at the first one. My husband went to the door to see if they would keep us all night. We are told to "ask and we shall receive," and so we do, but it is hard work to ask, when one has not the money to offer, and sometimes we have to ask more than once, before we are admitted. But not so this evening. The lady gave us a good welcome, and also a glass of rich, creamy milk. They were Catholics, but showing more of the Spirit of Christ than many Orthodox Christians who denounce Catholicism.

We have four days' travel ahead of us yet, before we reach Margaree, Cape Breton, where we will get our mail again. None can know how we prize the Herald and Hope, but those who are excluded entirely from communion with Saints. I often feel a desire to respond to much I find in the Herald, so strengthening and comforting to the scattered Saints; and again I often wish to impart words of cheer and comfort, if I could, to those who are weary and worn.

I have felt much sympathy for Bro. H. C. Smith in his perilous mission. We have had something of his experience ourselves, and one is apt to wish that they could dwell in peace and safety, as many of their brethren do. And if their work was only for this world, who would not? But when they look forward to when they shall meet their Lord and Master, can the joy of those who have always dwelt in safety, never gone without the camp, bearing the reproach, or sacrificed for the gospel's sake, be compared with those who have gone forth, doing, daring, and suffering for the sake of their Master and his cause? Christ is more precious to them, and with what joy they will receive the words, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

I feel to thank Bro. Charles Derry for his plain talk to plain people. Who can estimate the amount of good done by such pieces, dictated by the Spirit, as that must have been; for I was filled with the Spirit while hearing it read. It was on the evening before we started from Rawdon on this trip, and seemed, like a fatherly benediction upon us, impressing our minds more deeply with the solemnity and responsibility of our position. How often I have said within myself, For or against? Which has my influence for this day been? God forbid that it ever should be against, and yet how often we do that which we would not. Write again Bro. Derry. Your wise counsel is good for children such as I.

TATAMAGOCHE, N. S., Sept. 24th, 1883.

THE SO-CALLED PARALLELS BETWEEN KRISHNA AND CHRIST.

BY WM. EMMETTE COLEMAN.

IN THE last Christmas number of the Journal, in an article by one of its most valued contributors, I find these words: "In Hindoostan the month of August witnesses glad ceremonies in honor of Krishna, whose parents more than three thousand years ago were warned to flee over to Jumna with their babe and save it from the tyrant who made slaughter of the innocents in their little village, even as Herod slew Jewish children when Joseph and Mary fled and saved 'the child Jesus,' in obedience to a heavenly warning. Through many centuries have these memorial assemblies gathered in Brahminical Asia." As this passage voices various popular misconceptions—errors very commonly held among Liberals and Spiritualists—I propose to state the exact facts corrective of these errors to the end that falsehood may be set aside and the truth made apparent. Like the writer of this paragraph, who is a gentleman of veracity and honor, I was, till within a few years past, misled by the current false statements on these points so constantly met with, and accepted them as truth. Having made a careful research into the facts, the "bottom facts," going to the fountain-head of information thereon, the Hindu sacred writings themselves, I am enabled to speak with accuracy thereupon.

It is true that the birthday of Krishna is joyously celebrated in India in August, and that this custom has obtained for some centuries, though perhaps not quite so "many" as the quoted writer may have supposed. Krishna is reported to have been born on the eighth day of the dark-half of the month Bhadra, which date corresponds with the 23d and 24th of August. The calendar system in India is such that any given day of one of the Hindu months does not invariably fall on any one day in the European and American calendar system, hence the eighth of Bhadra is sometimes the 23d and sometimes the 24th of August. The birthday festival of Krishna is called the Janmashtami, and Prof. Weber, the eminent Sanskritist of Berlin, has published a work specially devoted to this Janmashtami, in which he traces back all records of this festival, and finds that its origin dates only about as far back as the twelfth Christian century. For only seven centuries, then, has this great feast-day been observed. The statement in Graves' "Sixteen Crucified Saviors," and other works, that Krishna was born December 25th, is an infamous falsehood, manufactured out of whole cloth.

In connection with the statement that Buddhist festivals have been kept up for 2,400 years, I would state that the date formerly given for Buddha's death, B. C. 543, was merely provisional, an approximation, and that Max Muller and General Cunningham have furnished very substantial evidence that Shakya Muni (Gautama Buddha) died at least as late as 477 B. C. J. W. Rhys Davids the leading authority in England on Buddhism, thinks that another probable error of 80 or 100 years has been discovered as regards this date, and that Gautama really died about 400 B. C. or a few years later, between 380 and 400 B. C. It is certain that 543 B. C. is erroneous; one or the other of the later dates is correct or nearly so. Buddhist festivals have therefore, been in vogue for 2,200 or 2,300 years.

The paragraph quoted reads as if the flight of the infant Krishna from the tyrant was a fact of history, an actual occurrence. Far from it. There is not a particle of authentic evidence that such a person as Krishna, or such individuals as his parents, Vasudeva and Devaki, or the tyrant king Kansa, ever lived. Everything that we are told of them was written from one thousand to twenty-five hundred years after the time they are supposed to have lived, and their whole lives constitute an almost unbroken series of supernatural occurrences. It is possible that a prince or hero called Krishna may have lived in the remote past in India, but if so we have nothing authentic of his history. The deeds attributed to him certainly never happened. Legend assigns him to a more or less prominent position in the great war of the Maha-Bharata, the date of which internecine contest, as nearly as can be determined, is in the neighborhood of 1,400 B. C. The narrative of this war in the Maha-Bharata is almost wholly mythical, and some Sanskritists think that the episodes and passages in which Krishna figures are all later additions to the poem, and that in the original poem he did not figure at all. The Maha-Bharata (that is, the Great [War of] Bharata) is the longest epic in the world, being fourteen times as long as the Iliad. This great work is a compilation of the work of centuries, dating from a few centuries before, to four or five centuries after Christ. Additions and revisions were made at various times in the interests of the Brahmanical priesthood; the Krishna legends were revamped and largely augmented, both in the Maha-Bharata and the subsequent Puranas.

To counteract Buddhism, the Brahmins popularized the Krishna worship, and deified and glorified the young hero, the popular sun-god, the Apollo of India. As Krishna is never mentioned in the Vedas, his fame and worship must have arisen after all the Vaidik hymns were written. Even in the later additions to the Vedas, the Brahmanas and Upanishads, he is scarcely alluded to. In the Brahmanas, the oldest of these writings, his name never appears, while in the Upanishads, which were the latest written of the appendages to the Vaidik hymns, Krishna is barely alluded to once or twice, and then not as a specially important person. The oldest Buddhist Sutras (Suttas), in naming the gods of the Brahmins, never mention Krishna. This proves that when those Sutras were written, two or three centuries before Christ, Krishna-worship was of no considerable extent. From that time on, however, the Krishna cult became strengthened, being manipulated by the Brahmins so as to win the people from Buddhism. In place of Buddha as an object of reverence and love, they set up Krishna, collecting and inventing legends concerning him to catch the popular fancy. Krishna was probably at first simply the god of the night, the personification of the dark or midnight sky, that is the night form of the sun-god, in contrast with Arjuna, the sun-god of the day. Krishna means, in Sanskrit, black or dark blue, and he is associated in the Maha-Bharata constantly with Arjuna. Arjuna at one time was identified with India, the god of the firmament. Krishna and Arjuna, then, personified, respectively, the dark or nocturnal sky and the light or noon-day firmament. It is therefore in my opinion, extremely doubtful, whether anything of a historical nature attaches to Krishna, his name and person being wholly mythical. As before remarked, it is barely possible that a person called Krishna, who acquired notoriety by some exploits, possibly of arms, may have lived; but if so we know nothing concerning him or his history. All that we have of Krishna is mythical and legendary.

The oldest narratives of Krishna are in the Maha-Bharata, but these relate solely to his manhood exploits. His birth, infancy, and juvenile feats are not found in that work. To supply this deficiency, a work called the Harivansha was written, giving an account of his lineage, birth, infancy and youth.

This work forms a supplement to the Maha-Bharata, though all copies of the Bharata do not contain it. The oldest record we have of the existence of the Harivansha dates from the seventh century after Christ. No trace of it can be found prior to that time. In the tenth or eleventh century the Vishnu Purana was written, book five of which contains a life of Krishna, from his birth to his death; and in the twelfth century appeared the Bhagavata Purana, books ten and eleven of which contain a more extended life of Krishna. This latter work is the text book of the Krishna worshipers to this day, and is the most popular of all the Hindu sacred books. It is often confounded with the Bhagavad Gita, a very different work, written in the third or fourth century after Christ, and now forming a part of the Maha-Barata. The Bhagavad Gita is a philosophical poem said to have been spoken by Krishna to Arjuna during the Bharata war, and contains none of the incidents of Krishna's life—is not at all biographical—though we constantly read statements made by uninformed persons that Krishna's life is contained in it. It is the Bhagavata Purana, written in the twelfth century, which contains the life of Krishna, and in this latter work are principally found the asserted parallels between Krishna and Christ.

No parallels with Christ are found in the Maha-Bharata, save on a few doctrinal points in the Bhagavad Gita, one of the later additions to the great epic. Many Sanskritists are of opinion that parts of the Bhagavad Gita were written under Christian influences, but not one of them, orthodox or heterodox, sanctions such a self-evident absurdity (to any one versed in Sanskrit literature and philosophy) or that any part of Christianity was derived from the Bhagavad Gita. A few persons, in dense ignorance of Sanskrit scholarship and literature have broached this nonsensical theory, but no true Sanskrit scholar could for a moment entertain so silly a supposition. M. Jaccoliot, in that miserable collection of lies and forgeries, the "Bible in India," pretends to quote at length narratives and passages from the Bhagavad Gita embodying the life and teachings of Krishna identical with those of Jesus, none of which can be found in the Bhagavad Gita. Jaccoliot claims to be a Sanskrit scholar, when in truth he does not know the Sanskrit alphabet. He says God is called Zeus in Sanskrit, when there is no letter "Z" in Sanskrit and no sound corresponding to it. Zeus is Greek, the Sanskrit form being Dyaus. (Sanskrit, Dyaush-pitar, "Heaven-Father;" Greek, Zeus-pater; Latin, Jupiter.) A few of the passages quoted by Jaccoliot as from the Gita are contained in the Bhagavata Purana, while most of his quotations, etc., are impudent forgeries, not to be found anywhere in Hindu literature, and manufactured in the nineteenth century, probably by Jaccoliot himself. A number of those forgeries have been copied by Kersey Graves in his "Sixteen Crucified Saviors," in connection with a number of others manufactured by Mr. Graves himself, as he scruples not to tell us in that work. Of the two or three hundred parallels between Krishna and Christ named by Mr. Graves, nearly every one is a forgery—not to be found in Hindu literature. A number of Jaccoliot's forgeries about Krishna have been published various times as genuine by D. M. Bennett in the Truth-seeker and in works published and written by him. Mr. Bennett invariably spelling the name Christna, though there is no such word in Sanskrit as Christna. Ch is never pronounced like k in Sanskrit, but always like ch in "church" in English. It is nonsense, then, to spell Krishna's name with a ch.

The oldest life of Krishna, that in the Harivansha, we have seen, was written several hundred years after the canonical and apochryphal Christian gospels, hence those gospels could not have borrowed from it. Besides, the Harivansha contains scarcely anything in it parallel with the life of Jesus in those gospels. I have carefully read the Harivansha, in order to determine this point, so I can speak knowingly and positively. The Vishnu Purana (eleventh century) I have also carefully studied. In it the legends of Krishna have become amplified, and a few partial parallels with Jesus may be found in it. The Bhagavata Purana (twelfth century) contains a still further amplification of the legends, and a larger number of the so-called parallels than the previous works.

The following will show the growth of legend in the Pauranik literature. In the earliest work, the Harivansha, no mention is made of the presence of angels at the birth of Krishna, and but little of a supernatural character marked his entrance into this world. In the Vishnu Purana, many marvelous phenomena are eloquently described as accompanying his birth; and in the Bhagavata Purana, the same with sundry embellishments, including the songs of attendant angels, are given. Again, in the Harivansha King Kansa does not order the destruction of all the male children when he finds that Krishna has escaped him. Not a word is said of any such massacre of children; but, instead, the day following Krishna's birth, Kansa visits the mother, and tells her she need fear nothing more from him, at the same time expressing regret for having killed her previous children. In the Vishnu Purana this visit of the king to Devaki the mother, and his penitence, are entirely omitted, and in its stead he summons a council of his daityas and orders that all young male children showing signs of unusual vigor be put to death. In the Bhagavata Purana, this slaughter is magnified so as to include all male children under two years of age—this latter agreeing closely with the Christian legend in Matthew.

In the light of these facts, how absurd to claim, as is often done, that, the Christian legend was borrowed from the Hindu. The Vishnu Purana, in which the story of the "slaughter of the innocents" first appears, was written nine hundred years after Matthew's gospel, and the Bhagavata Purana, in which the "two-year-old" account is found, was written a thousand years after Matthew; while in the oldest life of Krishna, the Harivansha, written five hundred years after Matthew, not the remotest allusion can be found to this story. The probability is that the Hindu legend is derived from the Christian, especially the later addition of the "two-year-old" clause.

In proof that the Christian version was taken from the Hindu, we often see it stated that a representation of Kansa destroying the children is sculptured in the Cave-temples of Elephanta, near Bombay, carved there long before the Christian era. This is a falsehood. The caves of Elephanta were excavated, at the earliest, the latter part of the eighth century after Christ, probably in the ninth or tenth century. Moreover, there is nothing in any way connected with Krishna in any part of these caves. They were dedicated to Shiva, (Siva), and all the sculptures in them relate to that god. The Shiva worshipers (Shaivas) and the Vishnu worshipers (Vaishnavas) were two antagonistic sects when these caves were excavated, and nothing pertaining to the special worship of Vishnu is found in them. Krishna is a god of the Vishnuites, (Vaishnavas), hence nothing pertaining to him could appear in a Shivaite temple. I have made a searching examination into the sculptures of Elephanta—have perused over a dozen descriptions of those sculptures and the scenes they represent, and examined closely the various volumes of plates representing the sculptures; and I find a general unanimity in all the accounts of the cave generally and of the particular group falsely asserted to represent Kansa killing the infants.

This group really represents Shiva, the destroyer, in his most terrific form as Vira Bhadra, in the act of destroying Daksha's sacrifice. Daksha, a son of Brahma, began a sacrifice to which Shiva was not invited, only the gods of the Veda being bidden thereto. All at once Shiva appeared as the terrible Vira Bhadra; he dispersed the gods and other attendants of the sacrifice, and seizing Daksha with one hand he cut off his head with another, while with a third he caught the spouting blood in a cup. In the Elephanta group Shiva has eight arms, three of which are occupied in killing Daksha—one holding him down, one wielding the drawn sword, and the third catching the blood; three other arms are broken off, and two are held up. Shiva's face is fearfully distorted with rage, long tusks project each side of his mouth, and a necklace of human heads passes over his left shoulder and thigh, returning by his right thigh. Around the central figures are the gods grouped in fear, and above are ten figures, two being children. These ten are seated in devotion around the Lingam or Phallus (the male generative organ) which is directly over the head of Shiva. The lingham is well known to be the distinctive emblem of the Shiva worshipers, and its presence in this group proves it to be a Shaiva sculpture, disconnected entirely with Krishna.

Out of the fact that a large ferocious figure was represented holding a drawn sword, with two children in the vicinity, was manufactured the ridiculous story that it was the tyrant Kansa killing the children in order to destroy the infant Krishna. (See Higgins' "Anaclypsis" for this and numerous other falsehoods). Higgins also transformed the god, stricken with fear at the terrible appearance of Shiva, into the parents of the children weeping for their dead offspring. The two living children adoring the lingam, were transformed into a host of dead children whose bodies were said to be strewn around the tyrant executioner. Notice that the following facts were suppressed in this false version; namely, the eight arms of Shiva; the necklace of heads, which of itself indicated the wearer to be Shiva, this being one of Shiva's most distinctive peculiarities; the lingham above the head of Shiva; and the fact that the figure was killing an adult instead of a child. All these facts proved that the group had no connection with Kansa and Krishna, and in order to bolster up a vile falsehood they were one and all concealed, suppressed. This contemptible lie is still being published in various free-thought works. C. B. Waite's recent "History of the Christian Religion" contains it, and a labored effort is made in that work to prove that the Jesus legends were borrowed from those of Krishna, the whole of which is false. Dr. Inman's "Ancient Faiths in Ancient Names" has it, with a picture of the crucifixion of Wittoba, (he means Vithoba), whom he identifies with Krishna. This crucifixion picture is another fabrication. Neither Krishna nor Vithoba was crucified. Kersey Graves' "Sixteen Crucified Saviors," one of the most unreliable books ever published, of course has it, with embellishments.

Emma Hardinge-Britten's "Faiths, Facts and Frauds" also contains it, with other errors, copied from Higgins, Dupuis, Graves, etc. Justice demands that these abominable lies be no longer circulated against Christianity, and the authors of these books ought to exclude all such falsehoods from future editions thereof. No one but a rogue and a liar will continue to circulate proven falsehoods, even in a good cause. We have plenty of good, substantial facts with which to oppose Christianity, without resorting to lies and demonstrated absurdities.

In opposition to the above facts, it may be objected that Sir William Jones asserted that in the Sanskrit Dictionary written over two thousand years ago the history of Krishna is contained, and that in several passages he asserted the priority of the Krishna legends to those of Jesus. These statements evidence the ignorance of Sir Wm. Jones of the real facts. When he wrote—in the infancy of Sanskrit researches—comparatively little was known of Sanskrit literature. He did excellent pioneer work, but it was only pioneer work. He led the way for other and greater minds to follow. His writings teem with blunders, owing to his imperfect knowledge of Sanskrit literature and philosophy. The dates he assigned to Hindu works were wide of the truth, often mere haphazard guesses. The "Institutes of Manu" (Manava-Dharma-Shastia) which he thought written 1,200 B. C., really dates from the third to the fifth century B. C.; and so of other works. He was almost entirely ignorant of the Vedas, the fountain-head of Hindu mythology, a knowledge of which is indispensable before one can form any just conception of Sanskrit literature and theology. His statements concerning Krishna are full of errors, worthless as authority. He actually speaks of the Bhagavad Gita as containing a full account of the life of Krishna, although nothing of the sort is found in it; and this despite the fact that an English translation was then published, this being, I think, the first Sanskrit work of which an English translation was published.

The Sanskrit Dictionary referred to by Jones is undoubtedly the Amara Kosha, written by Amara Sinha. This is the oldest Sanskrit Dictionary which has come down to us, and it was well known to Sanskritists in Sir Wm. Jones' time. No other Sanskrit Dictionary is known to this day older than the tenth century after Christ; so the famous Amara Kosha must have been meant by Jones. The author, Amara Sinha, is said to have been one of the "nine gems" or illustrious personages at the court of King Vikramaditya, the Solomon or Saladin of India. From insufficient data it was formerly thought that Vikramaditya lived B. C. 56, but this is now known to be a mistake. We have strong evidence that he lived as late as the fifth or sixth century after Christ, and perhaps later. Moreover, the book contains internal evidence that it must certainly have been written in the fifth century or later. It contains scientific data first introduced into India after A. D. 400. The best Sanskritists of to-day assign it to the fifth century, its earliest possible date. Besides the Amara Kosha does not contain a full life of Krishna. It contains very little, indeed, concerning him, and the asserted parallels with Christ are conspicuous by their absence. So much for Sir Wm. Jones' blunders and inaccuracies about Krishna.

There is no evidence, anywhere, in Sanskrit literature, that narratives embodying legends of Krishna parallel with those of Jesus, were in existence before the Christian era, or before the Christian gospels were written. I have carefully studied over three hundred volumes devoted to Sanskrit literature and theology; and not a vestige of such stories can I find till long after the birth of Jesus. Being a steadfast opponent of Christianity, I have not endeavored to find things favorable to that system—a system of thought I despise and have fought for nearly twenty-five years. I have sought for the truth, the facts, irrespective of what those facts are; and the truth, the facts, are as I have said. Christianity borrowed nothing from Krishnaism. This is beyond all reasonable doubt.

The quotation at the beginning of this article says that Krishna's parents "were warned to flee over the Jumna with their babe, and save it from the tyrant who made slaughter of the innocents in their little village." First, the parents did not live in a little village, but in the city of Mathura, the capital of Kansa's kingdom. Next, they were not warned to flee from the tyrant with their babe, nor did they flee from Mathura. Nothing of this can be found in Hindu literature. Krishna's mother, Devaki, was a cousin of King Kansa, and being warned that a child of Devaki would kill him, Kansa determined to destroy every child of hers at its birth. He confined her and her husband, Vasudeva in his palace at Mathura, and their first six children he killed at birth. The seventh, Balarama, was saved by being miraculously transferred from the womb of Devaki to that of Rohini, another wife of Vasudeva. The eighth was Krishna, and the night of his birth, the father, Vasudeva, took the infant (miraculously passing through the guards of his prison) and crossed the river Yamuna (now called Jumna) on which the city of Mathura stood. On the other bank, opposite the city, he found the cart of Nanda, a cowherd, whose wife had just been delivered of a daughter. An exchange of the children was made. Krishna was deposited by the side of the cowherdess, and he grew up as a cowherd, the son of Nanda. Vasudeva returned with the female infant to his wife's side in Mathura. The guards awaking, heard the child cry and reported the birth to Kansa. He came to the birth chamber at once and slew the infant. As it ascended to heaven it cried out to Kansa that he whom he sought to kill was still alive and would in due time destroy Kansa. On hearing this, according to the Harivansha, as before stated, Kansa shortly after visited the mother of Krishna and expressed his regret for his inhuman slaughter of her children. The Vishnu and Bhagavata Purana instead of this make Kansa at once order the destruction of all the male children.

From this we see no flight of the parents occurred or was thought of, and that instead of Krishna being carried into a distant country to save him from the tyrant, his father simply took him across the river Yamuna, returning at once to his home. In the Harivansha nothing is said of the father being told to do this by any one; it says he did so, "obedient to the paternal sentiment." But in the Puranas he is told to thus save the child by a supernatural visitant. Vasudeva therefore was not "warned" like Joseph; he had no need of being warned that the king intended to kill the infant. This he knew from the first, whereas Joseph knew nothing of the danger menacing the child Jesus till the angel "warned" him. It is plainly seen how striking the difference between the Krishna and Jesus legends, and how superficial the resemblance, aside from the destruction of the children in the Pauranic accounts. By exaggeration and misrepresentation, magnifying accidental resemblance and concealing marked differences, the two accounts in the hands of unscrupulous bigots like Higgins, Graves, Robert Taylor, etc., have been made to be almost identical. Such disgusting dishonesty and falsehood is sickening to all lovers of exact truth. Liberalism and Spiritualism are cursed with a number of just such tricky knaves, utterly disregarding truth in their unscrupulous partisanship. For such wretches I have supreme contempt.

Examining the quoted paragraph, on which this article is based, which, be it understood was written by an honorable, truthful gentleman, who was misled by the Krishna stories going the rounds of the press, we find the following statements in it to be untrue:

1. Krishna's parents did not reside in a "little village."
2. His parents were not warned to flee over the Jumna.
3. His parents did not fly from the tyrant.
4. The children were not slaughtered in the little village only but throughout the world—so run Kansa's orders.
5. The parents did not accompany the child in its escape from Kansa.

Higgins and others make much of the statement, that as the parents of Jesus escaped into a far country with the infant Jesus, so the parents of Krishna (Cristna, Higgins dishonestly calls him) escaped with their babe to a distant country; and that as the parents of Jesus lived in Egypt with their child, at a place called Maturea, so Krishna's parents lived in his youth, after escaping the tyrant, at a place called Mathurea. As we have seen, Krishna's parents did not flee to any country, far or near; neither was the babe conveyed to a distant country for protection. Moreover, Mathurea (that is Mathura) was not the place to which Krishna escaped, but the place from which he escaped. His parent's home was Mathurea, and there was he born. He did not live there in his youth, not having returned thither, after his birth, till he had reached manhood, when he came again to Mathura and killed King Kansa, as prophesied. The story of Jesus stopping at Maturea during the flight to Egypt is found only in the Arabic "Gospel of the Infancy," a book containing strong internal evidence that it was not written till some time between the seventh and twelfth centuries. The book was written when Arabic was "the familiar vehicle for literary composition," which did not occur till after the Muhammedan conquests in Asia and Africa. The name Matarea was unknown in Egypt till after the Muhammedan conquest of that country, A. D., 640. It is an Arabic word—in Arabic Matareeah—and the town was so named by the Arabs. The exact time when this name was given it, is not known, but no trace of it has been found till the time of Abulfeda (who died in 1331). He refers to it in his account of Egypt in his work, "Descriptions of the Countries," but all copies of this work do not contain the allusion to Matarea. The Nubian Geographer who wrote about A. D., 1150, mentions the Ain Shems (Fountain of the Sun) and the balsam which grew near the place, but has no allusion to the name of Matarea. No ancient copy of this Arabic gospel has been discovered, and the first allusion to it which has been identified is that of Solomon of Bassora, A. D., 1222. (See Cowper's "Apocryphal Gospels," pp. 26-29).

To make a seeming parallel, the names of the two places have been altered. The town in Egypt is Matareeah, pronounced Mah-tah-raj-yah, the Latin form is Matarea. This they have transformed into Maturea. The Hindu city is in Sanskrit, Mathurea (pronounced Mut-hoo-rah). This they changed into Mathurea, introducing a u in one and an e in the other, so as to make them almost identical in orthography. Mathura is now called Mutha and has a population at present of over 50,000. Matarea still exists in Egypt also. It is very near the site of the city of Heliopolis, or On, and is an object of interest to travelers owing to the legends of Jesus's infancy which have clustered around it.

It is thus seen that there is not the remotest connection between the two legends; they sprang up independent of each other, and it is only by gross distortion they can be made to appear somewhat parallel. Mathura is of much importance in the life of Krishna, being his birthplace and the scene of some of his manhood exploits; whereas Matareeah is of comparatively no importance in the life of Jesus. Both are names of bona-fide towns, one Arabic, one Sanskrit, and both are still inhabited at the present day. To claim that the Matarea legend was borrowed from the Mathura one is the wildest nonsense, emanating only from ignoramuses and knaves.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION.

More detailed information concerning the subject-matter of this essay can be found in the following works,—a very few only of the more important books consulted by me in my researches in Hindu literature and mythology: Langlois's French translation of the "Harivansha," 2 vols.; Wilson's translation of the "Vichu Purana," vols. 1, 4 and 5; Thomson's translation of the "Bhagavad Gita;" Halhed's translation of the tenth book of the "Bhagavata Purana," in 2d vol., of Maurice's "History of Hindoostan;" Jacob's translation of the "Vedantasara" (Introduction); Weber's "History of Indian Literature;" J. Talboya Wheeler's "History of India," vols. 1 and 3; Monier Williams's "Indian Wisdom" and "Indian Epic Poetry;" Muir's "Original Sanskrit Texts," vols. 4 and 5; Colebrooke's "Miscellaneous Essays," vol. 2; Max Muller's "Origin and Growth of Religions;" India; T. W. Rhya David's "Buddhism;" Cowper's "Apocryphal Gospels;" Robson's "Hinduism and Christianity" (orthodox); Harwick's "Christ and other Master's" (orthodox).

For fuller information concerning the cave-temples of Elephanta, the reader is referred to Fergusson's "Rock-cut Temples of India," "Indian and Eastern Architecture," and "Handbook of Architecture;" Jas. Burgess's "Caves of Elephanta;" Murray's "Handbook of India;" Heeren's "Historical Researches," vol. 2; Rousselet's "India and its Native Princes;" Niebuhr's "Travels," vol. 2; Martin's "Indian Empire," vol. 3; Forbes's "Oriental Memoirs," last edition, vol. 2; Heber's "Travels in India," vol. 1; Goldingham's description in "Asiatic Researches," vol. 4; Encyclopædia Britannica," 9th ed., articles Architecture and Elephanta; Chamber's Cy-clopedias, and Appleton's Cyclopedias, last editions, article "Elephanta."

In addition to the narratives of Krishna's exploits contained in the books named above, other Hindu books contain similar legends, all based upon those in the books I have named. The "Brahma Purana" contains a life of Krishna word for word the same as that in the "Vishnu Purana;" the "Brahma Vaivarta Purana" has an account of Krishna based on the Vishnu and Bhagavata Puranas; the Agni Purana contains details of Krishna's manhood exploits, founded on the "Maha-Bharata;" the Padma Purana has somewhat elaborate narratives of his juvenilities, and the other Puranas embody incidents here and there in Krishna's life. The "Gita Govinda" (that is "The Song of Govinda," the cowherd, a name applied to the youthful Krishna, his adopted parents being cowherds), is a voluptuous narrative of the loves of young Krishna and the Gopis, or cowherdesses and milkmaids, and is the favorite book of the modern Hindu sect, who specially adore the youthful Krishna. An excellent English translation of this exquisite love-tale has been recently published by Edwin Arnold, author of "The Light of Asia." None of these books, however, contain anything not founded on the narratives of the four books referred to in the body of this essay, namely, the "Maha-Bharata," "Harivansha," "Vishnu Purana," and Bhagavata Purana." These constitute the fountain head of all our information concerning the life of the mythical Krishna.

Presidio of San. Francisco, Cal.

Conference Minutes.

CALIFORNIA NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Oakland, October 6th, 1883. Elder D. J. Phillips temporary president, G. S. Lincoln assistant. T. J. Andrews temporary secretary.

H. P. Brown, High Priest, reported.

Elders' Reports.—D. J. Phillips as president of the district, and G. S. Lincoln assistant, reported. Also Owen Dinsdale, James Steel, Albert Haws, Samuel B. Robinson, T. J. Andrews, Richard Ferris, William Hart, Wm. McClean, and Wm. Anderson. Thomas Daly reported by letter.

High Priest, H. P. Brown was chosen president of district.

Resolved, That H. P. Brown have the privilege of choosing his own vice-president, with the approval of conference.

Elder G. S. Lincoln selected as vice-president.

Resolved, That T. J. Andrews be continued secretary of the district.

Priests John Nightingale, Andrew Anderson, and Charles Parkin, reported.

Bishop's Agent's Report.—Kirtland Temple

Fund, Total amount received to date $400.35. Remitted $380.35. Balance on hand $20.

Church Fund.—Received $355.10. Disbursements, $228.70. Balance, $126.40.

Resolved, That we adopt the following order of business as a standing course to be pursued hereafter in the discharge of our conference business: 1. Opening with singing and prayer. 2. Election of temporary officers. 3. Nomination for permanent officers. 4. Election of permanent officers. 5. Reading minutes of last meeting and action thereon. 6. Communications from First Presidency, Bishopric, Secretary of Church, etc. 7. Appointing committees. 8. Reports of branches. 9. Reports of officers of district, (President, vice-president, secretary, Bishop's Agent). 10. Reports of Elders, (what they have done in last six months only). 11. Reports of Priests, (for last six months). 12. Reports of Teachers, (for last six months). 13. Reports of Deacons, (for last six months). 14. Reports of sickness and requests for prayers. 15. New business. 16. Miscellaneous business. 17. Reports of committees. 18. Reading and approving of minutes for publication. 19. Adjournment.

Branch Reports.—San Francisco 35, including 4 Elders, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, and 2 Deacons, 4 baptized, 1 received on former membership, 2 received by letter. Sacramento 66, including 1 High Priest, 7 Elders, 1 Priest, 2 Deacons, 1 baptized, 1 received by letter, 2 died. Oakland 93, including 10 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher, 3 Deacons, 10 baptized, 2 received by letter, 4 removed by letter.

Resolved, That this conference uphold all the Church authorities in righteousness.

Resolved, That this conference adjourn to meet in San Francisco, on Friday, in the second week of March, 1884.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA DISTRICT.

Conference was held at Watsonville Branch, Santa Cruz Co., California, October 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th, 1883. Bro. J. H. Lawn president, and J. F. Kingsbury secretary.

Branch Reports.—Watsonville 42, including 1 Elder, 2 Priests, 4 Teachers, 3 removed by letter, 1 died, 1 marriage. San Benito 33, including 3 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher. Jefferson 18, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher.

Elders' Reports.—J. H. Lawn, J. M. Range, R. Smith, D. Brown, H. L. Holt, (of the Southern California District), and J. Carmichael; Priests J. Twichel and J. F. Kingsbury; Teachers L. E. Hutchings, J. F. Young, R. Smith and J. More, reported.

Financial report, D. Brown treasurer. Received during last six months, $39.85. Paid out $14.60. Balance on hand $25.25.

Bro. J. H. Lawn sustained as president, J. M. Range as vice-president, for the next six months, or until next conference. J. F. Kingsbury elected as secretary.

Resolved, That Bro. D. Brown be recommended to the Bishop as his agent for the Central California District.

Resolved, That hereafter this conference do not accept any branch reports unless written upon the printed blanks furnished by the church for that purpose.

Resolved, That we call upon all the officers of the district to do all they can for the advancement of the work in the district.

Resolved, That we do sustain all the authorities of the Church in righteousness.

Preaching Friday evening by J. H. Lawn. Saturday evening by H. L. Holt. Sunday 9 a.m. prayer and testimony; 11 a. m. preaching by J. Carmichael; 2 p. m. sacrament; 7:30 p. m. preaching by H. L. Holt.

During the conference, an excellent spirit brooded over all its sessions. Two souls were added to the kingdom.

Adjourned to meet at the Jefferson Branch, on the first Friday of April, 1884, 10 a. m.

EASTERN MAINE DISTRICT.

Conference was held at Addison Point, September 15th and 16th, 1883. Joseph Lakeman president, J. L. Walker clerk.

Visiting brethren invited to take part in our deliberations. Elders Joseph Lakeman, E. L. Kelley, John Benner, Emery C. Foss, Josiah D. Steel, Samuel O. Foss, Aaron W. Kelley, F. M. Sheehy, reported. Priests John Huntley, J. S. Walker, reported. Teacher J. Huntley, reported. Deacons G. Bryant and E. Ackley reported.

Sea Side Branch report referred back to branch.

In order that the district and different branches be placed in an efficient and orderly condition, Resolved that the president of the district and F. M. Sheehy, together with Elder Z. H. Gurley, when he arrives in the district, be authorized and invited in their labors in the district, to act as a special committee, or committees, to labor in branches out of order, and right the same; and that to accomplish this they be empowered and instructed to call to their aid the local Elders, and other officials when necessary; and that we recommend due and diligent labor in all cases, as provided by the law of God, before final action.

Resolved, That this committee be requested to report their action and recommendations to the next district conference, as a committee, or individually, as may be expedient, for ratification.

Resolved, That the action of the May Branch, in accepting the resignation of Priest William Gray, be ratified.

Sustained Joseph Lakeman president of district, and J. S. Walker clerk.

Preaching by Elders E. L. Kelley Saturday evening and Sunday morning; F. M. Sheehy Sunday 2 p. m.; Joseph Lakeman Sunday evening.

Adjourned to meet with Indian River Branch, 8th and 9th of December, 1883.

Miscellaneous.

REPORT OF THE NEBRASKA CITY BUILDING COMMITTEE.

TO THE NEBRASKA CITY BRANCH, Greeting: We the undersigned, by you duly appointed as a committee on the purchase of the church building, respectfully report: That we have successfully completed the duties imposed upon us, and in thus rendering our final report, permit your committee to return their thanks to all those who with kind and cheerful word, gave us encouragement; also to all those who so nobly and with good will, liberally contributed of their means unto the accomplishment of our mutual hope and labor. We further congratulate you in the bonds of everlasting peace, and "good will to man," upon the unity, harmony, and self-sacrificing spirit exhibited in the report of oblations hereunto attached, and made a part of this report, to-wit:

Bldng.fund bal. $ 9 10 Paul C. Peterson $15 00
R. Meredith, sen. 18 00 Mads P. Thomson 30 00
Anna K. Nielson 36 00 Eliza Slocum . . . 36 00
Chris. Moselle . . . 2 00 H. H. Jaspersen . 30 00
James Perrin . . . 50 00 Knud Johnson . . . 40 00
J. W. Waldsmith 60 00 P. G. Beargsteen 50 00
Niels Nielsen . . . 60 00 Alex. Buchanan . 13 00
Cornelius Meyer 25 00 John L. Tempest . 10 00
Edwin R. Briggs 10 00 S Campbell, Sen. 17 00
Frank L. Faunce 14 00 Niels H. Jensen . 30 00
Nicholas Nelson . 3 00 Mary Nelson . . . 5 00
Hannah Fuller . 15 00 J. E. Anderson . 13 00
Sarah Kemp . . . . 5 00 Robt. M. Elvin . 20 00
C. A. Headland . 16 90 Joseph Dubiez . . 40 00
C. P. Nelson . . . 15 00 Sarah Mathers . . 6 50
H. Thornton . . . 0 50 Martin Cain . . . 0 50
S. A. Rogers . . . 5 50 J. Armstrong . . . 6 00
Karen Dahl . . . . 20 00 Jos. Tempest . . . 10 00
John G. Moselle . 20 00 L. Waldsmith . . 10 00
N. Troom . . . . . 0 50 Martha Elvin, Sr. 15 00
Reb. Chatterton . 4 00 Niels W. Nielson 25 00
Martha A. Kemp 5 00 Sarah J. Kemp . . 5 00
A. B. Cochrine . . 5 00 D. Armstrong . . 0 50
W. G. Coulson . . 5 00 Jesse Ervin . . . 2 00
H. D. Foott . . . . 2 00 Eliz. Forscutt . . 10 00

Total . . . . . $846 00

We have to state that the making, acknowledging and recording of the Deed, were done gratuitously. We extended to Brethren Joseph Smith of Lamoni, Iowa, and Mark H. Forscutt of St. Joseph, Mo., an invitation to have charge of and conduct the whole service of dedication. These brethren accepted the invitation, and carried out the work required at their hands, Sabbath, September 30th, 1883, without a jar, and with perfect satisfaction to all. We deposited the Deed in the hands of Bishop G. A. Blakeslee.

We have expended on the purchase of the building . . . . . $842 50
Sundries . . . . . 6 65
Repairing church . . . . . 130 65
Insurance for three years . . . . . 24 00
Dedication . . . . . 38 00

Total . . . . . $1,041 80
Moneys received . . . . . 993 90

Balance due committee . . . . $47 90

We respectfully request that the branch, by committee, audit this report, release us, and provide for the prompt payment of the amount still unpaid. And now in this our final report, we cheerfully bid you God speed, and may the branch enjoy a long and peaceful occupancy of this house, that you may increase and flourish, as an accepted and an abiding place of the Holy Spirit, until Zion is fully redeemed and established, and Christ our Lord hath come, and shall say, "Well done, good and faithful servants."

Yours in the covenant,

J. W. WALDSMITH,
ROBT. M. ELVIN.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Oct. 3th, 1883.

PITTSBURG DISTRICT.

Conference will convene on the first Saturday in December, and continue over Sunday, in Benwood Branch, near Wheeling, W. Va. We request the Sugar Creek and West Wheeling Branches to report to conference, which they have failed to do in the past. It is desired that all the Saints should make an effort to be in attendance, as there is business of vast importance to be transacted.

G. T. GRIFFITHS, Dist. Pres.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 23d, 1883.

INDEPENDENCE DISTRICT.

The following two days' meetings will be held in the above district; Kansas City, November 24th and 25th; Independence, December 15th and 16th; Armstrong, January 12th and 13th, 1884; Clear Fork, or Montserrat, February 9th and 10th; Wyandott, February 16th and 17th. Meetings to commence on Saturdays at half-past ten o'clock a. m.

C. G. LANPHEAR, Dist. Pres.

REPORT OF REUNION MEETING COMMITTEE.

As requested, I respectfully report as follows: Salem, Spring Creek, and Six Mile Grove branches met at Salem branch to appoint a committee to attend to getting hay and wood, and to prepare grounds, &c. The following named were appointed said committee: David Hall, Wm. Bullard, D. Brewster, Joseph Seddon, of Salem Branch; Alma Ellison, Lehi Ellison, of Six Mile Grove; Wm. Chambers, D. Chambers, of Spring Creek Branch; Samuel Diggie, of Unionburg Branch. After some discussion by the brethren as regards boarding house, stands, swing, &c., the committee adjourned to meet at Spring Creek Branch.

As per adjournment, the committee from the several branches was present. D. Chambers was chosen chairman. The following named brethren were appointed to their several duties as follows: Joseph Seddon, David Hall, committee on hay; Samuel Diggie, Lehi Ellison, committee on wood; D. Brewster, Wm. Bullard, J. Seddon, committee on grounds; Wm. Chambers, D. Chambers, committee on reception. The committee appointed the time when they should meet and clear off grounds. On the day appointed there was quite a large number assembled, brethren and friends, and in a few hours the grounds were cleared. The committee appointed a day for hauling lumber and seating grounds, and the brethren and friends responded to the call cheerfully. The committee on wood and hay did their part in soliciting wood and hay, and furnishing the same free. About thirty loads of hay and straw, and twenty loads of wood were donated. The object and desire of said committee was, that the Saints and friends attending said meeting should meet with as little expense as possible; and also to carry out instructions of former committee as regards stands, swings, &c. The committee met on ground, and appointed Wm. Chambers treasurer, and to solicit means privately to defray expenses.

We wish to make honorable mention of Mr. Gus. Albertus, lumber merchant of Persia, for furnishing lumber for speaker's stand, free, and also planks for seats. The damage to the same was considerable. Also Mr. McFarlane, of Persia, furnished planks free. Also Mr. Doorham, of Portsmouth, furnished planks free.

The treasurer's report received as per names attached, and sent to Bishop. Collected by subscription $29.27; collected from Wm. Bullard for stand $10; Joseph Seddon collected for stand $46; total $85.27. Expended as follows: By cash to Mr. Madden for seven and one half days of labor in charge of hay, $7.50; digging well, $7.94; oil and gas, $2.10; lumber, nails, &c., $3.75; expressage on lamps, 50 cents; expenses of check to Bishop, 25 cents; total, $22.04. Balance on hand $63.23. On motion of committee, the balance on hand was donated towards repairing the Kirtland Temple.

Respectfully,
D. CHAMBERS, Chairman.

DIED.

Foss.—At Little Kennebec, Maine, October 7th, 1883, of dropsy, Bro. Charles Foss, aged 77 years. Baptized by Elder Thomas W. Smith, April 18th, 1869. Funeral services by Elder Aaron W. Kelley.

SEGRIST.—At Providence, R. I., October 20th, 1883, Sr. Emily Segrist, aged 40 years. Funeral services by Elder John Smith, followed by Bro. Arnold in the German language. She died in the faith.

HOOKS.—In Hamilton township, Harrison county, Missouri, October 8th, 1883, of spinal disease, Robert, child of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hooks, aged 2 years lacking 14 days. Funeral sermon by Elder Henry A. Stebbins.

WHEELER.—At Union Fort, Salt Lake county, Utah, September 10th, 1883, Sr. Lucy E. Wheeler, better known as Aunt Lucy, aged 73 years, 5 months and 7 days. She was an invalid for many years. She united with the Reorganized Church, and was baptized by Elder E. C. Brand, July 6th, 1870. Lived a faithful member until her death, when she quietly fell asleep in Jesus.

WANTED

A man accustomed to Farm Work, and taking care of Stock and Milking Cows. Good wages and steady employment for a good, faithful hand. A member of the church preferred. Address:

DANIEL JONES,
Webster P. O., Dodge Co., Neb.

S. G. MAYO, REAL ESTATE AGENT,
West Lexington street, Independence, Mo.,
Collects Rents, Pays Taxes for non-residents, Buys and Sells Real Estate, has a large list of Farm and City Property in Jackson county for sale, cheap, on easy terms.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

A three run Custom and Merchant Mill; one stone on Wheat, one on Middlings, and one on Corn, with all the necessary machinery; and also a Saw Mill attached, driven by a 35 Horse Power Engine. Mill building 40x60 feet, four stories high. Also 80 Acres of Land with the mill.

The above property is situated on Little Blue, eight miles north east of Independence, Mo., in a good wheat country; fuel cheap. This is one of the best opportunities offered, for one desirous of buying.

For particulars, call on or address J. P. JOHNSON, Blue Mills; or SMITH & BRACKENBURY, 8sep3m Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

F. C. WARNKY,
REAL ESTATE AGENT,
Collects Rents and Pays Taxes for non-residents; Buys and Sells Real Estate. Has a large list of Farms and City Property in Jackson County for sale cheap on easy terms.
WEST LEXINGTON STREET,
12may6m INDEPENDENCE, MO.

ALEX. H. SMITH. J. W. BRACKENBURY.
SMITH & BRACKENBURY,
REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
Independence, Jackson Co., Missouri.

Rents and Taxes a Specialty. All communications, with stamps accompanying, will receive prompt attention.
19mar6m

MASON & HAMLIN Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

Sample Free of the American Sad Iron Heater. Its merits are seen at a glance. It saves money, as only one half the fuel is required to heat the Irons. Every house keeper will buy one at sight. Brothers and Sisters who are out of work, now is your time to engage in Profitable Employment. One SAMPLE HEATER prepaid, only $1; sells from $1 to $1.60, according to locality; weight but 20 ounces each.

Half doz. $3.50, one doz. $6.50. We prepay charges on Sample Heaters only. If you prefer to sell something for a higher price and make a larger profit, try our

NEW SELF-ADJUSTING BED SPRING.

It weighs but 10 lbs. and occupies less than one cubic foot when packed. No Harbor for Bugs and is warranted to be one of the most durable and comfortable Springs in the market. SAMPLE SPRING sent upon receipt of $2. Sells for from $3.50 to $8, according to locality.

Half dozen, $10; one dozen, $18. We do not promise you big wages and no work; but you will make money according to the energy you devote to the business. It is enough to say, we have Brothers and Sisters in all parts of the United States and Canada who are doing well selling our goods. If after two weeks' trial, goods are not satisfactory, and all we claim for them, return them and we will refund your money. We send one of our Heaters or Springs free with your first order for half dozen or more of either article, thus giving you a Sample Free. Yours in Bonds,
JOHNS & ORDWAY, Mfgs, Peoria, Ill.

2jan

FARM FOR SALE.

A farm of Eighty acres all under fence, fine improvements, plenty of stock water, good range adjoining, six and one half miles south and east of Lamoni, in Iowa.

T. C. JACKSON, Davis City; or
J. SMITH, Lamoni, Iowa.

8sep2m

FARM FOR SALE.

A farm for sale in Decatur county, situated 6 1/2 miles south-east of Lamoni, consisting of 140 acres, fenced in two fields, with house and well and small orchard on each lot; the 40 acre lot is timothy, the 100 acre lot is plow land. Apply by letter to Andover, Harrison Co., Missouri, or on the premises to
I. N. DELONG.

1sep

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent,
Lamoni, Iowa.

25aug

BUTLER & CLAY,
Manufacturers of
COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,
WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,
903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.
Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 5 1/2 to 4 1/2 in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.
Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.
Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 35
Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,
BUTLER & CLAY.

22sep6m

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - EDITOR.
Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.
All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD

202883
EE Johnson
box 484

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAve IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 549.

Lamoni, Iowa, November 17th, 1883.

No. 46.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

DANIEL F. LAMBERT, ASSOCIATE.

Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 19th, 1883.

THE HOW OF IT.

WE deem it proper that the Saints, especially the Elders, should be acquainted with the following statement of Edward Hunter, Bishop of the Utah Mormon Church, read at the services over his dead body at the Assembly Hall, Salt Lake City, Utah, October 22d, 1883.

Pres. Joseph F. Smith announced the reading of Bishop Hunter's last testimony, the full text of which, as here appended, was read to the congregation by Elder L. John Nuttall.

1. To whom it may Concern:—Before I am summoned hence I desire to make a voluntary statement in reference to a principle believed in and practiced by the members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, which has created so much adverse criticism throughout the world.

2. I was born in Newtown Township, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, June 22d, 1793, and am now in my 91st year. I joined the "Mormon" Church, as it is called by its opponents, in the year 1840, and leaving my native state, with my family, reached Nauvoo, Illinois, then the chief city of the Saints, in 1842. Ever since then I have been intimately identified with the Church in all its movements, and have held most intimate personal and official relations with its leading men from that time to the present. President Joseph Smith, the great Prophet and Seer, was one of my warmest personal friends, and in proof that that friendship was reciprocal, I need but state that he selected me for his herald and armour bearer, to which dual office I was duly commissioned by Thomas Carlin and Lyman Trumbull, then Governor and Secretary of the State of Illinois. And at divers times, when mobocrats sought his life, he found refuge in my house.

3. That this great and good man both taught and practiced the Celestial and Eternal order of marriage before and up to the time of his martyrdom, no one who shared his confidence will deny. That the primary object in establishing these sacred relations between the sexes is to promote the existence of a larger number of children, which the Psalmist says, "are an heritage of the Lord," and the physical, mental and moral development and-growth of a higher and nobler type of man and womanhood, by a stricter observance of the laws which should govern sexual and parental relations; all who listened to his and his brother Hyrum's teachings on this vital subject, can attest without reserve.

4. That in extending to all* redundant unmarried women the inestimable privilege of becoming honored wives and loving mothers, and in this honorable, mutually agreeable and voluntary manner, utilize a superabundant, God given element, a large per centum of which might fall victims to the moloch of lust, whose sacrificial altars are found in almost every hamlet, town and city of Christendom; he knew that he was obeying God's most imperative command in introducing a system of social and moral ethics which would bring untold benefits to countless numbers of born and unborn daughters of Eve, who, with their offspring, in time, would rise up and bless his name and memory.

5. Under the influence which such aims and sentiments inspired in me, and with a knowledge that the principle was of heavenly birth, in the fall of the year, 1844, Laura Lovina Shimer was sealed to me, by the late President Brigham Young, in the house of the late President Geo. A. Smith, at Nauvoo, Ill., who, at the time, was from home, but whose wife Bathsheba W. Smith (now residing in this city) was an eye witness. About one year later Susanna Wann was also sealed to me in my house in the same city, by the late President Heber C. Kimball, in the presence of my wife, Ann Hunter, with whom I had been joined in wedlock in Pennsylvania, our native State. This doctrine was taught to my family by some of the wives of Joseph Smith, by the late Orson Spencer, of cherished memory, and by others whose opportunities for learning such principles from the Divine fountain were never questioned.

6. Now in my ripened years, with the love of God in my heart and His fear before my eyes, I solemnly testify that the principle of Celestial marriage, when practiced under the direction of His Holy Spirit, by the people for whom it was revealed from heaven, in the due time of the Lord, will bring to the human race all the happiness and bliss its most devoted advocates have ever claimed it would.

7. I further testify that our martyred Prophet Joseph Smith, was a faithful and Divinely commissioned servant of God, and that Brigham Young and John Taylor are his legal and lawful successors in the high office of chief Presiding Apostle; and that the general religious and social work in which these earnest men and their colleagues have been and are engaged is of heavenly origin foreordained of God to be wrought in this "dispensation of the fulness of times," and in conclusion I call upon all men to repent of their sins, and in humility call upon God in the name of Jesus, and then have their sins washed away by baptism, and I promise them that their eyes will be opened and that they will see eye to eye with me respecting the eternal truths of the gospel revealed to Joseph Smith for the salvation, redemption and exaltation of all the family of Adam and Eve, except the "sons of perdition."

8. This is my testimony which I bear in a spirit of great meekness and of sobriety and solemnity of mind, and in the presence of attesting witnesses, at Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, this first day of September, A. D., 1883, even so amen. (Signed) EDWD. HUNTER, Presiding Bishop of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in all the world.

Signed in the presence of Joseph C. Kingsbury and A. Milton Musser.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this first (1st) [SEAL] day of September, A. D., 1883.

JOS. F. SIMMONS,

Notary Public, Salt Lake Co., U. T.

We give a few reasons why we deem it proper to lay this before the Elders. They may in the course of the controversy of words with those whom they meet, have the statements of Bishop Hunter presented as proof that Joseph Smith taught and practiced polygamy. If the elders of the Utah Church should ever attempt to so use this document, it will be an excellent thing to have it at hand, or in memory, that we may discuss it with knowledge of its contents. Before accepting the statements made, as conclusive, subject it to examination on the following points.

1. The language and style of the affidavit are not those of a man like Bishop Hunter, "plain, blunt, truthful," as he is described.

2. It bears the marks of having been written by another than the man who signed it.

3. It was presented and read at the funeral under the supervision of Joseph F. Smith, himself a polygamist and one of its most ardent and radical supporters.

4. It is evident that the obtaining and reading of the affidavit were for the purpose of creating the impression that Bishop Hunter's age and apparent intimacy with Joseph Smith would give great weight to what he should state; and warrant the inference that he "spoke by the card," and of his own knowledge.

5. The term of his acquaintance with Joseph Smith lasted only from sometime in 1842 to June 27th, 1844, about two years.

6. Paragraphs 3 and 4 are an argument only, a thing not permissible in affidavits; and not allowed in testimony, oral, or written. Wherever it occurs in testimony it is taken to the discredit of the witness, as witnesses are not permitted to "swear to conclusions."

7. The efforts to implicate Joseph Smith are found in the first sentence of paragraph three and in the second clause of paragraph four. In the first of these the evident intention is to convey the idea that the Seer did teach plural marriage; but the affiant does not so state, but refers to those who shared Joseph Smith's confidence as those who can safely testify. The same kind of an affirmation respecting Joseph and Hyrum Smith is made in the close of the third paragraph; but no statement that Joseph, or Hyrum taught or practiced that celestial principle is made by this dying deponent.

8. Bishop Hunter was not married, (or sealed), in plural marriage, by Joseph, or Hyrum, nor during their lifetime; but after their death, and then by Brigham Young.

9. The statement in the fifth paragraph that the doctrine (meaning celestial marriage) was taught to the family of Bishop Hunter, by some of the wives of Joseph Smith, is an implication of Joseph Smith, by assuming to testify for third parties, unwarranted by any proper procedure known in law, or common fair dealing; hearsay evidence being always inadmissible.

10. The statement in paragraph eight that the affiant testifies in "great meekness, and of sobriety, and solemnity of mind," smacks more of the cunning of some one bent on having the old man's testimony to bolster up a tottering fabric, than of the simple statement of a modest man, uninfluenced by others.

In contemplating this remarkable document we can scarcely help the conviction that it was fixed up and the signature of the dying chieftain secured to it by some designing apostle of plural marriage, with the intent that the long ninety years of his life, his services among the people should mislead the minds of those who should hear, or read the affidavit, that he was testifying as they would be glad to have had him.

The following indicates the view of this very peculiar document, and the method of its presentation likely to prevail among thinkers.

The Salt Lake Chronicle scouts the idea that the extraordinary statement, purporting to have been made by the late Presiding Bishop Hunter respecting revelations, was his own voluntary production. In commencing a lengthy editorial upon the subject it says: "The hand that signed the remarkable paper which, with characteristic mockery, was injected into the solemnities of a funeral exercise, might have been the trembling hand of Edward Hunter, but the heart that conceived and dictated it, and the pen that wrote it, in the judgment of all candid men, must have belonged to some other than he." We opine the Chronicle's view of the document's authorship is correct. It was probably indited by the Mormon leaders, and submitted to Bishop Hunter, merely for the effect a testimony from a man of his age and character would have upon the adherents of the church and the public.—Salt Lake Tribune.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ERRATUM.—In Bishop Blakeslee's report of Temple funds received, for "Wm. Budman" read Wm. Anderson, Cal.

Bro. Benjamin Decker, of Plattsmouth, Cass county, Nebraska, wants to find his brother, Z. T. Decker, and asks that any one who knows him or his whereabouts will write him as above.

Bro. E. C. Brown, Fonda, Iowa, wrote, in regard to the L. O. Littlefield correspondence, "Your last letter to L. O. is clinching the nail completely. It is no wonder that the Utah papers would not publish it."

The fourth letter of Pres. Joseph Smith in reply to Elder L. O. Littlefield, on the subject of polygamy, will be sent to the subscribers of the Advocate in supplement to that paper. It will also be sent to various persons in Utah, Idaho and Montana, for distribution, as directed by Bro. W. W. Blair.

Bro. Wm. Rumel writes from Omaha, Nebraska, November 6th, that the prospects in the district are very good. Bro. James Caffall was to preach in Omaha the evening that Bro. Rumel wrote.

WE have often wondered what the lawyers' "highest authority" was; but the following joke on Benjamin F. Butler, now Governor of Massachusetts, would seem to indicate it, open of course to objections.

Gen. Butler was once engaged as counsel for the defendant in a case where the prisoner was accused of manslaughter, and in the course of his argument, based on the assumption of self-defense, he informed the jury that "we have it on the highest authority that all that a man hath he will give for his life." Judge Hoar, counsel on the other side, rose and demolished his opponent's argument by quickly saying that he had "long wondered what Gen. Butler considered the highest authority, and was very glad to have the question settled," and proceeded to read to the court from the book of Job: "And Satan answered the Lord and said, All that a man hath will he give for his life."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. Joseph Lakeman, of Grand Manan, wrote October 30th.

Our hearts have been cheered by the presence, and wise counsels of brethren Gurley, Sheehy and Gilbert, and the doctrine taught by them, was almost universally endorsed.

Bro. H. C. Bronson writes from Kewanee, Illinois, November 1st.

Bro. M. T. Short and I open up the battle for truth to-morrow night in Galva and will continue as long as the interest demands and then to other fields. The branch in Kewanee prospers nicely; peace and union seem to prevail.

A correspondent of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Republican, wrote that paper from Rhoades, as follows:

Your notice of two Mormon preachers should be modified. Those men live here; one of them belongs to the firm of White Bros., the largest general store in town: the other is a traveling minister, and a gentleman. Neither are they what is known as Mormon, they are of the reorganized church of Latter Day Saints not polygamists. They number about sixty or seventy here, and are nice people.

I speak this for their benefit, for they have not been treated well by their opponents.

The Republican makes the following explanation and apology:

If the Republican has at any time done these worthy people the grave injustice of classing them with the polygamous Mormons of Utah, it has done so under a misapprehension.

It is an easy thing to see that there is strange truth in the saying that "Men will believe a lie sooner than the truth." The statements of Isaac Hale, father-in-law to Joseph Smith, the Martyr, have been quoted, time and again, adversely to the character of his son-in-law. The affidavit of Isaac Hale has been lately revived in several newspapers, a clipping from one of them, the Cincinnati Enquirer, has been sent us. We print it below. There is not a line in it, which if viewed rationally and charitably, that proves Joseph Smith to have been awfully bad.

WHAT HIS FATHER-IN-LAW THOUGHT OF HIM.

After Smith had started the Mormon Church, and while he was at Kirtland, in Ohio, a gentleman named Hurlburt, who lived near there, wrote to Joe's father-in-law to find out what he knew about him and his character. Here is an excerpt from the statement that Mr. Hale swore to before Squire Denion, March 20th, 1834. The good character and standing of Mr. Hale were attested the next day by Judge Wm. Thompson and D. Demock. Said Mr. Hale: "I first became acquainted with Joseph Smith, jun., in November, 1825. He was at that time in the employ of a set of men who were termed 'money-diggers,' and his occupation was that of seeing, or pretending to see, by means of a stone placed in his hat, and his hat closed over his face. In this way he pretended to discover minerals and hidden treasure. His appearance at this time was that of a careless young man, not very well educated, and very saucy and insolent to his father. Smith and his father, with several other money-diggers, boarded at my house while they were employed in digging for a mine they had supposed had been opened and worked by the Spaniards many years before. Young Smith gave the money-diggers great encouragement at first, but, when they had arrived in digging to near the place he had stated an immense treasure would be found, he said the enchantment was so powerful he could not see. They then became discouraged, and soon after dispersed. This took place about the 17th of November, 1825.

"After these occurrences young Smith made several visits to my house, and at length asked my consent to his marrying my daughter Emma. This I refused, and gave him my reasons for so doing, some of which were that he was a stranger, and following a business that I could not approve. He then left the place. Not long after this he returned, and, while I was absent from home, carried off my daughter into the State of New York, where they were married (February, 1826) without my approbation or consent. After they had arrived at Palmyra, N. Y., Emma wrote to me inquiring whether she could have her property, consisting of clothing, furniture, cows, &c. I replied that her property was safe, and at her disposal. In a short time they returned, and subsequently came to the conclusion that they would move out and reside on a place near my residence. Smith stated that he had given up what he called 'glass-looking,' and that he expected and was willing to work hard for a living. He made arrangements with my son, Alva Hale, to go to Palmyra and move his (Smith's) furniture to this place. He then returned to Palmyra, and soon after Alva, agreeably to the arrangement, went up and returned with Smith and his family.

"Soon after this I was informed they had brought a wonderful book of plates with them. I was shown a box in which it was said they were contained, which had to all appearances been used as a glass box of the common sized window-glass. I was allowed to feel the weight of the box, and they gave me to understand that the book of plates was then in the box, into which, however, I was not allowed to look. I inquired of Joseph Smith, jun., who was to be the first who would be allowed to see the book of plates. He said it was a young child. After this I became dissatisfied, and informed him that if there was anything in my house of that description which I could not be allowed to see he must take it away; if he did not, I was determined to see it. After that the plates were said to be hid in the woods.

"About this time Martin Harris made his appearance upon the stage, and Smith began to interpret the characters and hieroglyphics which he said were engraved on the plates, while Harris wrote down the interpretation. * * * I told them then that I considered the whole of it a delusion, and advised them to abandon it. The manner in which he pretended to read and interpret was the same as when he looked for the money-diggers—with the stone in his hat and his hat over his face, while the book of plates was at the same time hid in the woods.

"After this Martin Harris went away and Oliver Cowdery came and wrote for Smith while he interpreted, as above described. This is the same Oliver Cowdery whose name may be found in the Book of Mormon. Cowdery continued to scribe for Smith until the Book of Mormon was completed, as I supposed, and understood.

"Joseph Smith, jun., resided near me for some time after this, and I had a good opportunity of becoming acquainted with him and somewhat acquainted with his associates, and I conscientiously believe, from the facts I have detailed and from many other circumstances which I do not deem it necessary to relate, that the whole Book of Mormon (so-called) is a silly fabrication of falsehood and wickedness, got up for speculation, and with the design to dupe the credulous and unwary, and in order that its fabricators may live upon the spoils of those who swallowed the deception.

ISAAC HALE.

Correspondence.

GRASS LAND OF MONGOLIA,
About 300 miles North of PEKING, China, Aug. 18th, 1883.

Bro. Smith.—Traveling in this land with a Bible Society Agent from Scotland, I have the opportunity to do what good I can in distributing the Scriptures in Mongolian and Chinese. It is also affording me the privilege which for four years I have earnestly desired of the Lord, of examining into the origin and prospects of the Mongolians, whom I believe in January, 1879, it was revealed to me are of the Tribes of Israel. This great nation, which in the times of Ghenghis Khan conquered Asia, has been dwindling for long years into a mere remnant. Their tradition is that they came from the west of Tibet somewhere, and that after undergoing still greater chastisements than they have yet received, even when their numbers will be reduced to a few comparatively, they are to be led back to the land of their fathers. With this expectation, they do not erect houses or build monuments, or even have the graves of their dead to keep them here; but are ready to move at the shortest notice. The events which precede their return are the chastisements for their sins, such as wars, famines and pestilences, agreeing most accurately with the prophecies of the Hebrew sages, and the predictions of Jesus Christ in the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew, regarding the period before His return. They expect a Savior from Heaven to appear, and bring them back to the land which their fathers left long, long centuries ago, when the earth is to be renovated, and a new dispensation ushered in.

If any thing is certain to me, it is that they are of the same race as some of the tribes of the North American Indians. Boudinot, in his "Star of the West," holds that view, and gives two cases of persons—one a woman from Florida—who were at home in both continents, and seen by a Catholic missionary. These Mongols are most intensely religious, every one being a worshiper of the same God, with the same Scriptures and rites and ceremonies in a most remarkable unanimity. Almost every family which has at least two sons, devotes one of them from infancy to the exclusive service of God, when the head is completely shaven, and a ceremony like a christening performed upon the little child. If the family has several sons, invariably the half at least, or the majority, are consecrated to a religious life in infancy. They learn the Tibetan—a foreign language—to them, in order to read and pray in its sacred books. They can generally read the Tibetan sufficiently to conduct long devotions, and recite many prayers and praises from it, although they may not be able to read their own Mongol. The books in Mongolian are not excessively numerous, but they have translations of their Sacred books from the west, and there are those who can read them. The written language was given them by missionaries from Syria, it is supposed, and its resemblance to Syriac, is a strong proof of it. These boys and men live at home, or in monasteries, and they are the doctors, teachers, and prophets of the people.

When we left Peking for Mongolia, on the ninth of June, at the same time a boy of fourteen, who passes his winters at a monastery at Peking, started for the summer retreat in a monastery near where I write. He has the clairvoyant power, and in the hands of influential men is made a great deal of. His retinue was some thirty horsemen and servants, with carts and baggage. As we were near each other most of the journey of over half a month, we saw much of the ovation which was given him by the Mongols wherever he stopped. When stopping at night at an inn, or his own tent during the day, for rest and refreshment of men and horses, he at stated times recited in a loud voice the prayers and praises of God from the Tibetan books.

The head, or pope, of their religion, who resides at Tibet, is selected when a child for possessing these second sight, or clairvoyant gifts, in a high degree. The prophet Samuel became judge and ruler of ancient Israel in the same manner.

The gift of healing without the use of medicine, is held and used by a few, as it was by the prophets of Israel, and many of the early Christians. The shaving of the heads of all the priests of religion, and the partial shaving of it by every male, fulfills the scripture which declares that baldness would be on every head. The almost exclusive use of cows' dung as the only fuel for cooking and warming, through a region of thousands of miles, fulfills the prophecy of Ezekiel in chapter eight. Camels' dung and horses' can be used, but is not, if the cows' dung or "argols" can be obtained. The rule regarding flesh food, that it should not be from animals which do not divide the hoof and chew the cud, is known and respected as well as Jews and Mohammedans generally do. The hog is not one of their domestic animals, but they keep dogs enough to make up.

The Mosaic law, that a vegetable garden should be planted with but one variety in a season, kept the Jews from using many kinds; and the rule that no fruit, vegetable, or grain, was to be eaten until the fully ripe specimens had been offered to the Lord, tended to keep the people on a plain, healthy diet of the "old corn of the land." The Mongols, either from necessity or choice, do not cultivate the land, even to the planting of a single seed; but from the Chinese they purchase some varieties of millet and other grains, which with the products of their herds compose their living. They sacrifice sheep to God, first anointing and laying on of hands. The adultery of idolatry, and of their women, is one of the sad sins from which they are to be purged some day. (See Ezekiel 36, and other prophecies.)

Their account of the founder of their religion, whom they call Borhan, agrees most remarkably with the life of Christ, and of some Apostle or disciple of his. He went about doing good, in instructing the people how to live healthfully and happily. He performed wonders in healing the sick, and in feeding the multitudes. He wore an outer garment, such as the poor of Palestine now wear, and such as it is believed Christ wore; namely, a large, square, sleeveless envelope, made up of narrow strips generally in colors, each of the breadths being a different color, contrasted with the one next to it. The outer garment is the comfortable in the night, an umbrella, or tent, in storms of rain and wind; and appears to me to be the identical outer garment which Moses forbade to be kept as a pledge, and which Borhan and the modern Arabs wear. The inner garment was the other important one. The head and feet left bare, except when sandals were worn.

Traditions of the Sabbath, destruction of the Egyptians in the Red Sea, are quite distinct.

Some one has translated the names of succession from Adam to Noah as follows: "Man placed subject to all kinds of evil, the possessor of the brightness of God descending, taught that the arms of his death bring to the humbled rest and consolation." It is claimed that the whole history of redemption is found in the interpretation of these ten names.

The free translation of the names in Matthew's Genealogy of the Restorer of His people, paraphrasing the connecting words, reveals a history of His life and a prophecy of His people's course through the centuries. That this effort to translate into a connected account these apparently independent and detached words, is not visionary and farfetched, there is a basis in the use of the definite article "the" in the Greek, preceding the first mention of each name.

It is an attempt which any reader of Scripture can make, as the names in the Scriptures are generally rendered into the colloquial sense by the writers themselves. No two persons would arrive at exactly the same result, for the meaning of words varies with the user and the occasion. Take the word Judah for instance. Shall we translate it "praise" or "confession." The Hebrew seems to allow either meaning. Believing that his mother intended to "confess" sin when she gave the babe his name, Judah would then have to her and all who knew the circumstances, the sense of Confession. In his life, if the characteristic of a confessor of sin comes out, then a strong reason is presented for such a sense. Accordingly, we find that in the affair with Thamar, he makes a full acknowledgment of his own wrong doing, and of more justice on the part of the person sinned against than he possessed. Before Joseph, he makes the same exhibition of an open, frank acknowledgment of his own and his brethren's evil doings.

The genealogy of the Savior is found in the first section of the Evangel according to Matthew, and may be rendered as follows: A book of Genesis of Jesus Christ a son of David, a son of Abraham.

A father of multitudes upon multitudes "brings the joy" into the world, changing its weeping into "laughter." "Joy" however produces the "supplanter, who advances from being under the heel," trodden underfoot like the serpent, to be the crusher with his heel of the serpent. He in turn causes the "out and out acknowledger" of good and evil dispositions—among twelve begotten by him in the gospel. Judah of Jacob, true to his name, asks how the Master will manifest himself not to the world, but unto them. Judah of Simon makes an "open manifestation" of his whole heart to the Chief Priests. Judah produces "the Breach" as "Open confession" invariably will; but the "offshoot" from the "Palm tree" is equally the result of the confession and it necessarily follows the "Breach" made in the tree which bears twelve names of fruit. This "branch," this "wood" full of sap passes into the resurrection life and has no earthly genealogy. A "Breach" for the time scatters, but in time makes "the enclosure" doubly secure. A "walling in" tends to make the "exaltation" which "lifting up" Christ foretold, would produce the "willing people." It has ever been that when a "people are willing" in the day of God's power, it is when Christ like the serpent in the wilderness, is lifted up a "Devoted object," "in whom is strength" for with "alacrity" does he do the Father's will.

The "votive offering is made out of the "Broadways" of the city, devoted to perpetual desolation. The church, although corrupt as Rahab, will be saved in the bearing of children devoted to the Lord. "Dovotion" out of the friendship" for the sinful world, produces the "humiliation" as a "servant" which eventually causes him to be the "existing Lord," both Lord and father of David, and yet his son the "Prince of Peace."

Solomon causes "the enlargement" as "peace" invariably does both in a son of man and the sons of men who compose his kingdom. Rehoboam, like all who are "enlarged" causes distresses, and thereupon acknowledges the Lord to be Father. Abiah, however, in distress so calls his son, who is not only the afflicted Asa, but the physician as well. He brings the Lord's judgment upon the earth, and his departure was necessary to establish it on the throne, even the Physician of physicians must leave the world, in order that it may be convinced of a judgment to come. Jehosaphat as the type of judgment, causes to be tried the people, that the elevation by the Lord may follow. "Exalted by God," means of course, that the people be the possessed of the Lord. Uzziah being this Lord's possession, his son can be no other than the "bestowed of the Lord," who in turn gives place to "the possessor," the fruit of whose loins is the "strong in the Lord;" but who shortly gives place to the "forgetting Him" in whom his strength lies, but upon whose repentance his "forgetfulness" may relate to the things behind, as he presses towards the mark, even the "Burden" of the cross, until he is both the healed and the subsequent "established one" together with his brethren, upon the carrying away of the people into Babylon, which confusion occasions "the asking of the Lord" and a deliverance which "the begotten in Babylon" would perpetuate in their memory. Zerubbabel's son is most appropriately called "Father of the Jews;" for Israel does not return after the captive, and hereafter the descendants of Abraham, who are known in the sacred writings, are strictly Jews and not Israelites. "The established" naturally succeeds for his Father Abind is not only Father of the Jews, but also Father of the Acknowledgers. Eliakim is established himself and commemorates it in naming his son "Helped of God," who through divine "help" can produce the rare character; viz, the "just." Jesus Christ is pre-eminently that "just one," and being so has all the "woes" which strict integrity excites an iniquitous world to inflict. Sadox generates the Achim, that is justice occasions afflictions. But out of sorrow "comes acknowledgment." David, before he was afflicted went astray; but when chastened of the Lord he confesses his sins, and even so it is now. Elind has for his consolation the help of God, for "help" always comes to those who make a good confession. In a remarkable event in Christ's history he says: I make an out and out confession to you, Father, that you have hid these things from the wise and prudent, and revealed them unto babes. The "I thank thee" of the English version, deprives us of the greatest of examples of humble confession, which we need in making up our minds to confess the secret sins of our lives. Eleazar begets "the gift," who is the fitting type of the spirit and father of Jacob the father of Joseph. History here repeats herself, for Abraham's servant is Eleazar, who was for many years his prospective heir and successor, until Isaac, the type of the free spirit, takes his place. The spirit brings joy in that case, and in this as "the gift" is no less joyous. Isaac then begets Jacob, or for the time being Supplanter of the Spirit. Here the "Gift of God's Spirit" is the father of another Supplanter, who represents Christ in the flesh. Jacob begets the Joseph at the end of the genealogical table, as was the record in the beginning of it. The Spirit Gift son of Promise is supplanted for a time, until he becomes the Prince prevailing with God, and in his son Joseph the assurance comes, that He shall Add. Joseph in Egypt marries a daughter of a Priest. Joseph of Nazareth takes to wife one of the High Priest's (Aaron) descendants, if the statement that Mary was Elizabeth's own generation is to be taken as significant. The kingly and priestly lines then unite in Jesus Christ. Joseph is the husband of Mary, out of whom is begotten Jesus, the called Christ.

Yours,

J. CROSSETT.

BROCKTON, Mass.,

November, 5th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Since I wrote you last, I have steadily kept at work in the mission. I have just spent about three weeks in and about Boston, and can say I feel encouraged with the result. Six were baptized while I was there, and others are interested. I have been anxiously requested to return there as soon as I can, which I now think I shall do.

Here in Brockton, the good work has started. The impressions of the Spirit, given me when I first came here to labor, are now being realized. They met together here in twos and threes for a long time; but the impressions of the Spirit were, that numbers would certainly be added, if they would remain faithful. By the blessing of God eight more have been added, all men and women, two being baptized yesterday. I rejoice to see the work thus prospering. Five of this number were members of G. J. Adams' church. Some of them went to Palestine with him. Bro. Sheehy is still down in Maine, he having been there most of the Summer. Bro. Gurley has been here, but will have to return home in a few days on account of business matters. I am sorry for this. Bro. Gurley is just the man for this eastern country. Wherever he goes he leaves a favorable impression in regard to the work. I wish he could stay here for a while. I am sure great good would be accomplished.

My health is not so good as it has been. This constant preaching I find, is a great strain upon my system. I ask the prayers of all for strength to fulfill my mission. May the peace of God abide with latter day Israel everywhere.

In bonds,

JOHN GILBERT.

ELWELL, Pa.,

November 3d, 1883.

Joseph Smith, Dear Sir:—The Saints in this part of the vineyard are few in number, but seem to be doing well. I hope the time will hasten when there will be a branch here. Last month, myself and husband were in Hyde Park, Pa., and we stopped over night with brother Wm. W. Morgan and family. We found them blessed with the good Spirit; and although we had never met before, we were not strangers to the same Heavenly Father. I was loath to leave them on the next day morning, but business called us elsewhere, so we bade them adieu. I was very much strengthened in faith, and find it good to be a Latter Day Saint. I thank brother Morgans for their kind hospitality while there. Also for sending the Herald to us. I am trying to do what I can for the advancement of the gospel, by distributing tracts and the Heralds, and talking as opportunity will permit. There are two here that seem to be interested, and I am hoping and praying that they may obey the gospel.

Ever praying for the advancement of this latter day work, and Zion's weal, I am your sister in Christ,

CARRIE E. SWEET.

MILTON, Santa Rosa Co., Fla.,

November 1st, 1883.

Dear Herald:—I see in your issue of 29th of September, an article signed by William Street, asking Bro. Joseph, or some one else, if he is not right to put him right. Judges 11: 31, he says does not say Jephthah would offer up his daughter for a burnt offering. "Then it shall be, that whatsoever cometh forth of the door of my house to meet me when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the Lords'; and I will offer it up for a burnt offering." I believe it says that he did offer her up. The thirty-ninth verse of same chapter reads: "And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who did with her according to his vow, which he had vowed, and she knew no man; and it was a custom in Israel, that the daughters of Israel went yearly to lament the daughter of Jephthah, the Gileadite, four days in a year." Who was it went? Her associates, friends and acquaintances. Where did they go? To the very place she was offered up at. What did they go there for? To fast, pray, weep, mourn, and lament their departed friend. How long did the lamentation last? Four days in every year. Now I have no doubt of this being heart rending to the father, and that human sacrifice was forbidden. He was a man of God; was resolved to keep his vow. And I believe she went to that altar as Isaac did to his. I believe that Jephthah was a good man, and a God serving man, and knew the awful consequence of a broken vow. If Melchisedec was a man, will some one tell me who his mother was.

Your brother in Christ,

W. W. SQUIRES.

MILL CREEK, IOWA,

November 2d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Bro. C. St. Clair has preached a few times here, and also in Hamburg; and I think good was done. Although our crops were cut short by the hail, we have made up our minds to build a church in Hamburg. We have about two hundred dollars subscribed, which we secured in two days. The committee of arrangements is Bro. Nicholas Taylor, Wm. R. Calkins, and Daniel Comstock. We hope that the other branches in this district will aid us all they can.

Yours in the gospel,

L. C. DONALDSON.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Nov. 1st, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The Lord is working with the people in this part of his vineyard. Our young brother, Evan Davis, son of Bro. John T. Davis, has been having a discussion with a Disciple. We do not know what the name of his church is, it has changed so often. Bro. Evan affirmed that ours was the Church of Christ according to the New Testament, and the other denied it, blessings and all. Then Bro. Evan denied that the so-called Church of Christ was according to the New Testament, with gifts, &c. It was bad for the Disciple to affirm that which he had been denying; so he did not do it.

Bro. D. S. Crawley is telling the people why he believes the Book of Mormon, and is going to discuss with one of these Church of Christ preachers, whether it has as many good things in it as the Bible, or not. We are having good times, for the people are learning the truth, and the words of the prophet are being fulfilled, that the "wisdom of the wise men shall perish," and the Saints are finding favor with the people.

With my prayers and best wishes for you, I am still your brother in the gospel,

WILLIAM FRANCE.

EL MONTE, Cal.,

October 30th, 1883.

Brother Joseph:—I was baptized about 1842. My brother had heard a man preach, who said an angel had appeared to a man in America, telling him of the falling away, and also of the restoration. It brought with it the power of truth. It struck home to my heart, soon after I was baptized, and what a joy filled my soul from that time up to the time the news came of your father's death. Then what a damp fell upon the church. Since then I have seen many changes. I emigrated to Utah in 1853, and left for California in 1857, just before the Mountain Meadow massacre. We had very treacherous times. They were talking of making the big hollow into our burial ground. There were ten families. They would not let them get any thing for their property. One man had a good adobe house with corrals and out-buildings, a stack of hay and thirty acres of land. He got an odd ox, and my husband had the same for his. The bishop would not allow them to give any more. What a place to be called Zion! I feel happy that I got away. They cut me off the church in England for not believing in polygamy. But if I had to believe that God had created one woman to be hated, and another to be loved,

"How could I offer Jehovah my prayers, Or worship a Deity cruel as theirs."

But independent of all this, my heart clings to the truth. And when I read the testimonies of my brethren and sisters in the Herald, it makes me feel good. It makes tears flow down my cheeks.

Your sister,

MRS. L. REBECK.

Summary of News.

Nov. 1st.—In order to prevent the Lord-Mayor of Dublin from delivering an address on the franchise, a large number of the Londonderry Orangemen took possession of the city-hall. During the passage of the Lord-Mayor through the streets a man and a boy were shot. The Orangemen have planted the Union Jack on the roof of the hall, and declare themselves determined to hold their position. Serious rioting is expected.

Owing to alarming reports of the outbreak of cholera at Pekin, it is believed that the dreaded scourge can be kept out of European ports only by the strictest quarantine regulations. The German Government has accordingly taken the initiative, and orders have been issued for the most rigid sanitary precautions throughout the country. Following as it does on the heels of the serious news from Alexandria, the outbreak at Pekin causes the gravest apprehension.

The British garrison in Egypt now numbers 7,000 men. Of these 7,000 are to be withdrawn about the middle of next month, and by Christmas it is proposed that not more than 3,000 shall remain. It is the present intention to withdraw all troops before the meeting of Parliament.

Municipal elections were held throughout the British Kingdom yesterday. The results show large Conservative gains.

A Paris dispatch says: War between France and China would so seriously imperil British interests that it is thought England would, in the event of an outbreak of hostilities, intervene. France will not provoke a rupture with China, but negotiations will not be renewed until the French are firmly seated in Tonquin. Macartney, Secretary of the Chinese Legation, will start for London to-night. Great activity prevails in the arsenals at Toulon France. Fresh transports have been ordered put in readiness for use. In case of war with China the Fifteenth Army Corps will probably be selected for service.

Negotiations have begun between France and her foes in Madagascar.

A number of disasters are reported to the lake shipping. Two large schooners laden with ore, the John B. Merrill, of Milwaukee, and the Sophia Minch, of Cleveland are ashore near the latter port; the schooner Ketcham, of Chicago, is ashore near Leland, Mich., and will probably be a total loss; the Homer H. Hine, abandoned by her crew, was driven on the rocks near Amberly, Ont., and will be a total wreck; an unknown schooner is in distress off Long Point, Lake Erie.

Yesterday was the golden jubilee of the establishment of the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary in this country. Since the founding of this charitable organization at Philadelphia in 1833 it has prospered to such an extent that there are now 1,600 sisters in the United States, having charge of 500 schools.

The formal transfer of the army commands was made at noon yesterday, Leut.-Gen. Sheridan assuming general command of the army and Maj.-Gen. Schofield taking charge of the Military Division of the Missouri.

According to figures furnished by the Treasury Department, the call for 3 per cent bonds has not contracted the currency to the extent some bankers have affected to believe. In fact, the amount of bonds held to secure the circulation of National bank notes is now but half a million below the figures Oct. 1.

Hon. John W. Early, Chief of the Ottawa Indians, said in a recent interview:—"My people now number less than 200 souls, all told. We occupy a reservation of about 15,000 acres of fine land lying north of the Neosho River and south of the Quapaw and Peoria reservations. We cultivate a considerable portion of our land and have much of it leased out to white men who work it on shares or pay a certain annual rental in money. In addition, we have lately closed a contract leasing 5,000 acres of land for grazing purposes to a syndicate of Western stockmen, for a term of five years, at $625, or 12½ cents per acre, per annum. This is considered a large sum for the land, and members of the tribe are well pleased with the arrangement. The proceeds will be divided, or, rather, applied to the general benefit of the Ottawas. This sum, in addition to the amount realized from rents of land for agricultural purposes and the sales of farm products, is the only source of income for my tribe, as we receive no annuities from the United States Government, as do many neighboring tribes. However, we are self-sustaining, and need no assistance from that quarter. Every year our condition improves, and the tribe grows more and more self-reliant. Within the last four years our advancement has been marked, and I regard the future outlook as hopeful in the extreme. In regard to education we are doing the best we can. Some thirty-five or forty of our youth attend the Quapaw Mission school, under the management of the Rev. Mr. Whiting, and are making commendable progress. As to religion, much interest is felt, and I might say the entire tribe is or will be Christianized. So far as concerns crime, we have little if any among us; a criminal occurrence is rare indeed. The future of the Ottawas is, in short, bright with the promise of usefulness and prosperity."

Twenty million acres of public lands were sold last year.

Nov. 2d.—The French forces in Tonquin left Hai Phong Oct. 24 and expect to occupy Konang Yen, forty miles to the south-east, within a short time.

A Polish actor named Protoski, who was arrested at Dirschau, East Prussia, has confessed that he was a Nihilist who had been selected by a band of conspirators to assassinate Prince Bismarck.

It is reported the first Secretary of the Chinese Legation has stated that war between China and France is now certain. It is reported that the Chinese legislation at Paris are considering the question of demanding their passports.

The Russian revenue from January to August decreased 11,000,000 roubles, and the expenditures increased 18,000,000, compared with the similar period of 1882.

The leading weekly grain circular of Liverpool, Eng., says: The better feeling noticed at the beginning of the week continued, and received a fresh impetus from the publication of the stock of wheat in Liverpool, which, contrary to expectation, shows a marked decrease. There was an average attendance at to-day's market and an improved feeling. Wheat was steady and in moderate demand at one pence advance. Flour was in rather better inquiry at recent prices. Peas declined two pence. Corn was in fair request and slightly easier.

The Bureau of Statistics states that the imports of grain into Germany from the beginning of January to the end of September showed a decrease compared with the same period in 1882, while the exports showed a marked increase, especially of wheat and oats, the quantity of both being nearly double.

Abdul Aziz, brother of the Sultan, who has been besieging the City of Muscat, has been repulsed and has fled.

"A monster political meeting was held last night in Kingston Jamaica. It was a great success, being a demonstration against the present system of Government."

The report of the defeat of the False Prophet and the great slaughter of his army by Hicks Pasha is discredited.

John Carver, Derbyshire & Co., merchants of London and Manchester, have failed. Liabilities, £120,000. The suspension of Hollinshead, Tetly & Co., coin-brokers, is bulletined. Liabilities probably £100,000.

Business failures in the United States and Canada numbered 215 last week according to Dun's report, three less than the week before.

Friday night, near Thousand Island Park, the large Canadian tug Conqueror, which had been sent to the wreck of the propeller Oneida, struck the same ledge of rock which had sunk the Oneida. The tug went to the bottom near by. Both Captains attribute their misfortunes to the erection of a new light thereabouts.

Immense clouds of locusts have appeared in the State of Puebla, Mexico.

Nov. 4th.—There were 240 deaths from cholera at Mecca Arabia last week.

The Marquis of Lansdowne has been in receipt of several letters threatening his life.

A great fire is raging in the East End of London. It has baffled the efforts of the fire department to subdue it. The district is inhabited by the poorest people of the great city.

Mr. Chamberlain proposes to introduce in the British Parliament during the forthcoming session a measure providing that vessels and cargoes shall not be insured for their full value. It is thought this will put a stop to overloading and the employment of unseaworthy craft, and thus tend to diminish the number of casualties and the losses of life at sea.

An investigation into the circumstances which led to the recent explosions in the London underground railway is asked for in order to ascertain whether there is any semblance of truth in the boasts of O'Donovan-Rossa and his dynamite friends that it was their work. Public feeling against Irish secret societies runs very high in England just now over the matter.

M. Jules Ferry, it is reported, feels assured that the grant asked for carrying on the war in Tonquin will be voted by the Chamber of Deputies, in which case hostilities will commence immediately. M. Ferry has convinced himself that the French must be successful, and is already preparing for the government of the province that is to be conquered. The British Government officials believe that war is inevitable, and are preparing to protect their interests and the interests of British subjects in China. The British fleet in Chinese waters will be strengthened. In this connection it is stated that the Marquis Tseng will meet Earl Granville, Lord Hartington, and Lord Northbrook in conference at an early date.

Admiral Courbet, French commander, had already commenced the actual occupation of Tonquin Nov. 4. Oct. 18 Col. Badens, with twenty men from the gunboats Bluveer and Leopard, captured the citadel of Nigne Bigné. The 21st he captured the citadel of Phungi, three miles inland. No opposition was encountered. At Canton all is tranquil. People now visit the city without fear. Missionaries are returning to their posts inland. The French Government has ordered Admiral Courbet, commanding the French squadron in Chinese waters and in temporary command of the land forces in Tonquin, to proceed at once with 3,000 men and thirty guns and attack Bacninh.

The Memorial Diplomatique says that Great Britain has sounded the Brazilian and United States Governments to ascertain whether they would mediate between France and China.

The difference between the French civil and military officials in Tonquin continue. Admiral Courbet demands to have absolute command.

Reconnaissance from Hanoi in the direction of Sontag shows that many Black Flags are posted on the banks of the river near Sontag. The latter place is defended by two lines of strong fortifications mounting forty guns, and a garrison consisting of 2,000 Chinese regulars.

The Portuguese Government has notified the Powers that it will claim proprietary rights over the River Congo, in Africa.

The troops sent to suppress the disorders among the peasants of Crnareka Servia comprise six battalions, two squadrons, and five batteries.

A commission of Judges is to accompany the troops, and a peaceful arrangement of the troubles will first be attempted. Ukases have been published withdrawing the liberty of the press, the right of association, and the freedom of speech. Nothing will be allowed printed in Servia without the sanction of the police.

Albanians residing in Upper Albania, Macedonia, and Epirus have sent a petition to the Powers hostile to Turkey asking for annexation to Greece.

The question of making a second canal across the Isthmus of Suez is occupying the active attention of the Egyptian Government. Keller and Cavoli, advisers of the Government, state that the convention with De Lesseps does not confer upon him any kind of monopoly.

King Alfonso, of Spain, is dangerously ill. The Pope is angry with England for not suppressing Orangeism in Ireland.

The steamer New York, from New Orleans, sunk the schooner Blanche Hopkins, of Philadelphia. The officers and crew were saved.

The May Flower is beached, and Little May water logged on the coast of New York.

Apache Ju, Chief of his tribe, while hotly pursued by Mexican cavalry, in endeavoring to jump a gulch, missed and killed himself and horse.

From the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue it appears that during the last fiscal year as compared with the previous one there was an increase of 9,000,000 pounds in the production of manufactured tobacco and snuff; and an increase of 180,000,000 in the number of cigars, and 98,000,000 in the number of cigarets. The reduction in the revenue from tobacco through the act of 1883 is placed at $25,000,000.

It is said that a brisk demand for books upon the subject of slavery has sprung up in some parts of the South during the last two or three years, and that volumes which formerly cumbered booksellers' shelves, and would have been gladly sold for a song, are fetching large prices. A dealer in second-hand books has thus disposed of 200 copies of a defense of slavery by a prominent Southern clergyman which he bought at five cents apiece.

John M. Johnson, a colored lawyer of considerable ability, has published a long and able letter addressed to Gov. Ireland, of Texas, in reference to the status of the colored people in that State. Setting out with the statement that the recent decision of the Supreme Court has not affected the rights of colored men, he charges that through the operation and administration of the laws in Texas great injustice is done to them. They are not treated fairly in the courts. The juries before which their cases are tried have no negroes among their members. They are not tried by their peers. The stories of negro violence and turbulence are invented and circulated, Mr. Johnson charges, to cover up murders and other crimes committed on these people, or to afford pretexts for committing such crimes.

Nov. 5.—Four thousand troops have arrived at Crnareka, Servia, to suppress the disorders. Fifteen hundred rebels, with rifles, occupy a strong position.

While asserting its rights on the Lower Congo River, in Africa, the Portuguese Government announces that it will in no way interfere with the navigation of the stream.

Vera Philipora, recently arrested at Kharkoff, Russia, was the actual head of the Nihilist Executive Committee. She has written a confession that she and another woman who chose South Russia as their field of enterprise, alienated the allegiance of many army officers, forty of whom have been arrested. The Nihilists are miserably weakened in men and means, having lost many prominent members. The arrest of Vera Philipora is the worst blow of all. They now regard Lavroff, in Paris, as the chief. The campaign will now be conducted from without. In Russia the Nihilists have broken into widely-scattered groups, each more or less independent of the rest. They are driven to murder and robbery in order to obtain funds.

There were five deaths from cholera Sunday at Alexandria, Egypt.

At Lyons, France, the Anarchists exploded an infernal machine in front of the mansion of a wealthy merchant. Immense damage was done the building, but no one was hurt.

The fire at the saw-mills of Lines Bros., in the Haggerstown District, London, which began Saturday morning, is now confined to the lumber piles before reported burning. The loss will not exceed £30,000.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: Sowing is nearly completed. Wheat is steadier, but the business transacted is small. Flour in poor demand. Fine barleys retain their values on account of scarcity. Moderately good declined 1 shilling to 2 shillings. Grinding qualities declined 6 pence early last week, but was rather firmer to-day. Foreign wheat was not improved. The large amount of wheat in sight in the United States is regarded as a reservoir which may burst at any time with disastrous effects. The 1883 crop of Northern Russia being untouched, tends to depress the trade. Mixed American maize advanced 1 shilling, and round maize 6 pence. Six cargoes of wheat arrived; four were sold and two remained. The sales of English wheat during the week aggregated 63,782 quarters at 40 shillings 3 pence per quarter, against 47,328 quarters at 40 shillings 11 pence per quarter the corresponding week last year.

The whaling bark Louise was lost Sept. 22, in the Arctic Ocean by striking the ice, and six men perished.

Cullen Haynes, his wife, and three children were poisoned at Topton, Pa., Sunday evening by eating bologna sausage. The youngest child died. The case was rather remarkable from the fact that had the two daughters eaten the whole family of seven would possibly have perished, as the husband observing the severity of the symptoms in the other victims and feeling himself rapidly growing worse, did not dare leave the house for help. The daughters went together, and medical attention at once placed the sufferers on the road to recovery.

There was a shock of earthquake at Cove Creek, Utah, yesterday. No damage was done.

Three vessels were completely wrecked, and several others stranded, on the Great Lakes.

Nov. 6th.—The Marquis Tseng, Chinese Ambassador to France, is authority for the statement that it will take at least 40,000 French troops to make headway against the united forces of Annam and China.

The Portuguese Government succeeded in carrying the Lisbon municipal elections, it is reported, by wholesale and open bribery on the part of Government officials. As much as $8 per vote was paid in numerous cases, and large amounts are said to have been spent in this way.

The Servian troops under Gen. Nicolitchs attacked the rebels at Cena Reka Monday. Fighting was also proceeding yesterday. The result is unknown.

Hempstead & Co., engineers, of London, have failed. Liabilities, £200,000; assets, £280,000.

Fackler Bros., buggy-top manufacturers of Dubuque, Ia., have failed with liabilities estimated at $100,000.

Ten vessels have gone aground in the South Pass of the Mississippi River during the last year.

The Chiricahua Indians have surrendered at Silver Creek, Arizona, to Lieut. Hunter.

In the elections of Tuesday, Nov. 6th, Ben. Butler, Democrat, was defeated in Massachusetts, and Robinson, Republican, elected Governor of that state, by about ten thousand majority. The Republicans elected their candidate for Secretary of State in New York, which was the leading officer elected this year, and have carried the Legislature on joint ballot. Pennsylvania went Republican by twenty thousand majority. Minnesota, Nebraska, Connecticut, went Republican by good majorities.

FIRES—STORMS—ACCIDENTS.

Nov. 1st.—Nine bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Savannah fire.

The steamer City of Toronto was destroyed by fire at Port Dalhousie, Ont., entailing a loss of $30,000.

Loss by fire at Cincinnati, O., $800. Two persons were suffocated. Two children were suffocated in a burning house at Middletown, O. Loss by fire at Rocky River, O., $25,000. Markesan, Wis., $30,000. A steamer and cargo, valued at $83,000, burned near New Orleans, La. Loss by fire at New Market, N. H., $35,000. Indianapolis, Ind., $8,000. Madison, Ind., $5,000. Buffalo, N. Y., $20,000. Wonewoc, Wis., $20,000. Chicago, Ill., $100,000.

As a freight train of the Southern Pacific was crossing the Santa Anna River bridge last night a car-wheel broke and eighteen cars were precipitated into the river. The loss is heavy. Two tramps were killed and two brakemen injured.

Nov. 2d.—Willoughby, O., a little town twenty miles east of Cleveland, was almost totally destroyed by fire entailing a loss of not less than $100,000.

Loss by fire at Logansport, Ind., $5,000. Saratoga, N. Y., $10,000. Rushville, Ind., $15,000. Holland, Mich., $15,000. Two more victims of the Savannah fire have been recovered.

A mail train on the railroad from Paris to Brest came into collision with a locomotive and was badly wrecked. Nineteen persons were injured, and one has died.

Nov. 4th.—The great fire which broke out in the furniture warehouse of Messrs. Wylie & Lokead, in Buchanan street, Glasgow, Scotland, Saturday night, is now under control, although the engines are still pouring volumes of water on the ruins. The Herald building has been saved. The loss is £300,000.

Loss by fire at Algiers, La., $105,000. Lexington, Ky., $5,000. Port Costa, Cal., $100,000. Hillsborough, Wis., $3,500. Bartlett Station, O., $10,000. Minneapolis, Minn., $3,500.

Nov. 5th.—Loss by fire at LaSalle, Ill., $50,000. Logansport, Ind., $2,500.

A North American cyclone, having the characteristic appearance of a slow-moving cloud, yesterday afternoon advanced on the Town of Springfield, in south-western Missouri, on the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad. The funnel killed five people, all women, and wounded thirty persons. Two hundred thousand dollars' worth of damage was done.

By the fall of a coal shed at St Johns, N. F., two laborers were crushed to death and four others seriously wounded.

Nov. 6th.—By the explosion of a quantity of benzine during a fire in a boot and shoe factory near Roubaix, France, ten persons were killed on the spot and twenty or more seriously wounded, many of them so badly that they will die.

Sunday night near Sanford, N. C., a negro man and wife went to church, leaving in the house three children. Three hours later the house and children were in ashes.

A Texas & Pacific switch-engine's blow-cock burst to-day, fatally scalding fireman Ellis and engineer Friedlander.

One of the large elevators at the new Capitol building at Bismarck, Dak., fell from the third story to the ground this morning, a distance of fifty feet, carrying with it six workmen. The accident was caused by the grappling-iron which connected the elevator with the cable becoming loose and slipping. No one was killed outright, but one of the injured will probably die. One man was killed and three injured by a railroad accident near Shenandoah, Iowa.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

INFANT RESURRECTION.

IN HERALD, vol. 30, No. 24, we find the following question propounded, with its answer submitted: "Will they be permitted life who never had the privilege of breathing; shall such children come forth in the resurrection?"

The question is virtually, "Shall the dead live again, and with what body will they come forth?" Webster says that resurrection is 1st, "A rising again; the resumption of vigor;" 2d, "Especially, the rising again from the dead; the resumption of life." "A child," he says "is a young person, the progeny of human parents." Christ says, "Except ye be born again and become as little children, ye can in no wise enter the kingdom of heaven."

"Shall such (still born) children come forth in the resurrection?" Well, if not, why not? Is breath (air) such an important acquisition, that it alone will insure a resurrection? if so, then how much breath, how long shall it retain, to human eyes a visible life? Is sight the only proof of life to the father? Was not the fact of the existence of life in the child as firmly established in the mind of the mother, several months before its natal hour, as it could be to the father after? Then it must have had life, and if so, was a living child, with a certain, defined body, and as such is entitled to a resurrection, a "rising again from the dead, a resumption of life and vigor." If not, what entitles a person to a resurrection? Does a visible breathing of common air of more or less duration of time, with, perhaps, the pernicious schooling of early childhood and youth, entitle a person to the benefits of a resurrection? We understand a person, young or old, to be the union of a human body and an immortal spirit. Was not the spirit of the "still born" created in the heavens when all the other spirits were created? Was not the natural body formed in the similitude of the spiritual body inhabiting it? Then why should it be denied that body in the resurrection? But perchance some one will say, it may be born again and receive a permanent body, or be permitted life in the flesh. Well, how long must it live, or abide in that body, to insure a resurrection? Surely there are many thousands of children who die before they come to months of cognizance, or years of accountability; and many as soon, almost, as they are born; what becomes of their bodies? What pre-eminence have they over the still born? infinitely nothing, except it be the sour breath of humanity, or the curdled milk of human spleen.

But admitting that the babe reverts to "mother earth," and the spirit to be born twice or thrice; in the resurrection which of these bodies shall it rise with, for they certainly are, at any age, dissimilar, or:

Should one of them live three score years and ten,
Which of these bodies shall it take again;
Should it be blessed with bodies two or three,
Then that spirit may be in you and me.

And if in you and me it doth exist,
The resurrection will severely twist
To prove that I am your father's own son,
And show that my father had children none.

Would it be just, in tattered rags forlorn,
To hide the infant spirit just new born?
Or clothe, in purest white, the wretched sot,
Whose life has been a foul and lasting blot?

How then—the dead, alike, a babe or knave,
In coming life no different form can have.
Nay, human pride or justice would say no,
And revenge the insolence with a blow.

Then let me to the resurrection come
Not as a thief, scourged, blasted, driven home
From some far off and pestilential shore
To revel in bounties I've squandered before.

But let me enter its peaceful abode,
Pure as the babe from the hand of its God;
Welcomed by Jesus, for whom we now thirst,
Author of life and resurrection first.

We do not comment on the answer as given by the brother for the sake of criticism, but as the matter is thrown into print it becomes public property; and with the kindest regards for the feelings of parties concerned directly, we would ask: Is the spiritual or animal organism the breathing part of man? If it is claimed as the brother has evidently done, that "Life is not made perfect until birth is accomplished and external breath enters the respiratory organs;" then it is assumed that the spirit is breath, or air, which is a very dangerous, if not an heretical doctrine.

We think it a mistake to presume that the respiratory organs of an unborn infant are destitute of air; even an egg is supplied with a cavity of air for the young bird, until the shell is broken; and if part of the shell be prematurely removed, the young bird can be seen to breathe regularly, inside the membrane that surrounds it. We are of the opinion that the life of the babe is as perfect before its birth is accomplished as it is after, and we believe that "the body without the spirit is dead," is as true of the unborn child as of the mother.

The quotation from Heb. 7: 6, and the third chapter of Job, do not bear out the constructions of the writer, that the "unborn infant" is simply "life in process" (of development), capable at any time prior to birth, of reversion, or suppression, as a simple dispersion of collected particles: but a law, bearing directly upon the subject, as Job recognized it, will be found by connectedly reading the 3d chapter of Job, from the 11th to the 16th verses inclusive.

"Why died I not from the womb," literally to perish there, to waste away, or be suppressed before complete formation of the body; or, this denied me, (a personal being), "Why did I not give up the ghost (spirit) when I came out of the belly." Surely Job, or modern theology, is at fault. But he here in the 11th verse recognizes himself as a spiritual being, complete in physical and spiritual formation before his natural birth, and he bitterly laments the fact that his spirit was not given up in the pangs of child birth. If such a consummation had been, then he, Job, (not a myriad of dispersed particles, not a mass of carnality suppressed in its magnetic vitality, nor yet a "life in process" of formation spoiled, like a batch of lemon drops), but he, the veritable Job himself, "would have lain still and been quiet, he would have slept, and been at rest with kings and counselors of the earth."

But yet again, 'tis claimed that "life in process has been annulled, and the babe reverts, and remains as though life had never commenced." This principle may do well enough in making lemon drops, but when it comes to the philosophy of life, it is entirely out of place. Life principles and lemon drops have no relation to, or affinity for each other. As a whole it is an absurdity, a contradiction of terms, a deceptive snare, a treacherous pitfall, a most dangerous and abominable doctrine, in which willing dupes and hellish debauchees would hold high carnival, and by which millions of children are annually murdered, and tens of thousands of the fair daughters of men debauched, and in the recklessness of their despair driven to actual infanticide, vainly hoping by the use of dangerous drugs to escape detection and disgrace, by simply annulling what is here called "life in process." O, pernicious doctrine, salt of Satan to sharpen the most iniquitous appetite, and pave the way to debauchery and murder; little suspecting that:

This inordinate cup of sin,
Hath a lurking, pinching devil within,
Who seeks to rob, in after life,
Of health and peace, the maid or faithful wife.

By the same fell snare thousands of mothers of families are sacrificed, and in after years, perhaps, of physical and mental suffering and pining and wasting away, finally drop into premature graves by seeking to avert the God appointed course of nature, either for pride, fear of natural pain, or family cares and trouble. O, what a sad spectacle is this: Christian parents living in the enlightened age of the nineteenth century, in the full light of the great blaze of combined modern civilization and Christianity, the gospel preached every Sabbath day from thousands of pulpits, a thousand Christian newspapers published in the land, and these same Christian parents murdering, or destroying the fruits of their own bodies. The poor Hindoo mother on the banks of the Ganges, is lamented from the rostrum for sacrificing her helpless babe in the raging waters, to appease the wrath of her offended God; but who in all the land is to arise and tell the Christian mother in a glorious, free, and prosperous land, that she is murdering her innocent unborn, sacrificing it to satiate her god of fashion, lust or ease. Let this principle, or practice, which is now taking root in the world be fostered in the Church, nourished as it might be in society, the social system which now prevails would soon become so corrupt that the marital relations would be but lightly esteemed; corrupt medical practitioners would grow fat, and courts would never be disgraced with suits for injured innocence, or misguided women. The sexes could mingle promiscuously together, the blush of innocence would forever be blotted from the fair face of maidenhood; the great crimes of fœticide, infanticide and abortion, would be known as things of the tyrannical age. Lasciviousness, licentiousness, concupiscent, fornication and adultery, could be stricken from the vocabulary, and polygamy need not then be canonized by the saints, or legalized by the gentiles; for with the assistance of war, rapine and open murder, the world would speedily ripen for destruction. I will not attempt to paint the horrible picture of real life as it is, with the restraint that now holds partially in check the reins of a corrupt race; enough perhaps, has been said to arouse the pulpit and press against this abominable blister on the fair escutcheon of the nineteenth century. It is time that churches should cease their useless twaddle of the superiority of their distinctive church creeds, and light the lamps of intelligent reform; try to wipe off the stains of blood from the face of injured humanity, and check the current of blood; to help bear the ills of the fallen and oppressed, needy and distressed. And if "God has his way in the whirlwind," when it comes, be ready to take your respective places and rescue the deserving fragments of the storm. Come down from your high seats of self exaltation, stoop to the lowly, and do your duty in warning the erring, and "when the destruction cometh that prophet will not be accountable for the blood of the people, who hath warned them when he hath seen their destruction coming." Preach the gospel, "show the people their transgressions and the house of Jacob their sins."

Quit boasting of your churches and of your holy creeds,
But stand in holy places by doing holy deeds:
Let others make their mark in the soot or on the wall,
Cease leaping in the dark, or you soon or late will fall.

I. N. W. COOPER.

LAMONI, Iowa, July 16th, 1883.

INFANT BAPTISM.

INFANT baptism is a doctrine which has caused a great deal of contention and controversy. Some churches are contending very strenuously for the doctrine, while others utterly oppose it. We will let the Scriptures decide. We find in a paragraph from the discipline of the M. E. Church, page 16, that the Scriptures contain all things necessary to salvation, so that whatsoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man that it should be believed as an article of faith, or to be thought requisite or necessary to salvation. The supporters of Infant Baptism acknowledge that there is no plain and positive Scriptural precept, or example, for it; but they say that baptism has come in the place of circumcision, and that therefore infants ought to be baptized. It is advocated that baptism has come in the place of circumcision, and also that the covenant made with Abraham in Christ, which is also called the covenant of promise, and the covenant which God made with Abraham in the flesh, which is called the covenant of circumcision, were both one and the same. Now the reason why they unite those two covenants, is because in the covenant of circumcision no females were included, and separating those two covenants their theory would fall to the ground, as they would have no authority for baptizing neither female infants nor adults. But in the covenant in Christ it is said, "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed; not to seeds as of many, but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." Gal. 3: 16; Gen. 12: 2, 3. Paul declares that in the covenant of promise, "there is neither Jew nor Greek, neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." Gal. 3: 28. By this it is very plain, that both Jews and Greeks, bond and free, males and females, are included in the covenant of Christ, and in the saying that all the families of the earth were to be blessed in the seed of Abraham, which is Christ, is implied that all were to be blessed with the gospel privileges.

Now in the covenant of circumcision, God promised to make Abraham a "father of many nations," not of all nations, nor of all the families of the earth, "and I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee." Genesis 17: 6. Now the following are the persons included in the covenant of circumcision. "This is my covenant which ye shall keep, between me and you and thy seed after thee, every man child shall be circumcised, and ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin, and it shall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and thee; and he that is eight days old shall be circumcised among you, every man child in your generation, he that is born in thy house, or bought with thy money of any stranger, which is not of thy seed." Gen. 17: 10, 11, 12. We know the nations and kings which were to come out of Abraham, were the Ishmaelites and the offspring of Esau and the children of Israel, which all were the children of circumcision, and all such male children as were bought with Abraham's money were of the circumcision, and no females were included at all in the covenant of circumcision, and all the blessings promised in the covenant of circumcision were temporal, and were to be enjoyed in the flesh only. The blessings promised in the covenant of Christ were spiritual and eternal, so there is a great difference in the two covenants. There is also a difference in the persons included in each of these two covenants. Stephen proved to the High Priests, according to the Scriptures, that it was four hundred years from the covenant of circumcision until the law was given from Mount Sinai. (Acts 7: 2, 6;) but Paul declares most emphatically, that it was four hundred and thirty from the time that God made the covenant with Abraham in Christ, until the law. (Gal. 3: 17).

We will now establish this truth satisfactorily. "Now the Lord had said unto Abram, while he dwelt in the land of Mesopotamia."—Gen. 12: 1. Stephen explains this more satisfactorily, that God had actually appeared unto Abraham, while he was yet in the land of Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran. Acts 7: 2. Therefore God must have made the covenant with Abraham in Christ, while he yet dwelt in the land of Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charan, which is also called Charran. The following scriptures, when compared with Paul's statement, will prove that the covenant made with Abraham in Christ, was six years before he left Harran to go into the land of Canaan. Abraham was seventy-five years old when he left Harran to go into the land of Canaan, and he was ninety and nine years old when he received the covenant of circumcision. Gen. 12:4, 17-24.

It was twenty-four years from the time he left Harran until he was circumcized. Paul declares it was four hundred and thirty years from the covenant of promise to the law; therefore it is evident that that covenant of promise was made with Abraham, six years before he left Haran. Therefore every honest person may feel convinced that there were thirty years between the covenant of promise and the covenant of circumcision; and while there was such a space of time between these two covenants, and so much difference in every respect, it is really a marvelous thing that any person can have the barefacedness to advocate a doctrine which they have not one passage of scripture to prove. It is contained in the covenant of circumcision, that every male child, not circumcised when he is eight days old, shall be cut off from among his people. Of those who believe in Infant Baptism, and that it is in the place of circumcision, how many are there who have their infants baptized at eight days old? Here we have it very plain, that baptism in the place of circumcision, is founded on dishonesty and unbelief; for none of the Apostles knew anything of baptism coming in the place of circumcision. Paul in writing to the Gallatians makes mention of being at conference in Jerusalem, and he said they which seemed to be somewhat of note at conference, had added nothing to him; but when they saw that the gospel of the uncircumcision was committed unto him, as the gospel of the circumcision was unto Peter, for he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, the same was mighty in Paul toward the Gentiles; and when James and Cephas and John, who seemed to be pillars in the Church, saw how God had blest him, they gave unto him and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship, that they should go unto the heathen, and they would go to the circumcision. Gal. 2: 6-10.

The first passage, or supposed proof for Infant Baptism is where Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And he took them up in his arms and put his hands on them and blessed them. Mark 10:14-16. If the Scriptures are an infallible rule of faith, what authority has any person to contend that Jesus either sprinkled or baptized those children. According to the Scriptures, Jesus took away the sins of the world. Jesus met the claims of justice on Mount Calvary, and paid the debt in which Adam had involved himself and his posterity; therefore children are heirs of heaven, by virtue of Christ's atonement, until they arrive at the age of accountability. With some this may be sooner than with others. Then it is required of them to comply with Christ's conditions of salvation, and to become heirs of heaven by being adopted into the family of God, yea, by receiving the spirit of adoption, whereby we also cry Abba, Father. Rom. 8:16.

It is also advocated that infants should be baptized, because the Scriptures give an account of household baptism. Some contend that infants must have been baptized in the household of Lydia. But the Scriptures don't say that Lydia had a husband or children. Acts 16:14, 15, 16. Some also contend that there must have been some little children in the house of the jailor. But we read that after the jailor and his family were baptized, that he believed in God, rejoicing with all his house. Acts 16:34. Now if little children were included in the household of the jailor, then they also believed in God, and rejoiced as well as their parents. Now we read that after they left the house of the jailor, they went into the house of Lydia, and after that they had comforted the brethren they departed. Acts 16:40. This is very plain, that the household of Lydia consisted of brethren that were old enough to receive words of consolation. Where is the Scriptural proof for infant baptism, or how long will men walk in the dark. T. H. MOORE.

FROM "THE REGION."

OUR spiritual sky is in the main bright, not however without a cloud here and there to obscure at times the brightness of God's smiles. But the clouds we dread

"Are big with mercy, and will burst
With blessings on our heads."

The "work" in general is gaining ground slowly. The people are slow to hear, loth to believe, procrastinate the day of obedience; but for all this, prejudice is yielding slowly, and the Saints are, because of their faithful walk, "gaining favor with the people," according to the promise.

In compliance with an order of last conference, there have been some extra efforts made to hold grove meetings outside the branch, and in such localities as would be most suitable to reach the ears of those who have not had the privilege of hearing. A meeting of this kind was held about ten miles north of Stewartsville, in a grove kindly furnished by a Mr. Richardson. There was a moderate attendance, and the word was plainly and forcibly delivered by Bro. I. N. Roberts in the morning, and by Bro. T. W. Smith in the afternoon. It was a masterly effort by the latter; good impressions were made. The next effort was in a grove west of Stewartsville. Though the weather was lowery and chilly, a good sized audience gathered; seats were improvised from material at hand, and again Bro. T. W. Smith spoke with good liberty on the plain principles of the gospel, some afterwards saying it was the best sermon they had ever heard. The weather being too cold for outdoor meeting, an appointment was left for a school-house near by. In the mean time Bro. Wm. Lewis had obtained the use of another school-house for the same day. The day arriving, Brn. Lewis, W. T. Bozarth, and I. N. Roberts and others attended the latter appointment; and Brn. J. H. Merriam, D. R. Baldwin, the writer and others, attended the former; Brn. Bozarth and Roberts speaking at the latter, and J. H. Merriam at the former. The audiences though small were appreciative. On the 14th inst., the writer went, not on eagles' wings, but in (Bro.) Eagle's buggy, to fill another appointment at the latter school-house. Arriving found a Sunday School in progress. Waiting until it was closed, we announced our presence, and the purpose for which we came. Nearly all found their way to the door, one lady saying, "I would not stay to hear the foolish Mormons preach." Two young M. E. preachers were present, whose sense of etiquette overbalanced their seeming desire to depart, and they remained. After a small congregation were seated, we took the stand and spoke with moderate liberty on the necessity of teaching all things that Christ had commanded, admitting for argument's sake, that God had not spoken since the New Testament days, hence had not abrogated any of the principles recorded in the New Testament. Last Sabbath Brn. I. N. Roberts and Charles P. Faul, held forth at the Dean School-house, with a small audience. At both houses there are appointments for the future. Bro. J. H. Merriam having made previous arrangements, held forth last Sabbath, and the one previous, at another school-house about six miles north of town. He reported audiences small, but attentive. On last Sabbath, Bro. Lewis, accompanied by a few Saints, visited Bro. Summerfield, who lives about sixteen miles south-east of here, whose daughter, Sarah A., is very sick, lying at the point of death.

Bro. J. T. Kinnaman has lately arrived home from a very successful mission in Kansas, having baptized several as a result of his efforts in the past. Bro. Kinnaman is alive in the work, and is a standing witness to the efficaciousness of the gospel in conquering the unruly temper. While these outside efforts were going on, the preaching services here in town were well attended. Bro. T. W. Smith delivered two sermons on the subject "Brighamism, Mormonism, and Christianity," showing the disagreement of the former two, and the sameness of the latter two.

Bro. W. T. Bozarth is badly afflicted with the asthma, which threatens, without Divine aid, to interfere with his ministerial work. May God relieve him, and set him free to preach according to his desires.

God is remembering us with good crops and plenty to eat, and with spiritual food when we "hunger and thirst after righteousness." May Zion's cause move on, and finally triumph.

I am your brother for truth,

J. M. TERRY.

STEWARTSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 23d, 1883.

THE BELIEVER'S PRIVILEGE.

"If we were of the world, the world would love its own; but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."—John 15:19.

Without a doubt it would have been a great pleasure and privilege to me to have met my loving Savior face to face, while he was on the earth, that I might have had my hand placed in his, and that my poor, weak eyes might have beheld the dazzling brightness of the Son of God. Yes, we may think that this would have been wonderful; but bless God, we can have wonderful things from our Master, with us on earth and him in heaven. Those who realize that they have received the fulness of grace spoken of in John 1:16, and those who are drinking at the fountain spoken of in John 4:14, and live true to their convictions, realize something wonderful, "yea, more than wonderful."

My dear reader, the writer realizes continually this well of water in his soul, springing up unto everlasting life." If we were of the world, we would not have this; but because we have a free and full salvation, and because of the unity and oneness that exist among us, we are opposed, hated and terribly persecuted. This is because we are following day by day in the footsteps of him who doeth all things well. We are hated, yes, bless God, we are hated for his sake, and we, the true Christian characters, are greatly strengthened by this opposition. Why should this opposition and hatred spoken of strengthen us? Because of our nearness to the Master. If one sheep astray from its shepherd, should come in contact with a hundred wolves, it would without a doubt have to perish at their mercy. Just so long as that sheep has the consciousness within, that the shepherd is its best friend, is not the very feet of the shepherd the best place for it? And so long as it remains at the feet of the shepherd, the more the wolves howl the stronger and more courageous he waxes, knowing that the great Prince of Peace has all power, and that his promises are unto his children that he will impart power unto them, if they will live true to the Holy Ghost convictions.

The Lord forbid that we should be as those spoken of in 2 Peter 3:5, "having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof. The Lord can work great miracles through his true children to-day, the same as in ages past; because he is an unchangeable God, the same yesterday, to-day and forever.

I believe most heartily in the kingdom of heaven being at hand, a kingdom "within you," that consisteth in "righteousness, joy and peace in the Holy Ghost." That is not in word only, but "in power." The true idea of a New Testament church has been lost sight of, which is a congregation of blood-washed souls, brought together by ties of holy fellowship, whose names are written in heaven, and whose worship is in the Holy Ghost. "God is a spirit," and seeketh such to worship him as worship him "in spirit and in truth." (2 Tim. 1:7-9). As we said in the beginning, we are to be hated because of all of this, and yet we know that we belong entirely to the "Prince of Peace" and power.

My time is entirely consecrated to the Master. Expect to work for Jesus, just as long as I am permitted to breathe, and enjoy health; and when he calls me home, I shall go shouting hosannas to his name. My determination is:

"To raise the gospel banner,
And its standard plant on high;
And through Jesus our Redeemer,
We will conquer, though we die.
All the art of holy fighting,
We will learn at Jesus' feet,
Who has bid us sound the trumpet,
That shall never call retreat.
We have drawn the sword for glory,
And the scabbard thrown away;
We have buckled on our armor,
And are sure to win the day.
With our head beneath the helmet,
And the rock beneath our feet;
We are sounding forth the trumpet,
That shall never call retreat."

S. MARTIN CHASE.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 8th, 1883.

EPISTOLARY.

TO THE Saints of the South-Western Mission; Greeting:—I have for some time felt it my duty to address to you a general epistle. To me there seems to be a general spirit of apathy and coldness throughout the mission upon the part of the Saints; while the enemy is on the alert, more diligently laboring for our destruction than ever before. Officers are excusing themselves for reasons too numerous, and many of them too frivolous to mention. Members are flattering themselves that upon them rests no responsibility, and by neglecting duty they are losing the spirit, and are governed in their actions toward the world and each other by their natural dispositions and proclivities. Such is the nature of the work we are engaged in, appealing as it does to all classes of humanity, that it has gathered together men and women of all classes, schools and dispositions; and upon us rests much responsibility. It is for us to so live as to enjoy the Spirit, which will leaven the whole lump, and cause us to merge into a oneness in Christ, or by manifesting our natural inclinations, which are sure to come in contact with others differently constituted, bringing about division, discord and strife. Which will we do? Remember we are the servants of whomsoever we list to obey; and if we wish to bring or excuse ourselves in bringing about the latter result, we will receive our wages accordingly.

One of the most potent powers for good in bringing about a spirit of peace, reconciliation and love, is the assembling together. For this cause it is made the special duty of a certain officer to see that the members "meet together often;" unless this officer shall diligently discharge his duty in this regard, both by precept and example, he can not claim the blessings of God upon his labor, nor hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done," in the by and by. There has been a neglect, a sad neglect in this matter in the past; and as a consequence the spirit of assembling has been lost to some extent, and if we have to labor under some difficulty to revive that spirit, we have none to blame but ourselves. Let no one think he is not needed there. Every one is needed—every one needs the Spirit of the Master, if not to help others, to keep himself in harmony with the body, and to save his own soul.

My heart has been pained at times to see a spirit manifested to tear down instead of to build up; and I feel like calling upon you to arise in the strength of Israel's God, and shake off the lethargy binding you down. Humble yourselves before God, cease your strife and confusion, with your evil habits, and God will pour out his Spirit upon you; and the cause we love will move on gloriously. Elders, Priests, Teachers, Deacons, upon you rests much responsibility. Honest souls are waiting all around you, to hear the gospel sound. Will you withhold it from them? Members, your associates every day need the saving influence of the gospel. Will you impart it? Parents, your children are fast seeking the paths of sin, for want of proper teaching and example. Shall they go?

I know we have many excuses for non-performance of duty. But are they all sufficient. Will they bear the light of investigation, when we make our last and final report to him who sent us. Once I heard Elders—men clothed with the priesthood, authorized to act in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, stand up in conference and declare they were willing to do all they could, but poverty had hindered them. Conference adjourned, and while waiting at the depot for the train which was to bear them homeward, they were seen to be puffing their cigars. Did they tell an untruth, or had the spirit which actuated them in the assembly so soon left them? For surely we can not say we are willing to do all we can, when we chew up, and burn up, (thereby injuring ourselves), the very means we need, according to our own confession, to help us in our extremity. Here let me say that while traveling through the mission I have made a careful estimate, and I am quite safe in saying that there are at least one thousand dollars spent annually in the South-western Mission by the members for tobacco, and snuff. Now saying nothing of the injury you inflict upon yourselves, just think what a vast amount of good that money would do in advancing the work. The gospel was brought to us by sacrifice upon the part of others. Will we sacrifice anything? I shall not at this time ask you to sacrifice anything which is of any use to you; but how many will, from the hour they read this, quit the use of tobacco and snuff, and give the same amount to help on the good work? How many? Let me hear from you.

Let me here say, notwithstanding the discouraging circumstances I have mentioned, the cloud has a silver lining. The work is surely growing. The desire to hear is becoming more widespread and universal. The Spirit testifies, not only that the work is of God, but that a brighter day is coming. Never in my work in the mission have I been more confident of success than now. God will have a people in this mission. Shall we prove ourselves worthy to be among them? We of the missionary force propose to labor as the way is opened and God shall give us strength; and we ask your prayers, as well as your hearty co-operation, in the great work committed to us.

Humbly invoking the blessing of Almighty God upon our labors, and praying for a revival of the spirit of the work, I am your brother and co-laborer for Christ,

HEMAN C. SMITH, Pres. of Mission.
OENAVILLE, Bell Co., Texas, Oct. 27th, 1883.

THE FOOLISHNESS OF PREACHING.

"FOR after that, in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe."—1 Cor. 1: 21.

From this statement we judge the apostle means to convey the thought to his brethren, that a knowledge of God, or of the future, so far as pertains to salvation, cannot be discovered, or obtained, by the wisdom which man by his researches may acquire of himself; but that mankind are dependent upon the Creator to reveal himself in his own appointed way, as being the only possible way for the race to receive this blessing. It is true, and no one will attempt to deny it, that great temporal blessings and privileges are now had and enjoyed, as a result of the discoveries and inventions of man in the age in which we now live, especially in the arts and sciences great advancement has been made, and the end is not yet. "Many have run to and fro, and knowledge has increased." But we may be able to search into the heavens and count the constellations and weigh the planets in a balance; predict the return and appearance of a comet after it shall have traveled its billions and trillions of miles through the wilds of infinite space; dive down deep into the bowels of the earth, and from the rocks and the different strata predicate a theory of the age of the earth, and the various changes it has undergone in the periods of the past; have all the knowledge or the wisdom this world is able to bestow, and yet be entirely ignorant of the knowledge of God, or the plan of salvation; for that, the wisdom of this world is unable to give. But through the "foolishness of preaching" God has designed to bestow this great boon upon the human family, and to save them that believe." According to the Bible, God has always used this method to declare his will and bring about a knowledge of himself to the race. Paul says: "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent?"—Rom. 10: 13, 15.

In the various dispensations of the past, we see an exemplification of this principle. To Adam was given a revelation of the will of God, (Gen. 4. Inspired Translation), which will he taught, and caused to be taught, to his posterity. To Noah God revealed his will, which Noah declared to the Antediluvians as a "preacher of righteousness." (2 Peter 2: 5). Moses was called and sent with a message from God to bring Israel out of Egyptian bondage. (Ex. 3). And through him the law to Israel was given. (Ex. 19 and 20 chapters). In the meridian of time John the Baptist came, as a "man sent from God," (John 1: 6), to prepare the way for the coming of the Lord, "preaching in the wilderness of Judea," whose mission culminated in introducing to the world the Savior, whose advent the prophets and sages of the past had spoken of while under the divine inspiration of the Spirit of revelation, by which the future was opened up to their minds, and they saw and predicted the coming of the "Anointed One," who should come as the "Redeemer of Israel," who should declare the "will of the Father" unto the people. The messages brought by the various ones here spoken of, were binding upon the people, a reception and adoption of the principles declared brought blessings of light and knowledge, life and salvation, to those who thus gave heed; while on the other hand, those who refused to hear, or to give heed to the message delivered, brought upon themselves darkness, despair, condemnation and death. All who have made the Bible a study, know this to be so recorded. It was a message indeed "of life unto life, or of death unto death." In the days of Christ, when he established his Church upon the earth, he did not introduce a different method to save the children of men; but he established the work of salvation upon the same basis, i. e., "the foolishness of preaching." The record informs us that he called twelve, and sent them forth with the injunction, "And as you go, preach, saying, the kingdom of heaven is at hand." (Matt. 10: 7). He also sent seventy forth, whose mission should be salvation or condemnation to those they came to minister unto. "He that heareth you heareth me; and he that despiseth you despiseth me; and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me." (Luke 10: 1-16) Their authority came direct from God; hence, when in the faithful discharge of their calling God recognized them in their ministry. Paul explains it in these words: "And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation." "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christ's stead [equally binding as if done by Christ himself] be ye reconciled to God." (2 Cor. 5: 18-20). If, then, through the "foolishness of preaching," God chooses to "save them that believe," how essential it is that some should be now sent to declare God's will, and preach the gospel, the "word of reconciliation" to man; for "how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent?"—Rom. 10: 14, 15.

When we view the present aspect of the (so called) Christian world, when one is preaching one way to heaven and another another way, and all at the same time claiming equal authority to act in the name of Christ, the mind naturally becomes confused; for it must be obvious to all who will think, that it can not be, that all are sent of God to teach such conflicting doctrines, producing such inharmony and division. It is altogether out of harmony with the works of God as we see them manifested in nature's volume. "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge." (Ps. 19: 1, 2). There is no confusion there, no clashing, but all work together in harmony with the laws of their Creator. Shall we think then, that God, in whom dwells all wisdom and knowledge, the Creator and upholder of the universe, would, when devising a plan for the salvation of his creature man, authorize that which would confuse and conflict? "For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace." (1 Cor. 14: 33). It will be well, then, to apply the Scriptural rule to all who claim to be sent of God, i. e., "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." (Is. 8: 20). When Jesus taught he claimed to be sent with authority from on high, to declare the will of his Father, (not his own will), and in so doing many became astonished; for no doubt it sounded differently from what they had been accustomed to hear. Others marveled how he could teach (talk) as he did, knowing he had been deprived of the advantages of an education, so to speak; for his lot had been cast among the lowly and humble of life; yet in his teaching he promised that which none other did, for he said they should, upon the condition of their accepting the doctrine he preached, receive a knowledge of the doctrine, whether it be of God or not. Hear him: "And the Jews marveled, saying, How knoweth this man letters, having never learned! [never having been to college]. Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." John 7: 15-17.

When he gave his disciples that grand commission to preach, after his resurrection from the dead, and just prior to his ascension to heaven, he coupled with said commission a promise that certain signs should follow the believer, by which God would confirm the word declared by his servants. "He said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover. So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following."—Mark 16: 15-20. The first gospel sermon preached to the world after the resurrection of Christ, was preached by the Apostle Peter on the day of Pentecost, when they (the disciples) had received the endowment of "power from on high," promised by the Savior. (John 14: 16, 17). And they were not to attempt to go into all the world until they received that endowment. (Luke 24: 49). On the day of Pentecost "they were all with one accord in one place." The Spirit of Truth, the Comforter, the Holy Ghost, was then bestowed. There came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues of fire. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. (Acts 2: 1-4). When that multitude of Jews came together, and heard the convincing words of the Apostle Peter as he spoke under the inspiration of the Holy Ghost; they became convinced, and convicted of the truth, and they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the Apostles, Men and brethren what shall we do?" (Acts 2: 37). This is the all important question. Here are men fully convinced "of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment." Conscious of their lost condition, and demanding to know of those claiming to be the servants of God, "What shall we do." The answer is as important to us now, as it was to them then, for this reason; that what Peter told them to do then, is the very same that must be told us now. The promise made to that people then, is the same that we must have made to us now. Let us hear Peter's answer. "Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call."—Acts 2: 38, 39. We find taught here, 1st, faith, 2d, repentance, 3d, baptism for remission of sins, 4th, a promise made, that if these conditions were complied with, they should receive the Holy Ghost, which we read was bestowed by the "laying on of hands, and prayer." (Acts 8: 14-19; 19: 1-6.)

"The manifestations of the Holy Spirit" are detailed in 1 Cor. 12, so there can be no mistaking it for anything else. And whoever comes preaching anything different from this "doctrine" here quoted from the record, and telling us we must not look now for the Spirit of God as herein spoken of, as "promised" by the Apostle Peter, wherein he says, "Ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost," no matter who he is or where he hails from, he can not be sent of God; for he either perverts the gospel of Christ; or he is teaching the commandments of men, and should be rejected. "I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ, unto another gospel! Which is not another! but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from heaven preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you [at Galatia] let him be accursed."—Gal. 1: 6-8.

The divided condition of the Christian world is not the result of a strict adherence to the doctrine of Christ, but is the result of a direct departure from it; and what we see to-day is a fulfillment of what Paul wrote to Timothy wherein he says, "I charge thee, therefore, before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom! Preach the word! be instant in season and out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears! And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." —2 Tim. 4:1-4. It requires no argument to prove that this prediction has had a fulfillment. The fact is constantly before us, and a man must be willfully blind that can not see.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints claims a restoration of the authority of God to them, to preach the gospel, and minister to man upon the earth, in fulfillment of what John saw (and declared would come to pass) while he was on the Isle of Patmos. He says, "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell upon the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people. Saying, with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him, for the hour of his judgment is come; and worship him that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters."—Rev. 14:6, 7. In making claim to this restoration, we are willing to be tried by the rule that we here apply to others. "To the law and to the testimony;" for if we speak not according to that word, it will be because there is no light in us. (Is. 8:20).

Our church organization must be similar to that found in 1 Cor. 12:27, 28; Eph. 4:8-14. We must teach the same principles as we find in John 3:1-5; Acts 2:37, 38; 8:12-19; 10:44-48; 19:1-6; Heb. 6:1, 2, together with the blessings promised and enjoyed, according to these quotations, so must we make the same promise; for Christ said: "These signs shall follow them that believe." (Mark 16:17). As, then, God has devised this method, i. e., "through the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe," "And how can they preach [the gospel] except they be sent," [of God], and we declare it is by the authority of God we preach, and not of man; we say in the language of Christ, "My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will [obey the gospel with a pure heart] he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I [we] speak of myself [ourselves]." JOHN GILBERT.

"THE safest means of becoming known to many, is by assisting many that are unknown."

AMERICA SAID TO HAVE BEEN SETTLED BY THE WELSH IN 1170.

ITEMS in regard to the settlement of America, however new or strange, are usually interesting to the Saints. The extract below, sent us by Sr. S. A. Rose, seems to be well attested, and contains some things at least worth the reading by those who have not already been favored with an opportunity of more extensive reading upon the same topic.

"In a lecture delivered by James Wood, of Albany, he relates the following curious tradition which exists among the Welsh: in 1170 two brothers, David and Medoc, quarreled for the throne. The younger, Medoc, becoming disgusted, gave up the struggle, and fitting up a ship, sailed West. The next year he returned, said he had discovered a fruitful country, and called upon his friends to follow him. He had no difficulty in filling ten ships with men, women and children. They sailed away, and, according to the Welsh story, were never heard of again. This would not be worth much as history were it not that it seems confirmed by evidence found on this side of the ocean. In 1670, five hundred years after Prince Medoc left Wales, a Welsh minister named Morgan, was sent from New York to North Carolina to preach to some Welsh people settled there. One day he wandered too far beyond the outskirts of the settlement and was captured by the Indians. They took him many miles inland and prepared to burn him at the stake. The fagots were piled around him and his doom seemed sealed. Suddenly he exclaimed in Welsh: "Have I come so far to die like a dog at last!" To his surprise the Indian Chief sprang forward, loosed his bonds and embraced him, crying in Welsh: "No; not if you speak that language!" Henceforth he was the honored guest of the tribe. Morgan's surprise deepened when the principal members of the Indian Tribe gathered about him and began to converse with him in Welsh. He preached to them and they understood him. But what amazed him most was to discover that they had a manuscript copy of the Bible in the Welsh language. Morgan relates this story in a letter sent to a friend in Wales. This letter is well authenticated, but it is the only evidence we have in the matter. So far as we are aware, nothing more was ever heard of this Indian Tribe, who spoke Welsh and had a Welsh Bible. But about fifteen or twenty years later, an exploring party, returning from beyond the Mississippi river, relating, among other wonders, that they found a tribe of Indians who spoke the Welsh language. They, too, have a manuscript copy of the Bible. None of their number can read it, and they keep it as a mysterious treasure, carefully wrapped up in the skin of animals. And fifteen or twenty years later still, another exploring party brings us back strange news from the Red River of the North. They have found there singular people, with whitened hair and blue eyes. These people speak the Welsh language.

Lastly, Catlin speaks of a tribe of white Indians, dwelling along the upper Missouri. They are different from the tribes around them. Some have fair hair and blue eyes, and their language is strangely mixed with a great number of Welsh words. "Now" says Mr. Wood, "here we have five independent accounts, which seem to tell one story. They are so strange that historians don't know what to do with them. But if Indians on the American continent can speak the Welsh language, they must have been taught at some time; if there are manuscript copies of the Welsh Bible here, they must have come here somehow. And you can put the facts together as you please."

Another curious fact was stated by the lecturer. In speaking of the discoveries of John Cabot, he said in substance: "Here is a strange thing. John Cabot reached the shores of Newfoundland in 1497, only five years after Columbus set sail. He found that the Indians were in possession of a great number of French words, and could understand him when he spoke to them in that language. They knew the French term for codfish and fishing. He soon learned that the Breton fishermen from the rock-bound coast of northern France were in the habit of coming to these bleak American shores in their fishing smacks, and catching the cod with which these shores abounded. Remember, this was only five years after the time of Columbus. If these fearless fishermen, in their frail vessels, had been traveling backward or forward across the ocean long enough to teach the Indians a good part of their language, who knows whether or not they saw the continent of America even before Columbus did?"

Manners are of more importance than laws. Upon these, in a great measure, the laws depend. The law touches but here and there, now and then. Manners are what vex or sooth, corrupt or purify, exalt or debase, barbarize or refine us, by a constant, steady, uniform, insensible operation, like that of the air we breathe in. They give their whole form and color to our lives. According to their quality, they aid morals, they supply them, or they destroy them,

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald and Hope for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

Conference Minutes.

TEXAS CENTRAL DISTRICT.

Conference convened with the Central Texas Branch, at 10 o'clock a. m., October 13th, 1883.

Visiting members were given a voice in conference.

H. C. Smith was called to the chair, and A. J. Cato was chosen clerk, pro tem.

Branch Reports.—Elmwood Branch 34, including 4 Elders and 1 Teacher; 2 baptized, 1 died, 1 expelled. Reports from Elkhart and Live Oak branches too late for conference.

Officials' Reports.—Elders Elias Land, A. J. Cato, H. L. Thompson, Geo. Montague and H. C. Smith, reported in person. Priest Edmond White reported in person.

Afternoon session:—Whereas, it has pleased God since our last session to remove from our midst our worthy president, Bro. W. W. Belcher; therefore resolved, that while we feel and mourn his loss, and recognize the fact that in his death the Church has lost a worthy member and officer, his family a loving husband and father, and society a noble member, that we bow with humble submission to the divine will of the Master, and offer our condolence and sympathy to the bereaved; praying God to comfort those who mourn, and to raise up in his wisdom one to fill our worthy brother's place in the kingdom of God.

The following report was read and adopted and the committee released: "As a member of your committee to the Cheeseland Branch, I wish to report that my colleague, W. W. Belcher, and I visited the branch, and tried several members upon charges preferred, and found Bro. Burrill Goodwin guilty of swearing and intoxication, and Wm. Manley guilty of heresy, swearing, drunkenness and dancing. They both plead guilty, and said they did not expect to repent, but wished to be expelled. We therefore recommend that they be expelled. H. L. Thompson.

Bro. H. L. Thompson was elected to preside over the district, and Elias Land was sustained as vice-president.

On motion Elias Land was elected secretary of the district. Bro. H. L. Thompson was sustained as Bishop's Agent.

Resolved, That when this conference adjourns it does so to meet at the Reid School-house, near Paige, Bastrop Co., Texas, on Saturday before the full moon in February, 1884.

Resolved, That the presidency see after the Texas Central Branch, and report to next conference.

On motion the Cheeseland Branch was referred to the presidency of the district.

On motion Bro. Thompson was appointed a committee to visit Sr. Belcher, and obtain books and papers in her possession belonging to the Bishop's Agent.

Preaching by A. J. Cato at half past six o'clock p. m., assisted by Bro. Montague. Sunday morning the 14th, prayer meeting in charge of H. L. Thompson. Preaching at 11 o'clock by Elder Geo. Montague, assisted by E. Land. Sacrament meeting at half past two p. m., in charge of E.

Land, after which one was baptized. Preaching at 7 o'clock p. m. by H. C. Smith, assisted by A. J. Cato.

Miscellaneous.

Always write the Business portion of your Letter on a separate piece of paper, and let it be brief and explicit.

If you have anything to say to the Editor, or something you wish published, do not write it on the back of a business letter. Business is Business, and must be done in a business-like manner.

KEWANEE DISTRICT.

The next quarterly conference of above district, will be held at Kewanee, Ill., the 2d Saturday and Sunday in December, 1883, being the 8th and 9th. Conference will convene at ten o'clock a. m., on Saturday. The members throughout the district are earnestly invited. The officials of the district and branches know their duty. Come and let us have a good time in the Lord.

H. C. BRONSON, Dist. Pres.

BISHOP'S AGENT.

Having been officially notified of the recommendation of Daniel Brown as my agent for the Central California District, I therefore appoint him as my Agent in said district, and I ever pray, that the Spirit of the Master may be with him in the discharge of his duties.

G. A. BLAKESLEE, Presiding Bishop.

GALIEN, Mich., Nov. 8th, 1883.

NOTICE.

Whereas, the residences of Matilda Robinson, William Bowers, Elizabeth McIntyre, and Petronelly Larson are not known to the officers of the St. Joseph Branch of which the above named persons are members, they are respectfully asked to write to the branch, and report their faith and desires concerning the work, and their wishes for removal to some branches convenient to them. If any member knows of them; whether they be living or dead, or what their spiritual standing, please write, letters to be addressed to Mark H. Forscutt, St. Joseph, Missouri. By order of the branch council.

ROBERT WINNING, Secretary.

A REQUEST.

To all Saints and Friends; Greeting:—Seeking to erect a church building in the city of Fremont, Dodge county, Nebraska, believing if accomplished it will be of great advantage to the work of God in this district, and give prestige to the work generally, we earnestly solicit means from all who may feel an interest in our behalf in accomplishing this object, wishing it remembered that however small a donation is given it will be thankfully received and recorded to the credit of the sender. Please respond as soon as convenient. Amounts should be sent to Daniel Jones, care of M. W. Sampson, G. M. L. Whitman, or James P. Ogard, Fremont, Dodge county, Nebraska, either by money order, registered letter or postal notes.

In behalf of said Committee on building,

G. M. L. WHITMAN, Secretary.

MARRIED.

McKEE—CHASE.—At the residence of Father McKee, Fall River, Massachusetts, October 20th, 1883, by Elder John Gilbert, brother James McKee to sister Myra D. Chase. May the blessings of health and prosperity attend them.

ROBERTS—KEMP.—At the residence of the bride's parents, near Tabor, Iowa, by Elder Wm. Leeka, September 16th, 1883; William D. Roberts, to Mattie A. Kemp, both of Nebraska City, Nebraska.

May the morn of their life
Be bright and joyous;
The noon-tide peaceful and happy;
The sunset gloriously hopeful,
Is the wish of their friend.

H. K.

DIED.

ROGERS.—At his residence, on Fox river, Kendall county, Illinois, November 1st, 1883, David Rogers, father of Israel L. Rogers, of old age and general debility. He was born in York State, May 11th, 1796, and at his death was 87 years, 5 months, and 21 days old. He united with the Church about the year 1863. He had a family of fourteen, twelve of whom survive him. His grand-children number forty-six, great grand-children thirty-one, great great grand-children two. He was buried from the house of his son David, where a large number of relatives and friends were present, from respect for the departed one. Services, November 4th, conducted by Elders J. S. Patterson and W. Vickery.

McMAINS.—At Elmwood, Texas, May 11th, 1883, Sr. Roanna S. McMains, wife of Mr. A. F. McMains, and daughter of Bro. H. L. Thompson. She was born at Liberty, Liberty county, Texas, September 11th, 1846, and baptized June 11th, 1880, by Elder W. T. Bozarth. She leaves a husband and five children, with a numerous circle of relatives and friends. She was an affectionate wife and mother, and a faithful Saint. She was chosen secretary of Texas Central District at its organization, and performed the duties of that office with neatness and precision, until her decease, and was also secretary of branch at the time of her death. The funeral sermon was preached October 21st, 1880, by Elder Heman C. Smith; which was largely attended, notwithstanding rain was falling.

Gone, when mostly needed within her family dear,
Gone, and left those mourning, who loved her dearly here.

We miss her wherever she was wont to stay,
In her home now lonely, or where we meet to pray.
When voices there commingle in praise to God above,
We miss the voice which led us in songs of peace and love.

Now, though we weep in sorrow o'er spoils that death has won,
We'll prepare to meet her, when here our work is done.

HOUGAS.—At Mission, LaSalle county, Ills., November 4th, 1883, of cholera infantum, Zenas Melvin, son of Thomas and Harriet E. Hougas, aged 2 months and 27 days; blessed by Elder J. W. Gillen, September 30th, 1883. Services by Elder J. S. Patterson.

Be not over anxious about the victory. Do your work wisely, faithfully, serenely, and the victory will care for itself.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

A three run Custom and Merchant Mill; one stone on Wheat, one on Middlings, and one on Corn, with all the necessary machinery; and also a Saw Mill attached, driven by a 35 Horse Power Engine. Mill building 40x60 feet, four stories high. Also 80 Acres of Land with the mill.

The above property is situated on Little Blue, eight miles north east of Independence, Mo., in a good wheat country; fuel cheap. This is one of the best opportunities offered, for one desirous of buying.

For particulars, call on or address J. P. JOHNSON, Blue Mills; or SMITH & BRACKENBURY, 8sep3m Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent,

25aug Lamoni, Iowa.

WANTED

A man accustomed to Farm Work, and taking care of Stock and Milking Cows. Good wages and steady employment for a good, faithful hand. A member of the church preferred. Address:

DANIEL JONES,

10nov4t Webster P. O. Dodge Co., Neb.

ALEX. H. SMITH.

J. W. BRACKENBURY.

SMITH & BRACKENBURY,

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,

Independence, Jackson Co., Missouri.

Rents and Taxes a Specialty. All communications, with stamps accompanying, will receive prompt attention.

19may6m

F. C. WARKNY,

REAL ESTATE AGENT,

Collects Rents and Pays Taxes for non-residents; Buys and Sells Real Estate. Has a large list of Farms and City Property in Jackson County for sale cheap on easy terms

WEST LEXINGTON STREET,

12may8m INDEPENDENCE, MO.

BUTLER & CLAY,

Manufacturers of

COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,

WOOLEN MITS, &c.,

903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00

Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00

Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00

Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00

Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

Men's Cardigan Jackets, first-grade, each ..... 3 00

Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50

Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITS.

Men's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 35

Ladies' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 25

Misses' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 20

Children's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m

BUTLER & CLAY.

Sample Free of the American Sad Iron Heater. Its merits are seen at a glance. It saves money, as only one half the fuel is required to heat the Irons. Every house keeper will buy one at sight. Brothers and Sisters who are out of work, now is your time to engage in Profitable Employment One SAMPLE HEATER prepaid, only $1; sells from $1 to $1.60, according to locality; weight but 20 ounces each.

Half doz. $3.50, one doz. $6.50.

We prepay charges on Sample Heaters only.

If you prefer to sell something for a higher price and make a larger profit, try our

NEW SELF-ADJUSTING BED SPRING.

It weighs but 10 lbs, and occupies less than one cubic foot when packed. No Harbor for Bugs and is warranted to be one of the most durable and comfortable Springs in the market. SAMPLE SPRING sent upon receipt of $2. Sells for from $3.50 to $8, according to locality.

Half dozen, $10; one dozen, $18.

We do not promise you big wages and no work; but you will make money according to the energy you devote to the business. It is enough to say, we have Brothers and Sisters in all parts of the United States and Canada who are doing well selling our goods. If after two weeks' trial, goods are not satisfactory, and all we claim for them, return them and we will refund your money. We send one of our Heaters or Springs free with your first order for half dozen or more of either article, thus giving you a Sample Free.

Yours in Bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, Mfgs, Peoria, Ill.

2jan

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

MASON & HAMLIN

Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN

Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

TRACTS.

- No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a dozen, per 100 . . . 50
- No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100 . . . 40
- No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per dozen, 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000 . . . 1 75
- No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Pre-Requisites, and Design; and Who Shall Administer; 16 page; 25c. per dozen, per 100 . . . 1 75
- No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a dozen, 100 . . . 40
- No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100 . . . 1 75
- No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, per 100 . . . 2 25
- No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 p.; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
- No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100 . . . 2 25
- No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a doz., 100 . . . 1 75
- No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 1 75
- No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100 . . . 40
- No. 16.—Polygamy: Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, per 100 . . . 1 40
- No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 1 75
- No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a doz., 100 for 1 10
- No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 23c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 1 40
- No. 21.—Truths by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100 . . . 15
- No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100 . . . 1 10
- No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 1 25
- No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 40
- No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 40
- No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 5c. a dozen, per 100 . . . 40
- No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a doz., 100 for . . . 1 40
- No. 28.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for . . . 40
- No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15c. a dozen, per 100 . . . 1 10
- No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1.00, 1,000 for . . . 1 75
- A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 . . . 1 10
- Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen . . . 60
- Prophecy on the late Rebellion; per 100 . . . 15

COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.

Bound in limp cloth turned in, 270 pages . . . 75

CERTIFICATES AND REPORTS.

- Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen . . . 50
- Annual Statistical Reports, two for . . . 10
- Branch Financial Reports, per dozen . . . 30
- Certificates of Baptism and Membership, per dozen . . . 30
- Certificate of Removal, per dozen . . . 20
- Marriage Certificates, per dozen . . . 25

SONGS OF ZION.

By T. W. Smith, 40 pages, 10 cents each, per dozen 1 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

- The Problem of Human Life, Here and Hereafter, bound in cloth boards, 524 pages . . . 1 50
- Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols. . . . 4 00
- Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols. . . . 4 00
- Baldwin's Ancient America, cloth, illustrated . . . 1 80
- Rollin's Ancient History . . . 4 00
- Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible, cloth . . . 1 75
- The Koran . . . 1 50
- The Bible Text Book . . . 1 00
- Apocryphal New Testament . . . 1 65
- Brown's Concordance of the Bible . . . 60
- Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets . . . 35
- Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality . . . 50
- Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size . . . 35
- Josephus complete, 1 vol., library leather . . . 3 50
- Universalism Against Itself; by A. Willford Hall, Author of the Problem of Human Life . . . 1 00

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.

All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

COPIES FOR
E. JOHNSON
BOX 481

"HEarken to the word of the Lord: For there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"We believe that one man should have one wife, and one woman but one husband: Except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again."—Page 830, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 550.

Lamoni, Iowa, November 24th, 1883.

No. 47.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 24th, 1883.

By advices from Brn. Levi Anthony and E. L. Kelley, we learn that the debate between the Rev. Clark Braden and Bro. Kelley which began on November 7th at Wilber, Nebraska, has occupied six nights on the first proposition, involving the authenticity of the Book of Mormon. No report of the issue has been sent us, other than Bro. Anthony's brief statement that the six nights closed "with no discredit to our cause."

It is reported that Mr. Braden is quite a champion, and hence some anxiety will be felt among the Saints as to the result, notwithstanding the general fearlessness as to the welfare of the cause which is usually felt by them. If the work had to stand in human wisdom it would be worth while to fear when the Elders met opponents; but when it is remembered that we are serving the Master, and that "in the day and hour" of need he will supply, there is but little ground for fearfulness.

"I CAN NOT LIVE MY RELIGION WHERE I AM."

THIS was the burden of the reason assigned by a brother for changing his place of residence.

"Why can not you live in accordance with your profession of faith, where you now live? Are the people unfriendly?"

"No; I do not think they are. I live in peace with my neighbors. But I can not feel to enjoy my religion away from the church, among unbelievers."

"Do any of your neighbors ever visit you and talk upon the subject of religion?"

"There are one or two who sometimes drop in of an evening. But I never introduce the subject; and if they touch upon it, I get started on something else and turn it off as soon as I can."

"You can read the Scriptures and pray, both in your closet and in your family; and thus enjoy one of the best means to live close to your Savior the saint has, I presume to say?"

"Why, I do sometimes read the Bible, and sometimes pray in secret. But—you see my children, some of them do not belong to the church—They just hate the name of Mormon; and don't like to have us attend to family prayer."

"Would they object to your enjoying that privilege if you were members of the Methodist Church; or were Christians or Holiness People?"

"No, I presume not. They attend the meetings of all the denominations, and seem to enjoy the services."

"Your wife belongs to the Saints, same as yourself, I believe?"

"Yes."

"What does she think about it?"

"She frequently urges me to engage in worship. She says that she thinks that we ought to exercise our faith, even though the children may not like it."

"How old are your children?"

"The two oldest are John and Emma. John is sixteen and Emma fourteen. The other four are smaller. But John and Emma are just beginning to go into company; and they hear so much about the Mormons, among their young companions, that they are ashamed to own that their folks belong to them."

"Would your children accompany you if you moved into a place where the Saints were anyways numerous and held meetings?"

"I reckon that they would have to. They are dependent upon us as yet."

"Would they be any more willing for you to hold family worship in a community where the Saints dwell and held communion than they are now?"

"We think, may be, if we lived in a community where the Saints held meetings that they might take a notion to go and hear preaching, and may be, after a while join the church."

"What other benefit besides attending the preaching of the Saints would be derived by you from residing among them?"

"Why. The influence of the children of Saints who would associate with our children would give them a better understanding of the faith; and incline them more to the church."

"But, suppose that the children of the Saints where you would remove to, would be like yours, ashamed of the faith of their parents; how would their influence affect your children then?"

"O! that can't be possible."

"Why not. Are not the Saints in the branches made up of just such people as yourself and wife, who have obeyed the gospel from hearing it preached at their homes away from those branches, afterwards moving in there? Have not their children been subject to the same influences as yours have? And what assurance have you that those children are different from yours in the exercise of their influence to keep their parents from praying, reading the scriptures, and talking on religious subjects in the family circle?"

"It can not be possible that Saints living together will allow their children to control them in that way!"

"Why not. You confess that your two oldest, one fourteen, the other sixteen have such an influence in your household. Why should not other children have a similar influence in the households where they belong?"

"One would naturally suppose that Saints living in a community where they could have constant religious associations would be stronger for all spiritual purposes, than those living separated from the body."

"Admit that there are reasons why Saints should seek to gather and live together. Is it not a fact that the Master has said, "Ye are the salt of the earth; and that if the "salt hath lost its savor, wherewith shall the earth be salted;" What did he mean by the word savor? How does it apply to the Saints?"

"I suppose he meant that grace or faith that enabled them to set a good example before the world."

"I think that a very good rendition of the text. Now, do you think it likely that any Saint that is afraid of his own children, so far as his religion is concerned, will be apt to set a "good example before the world?" If he has not grace, or faith enough to sustain him in the exercises of his religion in the privacy of his family circle; though he may be surrounded by strangers without; do you think he will carry within him into any branch to which he may remove, strength of character and devotion enough to enable him there to control his own house, and do his share of the good work Saints are expected to do?"

"No. I expect not."

"Do you not believe that it is the duty of every Saint to put himself in such a relationship with the Master that he can "live his religion" anywhere; so that when he removes from the neighborhood where he has lived, he may take a good influence with him? Nay more, is he not under just obligation to create, have and exercise such influence in favor of his religion that he has the moral respect of his own family, whether they belong to the church or not, and of those around him whom he may rightfully call his neighbors?"

"From this I take it that you think I ought not to move into a branch of the church, unless I can take some spiritual strength with me; as well as expecting to get some from the association."

"Is that an improper supposition?"

"No. I think it very just. I will try what I can do to redeem myself."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—When an officer of the church gives up his license, he still being a member, should he after that be reported as an officer; does he not still hold the office, being only inactive. Can he obtain his license again by vote, or should he be reordained?

Ans.—He should be reported as an officer, inactive. His license may be restored without reordination.

Q.—Is it proper for Priest or Teacher to ask the members in visiting them, if they have any malice, hatred, envy, or hardness of heart against any other member?

A.—Yes, if he be so led.

Q.—When an Elder has been found guilty of offenses by a court appointed by the branch, and upon a rehearing at a conference is still found guilty, and he fails to report, which is the proper body to deal with him?

A.—The conference should report the result of the rehearing; and the branch should then act upon the suggestion of the court; or take such other steps as the case demands.

Q.—Can the branch do anything about his membership?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Do the branch have to wait the action of the conference?

A.—Yes.

Q.—When a member of the church comes before the officers of a branch stating that he wants to leave the Church and demands his name taken from the books, should he be cited to trial or should the demand be complied with without trial?

A.—The rule has been to cite such person to trial for apostasy. Our own opinion is that where the person is not guilty of any crime or bad conduct, sufficient to warrant a charge, but simply wishes to withdraw from the fellowship of the Church because of loss of faith in it, or other similar reason, that to release by vote is sufficient. It can not be thought that the Church would wish to drive persons to commit crime, or be guilty of unchristianlike conduct in order to compel the Church to expel them.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI,

November 8th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph.—I see in Herald that you in that hard pan country have raised pumpkins weighing thirty pounds. That is big, but we can just beat that seven pounds. Mr. Williams, a grocer, had three, weighing twenty, thirty and thirty-seven, squashes. So, you see, Jackson county is yet ahead. Hurrah, for the thousand hills, this was not a pumpkin season. Why man we have a man, Christopher Mann (by name) if you please, 109 years old; now hush.

J. W. BRACKENBURY.

We acknowledge beat on the Mann part of Bro. Brackenbury's letter; but his squashes all three only weigh 87 pounds, while our Decatur beauties weighed 137 and 135, respectively. Talk louder, brother, or your thousand hills roaring will be but a whisper to our prairie gales.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE two days' meeting at Plum Creek, Iowa, is said to have been well attended; brethren C. St. Clair, R. J. Anthony, H. Kemp, J. M. Stubbard and others of the ministerial force of the district being present and taking an active part in the services. Bro. St. Clair remained preaching at Hamburg, where it was expected he would baptize a number, when Bro. L. C. Donaldson wrote.

Sr. Maggie Kite, Summitville, Iowa, writes that she has the following Heralds and Millennial Stars, which she will send to any wishing reading matter, if they send her stamps to cover the postage.

Of the Herald 10 of 1865; 24 of 1866; 15 of 1867; 22 of 1868; 23 of 1869; 10 of 1870; 5 of 1873; 13 of 1874; 17 of 1875; of the Millennial Star two years' numbers of 1852, and eight numbers of 1853.

Bro. E. C. Brand visited Logan, Cache county, Utah, the week ending November 7th, and was very kindly treated by Elder B. F. Cummings, the Editor of the Utah Journal, who invited him home to dinner and showed him every courtesy. Bro. Brand also states that the authorities of the church at Logan refused him a place to preach in that place. Bishop Hammond, however, of Huntsville, permitted him the use of the Ward Meeting House at that place for one evening's discourse. We give Bishop Hammond and Elder Cummings credit for their kindly courtesy shown to Elder Brand, with great pleasure.

J. J. Tibbetts, agent of the Eagle Nurseries, of Montrose, Iowa, H. M. Crouse, proprietor, has been visiting Lamoni for a few days, soliciting orders for fruit trees, grapes, ornamental trees, shrubs, &c. He will return again in a few days. He may be seen at the hotel. He guarantees satisfaction in stock.

In Herald No. 40, page 643, second column, line eleven, read Austintown, instead of Warren, as printed.

R. G. INGERSOLL as a Temperance lecturer if reported correctly in the extract below gives an eloquent support to the temperance workers.

AN IMPEACHMENT OF INTemperance.

There is a prejudice against any man engaged in the manufacture of alcohol. I believe from the time it issues from the coiled and poisonous worm in the distillery until it empties into the hell of death, that it is demoralizing to everybody that touches it, from the source to where it ends. I do not believe that anybody can contemplate the subject without being prejudiced against the crime. All they have to do is to think of the wrecks on either side of the stream of death, of the suicides, of the insanity, of the poverty, of the destruction, of the little children tugging at the breast, of weeping and despairing wives asking for bread, of the man struggling with imaginary serpents, produced by this devilish thing; and when you think of the jails, of the almshouses, of the asylums, of the prisons, and of the scaffolds, on either bank, I do not wonder that every thoughtful man is prejudiced against the vile stuff called alcohol.

Intemperance cuts down youth in its vigor, manhood in its strength, and age in its weakness. It breaks the father's heart, bereaves the doting mother, extinguishes natural affection, erases conjugal love, blots out filial attachment, blights parental hope, and brings down mourning age in sorrow to the grave. It produces weakness, not strength; sickness, not health; death, not life. It makes wives widows, children orphans, fathers fiends, and all of them paupers and beggars. It feeds rheumatism, nurses gout, welcomes epidemics, invites cholera, imports pestilence, and embraces consumption. It covers the land with idleness, poverty, disease and crime. It fills your jails, supplies your almshouses, and demands your asylums. It engenders controversies, fosters quarrels, and cherishes riots. It crowds your penitentiaries, and furnishes the victims for your scaffolds. It is the life-blood of the gambler, the ailment of the counterfeiter, the prop of the highwayman, and the support of the incendiary. It countenances the liar, respects the thief, and esteems the blasphemer. It violates obligation, reverences fraud, and honors infamy. It defames benevolence, hates love, scorns virtue, and slanders innocence. It incites the father to butcher his helpless offspring, helps the husband to massacre his wife, and aids the child to grind the parricidal ax. It burns up man and consumes woman, detests life, curses God, and despises heaven. It suborns witnesses, nurses perjury, defiles the jury-box, and stains the judicial ermine. It bribes the voters, disqualifies votes, corrupts elections, pollutes our institutions, and endangers our government. It degrades the citizen, debases the legislator, dishonors the statesman, and disarms the patriot. It brings shame, not honor; terror, not safety; despair, not hope; misery, not happiness. And with the malevolence of a fiend it calmly surveys its frightful desolation; and, insatiated with havoc, it poisons felicity, kills peace, ruins morals, blights confidence, slays reputation, and wipes out national honor, and then curses the world and laughs at its ruin.

It does all that, and more. It murders the soul. It is the sum of all villainies; the father of all crimes; the mother of all abominations; the curse of curses; the devil's best friend, and God's worst enemy.

THE brethren, I. N. White and Rudolph Etzenhouser have been at work at Viola, Iowa, and as an evidence that their work is doing good we quote from the Springville, Linn county, Iowa, Era, of October 31st.

MORMONISM.—White and Etzenhouser, the two Mormon elders who have been holding meetings at Viola during the past fortnight, have succeeded in creating considerable feeling in behalf of their church and its doctrines. Last Sunday Rev. N. Pye took up the subject of Mormonism and preached to an overflowing house in that village and repeated the same here in the evening. At both meetings the Mormon elders were present. The church here was filled to more than seating capacity. At the close of meeting a little excitement was created by one of the elders attempting to give out an appointment for a reply, following which some demonstrations were indulged in—in a thoughtless manner probably—to a great extent unwarranted. White made a reply to Rev. N. Pye's sermon, at Viola Monday evening. He left for Monticello Tuesday morning, where he will hold a series of meetings. Etzenhouser spoke in Viola last night and will speak to-night. These gentlemen belong to what is known as the reorganized church of Latter Day Saints, and are known in history as the Josephites, as counter-distinguished from the Brighamites. White lives in Edenville, Marshall county, Iowa, and Etzenhouser in Missouri.

In the same paper is the following taken from the Viola correspondence.

The Mormon Elders have raised quite an excitement in this vicinity, causing the Rev. Pye to deem it necessary to answer some of their arguments which he did last Sunday. Mr. Pye's effort was a good one and caused the Elders to answer Monday night.

Correspondence.

COLDWATER, Mich.,

November 2d, 1883.

Editors of Herald.—I was privileged to attend the Michigan District Conference, held on the 13th and 14th of October. The place of meeting was up in what is known as the burnt district. The country is rapidly improving since the fire, and the saints resident there are industrious, and making themselves homes. All seemed to have enough to sustain and care for the physical man, and I did not hear a complaint of want. The conference was well attended by those living adjacent to where it was held, but there were but few from the district at large. Brethren D. Campbell and Isaac Bogue, of General Conference appointment, also, were present. Bro. Campbell preached a well received discourse on Sunday morning; and it was noticeable that he is brightening up his armor. Of the district, Bro. J. J. Cornish, A. Barr, Hugh Campbell, John Bailey, Peter Most, E. Delong, James Carpenter, Willard J. Smith, Isaac Phelps, John Shook and some others, who labor as officials, were present. All of these are doing what they can, either at home or abroad, or both, to sustain the work. They manifest true interest in the cause, and take pride in defending its principles. Most of them are young, and it was a source of gratification to us, to note the improvement and familiarity with the text books attained by some. It is safe to say, that there is a little constellation of laborers in preparation in North-East Michigan, that ere long, if faithful, will be able to render great service to the cause. Of these, Bro. J. J. Cornish, James Carpenter, E. Delong, Willard J. Smith, will soon be able to devote pretty much all of their time, with reasonable aid; also, Brn. Barr and Phelps can be out some of the time.

This is an excellent field for labor. The country is new, and contains a mixed emigration, from various parts, mostly from Canada, and a freedom and independence are enjoyed scarcely known in older places, where strong organizations exist, social and religious, and dead beats, which stand in the way of freedom of enquiry and true progress. Thank heaven for the spheres where greatest freedom reigns.

An excellent spirit was exhibited by the saints at the conference, and a friendly feeling was manifested by the outsiders. The social and preaching services were well attended, and gave strength and encouragement to the hearers. Bro. Willard J. Smith, of East Tawas, preached a good discourse on Saturday evening. On Sunday evening Bro. James Carpenter delivered a stirring discourse from the text, Preach the Word. Ample preparation was made, and we became directly indebted to Bro. C. Sherman for a resting place. Thanks. The only mistake was, the house was secured but for two days, when it should have been for three. But no one was to blame, perhaps. The thanks of the conference were due to the United Brethren minister, name not remembered, who came to fill a regular appointment on Sunday evening, but was kind enough to waive his right, and give the conference the benefit of his time. This was Christian. The Elder listened attentively to Bro. Carpenter's discourse, but with what effect the writer has not learned. Any way the text was a good one, and Bro. Carpenter perspired freely, as he presented things in rather of a thunder and lightning way, as if reckless as to whom the lightning might hit.

The conference passed a resolution binding the district to raise funds to pay the expenses of five delegates to attend the General Conference. But as there was no one appointed to receive said moneys, or directions given how to proceed to raise them, it virtually amounts to a request for the members of the district to aid those going as they may feel able and interested. Really this is all that it should mean. The district is not able to raise from $300 to $350, in order to send five delegates to conference, and meet other, and more urgent demands. True, the Rules on Representation provide that five delegates may be sent from each district; but this is in view of the fact that these five may represent a constituency of fifty or a hundred thousand, or more. With a large membership, it would be wise and consistent to send the full delegation. As it is, it is neither wise nor essential to send so large a delegation, and burden the district with defraying the expenses. Better send one or two, and let them be those who can and will to some extent defray their own expenses, if they will serve the cause as well—until we grow rich and able. The main point is to have the district represented, and that properly. Who does it is not at all essential. If some of our responsibilities can be placed, as heretofore, upon some of the General Conference appointees, or those able and willing to defray their own expenses, if they will serve the district as well, it seems wisest to do so; that they may share a proportion of our responsibilities where expenses are great, in the day of our poverty. Then members of the district can be generous enough to aid what they can, and divide the expenses. Otherwise, if the district is to foot the bill entirely, better send by one or two delegates, until we are numerically much stronger than now. This reference seems necessary for the benefit of the district at large.

After the conference, by the kindness of Brn. Sherman and Barr, I went some three miles north of Richmondville, on the lake shore, and preached to an attentive audience, in a new and commodious school-house, built after the most approved style, with ease and freedom, on the evening of the 15th. Was kindly entertained at Bro. Robinson's, who has a very worthy household. The work was planted here mainly by the efforts of Brn. J. J. Cornish, A. Barr, and Willard J. Smith. The people are mostly of Scotch extraction, and are in iustrious and proud spirited. Their homes are beautifully situated, in full view of the restless waters of Lake Huron, where may be seen, at almost any moment, boats of traffic, from one to a hundred, gliding upon her soft bosom, with white sails glittering in the sunlight, and the smoke curling up into clouds from the steamers. Their new church is under cover, and well on the way to completion. It is the result of industry, faith, sacrifice and effort. Should any one find himself possessed of overmuch of this world's goods, and feel like starting out on a benevolent tour, and would cast into their building treasure a V or an X, it might result to them as a treasure laid up in heaven.

On the afternoon of the sixteenth a prayer meeting was held at the house of Sr. Ryerse, where those who were not too busy gathered and were blessed in their devotions; so much so that they thought to renew the service the next day. In the evening we divided the time with Bro. W. J. Smith, who had arrived during the day, and was on his way home. Bro. Smith did well. The interest continuing, an appointment was left for the next evening, and to be followed up, for Brn. D. Campbell and J. Shook arrived on the fifteenth, also, with a view of pushing the work on the lake shore. May success attend them. I had the pleasure of meeting with Bro. Birch here, of London fame, and Bro. Wing of Lexington. They are standing for the cause up in the pine regions. Good of heart, may their faith increase. One is Birch, the other Wing. Seeing that this region was better prepared with laborers than some others, after accepting the hospitalities of Bro. English and his kind family, and tarrying over night, I bid adieu to the brethren and fellow helpers, on the morning of the seventeenth, and returned home with our excellent brother, A. Barr. Since his wife's death, Bro. Barr's little girls keep house for him, and the spirit of peace and kindness reigns in the home. Though he sacrificed all, once, following the unrealities of Adventism, he is still full of courage and buoyant of heart, and is fast regaining his former prosperity, as well as laboring in the cause. Bro. Hugh Campbell met me in the afternoon, and conveyed me to his home, where I remained over night and preached in the evening in Sister Ladd's house, to an attentive audience. Bro. Campbell is the Elder of the branch, and is in excellent standing. His efforts are sustained by his worthy helpmeet. But the sweetest rose has its thorn. So in life's experience. It rained, we got wet, damp feet, cold winds blew, rheumatism came on, and the worst cold I have had for years came on; so we changed our course, and returned home on the eighteenth, after visiting Bro. J. J. Cornish. We found him too busy to be otherwise than busy. We had a pleasant visit with Sr. Cornish, and left them feeling well.

WM. H. KELLEY.

SALT RIVER, MAcon Co., Mo.,
November 7th, 1883.

Dear Brother Joseph:—I think I am safe in saying, that the work is onward in this district. Outside of the branches I have a number of places open for preaching, and I have made many friends to the Church in these places. I think before very long there will some of them be coming into the Church. Since last I wrote to you, I have been trying to do my duty in my mission, and I have been breaking up some ground, and I feel sure good can and will be done in the places where I have been laboring; for as we held our district conference here in this Salt River Branch last Saturday and Sunday, reports were good from the places where I have labored, and I am requested to return to these places as soon as I can. I have spent but little of my time among the branches of late. We closed our Conference here on Sunday evening, and I must say that we had a good Conference, and the Lord was present with us by the power of the Holy Spirit, and we were cheered and comforted.

Your Brother in Christ,

GEORGE HICKLIN.

PITTSBURG, Pa.,

October 27th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—Some three or four years ago, I read a sad letter from a sister, who had lost a little one. The language in the letter impressed me by its sorrowful tone and expression of fear lest she would not know her little one in the eternal condition as her child. On finishing her letter I wrote the following thoughts:

A mother has lost her babe. It has been permitted to pass out of mortal life. Permitted, I say, for we do not know that God interferes in every instance, and takes from mortal life, those on whom he has conferred this order of being, or simply permits the various causes incident to our human condition to end in their own results. Be that as it may, we do know that Jesus has said: "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing; and yet I say unto you, That not one of these falleth to the ground without my Father's notice. How much better are ye than many sparrows." So, though we do not understand all the system by which our Heavenly Father has created and governs the universe, we still have assurance that our condition is known, and our departure, old or young, is noticed above. These thoughts occurred to me while reading a mother's expression of half hope and half fear for the future condition of her child. Would she know her little one hereafter as her own dear child? If she would, O what joy! If not, O the fond heart turns faint, and dark is all the prospect; and grim, giant Despair almost seizes his victim.

Let us look about us. The work of God surrounds our path. Let us draw lessons from his visible creations. Behold the wondrous fitness of all things in the firmament above, the earth beneath. God created them all "by his only begotten created he them, and without him nothing was made, that was made." He gave the laws for their guidance. See all the perfect system that carries on without confusion the stupendous work of the Almighty as ages roll on, also perfect in their spheres, from the movements of the mighty planets to the little chirping bird. Can we see all this, and remember that God is the author of all this perfection, and yet doubt his ability to arrange the affairs of eternity to our satisfaction. How often we find hearts bereaved, sighing that one thought, "Shall we know each other there?"

Let us remember that our capacity for joy and happiness will change. Now we are mortal, then immortal. Far better might the little child set the bounds for its joy when it attains to manhood. This is but a thing of this life; but two periods in one short existence. Yet who would think of thus measuring the things of brief time. We can see the results of such an attempt. A child is surrounded by its favorite companions and playthings. Abruptly take them from it, its little heart is almost broken. All light and joy for the little one are for the moment gone. Its little heart suffers as much as it has capacity to suffer, as it before had been enjoying as much as it had capacity to enjoy. Its little breast throbs with sobs, until it loses its little trouble in nature's sleep. Twenty years after, take the same child the same toys, the same sources of enjoyment. It has grown to manhood now or womanhood. Bid it pass the days with the pleasure of its infancy. You would be laughed at in derision, and bid to note better the changes of time. Eternity—who shall measure thine infiniteness! Boundless as space are thy bounds, and wondrous to us as is our God art thou, glorious Eternity.

In time we love those dear to us. Will all the power of our natures, when this mortality puts on immortality, be lost. I doubt not that when we meet them, we shall love them with our perfected beings and increased capacity, a thousand times better than we know how here. It seems to me as I think of that glorified condition, that I can see these glorious beings filled with infinite love for those saved ones they have known in time. But wondrous love that flows to them from God; the same celestialized love is felt by them for all the hosts of Heaven. Eternal love is like eternity, boundless and endless.

Upon thy word, O God, let me rest; for thou hast laid the foundations of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands. Of old it has been said in thy word: "and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

All that is necessary to fulfill these promises will be given in Eternity; for he doeth all things well.

GEO. H. HULMES.

No. 655 Walnut St., CHICAGO, Ill.,
October 5th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—The following is a vision that I had on the above date, which I desire to have you publish in the Herald as soon as convenient. It substantiates the vision that I had about a year ago, and reveals the last part of that vision making it plainer to the understanding of the children of men, which you published in the Herald about a year ago. On the 5th day of October, 1883, I being overcome by the Spirit, lay down on the bed, and according to my recollections I had no sooner done so than I was carried away in a vision, in which I apprehended I was going to Washington; I went to the depot, took the train and started. Time seemed to pass rapidly, and the train ran faster than I ever supposed it possible for a train to run. Soon I heard the conductor call out the name of the station, of which I now forget. Washington, D. C. I got off in a great hurry and inquired where the Government Buildings were. A man answered me, pointing across the river, saying, Over there. I looked, and behold, the buildings were all on fire, which was ascending to the very heavens. All at once it began to spread rapidly, and came with great fury rushing down to the river opposite to where I was. At this juncture the whole country around about in front of me was on fire. Being afraid that it would reach back and reach my dear friends, I started back to reveal unto them the great danger our countrymen were in. There not being any train on hand I started on foot. At last I came to a large orchard in which I found many of my friends; and behold the fire was there before me. There seemed to be thousands of small fires very near each other throughout that great orchard. These fires started at the roots of the trees and ran clear to the top, devouring all the dead portions of the trees, and consuming all of the bad fruit. But the live portions of the tree and the good fruit the fire did not harm; these grew better instead of worse. Nevertheless the earth being very hot my friends, one very smart man especially, who seemed to do more than all the rest put together, thought it best to cut off the good fruit that the fire left on the lower limbs, and graft them in on the top of the tree lest their stems might fail to hold them and they fall off in the fire that was in the earth and be destroyed. The fruit that was left was the largest and nicest apples I ever saw. What I have given of this vision will suffice for the time being. I have the interpretation of this vision. Any one wishing it I will send it to his address.

Your brother in bonds of the gospel,
H. R. WALLACE.

HYDE PARK, Lackawanna Co., Pa.,
October 30th, 1883.

Dear Bro. Joseph:—In the past the work in this part has been moving onward very slowly, but at present there seems to be a change; as the Saints have awakened from their slumbering, and are more active in discharging their duties in pressing onward in the great warfare of eternal life. Our branch meets every Sunday, in Bro. Gill's Hall, which is very neat and suitable. There is a grand organ in it, which we find to be a great help in singing, as also to the Sabbath School, over which Bro. Gill has charge. He endeavors to impress upon the minds of the young, the principles of truth, purity and holiness. He is also the President over the district, and in this he discharges his duties to the best of his ability. He is a very faithful worker in the cause of Christ. I had the pleasure of baptizing one the twenty-fourth of last month, the wife of Bro. L. B. Thomas. She had been a member of the Old Church for a number of years. There are a few others who are almost ready to unite.

I was in Nanticoke about four weeks ago, and had the pleasure of occupying the pulpit of a neat chapel that the Saints have the use of as long as they preach Christ in it. This Chapel was built by a very wealthy lady. Great credit is due to Brn. L. B. Thomas, Baldwin and Ransom, in getting up a petition and having it signed by the leading citizens of the town, certifying that polygamy was not a part of our faith; but rather that we condemned it in the plainest terms. It had been prophesied about a year ago, for them to live faithful, and He would open up the way, to get a convenient place in which to warn the people of that place. They are having very large congregations every Sunday. There are two large chapels each side of it, and many came from there to hear, and feel astonished at the doctrine. A large number is believing. Bro. L. B. Thomas preached in Welsh, and Bro. Baldwin in English. Bro. Thomas is a very able speaker, and to my mind he ought to be kept in the field by the district, or the Church in general. The Chapel is to have a new coat of paint, which will cost about forty dollars. It is desired that all the Saints in the district will contribute their mites to defray the expense. We had a short and pleasant visit from Bro. and sister Sweet, of Elwell, Pa. They are very nice people. We would be very glad to have them come again. They sang and played on the organ some splendid hymns. They say that prejudice is high at their place; but they can obtain the use of the schoolhouse should an Elder call that way. There is one there who wants to be baptized. Saints at Nanticoke, desire some one or two brethren who can preach. They will find them work mining coal. They work very steadily, wages about sixty-five dollars per month. For further information, address Lewis B. Thomas, East Nanticoke, Luzerne county, Pa.

Your brother in Christ,
JOHN J. MORGAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,
November 8th, 1883.

Dear Brother:—Bro. Z. H. Gurley passed through our city in October last, on his way to the "Eastern States." He spent one week with us, and I believe much good was done. He is now down East, and from his letter to me, I believe he is doing much good in straightening up the branches. While here, the mission which he created in the upper part of this city last February, was organized into a branch, and called the "Olive Branch of Philadelphia," John Stone president. I believe this was wise, for it gives them more chance to work. Of course it took some from our branch, who live in that section of the city, but now they do not have so far to travel to church. There is room for another branch in the lower part of the city, if there was any one to work it up.

Since I have been elected president of this district, it takes all my time to travel amongst the branches, and scattered Saints. It is three hundred miles long and one hundred wide. I am happy to say that all is peace in this district, so far as I have heard, except a trifle in Brooklyn Branch, which I believe Bro. Gurley has, or will settle, satisfactorily. I hope to see him, for I start for New Park, York Co., Pa., on the 17th, and shall go from there to Frederick City, Md., after I labor there for two weeks, and return to Philadelphia, in time for our district conference, which will be held the 4th Sunday in December.

Yours in bonds,
JOSEPH A. STEWART.

KEIGHTLY, Butler Co., Kansas,
November 8th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—As I have promised to write to some of the brethren, in regard to this country, I will do so through the Herald.

This country seems to be a very good one for a man that has some money, but a very poor one for one that has none. The good Government lands (the river bottoms) are all taken. The old settlers say it is hard for a man to get a living on the up lands. There seems to be a little uncertainty yet about clover and timothy. There are some pieces of clover sowed lately that are doing well. I think a man that can put on the stock and clover, can do well on the uplands. The most of the prairie can be cut with a mower. Prairie hay is two to three dollars per ton. Oats twelve cents, corn twenty cents. Cows thirty to fifty dollars. Calves twelve to fifteen dollars. The best upland is also taken, but good land can be bought for from five to ten dollars per acre, with some improvements; and the Government land will do for pasture, and some of it will plow. There is plenty of rock for building purposes, &c.; but no timber, except little poles and brush for sheds, with prairie hay. There is but a little portion of the hay cut, and the fire will outrun a good horse on a dry, windy day; so that many persons are kept from a good night's rest because of this great meadow. Wages for man and team one dollar and a half to three dollars per day, and not very plenty at that, except in the season of breaking prairie. That is three to three and a half per acre. They do not try to raise a crop on prairie sod, and do not expect much over half a crop for the first three years.

Bro. Joseph, one of our brethren, a wife and five little children, have driven with team four weeks, to get here and find a home; and they have but very little money left, and no place for a home, after three weeks' looking. I do hope that every brother and sister, that is located where they can earn a good living, and a little to spare, will hold fast to it for the present, until you get organized, and homes prepared. Fifteen or twenty thousand dollars will make a good start. Come on brethren, and let us organize, so that all who will can send in their mites, to build up the family of the Lord in prosperity and happiness. Can not we afford to put away tea, coffee, tobacco, and every other useless thing, whereby we may raise a penny for this great work. First to the men that have abundance of this world's goods. Is there not a great reward in the Lord's hand for you, to encourage you to come down to a uniform economy with the less favored ones. No matter if you are sorely tried with the complaining ones the Lord will reward you for this, if gracefully and cheerfully borne. O my brethren, let us labor and pray till Zion is free. O Lord, give me not peace, till Zion is free.

Water is generally obtained by drilling through the rock from thirty to one hundred and thirty feet, except where the Lord permits one of his spirings to burst out.

Yours in bonds,
M. N. COLE.

STEWARTSVILLE, Mo.,
October, 23d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—Some time in the latter part of May, by request of the president of this Mission, Bro. A. H. Smith, I left home in company with Bro. T. Hinderks, to meet him in Kansas City. We found him there, or he found us rather, and breakfast over we took train for Clay Center, in Clay County, Kansas, where we were met by our worthy brother, A. Kent, who took us to his place, some ten miles north, in time to be at business meeting of the Goshen Branch. Not having their record present, we were called on to speak, which we did the best we could. Saturday, June 2d, met in conference at the Goshen Branch. Had a good time with the saints. Five were baptized during conference. Monday night following, our little brother A. H. Smith, preached a little. Not feeling very well, he only spoke two hours and thirty five minutes, though I believe he could have spoken longer if it had been needful. Here is the home of the little giant, H. R. Harder. Glad to meet him and family, for we were old associates. Bro. Smith got sick and went home. Left us to fight it out on this line. Preached a week here, thence to Prairie Home Branch, in Republic County, preaching four times. Baptized and confirmed one here. Then back to Goshen Branch, and preached a few times there. One more was baptized, A. Kent officiating. Thence to Blue Rapids, the home of our aged Brother, Father Landers. Kindly received by all the Saints here. Preached for them a few times, thence homeward. Stopped at Netawaka, Kan., and hired a rig to take us to Bro. Wm. Hopkins, where we were kindly received. Got the first whole night's rest here for four weeks. Preached for them over Sunday, then home, arriving on the third of July, just in time to attend the celebration at Stewartsville.

Staid at home and labored in district until August 24th, and then attended the quarterly conference at St. Joseph Mo. Then on Monday, in company with Wm. T. Bozarth, Started for Kansas again, helped on our way by our estimable brother, D. Munns', who furnished the needful to carry us to Netawaka, where we did some preaching. Then on to Blue Rapids, Kansas, where we preached a week. Baptized five, and on to the Prairie Home Branch, in Republic Co.; but did not Speak here but once, Bro. William did that. Then to Morganville, a Railroad town. Spoke twice here with fair liberty; thence twelve miles south of Blue Rapids, to hold a two days' meeting. Here Bro. Bozarth took sick, or got worse, for he had not been well any of the time. We had a good time here; left the people feeling interested, and something to think about. Monday we went back to the Rapids, and Bro. Bozarth continued to get worse, and so took the train for home. I continued preaching a week longer here. Baptized one more; thence to centralia, where I was met by brother Joseph Mc Dougal, who took me to his place, where we spoke at the school house, with good liberty two or three times. This branch is presided over by Bro. A. Dodd. Thence to Atchison. Here I was met by Bro. Daniel Munns who took me to his home in the Good Intent Branch, some eight miles north of the city of Atchison. Preached for them over Sunday Speaking three times in one day, for the first time in my life. Then home to attend a special conference, having been gone five weeks. Here let me say, thanks to the many friends for their kindness to me, who came forward, and with their means showed their love for God's work. I never found kinder saints than those in Kansas. May God bless them, and for their Kindness to me may they never want.

Yours in bonds, J. T. KINNAMAN.

KIRKSVILLE, MO.,

November 14th, 1883.

Dear Herald.—For trusting in Jesus, and giving an unwavering testimony, my life has been at stake for two weeks. Myself in company with Bro. Smith, were holding a meeting in Shelby county, Missouri. Because we gave them God's word in its fullness, they raised a mob, and came to the church to hang us. They were well armed, having shot guns, revolvers, and a rope to hang us with. We fell at their feet, and asked God, if it was his will, to stay their hands, or deliver us from their unmerciful presence. Our prayers were answered, and we are as yet alive. The county officers refused to arrest them for their wickedness, or disturbing the peace. My testimony is now:

"I leave it all with Jesus, day by day;
My faith can firmly trust him, come what may;
For hope has dropped her anchor, found her rest,
In the calm, sure haven of his breast.
And oh; its joy of heaven to abide,
Close to my Redeemer at his side."

Yours for full and free salvation,

SAND. S. MARTIN CHASE.

Summary of News.

Nov. 7th.—Four of the leaders in the Servian revolt have been arrested in Belgrade. The rebellion is spreading.

Out of a crew of thirty-six souls on the British steamer Iris, lost off Cape Villand, Spain, all but one went down with the ship. She was bound from Cardiff to Port Said.

Again the Irish priesthood is united against the British Government. The plan of exporting the poor from Erin meets the opposition of the whole Catholic Church. The Bishops of Ireland have the full approbation of the Pope in this matter.

Admiral Courbet has decided to postpone the advance upon Bacninh, where the Chinese garrison is preparing for a determined resistance, until the rice crop is gathered and the roads become hard enough for the transportation of heavy artillery. The march is expected to begin during the first week in December.

From Chinese sources it is learned that Gen. Zang, a distinguished Chinese officer, is coming from the north to take command in the south. He has won an excellent reputation for putting down rebellions, and has the confidence of the war party. The troops which he will command are gathering in large numbers on the Tonquin frontier. Throughout the Empire military preparations are being actively forwarded. All the arsenals are busy. Many regiments which have been stationed in the northern districts are marching toward the South. The Peking authorities are making efforts to counteract the effect of the recent French reinforcements. It is said the French force have occupied Sontag.

The last mail advices from Madagascar state the Hovas have secured a large supply of gunpowder from America.

Six deaths from cholera occurred in Alexandria Tuesday.

The official returns show a very marked decrease in the immigration from England to the United States.

The state of the Cuban Treasury is so embarrassed that the Council of Ministers authorized the Captain-General of Cuba to borrow $500,000 in gold until the home Treasury can advance more, early in January. There has been a heavy fall in Cuban funds and Cuban bank shares.

Frank A. Fletcher, dealer in furnishing goods in Chicago, has made an assignment, with liabilities of $68,698 and nominal assets within $1,600 of that sum.

Nov. 8th.—Eighteen persons have been arrested in St. Petersburg and five in Odessa, charged with forging Russian bank notes.

Eighteen members of the Radical Commission at Belgrade, Servia, including Paschitch, the radical leader of the Skuptschina, have been arrested. The result of Gen. Nicolic's attack upon the 3,000 insurgents at Cena Reka is still unknown. It is believed that the insurgents will soon be crushed, as the royalist forces are surrounding them. Gen. Nicolic has captured Calafat, the chief position of the insurgents, taking 100 prisoners.

Lancaster county, Pa., has for six weeks been suffering from the depredations of a band of outlaws who escaped from jail six weeks ago, and have since been hiding in the mountains. The villagers and farmers armed and pursued the convicts, and a running fight of several miles, resulted in the capture of one and the serious wounding of three of the gang. The infuriated farmers are still keeping up the pursuit.

According to a report just published, the Jesuits continue to flourish, in spite of alleged persecution. The order is divided into five great provinces. Italy and her islands contain 1,558 Jesuite Fathers; Germany, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, and the Netherlands counting 2,165. France (including the French possessions) has the highest number, 2,798. Spain and Mexico have 1,933. England and the United States have 1,895 disciples of Loyola. In 1882 there were in all 11,058 Jesuits—priests, professors and coadjutors. In 1870 the order counted 10,529 members; in 1880, 10,494; and in 1881, 10,798.

Nov. 9th.—Great excitement exists in Jamaica, where the people threaten to follow the example of the American people, and throw off the English yoke.

Hungarian fanatics are keeping up the persecution of the unfortunate Jews. A mob attacked some Hebrews at Zaloevoe yesterday, and fired upon the police, who returned the fire, killing two and wounding several others of the rioters.

Marquis Tseng, the Chinese Ambassador, was given a cordial reception last evening at the grand banquet given to the new Lord Mayor of London, and the affair was rendered even more significant by Mr. Gladstone's statement that "England would be found seconding every effort of the distinguished Ambassador for a peaceful settlement of the present Chinese difficulty."

The first book ever produced in England was printed by William Caxton, in the Almonry at Westminster, in the year 1477, and was entitled "Dictes and Sayings of the Philosophers." It is a small folio volume, very beautifully printed on ash-gray paper, with red initial letters, and is remarkable for the evenness of color and distinctness of type.

Business failures, according to Dun's record, decreased 211 last week.

Workmen in a sand pit at Kankakee, Ill., unearthed the skeletons of three Indians, their guns, hatchets, jewels and a stone pipe filled with tobacco, partially burned but the remainder good. Coins and pieces of armor bearing hieroglyphics were also found.

In contracting recently for the fall and winter supply of milk, the Condensing Company of Wassaic N. Y., made it a prominent condition in their contract that the cows should not be fed on ensilage. (Green fodder cured in an air tight cellar.) This action, it seems, is not caused by prejudice against ensilage as an article of food for milch cows, but upon the result of careful experiments showing clearly that ensilage impairs the keeping quality of their milk. The price fixed was 3¼ cents for the next five months, beginning Nov. 1st. This rate though far from satisfactory to the farmers, was the best that could be obtained. And at this figure more milk was offered than the company could accept. Scientific men throughout the country, especially professors in the State Agricultural Colleges, have quite generally united in indorsing ensilage as an excellent food, not only for stock in general, but as being especially adapted for cows. It is however, becoming a wide-spread belief among practical farmers and dairymen that a steady diet of "cow-kraut" is by no means as beneficial as food should be to stock of any kind, and is injurious to milch cows.

Nov. 11th.—It is claimed by the London policemen that the recent dynamite explosions in London were the work of New York dynamiters.

It appears that the first reports of the recent earthquake at Smyrna greatly exaggerated the disastrous effects of that phenomenon. Only fifty persons were killed and 250 persons wounded, and the damage to property was very slight.

It is stated that the commander of the French forces in Tonquin has informed the Government it will be impossible to operate in Tonquin with the present force, and says nothing can be done until February.

Prof. Huxley's son is attracting great attention by the exquisite equality of the poetry he is producing. The more enthusiastic of his admirers assert that if he lives he will be poet laureate of England.

A very formidable movement is being organized in Manitoba, British America, in favor of secession from the Dominion, and meetings in furtherance of the movement will be held in the immediate future. The promoters complain that the people of the eastern portion of the Dominion look on Manitoba as a plunderground, that all legislation for that territory is framed with a view to make it contribute to the advantage of Quebec and Ontario, and that there is a disposition to ignore the views of representative Manitobans. Special complaint is made against the high tariff imposed on goods absolutely necessary to the settlers of the great Northwest Territory, the granting of enormous tracts of fertile territory to the Canadian Pacific Railroad, the opposition of the Dominion Government to the opening of a highway through territory to Hudson's Bay, and the granting of mines, lands, and valuable franchises to companies organized by the political hacks of the Dominion. Many of the leaders of the secessionist movement favor annexation to the United States.

A bold scheme to flood the market with counterfeit bonds of the Morris & Essex and Central Pacific Railroads has been nipped by the arrest of the counterfeiters engaged in the plot. There were also secured a number of counterfeit bonds almost ready to be placed on the market, and all the dies, stamps, and other paraphernalia used and intended to be used by the prisoners in their operations. The prisoners are William E Brockway, Lew Martin, and Nathaniel B. Foster, all notorious and expert forgers and manufacturers of counterfeit notes and bonds.

Prolah Chunder Mozoomdar, of Calcutta, India, preached to a large congregation in the Church of the Messiah Chicago, Ill., on his idea of the Deity.

Nov. 12th.—A London syndicate is discussing a project to build a ship-canal across Ireland.

A Procession of Socialists carrying a black flag with the word "Starvation" inscribed thereon was prevented from approaching the Guildhall by the London police during the Lord Mayor's banquet.

Ten men who attacked the house of a farmer Cowlavanna, County Cork, Ireland, early yesterday morning, demanding money and guns, found that they had wakened up the wrong man, for the farmer fired into the crowd, wounding one man, and four others were arrested.

A great sensation has been caused among the French colony in Egypt owing to China having bought the arms and cannon which accumulated during the military regime.

The Government of Manchuria has been ordered from Pekin to have 6,000 Mogul irregulars ready to embark for Tonquin at a moment's notice.

Enough beer was consumed in Cincinnati last year to give every man, woman, and child two glasses a day, including Sunday. The average expenditure for this beverage was $26 per ventrem, and the profits of the saloons are estimated at $5,000,000. Excluding women and children, the consumption of beer would be eight to ten glasses a day by each man or head of a family. As Cincinnati cast 8,402 votes for the prohibitory amendment, it is fair to infer that there were some 40,000 Cincinnatians—men, women, and children—whose allowance of 14,600,000 glasses of beer for the year had to be consumed by the rest of their fellow-citizens, and who transferred their annual burden of $1,040,000 to other shoulders. With such other allowances and deductions as will occur to the reader, it is obvious that the beer-drinking portion of the Cincinnati population must have devoted themselves energetically, if not exclusively, to their favorite occupation.

Charlie Ford, one of the notorious outlaws who were responsible for the death of Jesse James, was fired at seven times at his father's house, three miles from Richmond, Mo. His assailants are unknown, but are supposed to be some of Jesse's friends on an avenging tour. Charlie Ford escaped with a bullet through his coat, but his brother Bob has mysteriously disappeared, and it is feared by his friends that he has been murdered.

A decision was rendered by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania yesterday holding the Pullman Palace-Car Company liable for money stolen from a passenger while asleep.

Nov. 13th.—Friendly relations have been completely restored between France and Turkey, according to the Parisian press.

Liberty to express their opinions is not one of the prerogatives of Russian journalists. Orders have been issued to the St. Petersburg newspapers forbidding any discussion of the probability of war with Germany, as it is feared that the visit of De Giers, Secretary of State, to Switzerland via Berlin might be interpreted as a political mission.

The districts of Cena Reka, Knjazevatz, Banja, Alexinatz, and Kraina, in Servia, have been declared in a state of siege. All available troops have been sent to the front. The rebels no longer retreat from the troops, but encounter them in a determined manner. Some desperate fighting has occurred. The insurgents hold Alexinatz.

It is stated that French reinforcements have landed at Hai-Phong.

Three thousand French reinforcements have arrived in Annam and will be sent to Hanoi immediately. It is expected that an advance will be made on Sontag in a fortnight.

Investigation by the experts develops the fact that the fall of the State-House at Madison, Wis., was caused by weak brick piers, which could not sustain the enormous pressure, and iron pillars insufficient in numbers and strength.

It is now shown by the report of the United States' Treasurer that the revenue receipts of the country have been curtailed only to the amount of $5,237,668.

The Protection was not lost on Lake Michigan yesterday as reported, but the Arab sank, drowning two men.

A tugboat that arrived at Providence, R. I., from down the bay reports that near James Island a schooner was capsized and Capt. Preston Webster and a crew of eight men were drowned before assistance could reach them. Three other schooners which were sailing near them were also capsized and two more men drowned, the others being saved by a tug. Thus far reports have been received of the loss of twelve lives, and it is feared that many others were lost, as James Island is strewn with wrecks.

It is asserted in Paris that the Marquis Tseng, the Chinese Ambassador, is prepared to present an ultimatum to France and demand his passports if the French forces in Tonquin fire upon Bacninh and Sontay.

Dr. Stocker, the German Jew-baiter who has made such a rumpus in London of late, yesterday had to take a dose of his own medicine. In attempting to lecture on "German Socialism" he found himself in the presence of a very bad-tempered London mob, which mollified itself by issuing groans and strong epithets. He was forced to retire from the hall in confusion.

The boring of the tunnel through the Arlberg branch of the Rhoetian Alps is completed.

The Royalist troops are everywhere victorious against the Servian insurgents. Gen. Nicolich has subjected all the places declared in a state of siege.

A dispatch from Tamatave, Madagascar, says: "The French have declined proposals brought by two Malagassy officials for a compromise of pending difficulties."

The Prince of Wales, England's future king, is said to be in debt $3,000,000.

Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest Territory, where the movement in favor of secession from the Dominion of Canada is making considerable headway, contains at least 400,000 square miles of arable territory. The northern portion is hardly habitable on account of the severity of the climate, but the part adjoining the United States has nearly as good a climate as that of Minnesota, Dakota, and Montana, and is rich and fertile. There are 150,000 square miles of productive wheat lands, and over a quarter of a million of excellent pasturage, although the winters are long and severe. These lands are watered by many fine rivers, 1,000 miles of which are navigable. Within ten years it was an unknown region, and neither its agricultural nor its grazing lands were utilized. The sole industry of its few inhabitants was the fur trade. The population in 1880 was 60,000.

As a train on the Mexican Central sped around a curve in a lonely spot near the little village of La Jarita, Mexico, the engineer, discovering that a rail had been removed, reversed his lever, but too late to prevent a wreck. Simultaneously forty masked men attacked the train, robbed the express-car, and were about to rob the passengers, when it was discovered that one of the latter had escaped and gone for assistance. The outlaws immediately took to their horses and decamped. They are believed to have crossed to the American side of the Rio Grande, and scouting parties are in hot pursuit.

FIRES—STORMS—ACCIDENTS.

Nov. 7th.—Loss by fire at Elkton, Dakota, $10,000. Allegan, Mich., $2,500.

Another mine horror is reported, the scene this time being laid in the Moorefield colliery, Lancashire, England. About 8:30 this morning while over 100 miners were in the shaft, a terrific explosion occurred, engulfing them all. Fifty were subsequently rescued, many of them being seriously injured. Twenty-four dead bodies have been taken out of the shaft, and an equal number await removal.

A serious collision occurred about 4:30 this afternoon on the tracks of the Rock Island Railroad, near Forty-third street, just south of Chicago. Owing to a misplaced switch a passenger-train ran into a train of freight-cars standing on a side track, wrecking both engines and half a score of cars. Several of the train hands were seriously injured. The passengers escaped with slight bruises.

A frightful smashup occurred on the Pan-Handle Road at Rockport, one mile west of Newark, O., to-night. A Pan-Handle freight had taken the siding and a brakeman left the switch standing open. The Baltimore & Ohio passenger leaving Columbus at 9 p. m. ran into the freight, making a fearful wreck. The engineer and fireman of the passenger-train, were instantly killed. Two others received injuries from which they will die.

Nov. 8th.—Loss by fire at Hamburg, N. A., $35,000. Chicago, Ill., $1,000.

The Imperial Marie Institute at Warsaw, Poland, was burned last night, it is supposed by Nihilists to destroy treasonable documents. A press for printing the Nihilist journal Proletariate was recently discovered there.

An explosion occurred to-day in Trabback Colliery in Scotland. Four men were seriously burned. A large number of bodies are still in the Yorkshire mine in which the explosion took place yesterday. The friends of the dead crowd the mouth of the pit.

At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon the south front of the south wing of the Wisconsin State-House at Madison, the structure being in course of erection, fell upon the workmen, the roof following. The building was 70x120 feet in breadth and depth and seventy feet high. The noise of the collapse was frightful, and the detonations followed each other for fully half a minute. The ruins were filled with groans and cries for help. Four thousand people hurried into the park and beheld a terrifying spectacle. Three tottering walls partially surrounded the scene. Six workmen hung by the limbs in mid-air to dangling rafters, three of the victims being dead. Five men were killed, nearly all being horribly mangled. Four others are dying. Seventeen were less seriously injured.

Near Minneapolis, Minn., a sleeping car was ditched, and all of the twelve passengers more or less injured. The breaking of a locomotive axle, near Troy, N. Y., injured two persons. A steam-thrasher boiler exploded near New Philadelphia, O., setting on fire a large barn, which with its contents was entirely destroyed, and injuring eight persons seriously, three of them probably fatally.

Nov. 9th.—Loss by fire at Gurlyville, Ala., $15,000. Fire destroyed the bark Margarita at New York. Over 3,000 barrels of oil were burned with the vessel.

Deaths by the Moorfield colliery explosion sixty-seven.

Following the disaster at Madison, Wisconsin, comes a similar calamity at Buffalo, N. Y.,—a city notorious on account of the collapse of large structures. A gale yesterday blew down a four-story building, which was nearly completed, burying twelve men in the ruins. Five were killed and seven seriously injured.

At New York a tug-boat boiler exploded yesterday, killing four persons and wounding one. One of the victims was the helmsman of a schooner near by. He was hit by a flying fragment.

Nov. 11th.—Loss by fire at Independence, Ia., $10,000. One man was burned to death in a dwelling at Norfolk, Va., and his wife and child severely injured.

A fearful windstorm struck Racine, Wis., damaging the town $2,000. A violent gale raged on Lake Michigan. The schooner Ashtabula foundered off Milwaukee.

The Elizabeth Jones was wrecked on a reef near Racine, Wis. An ore laden steamer is on the beach at Cleveland, O. The propeller, Saginaw lost all its spars and canvas. The schooner Consuello is pounding to pieces against the pier at Sandusky, O. All the telegraph wires on east shore of Lake Michigan, are down. The tug Taylor is badly damaged. A whole fleet of damaged craft is in port at Racine, Wis.

Nov. 12th.—A terrific explosion was caused at Wilkesbarre, Pa., by a miner who entered a passage with a naked lamp in his hat. Three men were instantly killed.

In the midst of the hurricane which raged in the East to-day, fire broke out in Shenandoah, Pa., which soon grew into a widespread conflagration. Two hundred and fifty families are homeless. The loss is about a million dollars.

There was a heavy wind, and fall of temperature at New York City, which did much damage by freezing the falling rain upon trees and houses, several of the latter being blown down. A boy and girl were buried in the debris of a falling chimney, at Boston, Mass., the girl being injured fatally. The wind blew a fierce gale, and did considerable damage in many portions of the city.

In Chelsea, Mass., a large brick wall was blown down, crushing the adjoining building.

At Bangor, Me., the elevator of the Ovington Ice Company was demolished.

Another ice-house at Brewer, Mass., was blown to the ground.

The schooner Adelaide was taken by the gale and left high upon the bank of the river, at Boston, Mass.

Portsmouth, N. H., reports a terrific gale during the day. Four fishing schooners are ashore, but will probably come off slightly damaged.

On the Shrewsbury Narrow-Gage Road a car containing seven persons was lifted bodily from the track and overturned. No one was hurt.

At Toronto, Ont., the wind blew a terrific gale, doing much damage. A terrific windstorm raged all day at Montreal, Que., doing immense damage. A frame house at Rougemont was blown down and an old woman and girl severely injured, the former it is thought fatally. All traffic on the river is suspended. A frightful hurricane visited Dubuque, Iowa, yesterday and last night, prostrating the wires, blowing down a frame building partly erected, and overthrowing several smoke-stacks in the city. It was the heaviest wind-storm known there for several years. Port Jervis, N. Y., was visited in the same manner. On the Great Lakes the storm raged with great fury. The tug Protection and the schooner Arab are supposed to be lost with all on board. On Lake Michigan a fish boat capsized, drowning O. M. Chase, Michigan State Superintendent of fisheries, and two other men. At Petosky, Mich., the new City dock, Bell's dock, Rose's dock, and the Bay View dock were swept out. Three men were drowned in the storm at Mackinaw City, Mich., and seven on Little Traverse Bay. Many more schooners were wrecked; others driven into port without spars and sails. A large number stranded, and of quite a number all trace is lost.

Two men were killed by a falling scaffold at New York City. Another by a falling wall, at Atlanta, Ga.

Loss by fire near Baraboo, Wis., $1,000. Carmi, Ill., $5,000. Trempealeau, Wis., $10,000. Chicago, Ill., $250. Simpsonville, Ky., $12,000. Dallas, Texas, $10,000. Two men were severely burned in a fire at Lincoln, Ill.

The burned district at Shenandoah, Pa., covers five acres. Five hundred families are homeless. The aggregate loss is fully $600,000. Loss by fire near Norristown, Pa., $100,000. Tama, Ia., $30,000. Three persons have been recovered from the ruins of the Charleston, South Carolina fire. Kilkenny, Minn., $30,000. New Holland, Ind., $2,000. Davenport, Ia., $3,000. Roanoke, Ind., $2,500. East Saginaw, Mich., $5,500. Muncie, Ind., $4,000. Converse, Ind., $3,000. Eureka Springs, Ark., $25,000.

Near Rochester, N. Y., a construction train was thrown from the track, and three box cars loaded with workmen sent down an embankment. All the workmen were injured, one killed, and some of those still living had their legs and arms torn off. A coal blast explosion fatally burned two men at Nilwood, Ill. The falling of a brick wall at Richmond, Va., injured three laborers, one fatally. By the explosion of the boilers of a sugar-house at Bayou Bouff, La., three men were instantly killed, their bodies being blown to atoms.

Nov. 14th.—Loss by fire at Norfolk, Va., $500,000. Duluth, Minn., $50,000. Kilkenny, Minn., $70,000. Shelbyville, Ind., $18,000. Kingston, Tenn., $12,000. Winnebago county, Wis., $10,000. Valatie, N. Y., $150,000. Ashland, Ky., $200,000.

Baltimore was visited by another furious gale, yesterday, increasing the destruction which resulted from Monday's blow. The shores of the Chesapeake Bay are lined with wrecks. The oyster boats and small schooners have suffered severely, and scores of lives have been lost.

NEVER refuse nor neglect to do what you understand is right; though it may be like hard work, or a disagreeable cross at times, yet it will pay the best in the end.

"Pilgrim, is thy journey drear—
Are its lights extinct forever?
Still suppress that rising tear,
God forsakes the righteous never.
Storms may gather o'er thy path,
All the ties of life may sever—
Still amid the fearful scathe,
God forsakes the righteous never.
Pain may rack my wasting frame,
Health desert my couch forever.
Faith still burns with deathless flame,
God forsakes the righteous never."

There never were in the world two opinions alike, no more than two grains. The most universal quality is diversity.

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

BAPTISM OF THE HOLY GHOST.

THAT the baptism of the Holy Ghost was promised to believers no Bible reader will deny. That without this, the baptism set forth in God's word is not complete, must be apparent to every intelligent mind. Yet we find men differing widely in opinion as to who should be the recipients of it. Some clamor for the baptism of the Holy Ghost, but deny that its operations are to be the same as in the Apostles' days. Others deny that this baptism is to be enjoyed to-day. Others claim, that this baptism renders water baptism unnecessary. It is very evident that all these conflicting views are not correct, and in order that we may have a proper understanding, let us search the written word, and seek divine guidance. First I will endeavor to show that such a baptism is necessary. Second, that it was promised to all true believers in every age. Third, that its operations were to be the same in all ages. Fourth, that the baptism of the Holy Ghost does not dispense with water baptism. Fifth, that in the order of the gospel it was not intended to precede, but to follow water baptism.

Man is composed of a two fold nature, spirit and body, "There is a spirit in man, and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." Job. 32:8; Acts 7:59; Luke 24:39. The spirit is superior to the body, as the man is superior to the house in which he dwells; for the body is the tabernacle of the spirit. 2 Cor. 5:1, 4. He is endowed with intelligence above all the creations of God upon earth, and it seems to have been the purpose of God, that he should be enabled to understand all things terrestrial, and for this he is admirably adapted. His body being an epitome of this lower creation, i. e., a miniature embodiment of the various elements and substances of which this world is composed, is happily adapted to form a medium through which the spirit can acquire a knowledge of all its surroundings, and without this knowledge man could subdue and have dominion over all things, as commanded. Gen. 1:28. But the spirit being of a higher and purer nature than earth, it is not content with a knowledge of the things of earth, but reaches out after, and thirsts for, a higher and purer knowledge, a knowledge to which there is no terrestrial key, and yet without this knowledge of celestial things, it would be utterly impossible that man should fill the purpose of his existence. Can it be possible that the powers of man which are only bounded by the vast creations around him, have been given him to be used in the arduous search after truth for three score years and ten, and then to lose their force and sink into eternal oblivion, no longer possessing power to enjoy the blessedness of the knowledge acquired? This can not be! Are the few hours of enjoyment that the happiest of mortals can boast of, a sufficient compensation for the years of toil and sorrow endured? Ah, no! The flesh may weary itself out and crumble under the burden, sinking into the dust whence it came; but the spirit yearns on, yea, hungers and thirsts, and pants for a realization of hopes that are not, can not be quenched in death. To the latest breath, this spirit bears testimony of its immortality, by its deathless yearning for joys unreachd.

The fact of man's fears, yearnings and hopes, remaining in full force up to the latest breath, is evidence of the immortality of the spirit, and the consequent necessity of knowledge of the eternal as well as of the temporal. But all experience has proved, that while man may acquire a knowledge of the things pertaining to this life through the medium of the senses, the life beyond is darkness, and must remain total darkness, unless light from that higher world, that to us unexplored realm, shall shine upon our minds. Being finite, we may comprehend the finite; but the infinite is beyond our grasp. To this the Apostle bears witness when he says: "The things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God." Yet this yearning for knowledge of the eternal, must be satisfied. It is the great want of our nature, to which all other wants are only secondary and subservient. God intended it should be supplied. Neither our spiritual nor temporal natures were given us in vain, nor were their consequent wants to be unsupplied. We know the means by which our physical wants are supplied, and are able to use them; and surely he who gave the undying spirit, has made provision for all its wants. "He is too wise to err, and too good to be unkind." This much our reason tells us, when we admit the existence of an All Wise and ever kind Creator. Let us see if Scripture will bear it out.

Jesus says: "This is eternal life, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."—John 17:3. Here is the truth revealed, that the knowledge of God is eternal life. Our natures are all formed in harmony with God's eternal truth, and hence the desire for eternal knowledge is in harmony with the grand truth, that to know God is eternal life. No wonder the soul is not satisfied with the things of time. It is the outcropping of that eternal law of necessity, that binds together in beautiful harmony all the works of God. But how shall it be supplied? Jesus again declares: "No man knoweth the Son but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him."—Matt. 11:27. He told Peter when the latter had obtained testimony that Jesus was the Christ, "Flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven."—Matt. 16:17. The Apostle Paul declares, "No man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost."—1 Cor. 12. Here we find that Scripture and human experience agree. The one declares the impossibility of man, unaided, finding out God; the other admits its truth. But in this last text, light dawns, and we are enabled to see by the eye of faith the key to this great knowledge, the revealer of this great saving mystery. It is the Holy Ghost. This is the medium by which God communes with man. It is the power by which Prophets wrote and spoke. But shall this power now be given to humanity? shall it stand as the unerring revealer of the things of God to man? Listen, "I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, * * he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."—Matt. 3:11. In this text the purpose of God to give the Holy Ghost is plainly declared, and it is only when this power has come into the world, that the fulfillment of another prediction is made possible. "The Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God."—2 Thess. 1:7, 8. In this text the absolute necessity of knowing God is fully proved, as those who are then ignorant of him, being left without excuse, having the means of knowledge within their reach, but having despised it, will be punished with the glory of his presence.

Having shown the necessity of knowing God,—the necessity of being in possession of the means by which that knowledge alone can come unto man, follows as a natural consequence. Hence the necessity of the baptism of the Holy Ghost. But this necessity is made more plain by the saying of Jesus to Nicodemus.

"Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God."—John 3: 5.

That this birth of water and of the Spirit is the baptism of water and of the Holy Ghost is evident; and these words of Christ can but mean, that this is the only means of entrance into God's kingdom. Jesus is not only our teacher, but he is our great example. His life was a perfect illustration of his teachings; and in harmony with the above teachings we read, that while John was baptizing in Jordan, Jesus desired to be baptized.

"And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water, and lo the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him."—Matt. 3: 16.

Jesus did nothing in vain; hence this baptism was a duty; and if it was necessary for the Lamb of God to receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost, is it not more necessary for us? To more fully understand the necessity of this baptism, let us enquire into the office-work of the Holy Ghost. Paul gives us to understand, that it is to give us a knowledge that Jesus is the Lord. In the promise of the Comforter, which Christ made to his disciples, he says: "He shall be in you."—John 14: 17, 26. Paul says: "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." Rom. 8. Christ speaks of him as "the Comforter." Surely all need such a comforter. "He shall teach you all things." The very teacher we need, that we may become wise unto salvation. "He shall testify of me."—John 15: 26. Without such a witness, we are left in doubt and darkness, ignorant of God and of his Christ. "He will guide you into all truth."—John 16. Without such a guide, "we grope as the blind for the wall," and are "tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine. "He will show you things to come." To be forewarned is to be forearmed. With such a guide, "The prudent man foreseeeth the evil, and hideth himself; the simple [having no such guide] pass on, and are punished."—Prov. 27: 12.

Paul calls it "the Spirit of adoption," and says, "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God."—Rom. 8. Again: "Ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance, until the redemption of the purchased possession. Eph. 1: 13, 14. Can we dispense with this seal of our adoption, this earnest of our inheritance, this Spirit that shall give us to know that God is our Father? To come short of this is to come short of all claim to the eternal salvation of our God, and only entitled to the just punishment to be meted out to them that know not God, and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." Moreover, Paul says:

"If the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you."—Romans 8: 11.

Now the converse of this is, If that Spirit be not in you, he shall not quicken your mortal bodies by that Spirit; hence when Christ comes to gather his own, those who have not this Spirit abiding in them, must be among "the rest of the dead" that "live not again, until the thousand years are finished."—Rev. 20. That Comforter will not abide in us, unless we are cleansed and purified, and regenerated by it; hence the baptism of the Holy Ghost is an absolute necessity.

Reader, we have seen that this Comforter was promised, as a teacher, a guide, a testifier, a witness of our adoption, an earnest of the glorious inheritance, and the power of God in our resurrection, thus fitting and purifying us, that we may be prepared to come into the glorious presence of our God, and our exalted Redeemer. Will you be content without it? Can you see the days, weeks, months, and years roll by, bearing you onward toward your eternal destiny, without a desire for this preparation, without a certainty that God approves your life, and owns you as his child? "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God."—Jesus. "The Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ."—Paul.

BAPTISM OF THE HOLY GHOST PROMISED TO ALL TRUE BELIEVERS.

Having shown the necessity of the baptism of the Holy Ghost, I now proceed to show that it was promised to all true believers in every age. If it was necessary for one man, in order that he might know God, and thereby have eternal life, it would be equally necessary for all men; for our natural condition is the same—aliens and outcasts from God,—without any means of our own, whereby we can find him out, or make ourselves acquainted with him. Moreover, we are all alike his creatures, constituted alike so far as the general law of our being, having the same general necessities and aspirations; and all looking forward to some great, but unknown future. Therefore, that which is essential to the ultimate happiness of one, is essential to the ultimate happiness of all. God has declared himself as no respecter of persons, hence would make provision for the eternal well being of all; and as no man can be perfectly happy without the knowledge of God, and as this knowledge can only be acquired by means of the Holy Ghost, it is reasonable that he should give this baptism to all who desire to know him, and have eternal life. If this is not true, then he has doomed one portion to eternal death, while he has been pleased to exalt another to eternal life, who, by nature, were no better than the doomed ones. This latter course stands in direct opposition to his glorious character, and would render him worthy the contempt of all intelligent beings. But let us hear the word of God. Christ's forerunner, preached the baptism of repentance, saying,

"I, indeed, baptize you with water unto repentance, but he that cometh after me is mightier than I. He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."—Matt. 3: 11.

This promise was made to the multitude, not merely to a favored few. It was broad enough to include all who accepted the great work of preparation then going on under the teachings of John. As the baptism of water was the birth of water spoken of by Jesus, so the baptism of the Holy Ghost was the birth of the Spirit, spoken of in the same connection. Hear him.

"Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God."—John 3:

Here Jesus speaks of man in the most general sense; hence it must be evident to every reader, that he intended all men to be born of water and of the Spirit. Bear in mind, his promise of the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, (John 14: 15, 16), and also the renewal of that promise after his resurrection. "John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence."—Acts 1: 5. Nor was this promise confined to the Apostles, for Peter declares, the promise is to you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. This language is plain and positive, and unless we can limit the numbers of those who have wandered afar off from God; and the many whom the Lord will call, we can not limit the promised baptism of the Holy Ghost. God's mode of calling is by the preached gospel; and the divine commission was, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," (Mark 16); hence every creature, who hears and obeys this call, is entitled to this divine promise. To this truth the Apostle Peter again bears witness: "And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him."—Acts 5: 32. John also declares, that the Church in that day had "Received the unction of the Holy One," "The same anointing," or baptism of the Holy Ghost, (John 2: 20, 27), from which evidence we learn it was universally poured out upon true believers. And as we need the same "life eternal," and there is no other means by which it can be obtained, God, who is rich in mercy to all, has pledged his veracity, that the glorious promise is ours, if we accept the call. But those who deny that the baptism of the Holy Ghost is to be received to-day, tell us that "the promise through Peter, (Acts 2: 38, 39), was not to be understood as referring to this baptism; but simply to a gift to be conferred by the Holy Ghost; and that there are but two instances of Christ's followers, receiving the baptism promised by Jesus." These instances were, the one on the day of Pentecost, and the case of Cornelius. To this we reply: If in the language, "ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost," Peter had reference to some gift bestowed by that Spirit, it would be proper to ask, "What particular gift had he reference to, since he uses the definite article "the" to designate it; for Paul says, "There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit."—1 Cor. 12: 4, 11. If one of these gifts had been meant, he would undoubtedly have told which, or used the indefinite article a, instead of the.

It has been truly said, that "Jesus Christ is God's best gift to man." The following passage will show, that the Holy Ghost is also the gift of God. He shall give you another Comforter, (John 14: 16), and the language used by Peter was intended to inform them that God would give them the Holy Ghost, as he had just given it to the disciples. Let us examine the case of Cornelius upon whom it is admitted the Holy Ghost was poured out. The Historian says: "The Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost."—Acts 10: 44, 45. Here the inspired writer speaks of this baptism as the gift of the Holy Ghost. But let us see how Peter speaks of it.

"As I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them as on us at the beginning, . . . forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, what was I that I could withstand God."—Acts 11: 15, 16, 17.

Here, again, it is spoken of as a gift, and as the word gift is used in this connection by Peter, who uttered the promise on the day of Pentecost, it is evident that he understood the gift of the Holy Ghost to be the baptism of the Holy Ghost. The Samaritans received this same gift, or baptism, for the historian says they received the Holy Ghost. It was for this express purpose that Peter and John visited them, v. 15. The twelve Ephesians received the same baptism, see Acts 19. And in Paul's Epistle to Titus, speaking of God he says, "He saved us by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost, which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Lord."—Titus 3: 5. It is evident that as God has but one way of salvation, and as Paul and the ancients were saved by the washing of regeneration, (being born of water), and renewing of the Holy Ghost, (being born of the Spirit, or baptism of the Holy Ghost), so all mankind must be born again, or baptized with water and with the Holy Ghost, in order to be saved. Thus we find all the teachings of Christ and his Apostles, are in perfect harmony; and the promises made to the ancient believers were intended for believers in all ages, and Peter was only repeating the promise before made by Jesus, when he said, "Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost, for the promise is to you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." Moreover the same Apostle says, in connection with Joel, "It shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh," ect., Acts 2: 14. This leaves the matter beyond all doubt, that the baptism of the Holy Ghost was intended for true believers, in all ages of the world, even down to the end of time. Reader, bow to thy Lord's will, and receive the promised Comforter, and give glory to God.

BAPTISM OF THE HOLY GHOST, ITS GIFTS AND OPERATIONS THE SAME IN ALL AGES.

Paul in speaking of Christ's ascension says: "Wherefore he saith, when he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men."—Eph. 4: 8. And in Mark 16, just before this ascension it is said he appeared to his disciples and commissioned them to preach the gospel, telling them that certain "signs should follow them that believe;" by comparing these signs with the spiritual gifts spoken of in 1st Cor. 12, we find the signs promised, and the gifts enjoyed were the same; and hence were some of the gifts that he gave unto men when he ascended up on high. And these are recognized by Paul as gifts of the Spirit or Holy Ghost. Now the great question is, How long, and to whom were these gifts to be given? One great aid to the solution of the question will be found if we ascertain how long the gospel was to be preached. Mark renders the commission thus: "And he said unto them, go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Now as Matthew heard the same commission given, let us hear his rendering: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, * * * and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." The duration of this mission was to be to the "end of the world;" for he promised to be with his ministry until that period. If the commission was to extend to the end of the world, then whatever promise was made in connection with the commission, must of necessity extend to the same period, unless it is otherwise stated. We will now quote the commission as given by Mark in full:

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them. They shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

Here the commission and promises are united. The promise of salvation is to him that "believeth and is baptized," and the promise of the signs is to the same believer, or believers; consequently, if the former promise remains, the latter must also. Where the one promise ceases, the other must stop; and as long as the one continues the other must remain; and both promises remain as long as the commission is in force. Let us hear Paul further on this matter. In the fourth of Ephesians, he tells how long they should continue, and for what purpose these and other gifts mentioned in this chapter were given. "For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." It will be admitted that if saints or, in other words, children of God, live in all ages from that time, they will each need perfecting. If the ministry continues in all ages, there will be the same kind of officers here mentioned, and endued with the same powers for the same work. If there is a body, or church of Christ, in all ages, it will need edifying, and the means of edification must be that provided by him who "ascended up on high, and gave gifts to men." No human learning or invention can supply the place of the gifts God has provided. So much for their purpose, now for their duration. "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." It appears from this that the Almighty considered it very necessary that all should come to the unity of the faith, meaning the one faith, spoken of in verse 5, the faith that Jude says was "once delivered to the Saints." Has all mankind come up to that unity of the faith? Have all professed Christians come to that unity? And if it could be truthfully said they had, still their successors in time would need to come to the same unity; hence the means could not be dispensed with. Have all men come to the knowledge of the Son of God? Has the Christian world attained to that knowledge? If not, these gifts must remain until this knowledge is secured; for no man can know "that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost;" and their successors will need the same knowledge. Are we all perfect men? Have we all come, have any of us come to the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ? I see every man's hand upon his mouth, and the silent confession of all mankind is, We have attained to no such union, to no such knowledge, to no such perfection, to no such Godlike stature as is here set forth as the purpose of God in these gifts. Then how in the name of common sense can we dispense with these divine aids. To cast them away, or to deny them is to commit spiritual suicide, to refuse the means of salvation and exaltation.

For a more perfect understanding of the gifts and operations of the Spirit, read 1st Cor. 12th, 13th, 14th chapters, together with 14th, 15th, and 16th chapters of John. Also Acts 2:17, 18; 10:44, 46; 19:6. James 5:14, 15. These with Mark 16, show that the power over evil spirits, diseases, and poisonous things, as also the gift of tongues and interpretation, the gift of discerning of spirits, visions, prophesying, working of miracles, knowledge of divine things, wisdom from above, together with inspired apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, were the gifts that Jesus gave when he ascended up on high. Now as he ascended to be the mediator for all, so he gave these gifts for all who would accept his mediation. "These signs shall follow them that believe." It is vain to say, We can have the Holy Ghost and not have these operations and gifts. It is equally vain to say, We can be perfected by any means short of those here promised and given. Human learning can raise us no nearer God to-day than it could thousands of years ago; for the natural man can not know the things of God without the Spirit of God, "For they are spiritually discerned." God is the same, his promises fail not. Our condition before God, is by nature, the same. Our spiritual needs are equally great. Our spiritual foes are as numerous and as mighty, and we are as weak as those who first received the promise. We have the same exaltation and glory to win, and it follows of necessity that we need the same helps to enable us to overcome. And thank God, the last glorious promise Christ made to man before he ascended up on high, was, "he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned, and these signs shall follow them that believe," etc. Hence we are assured that as many as comply with the gospel shall be saved, and the same blessed gifts are theirs to enjoy. In all God's word there is nothing that repeals this covenant of promise, hence it abideth forever.

Come then, and obey the gospel, "being planted in the likeness of Christ's death," that you may be renewed by the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and enjoy the glorious gifts which he "ascended up on high to give to men." "That you may henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight and cunning craftiness of men, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; but speaking the truth in love, may grow up unto him in all things, which is the head, even Christ." "And when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away." Then, but not till then, "whether there be prophecies they shall fail, whether there be tongues they shall cease;" "and now abideth faith, hope and charity, but the greatest of these is charity."—Paul.

BAPTISM OF THE HOLY GHOST. IT DOES NOT RENDER WATER BAPTISM UNNECESSARY.

Many professing Christians claim, that the baptism of the Holy Ghost renders water baptism unnecessary. If they are right, we are wrong. Jesus Christ was the first, under that dispensation, to receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and he received the baptism of water, Matt. 3:13-17. If water baptism was unnecessary, he would have known it, and would have waited for the greater baptism. But no, he demands the lesser first, and the bowing heavens open on the scene. The voice of the Eternal rings from out the supernal dome, and the Holy Ghost in majesty descends, to witness to the approval of that voice which says, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Here the baptism of water was ratified by the immediate baptism of the Holy Ghost.

If water baptism had been unnecessary, John would have known it; for he knew they would need the baptism of the Holy Ghost. But he performed the one, and promised the other. If water baptism had been unnecessary, Phillip would have known it, and he would have just informed the Apostles at Jerusalem, that the people of Samaria were believing, and were waiting for the baptism of the Holy Ghost. But instead, he baptizes them with water first, and then informs the Apostles, that the Samaritans may also receive the greater baptism, by the ordinance God had appointed. (Acts 8). If water baptism was unnecessary, Ananias would never have commanded Paul to "Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord Jesus."—Acts 9:17, 18; 22:16. He would have told him only, to receive the Holy Ghost; but he performs the one, and proclaims the promise of the other. But in the case of Cornelius and his household, we have an undeniable instance of the necessity of both. Peter had been sent for to tell Cornelius what he ought to do. (Acts 6:10). "Words whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved."—Acts 11:14. He understood his errand undoubtedly. "And as he began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them." If this was all that was necessary for any man, Cornelius would need no more, and no useless ordinance would be imposed. He stood as fair before God, morally, as any man, or God would never have sent his angel to comfort him. Surely no useless ordinance will be imposed here in the presence of the Holy Ghost! while every fibre of their souls is filled with holy fire, and their minds illuminated by the light of heaven! No! but, the command of God, the ordinance of heaven, must be honored, or that glorious spirit in sadness will withdraw, leaving their hearts barren and cold. Peter knows his duty and performs it. "Can any man forbid water that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?" And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus."—Acts 10:47. It is vain, nay, worse than vanity, to declare, with the word of God in our hands, that the baptism of the Holy Ghost renders water baptism unnecessary. Every example of Christian baptism recorded in God's word, overthrows the theory; and every word of God, and every example of obedience, gives irrefutable evidence of the necessity of both; and God's approval attended them all. But to cap the climax, we will again quote the words of Jesus to Nicodemus: "Verily, verily, I say unto thee; Except a man be born of water, and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God." This is evidence both of the necessity of water baptism, and the baptism of the Holy Ghost; and also of the order in which they are to be received. Now, may God bless this feeble effort to many souls, is the humble prayer of the writer, CHARLES DERRY.

 September 22d, 1879.

DO YOU EVER PRAY?

DEAR READER:—It may be you are astonished at this inquiry, and that it should be supposed you are living without prayer; but pardon me, if I tell you that it is possible to utter many words upon our knees, and yet never pray; for prayer is a pouring out of the soul before God; it is a seeking of him with all the heart, and feeling what Jacob did, when he said, "I will not let thee go, except thou bless me."—Genesis 32:26; and be assured, unless, by the Holy Spirit's teaching, you are thus in earnest when you bow your knees before God, you do not pray.

Prayer is the life breath of a man's soul. Without it we may have a name to live, and be counted Christians in the sight of the world; but we are dead in the sight of God. The feeling that we must cry for mercy and peace to God, is a mark of grace, and the habit of spreading before him our soul's wants, is an evidence that we have the spirit of adoption.

Prayer is the appointed way to obtain the relief of our spiritual necessities. It opens the treasury and sets the fountain flowing. If we have not, it is because we ask amiss, or we ask not. Prayer is the way to procure the outpouring of the Spirit upon our work; upon our children, and upon our hearts.

Jesus has promised the Holy Ghost, the Comforter. It is ready to come down with all its precious gifts of renewing, sanctifying, purifying, strengthening, cheering, encouraging, enlightening, teaching, directing and guiding into all truth. But then he waits to be entreated. If we are to resist the world, the flesh, and the devil, we must pray. God has no dumb children with their five senses. It is vain to look for strength in the hour of trial, if it has not been sought after.

We may be thrown in company with those who never pray; we may have to sleep in the same room, or even in the same bed, with those who never ask anything, or know any thing, about God. But mark my words, We must pray.

A little girl had been taught to pray for her father. He died suddenly. Kneeling at her evening prayer, the child's voice faltered, and as her eyes met her mother's, she sobbed, "Oh mother, I can not leave him all out. Let me say, Thank God, I had a dear father once, so I can keep him in my prayers." Many stricken hearts may learn a lesson from this.

Let us remember to thank God for all mercies past, as well as to ask blessings for the future. Prayer is the only way we can make our wants known to God. "Let us pray for one another." For of all the means of grace, prayer is by far the most important. A man may reach heaven without learning, but I question if ever a man reached it without prayer.

God respecteth not the arithmetic of our prayers, how many they are, nor the rhetoric of our prayers, how neat they are; nor the geometry of our prayers, how long they are, nor the music of our prayers, how melodious they are; but the divinity of our prayers, how heart sprung they are. Not gifts, but graces, prevail in prayer.

I thank God, that he gave me a good father, and an affectionate mother, in the recollections of childhood, when she used to take my little hands in hers and cause me on my bended knees to say, "Our Father, who art in heaven."

Our Lord prayed on a mountain; Peter on the house-top; Isaac in the field; Nathaniel under the fig-tree; Jonah in the whale's belly. Any place may become a closet, an oratory, and a Bethel, and be to us the presence of God.

"Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,
 Unuttered or expressed,
 The motion of a hidden fire,
 That trembles in the breast.
 Prayer is the burden of a sigh,
 The falling of a tear,
 The upward glancing of an eye,
 When none but God is near.
 Prayer is the simplest form of speech
 That infant lips can try;
 Prayer, the sublimest strains that reach
 The Majesty on high.
 Prayer is the Christian's vital breath,
 The Christian's native air,
 His watchword at the gates of death;
 He enters heaven with prayer."

W. STREET.

The incapacity of men to understand each other is one of the principal causes of their ill-temper towards each other.

When a man is honest simply because it is his policy to be so, he is already saving up money with which to buy his ticket to the penitentiary.

FAITH.

"SIRS, what must I do to be saved. And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."—Acts 16:30, 31.

This Scripture is heralded from every pulpit in the land. The world is full of faith, but it is not of the right kind. What does it take to constitute a faith in Christ? We read that "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." There is nothing that we do, but it is the result of faith. We would not sow our fields, nor cultivate our land, if we did not believe that we would reap a crop, for the very fact that we go forth from day to day to labor, proves that we have faith that the things we do will bring certain results. Faith we are told, is the moving cause of all action. Faith inspires a man to act. The fact that he acts, proves that he has faith in the thing that he does. Now we can all understand that this faith must precede all our acts in temporal things. Just so it is in spiritual things. Suppose that I say I believe in a physician, and at the same time refuse to take his medicine. Would it not prove that I did not believe in him. Our acts prove what we are, not our words. Actions speak louder than words. What evidence does the Christian world give that they believe in Christ? They tell us that they believe that he is the Son of God, and that he brought the way of salvation. But does this prove that they have faith? James says, that "Faith without works is dead, being alone." Again he says, "Show me thy faith without thy works, and I will show my faith by my works." By works was faith made perfect. Then, if a man has faith he will have works also. The works prove that he has faith. We have no other way of proving our faith. "He that cometh to God, must believe that he is, (exists), and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Then how can we expect to be rewarded if we do not seek him. "Faith cometh by hearing the word of God," by reading the Scriptures. By so doing we find what is required. It is written: "He that doeth the will of the Father, shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God or whether I speak of myself." What is "the will of the Father?" Now we are going to test the faith of the Christian world, belief on the Lord Jesus Christ. He came with a message from heaven for the world. It was called the doctrine of Christ. He said that the doctrine he brought was not his own, but the Father's that sent him. We are told that he preached the gospel of the kingdom of God, saying, repent and believe the gospel. The meaning of the word gospel is a collection of principles denominated the doctrine of Christ. This doctrine was to be obeyed by man, and by doing so, certain results were to follow. Now the results that followed will prove whether they had done the things commanded or not. When we open the Bible, and point out the things commanded therein, we find that they do not believe the Bible. We ask them why they do not enjoy those spiritual blessings promised by Christ. They admit that they do not have them, and as a reason why they have not, they say they were only for the ancient saints. Jesus says: "These signs shall follow them that believe," and he promised to be with them "always, even until the end of the world," upon conditions that they would observe to do the things he commanded them. Now, as long as he would be with them, these signs would certainly follow; and the fact that these signs do not follow them, proves that they do not believe. Every one must admit this fact in the light of the Scripture which says, "all things are possible to them that believe." Jesus says, that "if a man doeth the will of the Father, he shall know of the doctrine."

How many of the Christian world can say that they know of the doctrine? If they say that they know of it, they will believe in revelation, which thing none of them believe in, which is simply the effect of the Holy Ghost. Now, as they have not this knowledge, does it not prove that they have not done "the will of the Father?" Paul said that "he was not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth." Will it prove such to those who refuse to obey it, as it is set forth in the word of God? When the signs do not follow them, and when they have no knowledge of the doctrine, it will not.

The infidel tells us that the Christian religion has caused more trouble and bloodshed in the world than anything else; that it has been a failure; that it is only a cloak to cover up all the crimes known to man. Is this true? We answer no. Is it possible that Christ was the author of all this corruption we see in the world. When we compare the teachings of Christ and his disciples with the teachings of the world, called Christian, we find as much difference as there is between day and night. Did he not say that his "kingdom was not of this world, else would his servants fight," and "he that killed by the sword, should die by the sword?" Did not the Apostle say that "the weapons of our warfare are not carnal?" Then, if men take up the sword and kill each other, notwithstanding they may claim to be Christian, is Christ responsible for it? Did he bring the principle into the world? The angels came to the shepherds, heralding the good news of the birth of the Savior. What was the message they brought? It was, "Peace on earth, good will to men." The Apostle said that "Jesus was not the author of confusion, but of peace." Then is he responsible for the confusion we see in the world? It is unjust to charge all this to the Christian religion. They should say that the Christian world has not the religion of Christ. If we examine the record, and compare the church anciently with the churches today, we find no resemblance between them whatever. Christ made certain promises upon certain conditions. Now, when a man fails to receive the promises, it is because he fails to comply with the conditions, and that is what is the matter with the Christian world to-day. And the infidel charges this failure to Christ and the Bible. Show me a man or a nation that has complied with every precept of Jesus Christ, and that man or nation has failed to receive the benefits of every promise made by Christ, then I will say no more about the matter, but will believe it is all a delusion. But there has never been a man found that has obeyed the gospel as set forth by Christ and his disciples with an honest heart, but is ready to say that it has made him a better man in every respect, and he has proved Him to be a God of truth. It is unjust to condemn any system before giving it a fair trial. Then who is responsible for the bloodshed, crime, and confusion that are in the world. It is man, and Jesus and the Bible are clear of the charge made against them. Who is it that believe in Jesus? Those who "Do his commandments." "But be ye doers of the word, not hearers only, deceiving yourselves; for if any man be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass. . . . But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, that man shall be blest in his deeds."

If the Christian world had this living, active faith, infidelity would have nothing to feed upon, but would soon vanish away. Let us hold these facts up before the world, and thereby show that we are witnesses for God indeed. Let Babylon fall, and Peace reign from sea to sea.

W. M. RUMEL.

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

Conference Minutes.

INDEPENDENCE DISTRICT.

Conference was held in the Saints' Chapel at Independence, Missouri, October 12th, 1883. J. C. Foss president, F. G. Pitt clerk.

Branch Reports.—Independence 251; 22 baptized, 4 received by letter, 2 received by vote, 5 removed by letter, 1 expelled, 1 died. First Kansas City 22; 1 baptized, 1 received by letter, 1 dropped, 1 died. Clear Fork 15; 2 baptized. Armstrong 17; 1 baptized.

Resolved, That the report of the Kansas City branch be returned for correction with the instruction that the branch officers be requested to labor with the party reported as dropped, according to the law of the Church.

Time of speaking during conference was limited to five minutes each.

The visiting brethren were invited to take part in conference.

The following Elders reported in person: John Brackenbury, (baptized 1), F. G. Pitt, C. St Clair, F. C. Warnky, (baptized 12), E. Curtis, A. White, W. B. Tignor, Bro. Humes, Bro. Waddell, Samuel Crumb, C. G. Lanphear, Bro. Clark, A. H. Smith, (baptized 7), J. C. Foss, (baptized 12), Bro. Halk, Joseph Luff, W. P. Brown, James Brighthouse.

Priests' Reports.—Geo. Harrington, William Clow, Bro. Clemenson, Bro. Brents, A. Cox, Seth Farrow, S. Dennis.

Teachers' Reports.—Bro. Scott, F. Gerber, Bro. Pooler, Bro. Smoutz.

Deacon M. C. Outhwaite, reported.

Bishops' Agent reported as follows, and the report was received. Balance on hand last report $46.85. Received since, $273.20. Paid out $244.30. Balance on hand $28.90. J. J. Kaster, Bishop's Agent.

The Elders' Court appointed at the June conference in the case of appeal, reported as follows: Independence, Mo., June 18th, 1883. We your court, beg leave to report, that we believe there was not sufficient labor performed. T. J. Franklin, Wm. Newton.

Resolved, That the case reported, with the report, be referred to a committee of three for investigation and final settlement, and if need be, to rehear the whole case. James Brighthouse, F. G. Pitt, and Samuel Crumb were appointed said committee. The former court was discharged.

Bro. A. H. Smith, committee on subscription to pay indebtedness on church building at Independence, reported. Report received.

Two cases of appeal from the Independence Branch were allowed. Brn. J. J. Kaster, A. White and Clark, were appointed a committee to try first case of appeal. Second case of appeal was referred to a committee of three, consisting of Elders James Brighthouse, J. J. Kaster and S. Crumb.

Bro. J. J. Kaster, as trustee of the church building, was authorized to make necessary improvements for the protection of the same.

Bro. A. H. Smith reported having received subscriptions to the amount of $201.95, to pay off debt on church. Of the above amount he paid into the hands of J. J. Kaster $185.50, and reports enough subscribed to pay off the balance, $42.38. On blinds and weights for windows, he received $31.85, and paid out for same $36.39.

Resolved, That in all cases of trial in this district, on the finding of the court being rendered, it shall be the duty of all parties so tried, if wishing an appeal, to give notice at the trial, or time of report to the branch by the court, or otherwise forfeit the right of appeal; and said notice should be in writing.

C. G. Lanphear was chosen president of district, E. Curtis vice president, T. H. Humes secretary. Bishop's Agent sustained.

All the spiritual authorities of the Church were sustained in righteousness.

The Elders and Priests of the district were requested to open new fields of labor, and to preach as circumstances permit.

Bro. A. H. Smith preached Sunday morning, assisted by F. G. Pitt. Sacrament meeting at 2 p. m., in charge of C. G. Lanphear and Bro. Clemenson. Preaching in the evening by Joseph Luff, assisted by F. C. Warnky.

The president was instructed to hold two days' meetings throughout the district, and to call upon different Elders to assist him.

Adjourned to meet at Independence, Missouri, on the first Saturday in March, at 10 o'clock, 1884.

NORTH-EAST MISSOURI DISTRICT.

Conference was held at Salt River Branch, November 3d and 4th, 1883. Bro. George Hicklin President, Bro. David F. Winn clerk pro tem., and Bro. Silas A. Winn assistant.

Branch Reports.—Bevier 110, including 8 Elders, 4 Priests, 5 Teachers, 3 Deacons; 3 baptized, 2 expelled. Renick 13, including 1 Elder, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon; financial Report: cash on hand $5.25. Salt River 28, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest; 1 expelled. Hannibal 29, including 3 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher; scattered 14; 1 baptized.

Bishop's Agent's Report: Cash on hand last report, $33; received since, $35.75; paid out $62.50; balance on hand $6.25. Robert Thrutchley, Agent.

Elders' Reports.—Geo. Hicklin, Rob't Thrutchley, and John F. Thomas reported in person, John Taylor by letter. Priest David F. Winn in person, Silas A. Winn from Walnut Creek Township, Macon Co., Mo., reports of Brn. G. Hicklin and D. F. Winn's labors in his neighborhood, that the citizens would like to see them return.

Resolved, That we sustain Bro. Hicklin as president of the district.

Resolved, that the next conference be at Bevier, Missouri, the first Saturday and Sunday in February, 1884, to commence at two o'clock p. m.

Resolved, That we sustain all the spiritual and temporal authorities of the church in righteousness.

Preaching at 7:30 by Bro. G. Hicklin. Sunday at 10:30 preaching by Bro. G. Hicklin; at 2:30 prayer and testimony. It was a time of rejoicing and encouragement, while the gift of prophecy was enjoyed. At 7:30, preaching by Bro. G. Hicklin.

With love, the heart becomes a fair and fertile garden, glowing with sunshine and warm hues, and exhaling sweet odors.

He who is puffed up with the first gale of prosperity, will bend beneath the first blast of adversity.

Miscellaneous.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS DISTRICT.

To the Officers and Saints of the Northern Illinois District, Greeting: Having been appointed Bishop's Agent for the above District, I consider it proper under existing circumstances, to address a few lines to you, and inform you that I will be pleased to receive your tithing and free will offerings at your earliest convenience. With but one or two exceptions, in the past, the district has done but little financially; and we have come far short of meeting the wants of the poor, and the ministry. And as equal burdens break no backs, I would be pleased to see an effort worthy of the name made by the District, to sustain the Bishopric. As this is a day of sacrifice, let us unite with the ministry, "giving a long pull and a strong pull, and a pull all together," that our works in this direction may stand approved of God; and in the sweet by and by will come the blessing, ever remembering that sacrifice brings forth the blessings of heaven.

Letters enclosing Drafts or postal notes, may be addressed to me at Norway, LaSalle Co., Ill.; but post office orders must be sent to Seneca, LaSalle Co., Illinois. This is necessary because Norway is not a money order office. It will also be necessary to inform me by card to Norway, when monies are forwarded to Seneca. Drafts or postal notes must be made payable at Seneca. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain your brother in bonds.

THOMAS HOUGAS.

MISSION, Ill., Nov. 12th, 1883.

MARRIED.

RYAN—HART.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Labette county, Kansas, October 7th, 1883, by Elder Evan Davies, Bro. Charles K. Ryan to Sr. Larend A. Hart. Many presents were received by the parties married. May the blessings of peace, health and prosperity, attend them.

DIED.

BASS.—[At Lawrence, Michigan,] October 24th, 1883, of consumption, Sr. Etta M. Bass, aged 23 years, 6 months and 14 days. She was baptized by Bro. C. Scott, July 1st, 1883. She was conscious up to the moment of her death, and gave directions concerning her burial, how she desired to be dressed, &c., and was perfectly resigned to go. During her sickness she had but one longing desire, and that was that she might have a view of her future home. This favor was granted her, and in vision she passed over the wide, deep and dark waters, and while nearing the other shore, the waters became clear and beautiful. While upon the shore she saw a most inviting landscape: groups of children dressed in white, some of which she knew, and a personage standing with hand extended, and beckoning her to enter. This seemed so real to her, that she seemed more anxious to go, afterwards, than to remain. So dies the innocent and good. Wm. H. Kelley preached the discourse at time of burial, October 27th, and a large number of relatives, friends, neighbors and sympathizers, were in attendance. The family and neighbors deeply mourn her loss, and with all the one to whom she was betrothed, Mr. Herbert Jacobs.

LANE.—In Bennett, Lancaster county, Nebraska, October 22d, 1883, Sarah Ann Lane, aged 60 years, 11 months and 7 days, after a long and painful sickness, which she bore with Christian fortitude and patience. She died as she lived, in peace with all. She was born in England. She joined the church in Old Joseph's day. She came to this country in the year 1849. Lived in St. Louis, Mo., and Quincy, Illinois, until 1862, when she emigrated to Utah; joined the Reorganized Church; came back in 1865, and settled in Nebraska. She leaves a husband and three children, two sons and one daughter, to mourn her loss. None of the Elders were near to attend the funeral. I asked a Presbyterian preacher to preach her funeral, which he did with credit to all. It took those that knew her best to love her most. In all her suffering she was not heard to murmur nor complain. William Lane, the husband.

ADDRESSES.

T. W. Smith, care M. B. Williams, Excello Mills, via Midletown, Butler Co., Ohio.

E. C. Briggs, box 161, Carson, Pottawattamie Co., Iowa.
Bishop G. A. Blakeslee, Galien, Berrien Co., Michigan.

BUTLER & CLAY,

Manufacturers of
COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,
WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,
903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.

Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 35
Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

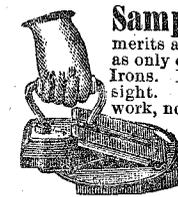

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m

BUTLER & CLAY.

Sample Free of the American Sad Iron Heater. Its merits are seen at a glance. It saves money, as only one half the fuel is required to heat the Irons. Every house keeper will buy one at sight. Brothers and Sisters who are out of work, now is your time to engage in Profitable Employment. One SAMPLE HEATER prepaid, only $1; sells from $1 to $1.60, according to locality; weight but 20 ounces each.

Half doz. $3.50, one doz. $6.50.
We prepay charges on Sample Heaters only.
If you prefer to sell something for a higher price and make a larger profit, try our

NEW SELF-ADJUSTING BED SPRING.

It weighs but 10 lbs., and occupies less than one cubic foot when packed. No Harbor for Bugs and is warranted to be one of the most durable and comfortable Springs in the market. SAMPLE SPRING sent upon receipt of $2. Sells for from $3.50 to $8, according to locality.

Half dozen, $10; one dozen, $18.

We do not promise you big wages and no work; but you will make money according to the energy you devote to the business. It is enough to say, we have Brothers and Sisters in all parts of the United States and Canada who are doing well selling our goods. If after two weeks' trial, goods are not satisfactory, and all we claim for them, return them and we will refund your money. We send one of our Heaters or Springs free with your first order for half dozen or more of either article, thus giving you a Sample Free.

Yours in Bonds,
JOHNS & ORDWAY, Mfgs, Peoria, Ill.

2jun

ALEX. H. SMITH.

J. W. BRACKENBURY.

SMITH & BRACKENBURY,

REAL ESTATE AGENTS,

Independence, Jackson Co., Missouri.

Rents and Taxes a Speciality. All communications, with stamps accompanying, will receive prompt attention.
19mav6m

MASON & HAMLIN

Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN

Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent,
Lamoni, Iowa.

25aug

WANTED

A man accustomed to Farm Work, and taking care of Stock and Milking Cows. Good wages and steady employment for a good, faithful hand. A member of the church preferred. Address:

DANIEL JONES,
Webster P. O., Dodge Co., Neb.

10nov4t

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

A three run Custom and Merchant Mill; one stone on Wheat, one on Middlings, and one on Corn, with all the necessary machinery; and also a Saw Mill attached, driven by a 35 Horse Power Engine. Mill building 40x60 feet, four stories high. Also 80 Acres of Land with the mill.

The above property is situated on Little Blue, eight miles north east of Independence, Mo., in a good wheat country; fuel cheap. This is one of the best opportunities offered, for one desirous of buying.

For particulars, call on or address J. P. JOHNSON, Blue Mills; or SMITH & BRACKENBURY, 8sep3m Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in

LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,

And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

This is the official paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is explanatory of the faith of the Church, and promulgates the teachings of original Mormonism in contradistinction to Utah Mormonism. It contains correspondence from different parts of the world, giving accounts of the great progress of the Church, and setting forth the dealings of God with his people. Published every Saturday, sixteen large pages. Price, $2.50 per year. Joseph Smith, Editor.

ZION'S HOPE.

This is a semi-monthly paper for children and Sunday Schools: price Sixty cents per year, Thirty cents per half year, free of postage. Joseph Smith, Editor.

HOLY SCRIPTURES.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep, or Library binding ..... 1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 2 00
New Testament, inspired edition ..... 75

RULES OF ORDER AND DEBATE

For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth ..... 40

CONCORDANCE TO BOOK OF COVENANTS.
An enlarged new edition; Paper covers, 32 pages ..... 10

BRANCH RECORDS.

Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages ..... 2 00

DISTRICT RECORDS.

Printed and bound similar to Branch Records ..... 3 00

LICENSES AND NOTICES.

Elder's, Priest's, Teacher's, and Deacon's Licenses, each per dozen ..... 12
Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred ..... 40

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

Sunday School Engineer and Record Book ..... 35
No. 1.—Floral Tickets for Infant Class; 48 for ..... 20
No. 496.—Floral Tickets; pack of 96 for ..... 20
No. 106.—Fancy Borders, 2x2½; 10 for 5c., 100 for ..... 40
No. 461.—Book Markers, 2x6; 10 for 8c., 100 for ..... 70
No. 281.—Book Markers, 2½x6; 10 for 25c., 100 for ..... 2 25
No. 371.—Flowers and Verses, 2½x4; 10 for 10c., 100 ..... 90
No. 389.—Bronze Birds and Flowers, 3x5; pack of 10 for 20c., 100 for ..... 1 50
No. 373.—Flowers and Verses, 3x4½; 10 for 15c., 100 ..... 1 25
No. 469.—Flowers and Verses, 2½x4; 10 for 12c., 100 ..... 1 00

TRACTS.

No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 1 50
No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100 ..... 40
No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per dozen, 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000 ..... 1 75
No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Pre-Requisites, and Design; and Who Shall Administer; 16 page; 25c. per dozen, per 100 ..... 1 75
No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a dozen, 100 ..... 40
No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100 ..... 1 75
No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, per 100 ..... 2 25
No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 p.; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100 ..... 2 25
No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a doz., 100 ..... 1 75
No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 75
No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 40
No. 16.—Polygamy: Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 1 40
No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 75
No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a doz., 100 for 1 10
No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 40
No. 21.—Truths by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100 ..... 15
No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100 ..... 1 10
No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 25
No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 5c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 40
No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a doz., 100 for ..... 1 40
No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 1 10
No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1.00, 1,000 for ..... 1 75
A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 ..... 1 10
Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen ..... 60
Prophecy on the late Rebellion; per 100 ..... 15
An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.
COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS. Bound in limp cloth turned in, 270 pages ..... 75
CERTIFICATES AND REPORTS.
Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen ..... 50
Annual Statistical Reports, two for ..... 10
Branch Financial Reports, per dozen ..... 30
Certificates of Baptism and Membership, per dozen ..... 20
Certificate of Removal, per dozen ..... 20
Marriage Certificates, per dozen ..... 25
SONGS OF ZION.
By T. W. Smith, 40 pages, 10 cents each, per dozen 1 00
MISCELLANEOUS.
The Problem of Human Life, Here and Hereafter, bound in cloth boards, 524 pages ..... 1 50
Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols. .... 4 00
Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols. .... 4 00
Baldwin's Ancient America, cloth, illustrated ..... 1 80
Rollin's Ancient History ..... 4 00
Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible, cloth ..... 1 75
The Koran ..... 1 50
The Bible Text Book ..... 1 00
Apocryphal New Testament ..... 1 65
Brown's Concordance of the Bible ..... 60
Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets ..... 35
Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality ..... 50
Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size ..... 85
Joseph complete, 1 vol., library leather ..... 3 50
Universalism Against Itself; by A. Wilford Hall, Author of the Problem of HumanLife ..... 1 00
THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.
JOSEPH SMITH - - - - - EDITOR.
Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.
All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

1882
Wm. Am. Pub. Co.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 551.

Lamoni, Iowa, December 1st, 1883.

No. 48.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 1st, 1883.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Bro. Joshua Armstrong wrote from Wilber, November 16th, that he had been there in attendance at the Braden—Kelley debate. He was unfavorably impressed with the fairness of Rev. Braden in discussion. We gather from the letters of Bro. R. M. Elvin, L. Anthony and Armstrong that the course pursued by the opposition was the usual one, the Spaulding story, and the "awful" character of Joseph Smith, were the chief staples of objection and argument.

Charles C. Rich, of Bear Lake, Utah, one of the Twelve in the Utah Mormon Church, died at his home at 2:30 p. m. November 17th, 1883, after an illness of three years' duration.

Read Bro. N. W. Smith's advertisement of organs. We have seen three or four of those introduced by him at Lamoni, and vicinity, and they certainly look and sound well.

Bro. J. W. Chatburn, of Harlan writes that their services and Sunday School are fairly well attended. Quite an interest is taken by many not of the Church in the Sunday School.

BRO. M. N. COLE, who lately passed through Lamoni, Iowa, to Butler county, Kansas, writes from that "flowery land" of big corn, nice wheat, goobers, limestone and cactus, that his "advice to those having a means of livelihood where they are located, is to stay there."

He further reports, as will be seen by his letter that land reported as good land at $1.25 an acre is not good land at all; but is poor land; good land being worth from six to ten dollars per acre. The fact seems to be that, so great and constant has been the rush into the new lands of the west, by all classes seeking homes, that all the available good land near to the lines of railway is taken up. Whoever now goes in must either move further on, or buy of some speculator, or discontented home-steader who wishes, either to return whence he came, or to go on himself.

The Government has done all that considerate and honest settlers could ask in the present political condition of the country, to aid the settlement of the public domain; but the best government on earth, can not prevent the practice of fraud, and the taking advantage of the law by scheming men making "haste to become rich," to the disadvantage of the honest toiler seeking for and asking for nothing more than a fair opportunity to win his own bread, and to care for his own household. Besides this, Saints would do well to heed the voice of Christ, the wisest counselor man ever had; "Let all things be prepared before you."

It may be said to us that these words were addressed to the Saints in reference to Zion only, and that it is spiritual. This is true. But Christ states that he has "not at any time given commands that are temporal, but spiritual." Further the counsel is to Saints and is wise. It applies to Saints who may be desirous to change their places of habitation anywhere within the borders of the land of Zion; and was to be observed by those who understand and propose that Zion is to be the "pure in heart." No surer indication that the disregard of that counsel is dangerous to the welfare, and as a consequence the faith of the Saint, need be asked for, than the circumstance mentioned by Bro. Cole of a man stranded on a Kansas prairie, with wife and little ones, without a home, without money, without a definite purpose or remunerative employment.

The almost natural result of such a condition of helplessness is to look to those apparently well fixed and able to draw upon their resources at a moment's notice for any needed amount for help; thinking, and possibly, partly justly, that those who are well off should of right help those in need. When this help is not forthcoming if demanded, or expected; the feelings are hurt and embittered. It is vain for those from whom such aid was expected to urge their inability to draw from their resources at demand. Nor is the frequent recurrence of such demands upon these persons under similar circumstances calculated upon; the present, and pressing need overshadows the case, and nothing but willful desertion of a friend in need seems to justify the feelings of the helpless one, to characterize the acts of refusal, or neglect to aid.

The Book of Mormon, teaches that when one is found in distress it is a duty to help that one without specially inquiring if his calamity is the result of his own folly, or bad acts. But, so many and so oft repeated cases of distress arising from the same cause, among a people forewarned by the presiding genius of their faith and life, the wise giver of their laws, and the power of their final emancipation from all their evils and woes; make the advice and admonition given in the law of tenfold force. We feel the distress much more keenly from the fact that we were powerless to prevent it before it occurred, and can not now remedy it by extending the help needed.

It is, we think, time that the effort to organize and carry into effect some of the co-operative methods by which the worthy may be aided to make homes in Zion, aiding them to properly provide all things before them, should be made.

BRO. JAMES CAFFALL'S article "The Herald a Weekly," was written some time ago, but for reasons apparently good at the time was not published. But as it is only a little while now till the New Year, and new volume of the Herald will begin, and very much of the article by Bro. Caffall is most excellent, and applicable now as when it was written by him, we give it an insertion believing that good will come from it.

The question whether the good of the cause may best be conserved by the Herald, weekly or semi-monthly, is of course open to inquiry; and we may have an opinion with many others, as to what is preferable; but of that we do not now write. There is perhaps no doubt that it can be maintained in its weekly issue, if it be desirable. That may be determined hereafter.

We greatly desire that the Herald shall be utilized. As one arm of the service in the spiritual warfare, to get the best returns from its use, it should be not only sustained in contributions of articles, and subscriptions in money for its weekly visits; but it should be circulated. Wherever a copy, or two would be likely to be read and possibly good be done thereby, there it ought to go. Many a half-dollar, worse than thrown away in the uses to which it is put, would send the HERALD to a friend, or relative for nearly three months; and might possibly rouse a mind to inquiry. A half year's subscription for HERALD sent into a locality, by some lover of the truth acquainted in that place, might be the means of an opening to preach the word there; and who could estimate the good that a dollar and a quarter so laid out would do in such a case.

We would like to see a boom on the subscription list for 1884. Make your renewals early, and persuade your neighbors that belong to the Church to take it. Do not be afraid to ask them. If brethren dwell together and neither can afford to take the HERALD, club together, and send for it, half the year to one address, and the other half to the other address. However, it should be with the HERALD as with the front door, "every door should have its own mat," so every reader should have his own HERALD. Send in the subscriptions.

FROM a recent letter written us by "Perla Wild," from Madison county, Nebraska, we gather that the winter there will be hard on those poorly provided with provisions and fuel. Crops are not so good as it was thought they would be at an earlier period; and, it is said, that last winter some was obliged to burn hay and corn stalks to keep warm by.

First impressions about new and fertile countries, obtained under sunny skies, while grassy meads spread every where, and gentle zephyrs fan the brows and lull the senses with the aroma of more than Arabia's thousand flowers, do not wear well when cool November blasts sweep down from northern plains with frost and chill in every breath. Then the realities, the uncomfortable things of existence force themselves into recognition, whether welcome, or otherwise.

"Tickle mother earth with a hoe and she will laugh with a harvest;" is just as true in Kansas, Nebraska, Idaho, Dakota, as in Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, or Ohio. Those who want the harvest must do the tickling. New states always pass the first stages of their development with more, or less of hardship and deprivation for the pioneer settlers. Nor do their immediate successors fare much better, the chief relief being found in the fact of neighbors already settled to whom necessity may appeal for neighborly counsel and aid.

Sr. Perla finds in her new home that her letters and stories in the Hope have preceded her, and created for her a welcome, warm and pleasant. Her unflagging interest as a teacher to the young, and an enthusiastic lover of children (young or old) have been shown in her writings, and now win for her a partial reward for her care and persistence. It is so rare in these unregenerate times to find that efforts put forth solely for the good of the race, are appreciated, that when a case occurs, and one who so labors is made cognizant of it, it gives a satisfaction and gratification not easily told.

Sr. "Perla" has our esteem and thanks for her continued interest in the Hope and its readers, and we are glad that she is permitted to see that wherever she may go, and become known among the Saints her "works have gone before her to judgment," in her favor.

FROM the Island News, published at the Grand Manan Island, New Brunswick, off the coast of Maine, we clip the following glowing tribute to the merits of one of the brethren preaching there.

ELDER SHEEHY.

Bearing this unpretentious name, a young American Preacher has recently visited the Island, holding a series of evening Services in the Hall at North Head.

The Meetings were crowded; and from venerable Deacons of the F. C. Baptist Church, down to almost prattling childhood; the fervency, the eloquence, the pathos, and the purity of theological sentiment, not only captivated the ears, but stirred the hearts of the people in an unusual manner; the young Minister appearing as a shining light; or, as a Lantern in a dark place.

He may be called Mormon, or Latter Day Saint, or Smithite; or any other name, or epithet, which scoffers love to bring forth from the vocabulary of ribaldry; but, no matter, his preaching stands the test of closest scrutiny; and is pronounced faultless. His Sermons are not made up of rant and rhapsody—of iterations and reiterations—of a jumble of words without meaning, delivered in boisterous vehemence—but, in a style in conformity with the elocution of the Schools; and in matter, calculated to "win souls to God."

Should this talented young man remain on the Island, his present popularity as a Preacher bids fair to effect a sweeping change among the people.

The people have long felt the need of a "Live Preacher"—one who is qualified for the great work, not only educationally, but by deep piety, and all the graces and accomplishments which constitute a true Minister of the Gospel of Christ; and, free from all guile and hypocrisy.

It is sometimes asserted that the agitation of the liquor traffic question by temperance societies, W. C. T. Unions, fanatics and zealous, religious bigots, has accomplished nothing toward stopping the consumption of intoxicating drink and as a consequence its sale. Whether the persistent agitation of the matter has, or has not affected the traffic, something has. It may be that the constant friction of drunkenness upon the interest of society, viewed from a purely business standpoint, has resulted in the creation of a public opinion that the moral suasion of the philosopher, the prohibition of the enthusiast, and the irritation of the crusaders could not compass. But it is certain that all firms of business men, from those that gather from the storehouses of nature the raw materials to those that offer the created articles of necessity, convenience and luxury, will not put men addicted to the cup into places of trust and honor, no matter what the capabilities otherwise may be, nor keep them there if the habit is acquired while in their employ. This is true of Railway Companies, who refuse to trust their property and that of others to the trust and care of drinking officers and employes on freight trains, in freight depots and warehouses; and who will not consent that the lives of travelers over their lines of road shall be put in jeopardy, by drinking train despatchers, telegraphers, conductors, or engineers. It is true of Banking associations, who require sober men for cashiers, tellers, assistants and messengers. It is true of manufacturers, who insist that from superintendent to the man that sweeps and builds fires, all shall be free from the alcoholic habit; drunkenness being a more frequent and potent cause for discharge from employment than incompetency; for the latter may be removed by diligent care, instruction and effort, while the former may not be removed readily, and may, indeed is almost sure to bring injury and loss to the employer; and may result in damage to property and grave loss of life to fellow workmen.

Twenty years ago there were many circles in society where the constant tippler and occasional drunkard was not only tolerated, but his offenses were condoned. Now there are but few from which the tippler and debauchee are not excluded; and where one is found, he is constantly made to feel that society looks upon him in detestation.

An evidence of the rapid strides made by public opinion in its march toward the higher planes of thought and life, is found in the following extract from the columns of the daily Tribune, of Chicago.

Cincinnati, O. Nov. 11th. Capt. H. W. Stein has abolished the bar privilege on the steamer Charles Morgan, which has just come off of the marine ways and leaves for New Orleans Wednesday. The privilege had been yielding $175 a month. An old river Captain said tonight that Capt. Stein would make money by abolishing the bar on the Morgan. He was certain the boat would get a passenger traffic that would be enough larger and more desirable to compensate several times over for the money received by the bar privilege. "The feeling," he continued, "has been growing for several years among steamboatmen on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers that they could get rid of the bars on their boats to good advantage. Capt. Stein is not the first to try the experiment. Capt. Williamson has not permitted a bar for some time on any of the boats he controls in the Cincinnati and Pittsburg trade, and he claims to have made a hit with the public in getting rid of them. The Davidson line on the Mississippi has followed the same course, and its business has been benefitted. The bars on the Tennessee River line of boats are to be abolished, and the bar on the Ariadne, which leaves Cincinnati this week, is being removed."

The example of the Morgan, which is one of the largest boats on Western waters, he thought, would soon be imitated by other boats running in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade, and a saloon attachment to a first-class boat may become the exception instead of the rule. He thought the room saved by taking out the bar would in most instances be worth more to owners of boats than is received for the bar privilege.

Correspondence.

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

TAHOR, Iowa, Nov. 13th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The work in this district is still moving along slowly. Our two days' meetings have proved a success. The Saints have been revived, and there spiritual strength renewed. In Hamburg, we had a good time. Five or six are about ready for baptism. Bro. StClair went from this place on the 12th, to hold more meetings, and induct into the Kingdom of God, as many as are prepared. Here in the Plum Hollow Branch, we had a splendid time. We held meetings every night last week, in the Gaylord and Ross school houses. Had fair congregations, and good liberty; Consequently were better prepared to commence our two days' meetings at the Gaylord school house, on the morning of the tenth. We commenced by having prayer meeting at half past nine in the morning, and preaching the remaining part of the day. The large new school house was crowded both Saturday and Sunday, with attentive listeners. The Spirit of God was with us, causing all to rejoice in the glorious hope of our calling. Bro. R. J. Anthony was with us, and preached the word with power; also Brn. Deuel and StClair. Monday night held meeting at the Ross school house. Tuesday morning baptized two. Old sister Leeka, who is now seventy-eight years of age, attended all these meetings, and still bears testimony to the truth of this work.

I leave here today, to hold forth in Brother Goode's settlement, and thence I intend to go northeast, to labor until our conference. Brother Anthony intends to put in his time with us this winter.

Praying for the welfare of this glorious cause, I subscribe myself your Brother in bonds,

HENRY KEMP.

NEW TRENTON, Indiana,

November 19th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I think the last published word from me was written at Springerton, Illinois. I left there October 25th, and reached New Albany, Indiana, at ten p. m.; found Bro. David Scott after considerable trouble, and put up with him till Saturday, and then went out to Mt. Eden Branch with Bro. Harbert Scott, president of the district. I commenced meetings in the Saints' church, on Sunday morning, and continued every night of that week, and till Tuesday of the week after. I am pleased to say that I enjoyed good liberty in speaking, and at times a great measure of that freedom that the Spirit alone can give. I felt the influence of the prayers of the Saints, and was strengthened by their sympathies and confidence. On Sunday tenth inst., after morning service, I baptized Bro. Leonard and Sr. Cynthia Scott, brother and sister to Columbus Scott. Leonard is a fine composer of music; several pieces of his are in common use in this mission, and are truly beautiful. I shall expect some grand pieces now, since he has obeyed the gospel, and has the Holy Spirit to aid him. The other one baptized is the daughter of Bro. Harbert Scott, Nancy M. She is the third Nancy Scott that I have baptized in that region; her mother, Bro. Harbert's wife, and Bro. David Scott's daughter, the other two.

I was glad to learn that I was authorized by the unanimous vote of the August district conference to restore the license of Elder James G. Scott. This I did with much pleasure, as I believe that the severe ordeal which the brother passed through, will make him even more useful than ever to the work in these parts. The difficulty was not one affecting the brother's moral character, however, which is beyond reproach; but an error of judgment. In company with Bro. Harbert Scott, I came to the Union Branch on the 8th inst., and commenced meetings that night, and preached every night till the 16th, inclusive. Had good liberty as a rule. On last Friday I baptized Bro. Ford and his daughter Eva. The ice on the creek was over an inch thick, and not being strong enough to bear me, I had to cut a place to a point about eighteen feet from the bank, which took about twenty minutes, and as I had to throw the pieces of ice out of the way, my fingers got somewhat cool, and the rock bottom was not any too warm for my feet. I think I will put on boots or shoes next time, if any can be had. There are others there who are about ready to obey the gospel.

Perhaps Bro. Harbert may baptize them before he leaves for home, as I left him there to keep up the interest till over Sunday at least. He expected to preach a funeral sermon on Sunday morning, relating to the death of Sister Fisher, who died on Friday afternoon.

I left on Saturday morning to come here, in order to preach a funeral discourse occasioned by the untimely death of Elder Wm. H. Chappelow, the president of New Trenton Branch. Bro. Chappelow died on the 2d of November of cancer on the cheek. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, for his upright life, and kindly disposition. The branch here suffers a great loss, which will be difficult to repair. The Methodist Church was freely tendered us, and yesterday morning it was completely filled with sympathizing friends. The choir sang several fitting hymns in a creditable manner. The local preacher, Mr. Steele, opened the service with an appropriate prayer. I had most excellent liberty in preaching. I was taken by the hand by many after the service, in a very friendly manner, and the hope expressed that I would preach to them again. The minister seemed pleased to announce meeting for me, on Thursday night. I had some Epitomes with me, and after giving a few to those standing by, I asked a young man if he would give the rest to his friends, and he answered, "I will that;" and he hastened out loors to distribute them around. And yet I preached the truth plainly. An Irishman, a Presbyterian, after meeting, in answer to a question said, that "Nobody thinks that you are connected with the Salt Lake Mormons; for we all know these people, that they are among the best citizens we have, and nobody can say a word against them. No, you need not spend your breath in telling the people that you are a different people from the Mormons; for they all know that." Such is the result of the consistent walk and conversation of the Chappelow family living here, consisting of Mother Chappelow, who joined the Church with her husband in 1843, and three sons—James, Thomas, and Joseph H., Emma, and Sr. Carmichael. Four families in all, and they are all respected by their neighbors. This branch though small, has done as much, if not more, to aid the cause in the district, than any other, by the simple, yet successful way, of regularly giving on each Lord's day, the sum of a nickel apiece, and more, as they may be prospered; and when not needed to help the cause at home, they send the amount gathered to the Bishop's Agent now and then.

The Saints do not live in the town, but two and a half miles on the other side of White River. To get there we have to climb the bluffs, up a hill over a half a mile, and on a road full of loose stones, and when on top, we can see only hills. The soil seems very thin and washes badly. It has to be kept fertile by abundant manuring. Pears do well here, but peaches are uncertain, and apples are limited in kinds. If one fourth the time, and labor and fertilizing, was devoted to our Iowa and Missouri lands, that is employed here; they would "astonish the natives" in their productiveness. I expect to leave the "hill country" on Friday, and plod among the sand on the bottom lands of the Miami river, where the Saints of the Amanda Branch, Butler Co., Ohio, are located. A few days on the top of high ridges, and free air, and then a little while in the flat low lands. Changing water, and food, and climate, and beds,—well, if the constitution is iron clad, all right. Even if a person does keep the “word of wisdom,” he may suffer from colds in the head, rheumatism in the shoulders, disordered liver and stomach. O yes, the missionary has an easy time, and his lonely wife at home also enjoys life.

T. W. SMITH.

PEORIA, Illinois,

November 17th, 1883.

Bro. W. W. Squires:—Melchisedec's mother's name was Naamah, a daughter of Enoch. Melchisedec was Shem, the son of Noah, Noah having been commanded of God to raise up a righteous seed with this one wife, while the earth at that time was cursed with the unrighteous doctrine of a plurality of wives. Noah and Naamah were the only righteous in that age. Book of Jasher, 5 and 16 chapters.

Yours truly,

J. A. ROBINSON.

WILBER, Nebraska,

November 19th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—The debate here on the second question, which reads:

“Is the church, of which I, Clark Braden, am a member, identical in faith, organization, ordinances, teaching, worship, and practice, with the Church of Christ, as it was left perfected and completed by the apostles of Christ.”

The attendance upon the question was not so large as upon the first, nor did it appear that the interest taken was as deep. However, a cold spell of weather, and some local gatherings, detracted somewhat. I herewith give a sample of the points Mr. Braden presented in defense of his proposition:

1. Definition of the word church.
2. The work that was accomplished by Thomas and Alexander Campbell was the restoration of the natural church, and not a reformation.
3. The growth and progress of the worship of God was gradual and of degrees. During the antediluvian period, God had individual followers. In the patriarchal period the father of the family was priest and minister. The Mosaic period continued from the time of Moses until the setting up of the Christian Church, by the apostles of Christ, on the day of Pentecost.
4. The High School grade was from the time of Malachi till Christ, the time in which there was no revelation.
5. John and Jesus founded no church, but were loyal Israelites, and so worshipped.
6. When the Apostolic Church was perfected, then the supernatural, or the extraordinary was to cease. Apostles, prophets, signs and miracles were discontinued, and the natural church was to continue, for there were to be no more signs or revelations.
7. There may be error, and still the church be perfect.
8. All Christians should wear the name of Christ, and the church should be called Christian.
9. “Even as they are named in one hope of their naming.”—Eph. 4:4.
10. We believe in one God, and say nothing of his body or parts; for the Bible is silent as to body and parts.
11. We believe in Christ, but say nothing as to the “Unitarian or Trinitarian doctrine,” because the Bible is silent upon these subjects.

12. We believe in one Holy Spirit, not Ghost; we say HE, HIM, not it.

13. We reject all baptism of the Holy Spirit, except that of the day of Pentecost, and the house of Cornelius.

14. We defy Kelley to find another case or circumstance. The Spirit never hints that there were more than the two instances of baptism by the Holy Spirit, or that there ever should be.

15. There is only one baptism, Eph. 4:5.

16. The gospel law of pardon was first preached on the day of Pentecost.

17. The Israelites were freed from Pharaoh and his laws by baptism unto Moses in the cloud.

18. Faith is a means of justification.

19. There is one hope, the Spirit through the word.

20. The New Testament was perfected, and this removes prophets, apostles and inspired men.

21. The local congregation are the masters, in all things for their government; the Bible the only rule and guide of faith.

22. We rely on our feelings for a knowledge of our pardon and acceptance with God.

23. We preach the same doctrine, and make the same promises that the apostles did.

24. Alexander Campbell had the same command to preach, that any man had. (Mark 16:15).

25. We have communication from God through the written word.

26. I defy Kelley to find one instance wherever Christ performed a church act.

27. If the baptism of the Holy Spirit, is to be obtained by all believers, then Cornelius' baptism came in the wrong place.

28. Paul received the Spirit when Ananias laid his hands upon him, and there are several other cases.

29. Baptisms, (Heb. 6:2), were Israelitish washings, and not the one baptism.

30. There are two elements in the church, the divine and the human.

31. If any one says that we use “Campbell's Christian system,” as the Methodists do their discipline, or the Presbyterians their confession of faith, he tells a willful and deliberate falsehood.

32. The word of God was not perfected till fifty years after the death of Christ.

33. The apostles were a constitutional convention, and ceased when they had organized the church.

34. Heb. 6:2 has nothing to do in this question, and has no application to us, being wholly an Israelitish institution.

35. The word Christian is a specific, and is the name of Christ's Church.

36. Do we now need men to come to us in the power and Spirit? No, for we have the written word, and therein is the spirit and power of God.

37. The new birth, the word, is the Spirit. Man hears the word and believes, and when he is born of the water, he is therefore born of the water and the Spirit.

38. None could be apostles except those who had seen him, (Christ), and this was why Christ made a revelation of himself unto Saul.

39. The apostles and signs were provisional, and when the object of their appointment was accomplished, they were to cease.

Bro. Kelley gave all the above items a rigid examination, and so completely upturned the argument, that Mr. Braden in his last speech, stood silent, as if dumb; and when his silence became painful to all present, Bro. Kelley broke the spell by requesting the moderators not to count the time thus lost against him. I have been particular in giving this outline, which I believe to be correct and fair, so that the eldership may read up, and be prepared to meet the same kind of arguments elsewhere. More anon.

ROBT. M. ELVIN.

HUTCHINSON, Colorado,

Nov. 12th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I have just returned from Starkville, which is about two hundred miles south of this place, where I found Bro. J. W. Kent working very energetically for the Master's cause, in a Union Sunday School; and also trying to tell the people of Starkville how they can get into the kingdom of God on the earth. I arrived there on the thirteenth of October late. The next day, Sunday, Bro. Kent had an appointment ready for me to fill, which I did to the best of my ability, to a very attentive congregation; and left another appointment for the next Sunday, and had a good hearing. I stayed three weeks with Bro. and sister Kent, and I am happy to say that they are trying to live their religion, and letting their light shine before the people of Starkville. I did intend to stay there all the winter but circumstances prevented. We hold meetings here Sundays, notwithstanding our number is small. The few saints of this branch are trying to live their religion.

Ever praying for the prosperity of Zion's cause I remain your brother in hope of eternal life.

JAMES KEMP.

STREATOR, LaSalle Co., Ill.,

Nov. 16th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—On Sunday, November 4th, I was called upon to conduct the funeral services of grandpa Rogers, at the house of his son David, South of Sandwich, where I spoke to an attentive audience, with fair liberty; after which we laid him away in God's Acre by the side of his aged partner, who preceded him there several years. That evening we listened to Bro. Joseph Lambert in the Saints' church at Sandwich. The following morning which was an exceptionally stormy one, a messenger from mission, came post hast after me, to conduct the funeral services of the infant son of our respected Brother and Sister, Thomas and Harriet Hougas. We reached there in safety, after a ride of twenty miles through incessant rain and mud. Services the following day at Saints' Church, were very impressive, and appropriate, and although all felt sad yet the hope of a reunion in the Resurrection of the Just, was very consoling. I remained till over Monday the twelfth dispensing the word of life; and on Sunday I made a direct appeal to those present, who had been blessed by the witness of the Spirit in favor of latter day inspiration, to lay aside the fear of man, and follow the Spirit's pleadings; as a result, eight persons were baptized, the next day; Bro. Thomas Hougas officiated. That same evening confirmation was administered by Bro. Hougas, Andrew Hayer, and the writer. The spirit was present in much power, and gave both promises and warnings to the candidates after which liberty was given, and several spoke, giving testimony of the Lord's acceptance of our labors and sacrifices. It was a time that will be long remembered by those present. I came here on the 13th, and am endeavoring as requested by dis-strict conference, to place things in running order again. At this present writing I have ground for hope that my labors may be successful.

The district is not in a deplorable condition, as stated by Bro. Lambert in the last Herald, neither did I wish to be so understood by him. Coldness, and lack of local laborers, have retarded to some extent spiritual progress; but we are slowly improving, and we are quietly working with that object in view.

As ever your brother in bonds,
JOHN S. PATTERSON.

DECATUR, Nebraska,
November 13th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Bro. James Caffall has been with us long enough to shoot six shots from the gospel cannon. He had a private debate with a Brighamite, and got away with him very badly. May God bless the Saints wherever they may be found. May God bless the laborers in the field, and help them to spread the gospel of Christ to the ends of the earth.

Your brother in bonds,
WILLIAM W. WALTERS.

DOW CITY, Nov. 17th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I have just returned from Jackson county, Missouri. From Independence I went east fourteen miles, passed through what is called "fire prairie;" found some good prairie farms, ranging from thirty to forty-five dollars per acre. But that prairie is rather too level for me. From there I went south three miles through timber. Came to Pink Hill Prairie; Some good land on this prairie, worth from thirty to fifty dollars per acre. From Pink Hill south for miles are good prairie farms, rolling enough to carry off the water. Price for land about the same. Crossed the Chicago and Alton Railroad, twenty miles from Independence, at Oak Grove. From there to Lee's Summit on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. This place is fourteen miles from Independence. Here I found the Garden of Eden for the farming community of Zion. I did not see the tree of life that the sword was placed to protect, but I thought I could see the sprouts coming up from the old stump, which, if we sanctify ourselves by the truth, we may eat and live forever.

From Lee's Summit I went south and east. For miles it is a fine farming country, and in township after township there is no waste land. This part for farming is far the best of any I saw in the country.

I thought how wise it would be for the Saints to build villages in every township, and live close together, and have their farms all around them. This I think would be in keeping with the prophet's instruction to the children of Zion, as found in the Times and Seasons.

Land within six miles of Lee's Summit ranges from thirty to sixty dollars per acre, and I think this is as cheap as it will ever be, from the fact that the soil is rich. Some people have lived here since 1832, and they say the soil is just as good as ever it was. I think this part of the country was, at the time the revelation was given, about the dividing line between Jew and Gentile, that the people were commanded to purchase. Let me say to all who wish to live by farming in Zion, let us fill this part first. My face is towards Lee's Summit, and as far as I could learn, the people are willing that we as a people should come and live with them. I do not want the Church to think I am preaching gathering, but I am telling them to go into Jackson county to better their condition. This is what I am going for, and my example must tell what I am.

JOHN HAWLEY.

DOWNSVILLE, Iowa,
Nov. 12th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—About twelve months ago I visited Clear Water, Antelope county, Nebraska. There were about twenty-five or thirty members of the Church, all homesteaders, and of very limited means. Their only place of worship was a sod school-house, or a private log house, neither of which was suitable to invite an audience to, or to worship God in. They were doing what they could to spread the gospel among their neighbors, and were desirous of doing more. I suggested to them the propriety of building a church house on some spot convenient to the greatest number of the inhabitants. It looked like a great undertaking for so few people, who had so little means, but the suggestion was well received. A meeting was called to consider the matter, and after proper consideration it was decided to build. A building committee was appointed, also a soliciting committee, to collect means for the carrying out of the purpose. The brethren and sisters contributed liberally of their means and labor, and when the citizens around saw their zeal and energy, they came nobly to their aid. The Magnolia and Little Sioux branches, in Iowa, also rendered them assistance, and the grand result of their united and self-sacrificing zeal is, that to-day they have a very neat little frame church, clear of debt, in which they have the undisputed right to assemble and worship God. The writer had the honor of being present at their dedication of the house, on Sunday, the 4th inst. The meeting for dedication was conducted by Elder Levi Gamet. Appropriate hymns were sung, with feeling and earnestness, Elder G. S. Hyde offered the dedicatory prayer, in which all hearts seemed to unite, and after reading the eighty-fourth Psalm the writer preached the dedicatory sermon. There was no display of formality, more than there would be in ordinary worship, but there was a deep, earnest feeling of gratitude to God, and a devotedness to his cause, together with a proper sense of the solemnity of the occasion, which is not always present where so much display of formality exists. There was an evident satisfaction, that in the building of this house, and its dedication to God, they had done their duty; and I believe that God accepted their labors and will abundantly repay their sacrifices.

It is proper to state, that since the starting of the project for building this house of worship, the few Saints who were then in the branch have been reinforced by brethren and sisters from Iowa and Tennessee, who have cast in their lot with them, and rendered timely aid in the good work. There are now in the vicinity of Clear Water, nearly sixty members. Most of them are earnest, devoted workers, while a few seem careless and indifferent. With such men as Levi Gamet for president, and George S. Hyde, Benjamin Kester, and Bro. Ritchie as expounders of the word, who can estimate the good that can be done, if all are united in this work of faith and labor of love. The branch officers, too, are mostly true and faithful men, and I trust, will heartily second the efforts of their beloved president, in feeding this little flock. To-day the prospect for them is bright. It can only be clouded by their own indolence, and neglect of the things belonging to their eternal peace. Let every man be content to learn his duty, and do it. Not aspiring after other men's positions and honors, but seeking only the glory of God, and the well being of all His children. Then the glory of God will fill the house they have reared to his name, and joy unspeakable will fill their hearts, and the work of truth shall prosper in their hands.

I can not close this letter without urging upon other branches who are in better condition, financially, than these poor homesteaders, to go and do likewise. Don't depend upon your neighbors for a place in which to worship God, but prove that, to your hearts, the dearest object is the kingdom of God. Raise houses to his name, and there invite your friends and neighbors to come and enjoy with you the good things of that kingdom. We may not now be commanded to build temples, but we are commanded to do all we can for the honor and glory of his name, and as it is our duty to preach the gospel to our neighbors, it is also our duty to provide places to which we can invite them to come and hear and contemplate the graciousness and blessedness of his gospel. And when the time comes to rear a "temple" or "temples" to his name, that work will be done, not in the oppression and blood of unwilling hearts and hands, but in righteousness, equity and justice; and it will meet the approval of the great Ruler; and the acceptance of such work will be manifest in blessings, real and tangible, not in signs, grips, passwords, and meaningless names.

C. DERRY.

Summary of News.

Nov. 15th.—Germany will send a special envoy to Peking to exert his influence in behalf of a peaceful solution of the Tonquin question.

A rumor is current that Admiral Coubert, commander of the French forces in Tonquin, is ill. The semi-official journals say the French squadron in Chinese waters will be re-enforced owing to the fact that the Chinese Viceroy is assisting the Black Flags.

A monster trial will begin in Hungary shortly, the prisoners being 111 persons accused of participating in the recent anti-Jewish riots. To prove the guilt of the prisoners, 1,400 witnesses will be called.

The pacification of Peru is progressing slowly. The Peruvians now occupy Lima. Iglesias continues to acquire popularity. Many doubted up to the last minute that the Chilians would evacuate the Capital. This dampens the enthusiasm which was experienced. The Chilian column on the way to Ayachuco was attacked by 4,000 Indians. The latter were almost unarmed, and the Chilians slaughtered 700 of their ignorant and drunken opponents. Caceres is blamed for unnecessary slaughter.

The report of the First Auditor of the United States' Treasury contains the following interesting facts:—The President of the United States receives a salary of $50,000 a year, but this is eked out by many contributions from the National Treasury to the maintenance of his establishment. The salaries of the employees of the Executive Mansion last year were $25,938; its repairs and fuel cost $58,398; and for lighting alone the bills were $15,388. Besides these there were contingent expenses for the Executive Mansion of over $7,000. The expenses of the Tariff Commission and the compensation of its members, one of whom—Mr. Porter—is now in England advising the people and Government of Great Britain to impose a prohibitory duty on the importation of American grain and meat, were $62,645. The sad days during which the country hung over the bedside of President Garfield are recalled by the items of "expenses in connection with the illness and death of President Garfield," $39,793, and expenses of draping public buildings at his death, $2,841. Many of the expenditures are interesting for the light they throw on the widening sweep of modern government. The protection of every man in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness we find in this document includes a good deal more than the support by the tax payers of the army and navy, the judiciary, the Legislature, and the other long-established departments. The Government spent $6,096 for the protection and improvement of the Hot Springs of Arkansas for the benefit of those of the masses who have need of the peculiar virtues of its medicinal waters. The saving of life on the seacoast took $6,000,000. The propagation of food fishes is responsible for the expenditure of $136,404, and the inquiry about more food fishes took $4,500. The operating expenses of the steam vessels that were employed in this work were $136,259. To prevent the spread of epidemic diseases cost $84,637. $10,000 were spent for works of art for the Capitol. The War for the Union is not over yet, as is to be seen in the entry of the disbursement of $1,937 for "the examination of the Rebel archives." The cost of collecting $230,000,000 of duties on merchandise and tonnage is put at $6,949,344. This is as near as may be 3 per cent, and is much below the average cost of collecting the revenue of the British Government, which was almost 10 per cent for the fiscal year ending with March, 1882.

Workmen are being discharged at factories and mills in Cleveland, O., Lawrence, Mass., and Milwaukee, Wis.

Nov. 16th.—Important negotiations are at present in progress looking to greater facilities for commerce between the Mediterranean and Red Seas. The drift of probabilities is toward a second canal, as Great Britain could obtain control of such an enterprise just now without any great trouble.

The Parnellite candidate, McMahan, had an easy victory at the Limerick Parliamentary election in Ireland to-day.

It is said that France and China have accepted the arbitration of England, Russia, and America.

French forces in Tonquin are estimated at 18,000—4,000 above the figures give by the Minister of Marine.

The committee of the Chamber of Deputies that is considering the grant of credits for the expenses of the Tonquin campaign is favorably inclined, but desired the Government to give a complete exposition of the subject.

The last despatch received by the French Government from Admiral Courbet, dated Nov. 8th, announced the arrival of the transports Aveyron and Shamrock. He expected the transports Bienhoa and Tonquin the 10th, and stated he would attack Sontag between the 15th, and 20th.

The Will of the People, a Russian Nihilist paper, states that the sentence of death passed by the Nihilist Central Committee on an informer has been carried out. It says their party has lost many valuable members lately, but the gaps are being rapidly filled. More blood will flow, the responsibility for which will fall not only upon the senseless Government, but upon those who, knowing the pressing needs of the country, sit still and do nothing. The paper contains two letters from convicts in Siberia which give horrible details of the treatment of prisoners there.

The Marquis Tseng, the Chinese diplomatist, was educated by the Jesuit Fathers in Kiang Nan, and was admitted as a member of the Jesuit order.

The first electric light with underground wires, established at Philadelphia, Pa., is pronounced a success.

Nov. 18th.—The French and Chinese have not yet decided to go to war with one another, the Marquis Tseng continues to be interviewed, the Parisian journals continue to denounce the Marquis, and there are reports of disquieting news from Tonquin in the French Capital.

The Chinese Ambassador, Marquis Tseng, in a published interview says: "A long time ago the French Government was officially informed that Chinese regular troops were stationed at Bacninh, and should the French troops cross the Red River opposite Bacninh such an act would be regarded as a casus belli. Admiral Courbet would then have to measure swords with the Chinese regulars, who are already 30,000 strong in Tonquin, and who are so disposed as to be able at a moment's notice to march by three different routes against the French expeditionary force. These troops are all armed and equipped in the European manner. Among their officers are several Europeans, but, above all, several American engineers. The French Government has now a last opportunity to preserve peace. Tomorrow may be too late."

The news from France and China is beginning to alarm Englishmen. Heretofore it has been supposed that the Tonquin dispute was really a game of bluff on both sides, and few entertained any fear that a general war between France and China would ever occur. Now it is believed that war is certain. The cablegram from Hong Kong announcing that Pin Yuling, a Chinese aide de camp, had been dispatched to Han Kow to raise 20,000 volunteers, was yesterday received with incredulity. To-day's dispatches confirm it and give further particulars, all tending to show the seriousness of the situation.

The navy journals of England discuss the situation as one of the utmost gravity, and are accusing the Government of having by a process of starvation so weakened the British navy that if war between France and China breaks out, England will be actually unable to find either the ships or the marines necessary to properly re-enforce the British squadron in Chinese waters.

A letter from Jeddah, Egypt, dated the 13th inst., confirms the report of the death of Commander Moncrieff and the annihilation of the Egyptian force which he accompanied. The force of 500 men landed at Toka, when they were cut to pieces. Only fourteen men escaped. The 12th the rebels attacked Suakim, but were repulsed. A panic, however, set in, and the inhabitants at last advices were flying to Jeddah. The convict station at Toka is in the hands of the rebels. It is stated that another Egyptian tribe has revolted at Sennar. The situation has become extremely critical. Either Hicks Pasha, who commanded the Egyptian troops, must retire, or a strong contingent of Sir Evelyn Wood's army must start forthwith to the scene of operations. The whole movement is due to slave traders in Upper Egypt, who profess to act in the name of Medi, the False Prophet.

Advices from the British fleet on the west coast of Africa state that recently 150 English sailors were sent up the Niger to punish the natives at different points on that river for outrages upon the explorers and traders. After shelling the town of Abah, at the head of the delta, they ascended to Egga, a large town 300 miles from the mouth of the Niger. Here they landed, and were at once attacked by the natives. A fierce fight ensued, in which three seamen were killed and several wounded. The attacking party of natives was driven to the bush and the sailors returned to the fleet.

In Southern Russia the conflicts between the peasants and the landlords call for the intervention of the military. Agrarian troubles are rife throughout Eastern Europe. The peasants are rebelling against the exactions of the usurer and the rent-collector.

French finances are in a state of disorder and uncertainty owing to the increase of the national debt, the suspicion of surrounding nations, agricultural depression, and the ravages of the phylloxera among the vineyards. The prospects for improvement are by no means good.

The financial situation in Spain is most discouraging. Spanish bank shares have gone down 100 francs in ten days.

The business outlook in the United States is quite discouraging. The failure record is not now the worst sign of the times. We have come to a point where mills are shutting down and thousands of laborers are being deprived of work on the verge of winter. The Bay View fish-plate mill and the North Chicago Rolling Mill of Milwaukee have stopped; the Cleveland Rolling Mill will restrict production next month; the City Forge, the Union Works, and the Lake Erie Iron Company will take the same course. It is still worse in the iron manufacturing towns of New York and Pennsylvania. A large number of mills there, are stopping their machinery in whole or in part, throwing thousands of mechanics out of employment; and the Bessemer steel-works are reducing wages 10 per cent.

Pope Leo is reported to have expressed himself favorably to the pretensions of the Comte de Paris, and to have advised the French Conservatives to unite in favor of that royal pretender. The Pope's action has given offense to the Ferry Government, which has remonstrated, but without effect.

The British steamer Holland, from Liverpool, sank off the coast of Holland yesterday during a violent storm. Eighteen persons were lost. Only eight of the passengers and crew were saved.

The steamer Hymethus was wrecked on the coast of Holland. Few of the crew rescued.

Nov. 19th.—Mr. Biggar, the Irish leader, made a fiery speech at Oldham, Lancashire, declaring that Lord-Lieutenant Spencer had caused men to be hanged on evidence which was notoriously insufficient; that Orangemen as a class were knaves and dupes; and that the processions in honor of Sir Stafford Northcote were composed of men hired for the occasion.

The Chinese have abandoned Sontag and Bacninh, and will probably arrest the movement of their troops on the frontier.

The ground is still too wet for the French to resume active operations.

It is reported at Haiphong that the City of Haizuong was destroyed by fire the night of the 12th inst. The fire was said to have been instigated by the Hue Mandarins governing the Annamite Capital, who are on good terms with pirates and robbers, and conspire against the Tonquinese as well as against the French. This is regarded as the result of Dr. Harmand's political scheming in Annam and Tonquin. Nine hundred soldiers and 300 sailors have gone from France to Tonquin.

Challemeil-Lacour has resigned the office of French Minister for Foreign Affairs on account of ill health. Prime-Minister Ferry is appointed Minister for Foreign Affairs, and Fallieres, Minister of Public Instruction, is the successor to Ferry.

A letter just published from a prominent iron-master of Sheffield, England, gives a somewhat gloomy outlook for the iron industry throughout Great Britain. The writer says that English and Scotch producers have for a long time had to face a keen competition from the German rolling-mills, and now that a strike is imminent among the coal-miners of Yorkshire it is probable that an increase in the cost of fuel is soon to be added to the difficulties under which they are now laboring. The only escape that he can see from the danger of overproduction on a falling market will have to be secured by shutting down many of the works and a wholesale discharge of workmen.

Later accounts from Jeddah, Egypt, state that the Egyptian soldiers who were sent to Toka against the rebels fled before the enemy, despite the efforts of their officers to rally them. The soldiers saw the English commander Moncrieff surrounded by insurgents defending himself with a revolver. The Egyptians lost eighty-six men and two officers. The latest official accounts of the fighting at Toka state that the Egyptians lost eleven officers and 142 men, besides six Turks and several Greeks. They also lost one gun and 300 rifles, but regained their ship. The Egyptians during the fight formed a hollow square, when a small number of the enemy locked their shields together and rushed through the Egyptian line. A panic among the Egyptians resulted. It is doubtful if the black troops can be spared from Massowah, which is in the same critical position as Suakim. The British gunboat Ranger has been ordered from Aden to Suakim.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade says: "There have been some severe frosts, but the position of the wheat crop is exceedingly favorable, as a result of one of the finest seed times ever known. The tendency of wheat and flour is downward. Barley slow. Foreign wheat off islands is drooping. Sales are only possible when concessions are made to buyers. American maize is scarce, and advanced 6d; round maize is firmly held, and dull. Ten wheat cargoes have arrived, three were sold, six withdrawn, and three remained. Sales of English wheat during the week, 67,745 quarters at 40s. 3d. a quarter, against 48,936 quarters at 40s 8d a quarter the corresponding week last year.

Nov. 20.—Another startling seizure of revolutionary literature is reported from St. Petersburg. The police of that city have just seized a large quantity of pamphlets entitled, "Penal Servitude and Tortures—The dead to the living." The book describes in vivid language the sufferings of political prisoners in Siberia and elsewhere, under which it says, many innocent victims have died, leaving secret records of their tortures, which are now collected and published to point out to the living the duty of vengeance. It urges a general rising for the purpose, first, of rescuing the prisoners, and then of organizing an armed and open revolution.

It is evident that the English Government is now fully aroused to the fact that the pending trouble between France and China may lead to complications which will require prompt action by British war vessels in Chinese waters. This is shown by the appointment of Vice-Admiral W. M. Dowell, now commanding the ironclad fleet which has its rendezvous at the Isle-of-Man, to the command of the Chinese squadron, in place of Vice-Admiral G. O. Willes. The British squadron in China is already larger than that at any other foreign station except the Mediterranean, and with Admiral Dowell in command the rights of British merchants and other subjects are very likely to be treated with due respect.

The report that the Chinese have evacuated Sontag and Bacninh is not confirmed and not believed. In all probabilities hostilities between France and China will break out within a few hours. The Government at Peking has sent circulars to the eighteen Viceroy's pointing out the gravity of the political situation, and expressing a firm resolution to oppose to the utmost the French invaders. Therefore, it says, the services of 120,000 men are required. The Viceroy's are enjoined forthwith to recruit the men for the force desired by the Government, and to provide necessary uniforms and provisions. Admiral Courbet, commander of the French forces in Tonquin, telegraphs that the last body of troops sent him has arrived. He does not ask for further reinforcements. The pirates are displaying great activity along the river banks. Junks and launches are frequently fired upon. Water communication with Hanoi is threatened. The pirates are badly armed, but are spreading terror among the villagers. Four villages have been destroyed in the vicinity of Haiphong. The military authorities are helpless because the executive power is in the hands of civilians who have no adequate force beyond incompetent native police. Scattered bands of Chinese, supposed to be black flags, have been observed in the vicinity of Haid Zuong. The garrison there has been reinforced from Haiphong. Admiral Courbet intends to mass his forces for a united attack on Bacninh. Spies report 4,000 reinforcements lately sent by night overland from Sontag to Bacninh. The garrison at the latter place numbers over 10,000.

Further executions of persons connected with the recent Servain revolt are occurring daily. The extreme penalty has been remitted in the case of the Radical Committee, now in prison.

Fifty persons in Thorn, West Prussia, have been attacked by trichiniasis.

Charles William Siemens, the celebrated scientist, engineer, and electrician, died at London this morning, as the result of a fall on the street ten days ago.

There now appears to be good foundation for the rumors of discontent in Manitoba, and the Northwest Territories of the Dominion. The feeling of a portion of the people seems to be in favor of annexation to the United States.

For a number of years Brisco Sanchez, a famous Mexican brigand, has defied the law, and terrorized the unprotected inhabitants. This morning he and his band were surrounded near Chiantla, in Puebla. After a desperate resistance the body of Sanchez was found riddled with bullets and his followers dispersed. No soldiers were killed, although several were severely wounded.

Since the beginning of the current fiscal year, July 1st, the Secretary of the Treasury has called for redemption bonds amounting to $72,000,000, and this sum includes $40,000,000 in 3 per cents. The call for $10,000,000, issued Saturday, will mature Feb. 1st, 1884. Of the $30,000,000 in 3 per cents previously called the banks held about $12,000,000, which had been deposited as security for their circulation. If the proportion holds good in the bonds called Saturday the banks will be forced to give up $4,000,000 more before the 1st of February. All the contraction this will make is not worth talking about while our mines are adding seven to eight millions a month to the hard money of the country.

Nov. 21.—The Marquis Tseng in an interview in Paris to-day denied that the Chinese have evacuated Bacninh. He said: "Instead of having evacuated Bacninh, we have largely re-enforced the Chinese strength there. I am making my last effort to avoid war, and at present consider failure so certain that I have begun preparations looking to a near departure of the entire Chinese Embassy from Paris."

Late to-night the members of the Chinese Embassy completed their preparations to leave Paris. What was probably their last communication with the Government of France was the delivery of the ultimatum of China, that an attack upon Bacninh will be regarded as a declaration of war. All the Powers have received official notification of the delivery of the ultimatum, and it is considered probable at London that the Embassy has private information that the French have already marched upon Bacninh and that war may have actually commenced.

Many heavy business failures in Canada and the United States are reported to-day.

One hundred Hoosiers killed themselves during the year ending Oct. 31st, 607 were killed by accident, two fell off judicial scaffolds, and two were hanged by mobs. Nelling, of course, counts in next year's statistics.

FIRES—STORMS—ACCIDENTS.

Nov. 15.—Loss by fire at Chicago, Ill., $76,000. Oshkosh, Wis., $85,000. Loogoote, Ind., $35,000. Picketts, Wis., $10,000. Rochester, N. Y., $15,000. Wonewoc, Wis., $5,000. Rusk, Tex., $60,000. Grapeville Pa., $15,000. New York, $64,000.

The first reports of the recent storm in Maine, gave but a slight idea of the havoc wrought.

The great damage appears to have been caused within a belt some miles wide crossing Piscataquis county and Northern Penobscot into Aristook. The same belt probably crossed Somerset county. At Shirley the storm was very severe. It followed down the Piscataquis Valley and crossed to the Katahdin Iron-Works, through the Gulf and across Longa and Indian townships to the lower lakes, thence to a point near Patten. There are great stretches of the country where the forests were leveled to the ground and millions upon millions of feet of valuable timber destroyed. Whole townships, in some instances, are said to be nearly flat. The losses are certainly several hundred thousand dollars. A well-known lumberman estimates the total damage throughout the state at a round $1,000,000. The gale took the form of a cyclone in Oxford and Franklin counties. The damage in Oxford county was $100,000. In Franklin county the loss is $50,000. Houses and barns were destroyed and many cattle killed. The damage was heavy throughout Northern Maine. Lots on the Androscoggin and Sandy Rivers were totally destroyed. In Kingfield 2,000 acres were destroyed. At Davenport, Ia., Hillsboro and Bloomington, Ill.; Whitehall and Grand Rapids Mich., the storm was very severe, accompanied in some places by snow.

Near Port Rowan, Ont., an unknown schooner was lost, with all its crew. It is valued at $10,000. The schooner Ryan, is lost. The tug Thompson is believed to be lost. Much wind-bound craft is ashore on Long Point. A scow foundered near Detroit, and four lives lost. The Johnson is a wreck. The schooner L. C. Butts, was wrecked on the Canadian shore.

A passenger train jumped the track just north of Choctaw, Tex., killing one man, and severely injuring three others.

Nov. 16.—Loss by fire at Columbus, O., $28,000. Boston, Mass., $20,000; one man severely injured, and several slightly. Alexander, Ill., $2,500. Wabash Co., Ind., $2,500. Bolton, Miss., $45,000. New Castle, Pa., $50,000. Nilés, O., $15,000. Sumter, S. C., $40,000. Mount Vernon, Ill., $28,000. Lawrenceburg, Ind., $12,000. Orleans, Ind., $17,000. Pittsburg, Pa., $20,000. Columbus, Miss., $100,000. Hunter's Point, L. I., $25,000.

Near Streator, Ill., two trains collided, killing six persons outright, and wounding twelve others. Near Jamesport, Mo., a defective car wheel giving way, precipitated a car down an embankment, killed one man and wounded twelve others. A defective rail wrecked a train near Chattanooga, Tenn., injuring one person fatally, three seriously, and thirty-six slightly.

The propeller Avon was beached at Buffalo, N. Y., and the Murcur wrecked at Erie, Pa. The Fitzgerald was lost yesterday, with seven men. The Regulator was wrecked opposite Chicago, and one life lost. The schooner Norman, is stranded on Hog Island. The Blazing Star and Leadville, were lost off Long Point, Pa. Many other casualties happened to vessels, resulting in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

A steam boiler burst at Williamsport, Pa., killing three men and wounding three others. Another burst at Terre Haute, Ind., killing three men, and injuring two others.

Nov. 18.—The steamer Parisot burned a few miles from Natchez Miss.; loss $250,000. One man drowned. The steamer Alberta burned at Jacksonport, Ark., destroying 500 bales of cotton, and a cargo of seed. Loss by fire at St. Paul, Minn., $10,200. Madison, Ind., $20,000. Loss by the Philadelphia wharf fire of last night, $150,000. Another fire at Philadelphia, Pa., to-day, $50,000. Nashua, N. H. $20,000. East Saginaw, Mich., $6,300. Harrodsburg, Ky., $20,000. Belmore, O., $35,000. Biddeford, Me., the Congregational Church. One man badly injured.

At the Grape Creek coal-mines, Ill., yesterday, a great quantity of slate and coal fell upon John Nichols, killing him instantly. A railroad accident at Bradford, Tenn., killed two men, and wounded eight others.

Nov. 19.—Loss by fire at Fargo, Dak., $20,000. Quincy, Ill., 40,000. Akron, O., $16,000.

The hurricane of Friday and Saturday from the northward of New Foundland has beyond doubt wrought terrific havoc among shipping. At Trepassey four bodies were washed on shore. So far they have not been identified.

At Hant's Harbor, Trinity Bay, the British Schooner Minotaur was lost. At Caplin Cove, near Hant's Harbor, the schooner Archibald is a total wreck. Two vessels—the Annie and the Albatross—collided during the storm, inflicting severe damage to each other.

At St. Pierre an extremely fierce gale raged for forty-eight hours from the north-northwest, commencing at noon Friday, accompanied by a terrific, blinding snow-storm. The coasts of St. Pierre and Langlade are strewn with wreckage of all descriptions.

The ship Portland (of Liverpool) Mc Gregor, from Quebec for Greenock, laden with a cargo of lumber, was abandoned Friday between Langlade and St. Pierre. She drove ashore at Savoyard Point and became a total wreck. The cargo is floating about in all directions. The fate of the crew is unknown. When last seen from St. Pierre they were struggling with the waves in the ship's boat, a heavy sea raging. Toward night they appeared to be in a hopeless condition. They were then rowing toward Langlad, West Point, where no landing could be effected.

The schooner Jeanette, from Quebec to St. Johns, anchored in St. Pierre Roads, almost a wreck. The first officer's skull was fractured during the height of the gale.

The bark Grande broke from her moorings and drifted down on the French brigantine Annie and the New Foundland brigantine Oban, laden with 4,000 quintals of codfish and consigned to France. All these vessels drove upon reefs at the entrance of St. Pierre Harbor and became wrecks. All the vessels at anchorage in the roads of St. Pierre were more or less damaged.

At St. Shotts a vessel was seen during the height of the storm blast driving along dismasted. At the same place one body with the head severed was picked up. Another was found with the arms cut off, another with one of the legs gone, and another a mere trunk, all the limbs being hacked off amid the cruel breakers. There were no marks on the clothing which could serve for purpose of identification.

The steamship Liddesdale broke up into small fragments Saturday where she was wrecked, a little to the westward of St. Shotts. The Provmande, a Norwegian bark was lost last Friday night, at Green Island, near Cape Breton, N. S. Ten lives were lost.

A furious snow-storm prevailed at St. Pierre, N. F., Friday and Saturday last, attended with loss of life and property. Ships were driven ashore and their crews perished. The ship Poland, a lumber-laden schooner, and two brigantines, bound for France, were driven upon the reefs and wrecked. Several vessels were driven from anchorage and partially wrecked. Trepassey advices report that several bodies have come ashore there and at St. Shotts. There is no identification as yet. All are mutilated, the heads, arms, and legs being severed from the trunks.

At St. Shotts a large vessel drove by dismasted. She appeared to be abandoned. The steamer Caspian has been detained four days by the hurricane and was unable Saturday to face the northerly gale. Three schooners went down in Trinity Bay and one in Captain Bay. The steamer Missouri, from Boston for Liverpool, passed Cape Race Sunday. She reports frightfully stormy weather.

Reports of the disastrous effects of the gale of last week come in at Montreal, Que., daily. The following fatal accidents are reported: Two sailors named St. Jean, residing in Sorel, drowned; Mr. Fousignant, with his wife and five children, were drowned, while crossing the river in a boat from Gentilly to Champlain. Victor Venillette, a sailor on board the schooner Charles, was blown overboard and drowned. It is reported that the barge Alabama was found abandoned on Lake St. Louis. It is feared the crew perished. The gale played havoc with some light ships on Lake St. Louis.

A telegram from Arichat, N. S., states that two brothers named McDonald and D. J. Doyle fishermen, were drowned at Gros Nez Friday by the upsetting of a boat. The same night the Norwegian bark Plovmander went ashore at Green Island. The steward and one sailor were saved. Ten were lost.

Nov. 20.—Loss by fire at Toronto, Ont., $30,000. Ottawa, Kan., $75,000. Jersey City, N. J., $75,000. Morristown, Tenn., $9,000. Flushing, L. I., $40,000. Dixon, Col., $250,000.

Eighteen workmen were drowned yesterday at Douarnenez, in the Department of Finisterre, France.

A train on the St. Martin's & Upham Railway jumped the track near Hampton, Ont. Three cars rolled over an embankment into a ditch. Sixteen passengers aboard were more or less injured, some fatally.

Nov. 21st.—The American ship Thomas Dana, from Liverpool for New York, landed at Fayal the 5th instant, twenty-one men, being part of the crew and passengers of the French brig Vocaberg, from St. Pierre, Miquelon, for St. Malo, France, sunk by collision, October 30th. The remainder of the crew and passengers, eighty-eight in number, perished.

A tornado, yesterday morning, passed over Arkansas and Southern Missouri, going north-westward, and reached as far as Carmi, Illinois. At Melbourne, Ark., the funnel ruined many houses. The home of the Sheriff was demolished, and the family buried in the debris, the Sheriff being killed and six people wounded.

The propeller H. J. Jewett, loaded with a cargo of merchandise, valued at $50,000, is on the rocks near Sand Beach, Mich., on Lake Huron.

Central and Southern Indiana are flooded. The rain has fallen for forty-eight hours. In Indianapolis, damage to the amount of $150,000 has been done.

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald and Hope for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION.

I WILL endeavor to show you Christianity in its purity, and in its apostasy; and will take the Bible and Ancient History for my evidence.

The principles of the gospel, as established by Christ and his apostles, were: Faith, Repentance, Baptisms, Laying on of hands, Resurrection of the dead, and Eternal judgment. (Heb. 6:4).

As all believers must have faith, we ought to know what it is. Paul declares that "Faith is the substance [assurance] of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen." (Heb. 11:1.)

Repentance is another gospel principle, and means that amendment of life or conduct that shall render us acceptable to God.

The door that leads us into the kingdom of God is baptism, and that by immersion. (Col. 2:12; Rom. 6:4, 5; Acts 22:16).

The laying on of hands is for the gift of the Holy Ghost, which will guide us into all truth.

The church in its purity had Apostles, Prophets, Pastors and Teachers; (1 Cor. 12:28), and also had the gifts that Christ promised to all believers. (Mark 16:16).

Gibbon says: "The purity of the Christian religion, the sanctity of its moral precepts, and the innocent as well as the austere lives of the greater number of those who during the first ages embraced the faith of the gospel were such that so benevolent a doctrine ought to have been received with due reverence, even by the unbelieving world, however much they may deride the miracles." But alas, corruption began to creep into the church, and in the second century after Christ, Mosheim says: "There is no institution so pure and excellent, which the corruption and folly of man will not alter for the worst, and load with additions foreign to its nature and original design. Such, in a particular manner was the fate of Christianity. In this 2nd century, many unnecessary rites and ceremonies were added to the Christian worship." The first ordinance that was changed was baptism, from immersion to aspersion. The first person baptized by aspersion was Novatus, A. D., 263. This was the beginning of a great schism; for Dyonisus says: "We justly cherish an aversion to the Novation, by whom the church is split asunder, and some of the brethren have been drawn into impiety and blasphemy, and most nefarious doctrine has been introduced respecting God, and our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ has been callumniated, as devoid of compassion; which also, besides all this, sets aside the holy baptism, and overturns the faith and confession that precede it."—Eusebius' Eccles. His., p. 276.

In the third century, triune immersion began to be practiced, which Tertullian says, was doing somewhat more than the gospel required. Thus the seeds of apostasy and corruption began to be sown in the church at an early day.

We have now seen how the ordinance of baptism has been changed. We now will look at the ordinance of laying on of hands for the reception of the Holy Ghost, after baptism; and for the healing of the sick. The orthodox churches have entirely done away with this very important ordinance, and say that it is no longer needed; which is a very foolish statement; for this Holy Ghost was given to all believers to guide them into the truth, and show them all things, after Christ had left and gone to his Father; and it was to be given by the laying on of hands. "And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came upon them, and they spake with tongues and prophesied."—Acts 19:16. And again we find (2 Tim. 1:6) this: "Wherefore I put thee in remembrance, that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands;" and in relation to healing the sick Holy Writ says, "They shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." (Mark 16:18). Jesus certainly taught this doctrine, and has never changed it; and this ought to satisfy the most doubting mind, that it is binding at the present time. Turn to history and you will read that it was practiced after Christ's time. Cyprian says: "By prayer and the imposition of hands, they received the Holy Ghost." Bingham says this rite was always used in ancient times. (Antiquities 1st vol., 10th ch., p. 419).

It is seen very plainly by the Bible, why the churches have done away with this important doctrine. "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine," (2 Tim. 11:3); and Peter says: "There shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies." This is the reason the orthodox churches have lost the Spirit, and transgressed the law of God. As Constantine has been called the first Christian emperor, (though not worthy of the name), we will investigate his character and reign, which began in the third century. Mosheim says of that age: "That the face of things began to change in the Christian church. Constantine proclaimed himself a Christian, and yet never obeyed the order of Christ, that he gave to all believers to be baptized, as he was not baptized until the moment of his death." See his baptism in Eusebius, in Vit Constantine, 1st vol., 4th chap., 61 p., which Gibbon explains by saying, he delayed his baptism so he could venture freely to indulge his passions in the enjoyment of this world. As he delayed his baptism until the last moment of his life, he could not have had the Holy Spirit to guide him in his reign, and consequently must have been a false teacher. The way he brought converts into the church was this. He promised every one that joined and was baptized, twenty pieces of gold and a white garment; and by that means in one year gained twelve thousand converts. (Baronius Annal Eccles., No. 67, 74). Such acts are contemptible enough; but these circumstances are in themselves so probable, that the learned Dr. Howel in his History of the World, has not scrupled to adopt them. This certainly was not the way that Christ and his apostles brought converts into the kingdom of God.

The same year he convened the council of Nicene, and the Articles of Faith were endorsed by the church. His reign was polluted by the murder of his eldest son. Soon there appeared another schism in the church,—the doctrine of absolute creation from nothing was introduced into the Christian church. (Beausobre Tome 11, p. 165). But at the Council of Nice, the consubstantiality of the Father and the Son was established after much quarreling, and has been unanimously received as a fundamental article of the Christian faith, by the consent of the Greek, Latin and Protestant churches, although the Bible plainly shows that they had no grounds for such a theory. (Gen. 1:27; 3:8). Again, prophets were in the church of Christ, but when Constantine arranged and changed the laws of God, the Holy Spirit ceased among them, and the "institution of prophets became useless, and even pernicious; and their power was withdrawn;" their office abolished (Gibbon Rome, Vol. 1, page 555), which is evidence that the church was drifting into darkness.

In A. D. 325, there arose a subtle dispute among them in regard to the Trinity. The church was divided into three parties. One claimed that the Trinity was composed of three distinct and infinite minds, or substances; three co-equal, co-eternal beings composed the Divine Essence. The second party claimed that the Godhead consisted of one person, and three minds. The third party claimed that there was a difference in the Godhead; that the Holy Ghost was a spontaneous production, created from nothing by the will of the Father. At last a council was convened at Nice to settle the dispute. Three hundred and eighteen bishops attended, and the session lasted two months. Constantine attended and took part in the debate; and the synod decided upon the subject of the Trinity, and their opinion of the Trinity was a gross error; for in their article of faith they make the Trinity a substance, a person, and yet without body or passion; and yet the Christian world has unanimously submitted to the infallible decrees of that general council. The progress of time and superstition has erased the memory of the passion and ignorance which disgraced these ecclesiastical synods. The Nicene creed was accepted by Constantine, "and he firmly declared that those who resisted the divine judgment of the synod must prepare to be sent into exile." "This silenced all opposition, except from two protesting bishops." (Gibbon's Rome, vol. 1, p. 326).

Such was the rise and progress, and such was the natural revolution of those theological disputes, which disturbed the reign of Constantine, and clearly show us why the Spirit of God had ceased to strive with them. Paul plainly saw this apostasy; for he writes: "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils," (1 Tim. 4:1), which has truly come to pass. Again, the question has been asked, When did the signs and miracles cease, for they are no longer in the churches to-day. The orthodox reply is, that they ceased in the day of Christ and his apostles. Our reply is, that they ceased on account of the wickedness of the people. The exercise of miraculous power in the church was gradually withdrawn. In A. D. 323, history says that miracles were performed, demons were cast out from the body, and even the dead were raised. (Gibbon's Rome, vol. 1, p. 540).

The conversion of Constantine is claimed by John Wesley to be the era at which miracles ceased. In A. D. 356, Constantine, son of Constantine, was even more anxious than his father for converts; for he compelled his subjects to be baptized, and those that did not obey he tortured in a most inhuman manner. In A. D. 1218, transubstantiation crept into the church, and Innocent III may boast of the establishment of that doctrine. This doctrine is the invisible change of the bread and wine into the real body and blood of Christ. All the evidences of sight, feeling, and taste are against this doctrine.

In A. D. 787, the worship of images was pronounced to be agreeable to Scripture, (Gibbon's Rome, vol. V. p. 37), and reason, and has been kept up to the present day. Thus we could follow this apostasy down to the present day; but want of space forbids. Thus we see that the Church of Christ has degenerated in such a manner, that not a vestige of its purity remained; and it has split up into numerous sects which claim they are offsprings of Christ's Church; but that she has become corrupt. But they can not even be offsprings of that church; for in A. D. 886, the Latin and Greek churches both of which were called the Church of Christ; (for both had received the light of Christianity); until their schism, which we have mentioned; when the Greek Church excommunicated the Latin Church for heresy, and in A. D. 1054, the Latin Church excommunicated the Greek, and neither party has repealed its sentence; so neither is the Church of Christ; and, consequently, their offsprings can not boast of springing from the Christian Church. We can plainly see that she is no longer the Church of Christ; "because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, and broken the everlasting covenant." Isa. 24: 5, 6, and become "The mother of harlots, and abominations of the earth." Rev. 17: 6. Thus we see that the gospel as taught by Christ and his Apostles has been sadly perverted, resulting in the rejection of the Church by God. Thus we can see why the vision was given to John on the Isle of Patmos, as recorded in Rev. 14: 6, 7, "I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach to them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, fear God and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come." Thanks be to God that he has sent this angel to the earth, and restored the gospel to Joseph Smith, and established it again on the earth as it was taught by Christ and his Apostles; and that it can now be found in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

MRS. DANIEL JONES.

An able man shows his spirit by gentle words and resolute actions; he is neither hot nor timid.

SANCTIFICATION, AND WHEN SHALL IT BE REALIZED.

DEAR HERALD:—After some deliberation on the subject properly coming under the above title, I essay to write a few thoughts to your columns thereon. My ideas may be different from those of many of my brethren; but I have no hesitancy in setting them forth, as error alone can suffer from honest investigation, and the truth alone can make us free. How far may we advance or be advanced in the "Christian experience," is the point to which I would call attention; and that I may not be misunderstood I will here state, that I fully believe that to live without sin is both reasonable and scriptural, and also an imperative demand of "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus." I also believe that no man is justified who does not so keep the law, that under the experience of justification "abiding" in Christ, walking "in the light as he is in the light," he may realize the experience of sanctification, or purity. I believe that this degree of purity is not realized immediately on our entrance into the kingdom; but is a subsequent work, wrought in us as a reward and result of having obeyed all the mandates of a "perfect law." That after having thus obeyed "the word," we are the just and rightful claimants of all blessings promised in and through "the word." That one of those blessings is sanctification, or purity. I believe that the above expressed convictions are in direct keeping or harmony with the inspired records, viz., the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants. Jesus said to his disciples, (Matt. 5: 48), "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Again, "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." And in his prayer to the Father, John 17: 17, he said: "Sanctify them through thy truth, thy word is truth." Here Jesus enjoins perfection, recognizes purity, and prays that believers may be sanctified through the "word" of "truth." In John 15: 1, he says: Every branch in me that beareth fruit he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit; and in verse 8, "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bring forth much fruit." Here the purging is to be realized after becoming a "branch" of the "true vine," is to be received or take place in "every branch that beareth fruit." It is not to be realized (as claimed by some) by "returning backsliders, who have left their first love;" but by those who "abide" in Christ, and are justified, having borne fruit, and obeyed the word. They were fruit bearers, whose sanctification was prayed for; and none can be such, except abiding branches. (See verse 4, 5, 6.) That the Apostles believed in and understood this doctrine, is evidenced from the words of Peter, cited from the Old Testament, and reconfirmed by him under the New; viz., "Be holy, for I your God am holy." And Paul, "This is the will of God, even your sanctification." Again, he addressed a certain Epistle "To them that are sanctified." Book of Doctrine and Covenants states, (after declaring the truth of justification), "We also know that sanctification is just and true, to all those who love and serve him with all their might, mind and strength." * * * "Let those who are sanctified also take heed lest they fall." Not only do these words show that sanctification is received through an unreserved and unbroken service to God; but that there were then in the Church, those who were sanctified. The specific terms laid down here by which this blessing may be realized, and this state of purity entered, is to "serve God with all the might, mind and strength," an unreserved consecration to such service. Christ while on earth enjoined this same duty; viz, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy might, mind and strength," &c. Upon obedience to this injunction, then, depends our sanctification. To all those who so serve God as above indicated, to them the word saith, sanctification is a "truth" and a "just" reward.

As we are ever desirous to know the truth, and to be made free by it, we invite criticism. Will the fruit bearing believer be purged? Will the unswerving Saint be sanctified, in this life? Can we become perfect subjects of God's kingdom now, by the complete and unbroken service of all our powers being given to him? To all these inquiries we can only answer in the affirmative.

N. A. BAKER.

REBAPTISM IS ESSENTIAL.

AFTER preaching in a new place and for the first, in Deckerville, I came home and took up the Herald of 26th, of May, 1883, and on page 329 my eyes caught the heading, "Is Rebaptism Essential?" Of course the following are only my views, the other is Bro. Leverton's views. Judge what we say. You first ask what answer would we give this "man of the world." I would tell him that we are only adopted sons, and became such by obeying the law of adoption; and by breaking that law, and disobeying its principles, we lose the spirit of adoption and fall away, and are no more sons, but are strangers to the commonwealth, &c.

You see Christ is the only Begotten Son, (see St. John 1: 14, 18; 3: 16, 18, and 1 John 4: 9), and we are only adopted sons by obedience to the law of adoption. (Rom. 8: 15-17; Gal. 4: 5-8; Eph. 1: 5). You say you are the son of your father, and no matter what you do, you are still his son. True. And I was an adopted son of another man, who was not my father, who raised me, or adopted me, and I was bound in writing according to the law of Ontario, to live with him from that time, or age, (perhaps three years old), until I became twenty-one years of age. This man (father) did not use me very well, and the neighbors got it into my head to leave him; but I told them I was afraid, as he had told me he could put me in jail until my time was out, providing I did not stay with him, and do his bidding. But they said leave, and we will defend your case, and among them were some of the authorities of the land. Well, I ran away; and he sent the officers after me, and when I saw them I went towards them, (as they used to be my friends); but said they, "We have been sent to take you and put you in jail," and don't come near us but "run away." I ran, and they ran after me; but soon stopped and went back, and bluffed my so-called father off, by telling him they could not get me. Now, you see I was his adopted son, but I broke the law of adoption, and the consequence was I was no more his son.

Christ is the only begotten of the Father. No matter what he did, he would still be his son. But not so with those who are adopted sons. For instance. A man obeys the principles of the gospel, (the law of adoption), and receives the seal (Spirit) of that adoption, and in after days holds authority to preach it to others, &c., and then becomes disobedient, breaks the law, and is expelled from the Church, and then does wickedly. He is no more a son of God, but a servant of the devil. Just which ever he obeyed, that is he whose servant he was. Rom. 6: 16.

Supposing an Elder should transgress the law by committing adultery; then he deprived of the Spirit. Paul tells us, "Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his."—Rom. 8: 9; and Book of Covenants says, "If they repent not they shall be cut off." Would that man be a son? "No," not a son of God. Let him be a servant of the devil then for a year or two. Then he seeks admission into the Church again. He tells the brethren and sisters he has done wrong, and is sorry for it, and will try and do that wrong no more, and wants to come into fellowship with them again. Will we receive him? "Yes." How? Why just the same as we would any other one, through the door (baptism). If you did not do it that way, but climbed up some other way, you would be taken for a thief and a robber. (John 10: 1). But by obeying the order as above, coming boldly through the door, (baptism), his sins would be remitted, and he would again be a son of God, (by adoption). Hence, rebaptism is necessary or essential.

I think when the revelator said, "Repent, and do thy first works over," &c., (Rev. 2: 5), he meant baptism, because they already believed. Then said he, "Repent, and do thy first works. Baptism would be the next work, &c.

The prodigal son did well in returning to the earthly father. He was still his son. The father never disowned him, and he repented of his wrongs and was admitted back; and so if a Saint wanders away as he did, and feeds on husks, yet not having done enough to be cut off and he comes back and repents of the little wrongs he has done, our Father will receive him. Again you state:

"We have seen some commit sin, others dispute and quarrel with their brothers and sisters, &c.; then would not humble themselves, but suffer themselves to be cut off from the Church. Then after a few weeks ask to be rebaptized, and still hold the bad feeling, will not confess, &c., holding rebaptism only as a "cloak." Don't baptize such persons until they repent of their sins. When you baptized me into the Church, you had an understanding with me first, and believed I had repented. Then you baptized me. If you had thought for one moment that I had not repented, you would not have baptized me. And I think we should be just so strict with those who were once cut off from the Church. Our duty should be discharged faithfully in this matter, that our works may be acknowledged and recorded above. The world then will not be so quick to say, they want another dip or plunge, &c.

And now, what sins will God forgive, or what will he not forgive without rebaptism? You perhaps remember of a brother being cut off from the Church by three votes out of about thirty members. If that was legal in the sight of God, and he fell into vice and wickedness, he must repent, and be rebaptized for the remission of sins; but upon the other hand, if about twenty or twenty-five members of that branch had held up their hands in favor of him, forgiving him for his wrongs, he would not have been cut off. Then as John says, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."—1 John 1: 9. Before rebaptism, try to have them make a true repentance, or it will not avail any more than it would at the first baptism. Like Simon the sorcerer, (Acts 8: 22), Simon would have to be rebaptized, because he had not repented, he was still a sinner, he was not an adopted son. He did not obey from the heart. He was still outside of the kingdom. He was in the gall of bitterness and in the bonds of iniquity. Acts 8: 22, 23.

I then draw the line there. If we sin, and will ask pardon one of another, as brethren and sisters of the one common family, our father will forgive; but if we do not repent of our sins, but suffer ourselves to be cut off from the Church, we are then in bondage again, not free like the sons and daughters are.

May we soon see eye to eye, is the prayer of your brother,

JOHN J. CORNISH.

DECKERVILLE, Mich., May 28th, 1883.

THE HERALD A WEEKLY.

The Latter Day Saints with few exceptions are sons and daughters of toil, compelled to use every hour each day to secure means to meet recurring wants. The only time therefore obtainable for mental culture, is an hour or two after daily toil is over. And every consistent Latter Day Saint is anxious to sustain the Herald. First for the spiritual food thus received; second to help the cause he claims to love, knowing as he does that co-operation by all members is absolutely necessary for the well being of the cause. The Herald is not as an extensive library of course; but contains as much reading matter, as many of the Saints with their struggles through life, and the time required for the study of the Bible, Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, ect., with an occasional glance at a newspaper, can properly read, digest, and understand. Especially would this be the case, if its columns were filled with matter more in harmony with the gospel economy, which affords a field for the most gigantic mind. But as it has been some studious God fearing Latter Day Saints, who need no reminding of expiration of subscription, save an examination of editorials, letters, marriages births, deaths, etc., have laid by their Herald untouched, for the appearance of lengthy essays on doctrines, has been to them evidence of a reply rather exhibiting a desire to strive for the mastery, or gain the reputation of a brilliant writer, than efforts to expound, or seeking knowledge by or through the revealed word.

The striving to be wise beyond what is written is of doubtful propriety. The way to true saving knowledge, may be through constant effort to write, and then correct and rectify, so that a continual antagonism is kept up. But it is quite difficult to make some Latter Day Saints see the point. But if it could be that those who thus write or contend, could be approached to explain and defend the antagonism thus caused, it would remove one cause for complaint. But it often happens that those noble souls are looking out from behind an entrenchment, or a nom de plume while others have to face the music, and explain as best they can why the Herald, claiming to be the organ of a people baptized into the one body, should rather appear as the organ of controversialists, or modern free thinkers.

With this view of the matter the writer has not been so anxious for or sanguine in his expectations for good that would be brought about through the now decided change, from a semi-monthly to a weekly issue of the Herald, as many. For it is not the amount of matter that is read, but that which is understood and remembered, that gives the advantage; or so the writer believes. And I am of the opinion that the present size of the Herald by semi-monthly visits, being filled with choice matter in harmony with the latter day work, with the limited time the majority of the Saints have for reading and study, would be of more lasting good than a weekly issue, casually read, but poorly understood.

To be sanguine for big results, may be good; but to count the cost, and by proper and continuous efforts to do a little and do it well, is not at war with the spirit of latter day work. 'Tis said there is forgiveness for being too fast, but none for being too slow. It may be, but often the slothful may be admonished, or aroused, and do better, while acts hastily done can't be changed and often bring remorse and trouble, that years won't efface. By this manner of expression I am liable to criticism; well let it come. To find fault or attach motives is not my design. I disclaim any such intention. But I know the sensitiveness of Latter Day Saints is easily aroused. Had we always been as ready to have controlled ourselves as we have been to give evident offense, much heart-burning and confusion would have been prevented; and evidence of calm, sober thinking, instead of impetuosity or dogmatism might have been given.

As I look back on the fleeting or dying year, and forward to the incoming of the new; and letting Christ's light reflect on past deeds, I see the necessity of so vast a change and reformation, that however strong self desires may be, I can not promise, but hope to make.

I not only believe, that those appointed to positions of trust in the Church, may know and understand their duties as well or better than others; but think it my duty while I claim to be a member of the body to legitimately help them in the sacred work. Yet they may err. To deny this would lay me liable to be charged with willfulness or religious insanity. But this admission does not warrant me in suspecting evil, surmising, whispering, the cursed or demoralizing practice of tale bearing or backbiting, covering up, or winking at evil or wrong deeds; but calls for a discretion, a wisdom, and procedure, that, reflective as it may be, few Latter Day Saints seem to understand, or are wont to practice.

And it would seem that our church discipline, laws, rules, and regulation, are more for convenience than consummating the noble work culminating in vindicating the innocent and punishing the guilty.

As the change in the Herald has been made by those who have been placed in charge of the literary concerns of the Church, I accept it in good faith, and shall feel it a duty to contribute what help I can for the success of the Herald. This I view as a duty. But shall not as cheerfully labor as I should if there was less antagonism or contradictory articles in its columns. I have long looked upon the church organ as an indispensable necessity, and highly appreciate the good I receive from it. And so far as the editorial management is concerned, individually I wish no change. And was quite glad that the good sense of the late conference, by legislation, left this important matter to the Board of Publication, where it legitimately belongs. Nor does this fact prohibit suggestions being offered. I am of the opinion that the organ should as far as possible, reflect the doctrines, usages, practices and precedents endorsed by the body, rather than those of a few, whose high conception of liberty might lead to the ignoring of the idea of being subject to any written or prescribed laws.

Law was, is, and will be arbitrary. It can't be otherwise; for it is the rule of action. I find between the notions of liberty, entertained by modern free thinkers, and the exclusive, specific gospel plan, there is a wide chasm. When I adopt the former, I must abandon the latter. And the injunction; viz., "The Elders shall see that my law is kept," will lose its significance forever. And yet I never hope to move tongue or pen, to hinder the right of opinion. But the right of opinion and continuous efforts to warp the word to make valid some cherished or pet theory, is vastly different. Yes, and there is quite a difference between a willingness to let a "Thus saith the Lord" end controversy, and putting on airs, or standing on dignity, when the law and gospel are brought to bear, that "all things may be done decently and in order," and exhibiting a pertinacity evincing a determination to carry a point at all hazards. And blessed is he that shall so discriminate, and be thus governed.

It was quite reviving to witness the recent action of a district deciding to be governed by action of General Conference, relative to expelled members; yes, it loomed up in beautiful contrast with the action of a district of a more remote date, which restored an expelled member upon the strength of his appeal, when General Conference had spoken and declared that expelled members should only be admitted by baptism, allowing of course examination in the event of a complaint of illegal proceedings.

In the face of Christ's plain and pointed teachings touching expelled members, there might not have been a necessity for action of General Conference; but it was had, and should govern until abrogated. And if president, member, district, or branch, goes behind the action of a General Conference, either theirs or conference action must be at fault.

I love liberty. But liberty not regulated by law is not of gospel origin. And in my understanding there is a material difference between liberty and license.

I once saw a petition signed. There were many signatures given at the instance of the aggrieved party against another. The signers knowing nothing but what the aggrieved party told them. And by their signatures they testified to an untruth or a false accusation. This was license, or a base assumption, and a deed that retributive justice on his rapid march wont pass by; for the fiat has gone forth, that "What measures ye meet to others shall be measured to you again." And though the beams or stones in the walls should have to cry out, wrong deeds will not go unpunished.

From the earliest period evidence of man's moral responsibility was given, and the last sound of revelation in 1882, dies out with reconfirmation of this fact, which is quite significant, and savors strongly of primitive gospel precepts.

Upon the above I have written without mental reservation. That my sentiments may be offensive to some is quite probable. To intentionally injure or offend is not my province or wish. To evidence sycophancy, or be governed by policy would evidence a lack of courage or of manly independence. The speaking the truth in the heart is an essential qualification in a Latter Day Saint, which course of procedure may sometimes offend, depriving the one who may practice the same, of present favors and subjecting to inconvenience. But persistency therein will ultimate in a glorious future, or the gospel is a farce, and in time it will prevent much unpleasantness which a crouching, deceptive, honey-like, hypocritical, double minded, two-faced course of procedure would bring.

Idle gossip and hypocritical cant is one of the most mischief-making, peace-destroying practices of the age. Would that we as a people were free from so cursed a practice; but to our shame be it said we are not. The Herald has been freighted time and again with instruction depicting its hideousness, with exhortations to desist. But co-operative measures so essential in branches and districts have been lacking, and the peace of whole branches has been broken by the heaven forbidden practice; and in some cases rent from center to circumference.

Nothing tends to prove a non-moral rectitude and a mind barren of the love of God so effectually as this practice; though those drifting so far from duty, consistency and propriety, as to engage therein, generally make the greatest claim, exhibiting or assuming a pharisaical piety.

One busybody, tattler, or tale bearer will create more mischief in one brief hour, than a zealous, consistent, God-fearing member could repair in a year. God commands that the soul-destroying practice shall be stayed or prohibited. And what will be the consequence of a failure in this God-imposed work? An understanding of it would prove more beneficial than to know the number of miles the stars are from the earth.

To the success of the Herald it will make no difference. But I had hoped that with a change of time in its issue a change in size and form would also come. As in my judgment the present size and form are inconvenient and unseemly for the library when bound. But the managers did not seem to think thus, and doubtless have a potent reason for retaining the present form.

'Tis generally believed that John wrote his revelations in, or about 96; and we are assured that he saw and heard while in the Spirit on the Lord's day, things which should shortly come to pass. And how soul-cheering is the picture he draws of Christ, who was dead, but then lived, having the keys of death and hell.

Now if it so be, that John (as some suppose) still lives, moving among mortality in disguise, and should catch a glimpse at an article in a recent Herald, which by reference to his 12th chapter, as it is claimed, he would learn that Christ's birth was seen in the year 96 to be yet future, when he had not only assurance of his living, but an insight of his power, and the grand work he would consummate thereby. He (John) would not feel very much complimented, I think. Christ was born of a woman to be sure. But lived, preached, and suffered on the earth, died, was buried, descended first into the lower parts of the earth, rose, taught, ate, and probably drank, with his disciples. Ascended to his Father, where as a mediator between God and man, he is to remain until the times of restitution spoken of by prophets, &c. And well may we bring our never ceasing praises to God for so wonderful an arrangement, a gospel plan, a Mediator, when we think that the object of all this is man's final redemption, which if it means anything means a freedom from sin, death, and their effects, and a clothing upon with immortality and eternal life. And the earth, heaven and elements testify in thunder tones that the time is nearing when the new life shall begin, by the grand, yet awful appearance of him who is now a mediator, but comes to be a king and prince. For when thus viewed, He is the "Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, and the Prince of Peace."

But the proof of his near approach is not confined to the earth, heaven, and elements. For the social, religious and political condition, as well as the willingness of man in the present age to slide from virtue's plane into the very depths of sin and degradation, loom up as evidence to the patient watcher of the signs of the times. And though solemn the thought, the present condition of the Church affords evidence that the time for the announcement, "Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him," nears. And do we as a church evidence the nearness of an event that shall prepare us with joy to exclaim, "This is our God, we have waited for Him," &c., we will rejoice and be glad, for he will save us; or that shall only increase our shame and confusion? Which?

I shall not be charged with a lack of charity in claiming that one of these two ultimatums every Latter Day Saint must meet.

The object of the mariner in frequently consulting his chart, and being diligent in taking observations, is to ascertain his latitude and longitude, in order that he may dodge or escape the rocks, shoals and quicksands, and land his bark safe in harbor, and receive the credit due a diligent officer.

And the necessity for diligence by the Latter Day Saints to ascertain their spiritual latitude and longitude by frequent observation, or consulting their spiritual chart, is, or should be, apparent, and evidence of an understanding of it, as shown by our daily procedure.

It seems quite simple that in the mystical body of Christ there is a place and work for every one, and that due diligence should be used to retain and faithfully attend to the duties incumbent. But if the mischief caused by transcending bounds, or negligence in duty, is evidence of difficulty in comprehending that fact, then it is difficult indeed. Ah, what tongue shall tell, or pen describe the trouble, and sorrow that by being governed by a morbid curiosity, or inquisitiveness, or both, have been brought. And how much peace prevented, by a failure to keep in proper check these propensities, and paying more attention to other's affairs than our own, or seeking to determine how deep others had plunged into sin, instead of making due diligence to ascertain how high we ourselves were climbing toward the plane of perfection, or correcting our own faults instead of stumbling over others.'

The Apostle Paul was anxious that the saints should not deceive themselves, and adds, "As a man sows, so shall he reap," &c. And it will prove a sad loss to us doubtless, if we allow our probationary time to slip by, and spend our strength in seeking to trim up, and rectify others, and fail to make self ready to enter in.

JAMES CAFFALL.

Happiness and misery.—"I see in this world," said John Newton, "two heaps of human happiness and misery. Now if I can take but the smallest bit from one heap and add it to the other I carry a point. If, as I go home, a child has dropped a half penny, and if by giving it another I can wipe away its tears, I feel that I have done something. I should be glad, indeed, to do greater things, but I will not neglect this."

Original Poetry.

A LETTER IN VERSE.

With warmest love and heart sincere,
I write to you, my sister dear;
And trust that you, in me, may find;
A faithful friend, both true and kind.

We often read of friendship's worth
Among the giddy crowds of earth;
Far nobler then, the boon we prize;
That faith and hope which never dies.

Through faith we left our native land,
As pilgrims to Columbia's strand;
In expectation there to find,
A people of one heart and mind.

And many an irksome task we've bore,
Since last we trod Britannia's shore;
O'er rugged cliffs our feet have trod;
In briery paths, on prairie sod.

Till disappointment's cruel hand,
Our weary frames no more could stand;
And quite dejected, worn and faint,
We turned and left the name of Saint.
Dispersed and scattered far and wide,
A wandering flock without a guide,
No ray of beauteous light to cheer
Our gloomy course, so sad and drear.

But God is merciful and just,
To each poor erring child of dust;
He called our roving footsteps back,
To tread once more the gospel track.

With sovereign power Jehovah spoke,
And burst that Utah tyrant's yoke;
He set the spell-bound captive free,
From dark despair and misery.

The weeping widow's mournful cry,
Hath reach'd the ears of God most high;
The helpless orphan's piteous moan,
Hath not been heard by man alone.

The poor oppressed now find relief,
They need no longer pine in grief;
A message from the courts of heaven,
Hath peace and comfort to them given.

Dear sister, when I contemplate
The glories of a future state;
I look upon the pride of earth,
Its pomp and show, as little worth.

What is there in this world so wide
Could tempt us from our Savior's side?
Not gold nor silver, wealth nor fame;
Could turn our love from Jesus' name.

You know his burden is but light,
So if we worship him aright;
He will reward us with his love,
And meet us in the realms above.

O may we ever watchful be,
And pray for deep humility;
That when the welcome call shall come,
We may have strength to gather home.

I think I've said enough this time:
So now I'll close my simple rhyme:
Give my best love when you've the chance
To members of your happy branch. M. R.

Selections.

SUNLIGHT NECESSARY TO HEALTH.

DR. JOHN LITTLE, the medical officer of health for the whitechapel district, London, says: I firmly believe that many persons who are compelled to occupy rooms in which the rays of the sun never enter, soon lose their health, and find it necessary to change their residences; and this remark applies, although perhaps with less force, to those who are confined to counting-houses during the day in which no sunlight is admitted. Sunlight is especially necessary for the healthy existence of children; and this is strongly pointed out in the evidence of the late Mr. N. B. Ward (the inventor of the "Wardian cases," for rearing plants in towns, and conveying them to and from distant places, a gentleman of great eminence in the medical profession, and who has given much attention to the influence of the temperature, of air and light upon the health and growth of animals and plants) who says, in his evidence before the commissioners appointed for inquiry into the state of large towns and populous districts, that, as the result of his experience, the influence of light is a matter of the highest importance to the proper physical development of the human species; and whatever stints the growth of a child certainly operates upon his physical capacity for labor; that the amount of disease among persons occupying light rooms is infinitely less as compared with that in dark ones; and that the influence of light, especially solar light, in preventing the fatal termination of disease, is a fact well known to him. In further illustration of this subject, Mr. Ward quotes a fact stated on the authority of Sir James Wylie, "That the cases of diseases on the dark side of an extensive barrack at St. Petersburg, have been uniformly, for many years, in the proportion of three to one to those on the side exposed to strong light."

THE BIBLE BEFORE LUTHER'S TIME.

BEFORE Protestantism existed there were more than twenty translations of the Bible in most of the modern languages. Here is an enumeration of some old Catholic translations:—Bible of Just, Mayence, 1467. Bible of Bender, Augsburg, 1467. Malmermi's Italian Bible, 1471. The Four Gospels in Flemish (Belgian) 1372. The entire Bible in Belgian, Cologne, 1475. Bible of Julien, 1487. Edition of Delft, 1487. Bible of Ferrier, Spanish, 1478. Edition of Gouda, 1479. Edition of Des Moulins, French, 1490. Four translations mentioned by Bausobre, (Historie de la Reforme, livre iv) printed before 1522. To this enumeration it is well to add the following list of the old manuscript Catholic translations of the Scriptures:—Of the Bible into English, 1290. Of the Bible into Anglo-Saxon, verse, 1300. Of the Bible into the German languages, 809. Of the Bible into Italian, 1270. Of the Bible into Spanish, 1280. Of the Bible into French, 1294.

Before Luther's time three translations and several editions of the Bible appeared in Italy; four translations and a multitude of editions were published in the Gothic language and in French, and two Belgian translations, which passed through several translations. A Tcheque translation was published at Prague in 1488; at Putna in 1493; at Venice in 1506, and 1511. Many other Catholic translations into almost all the languages of the world were published at Rome, the sanctuary of "Popery."

The anti-Catholic prejudices of certain writers are so deeply rooted that it is with the greatest difficulty we succeed in making them believe that Luther was not the first translator of the Bible into the vulgar German tongue. Before the apostasy of the too famous Augustinian monk, there existed twenty-one German translations, (fifteen in Hochdeutsch, and six in Niedersaechsisch) in German. Luther himself made use of the translation of Nicholas of Lyra, which appeared in 1473, and passed through several editions before the Reformation. Luther made such good use of the translation of Lyra, that a comic poet has rendered this proverbial.

Pius VI., writing to Martini, Archbishop of Florence, regarding his translation of the Scriptures, congratulates him on his zeal in publishing this translation and exhorts the faithful to read it. This letter, dated in April, 1778, is placed at the beginning of all English Catholic Bibles. In regard to the second question, we would like to learn the name of any Pope who opposed the translation of the Bible; on the contrary, we find that if Lyra had not piped, Luther had not danced.

Conference Minutes.

ALABAMA DISTRICT.

Conference met at ten o'clock a.m., October 13th, 1883. G. T. Chute was chosen secretary.

Branch Reports.—St. Joseph (colored) 18, including 1 Priest, 1 Deacon. Butler 34; baptized 3. Pleasant Hill 60, including 2 Elders, 2 Priests, 1 Teacher; 6 baptized. Lone Star 96, including 3 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher; 27 baptized.

Elders' Reports.—J. G. Vickery, G. R. Scogin, G. T. Chute, John F. McPherson, W. J. Booker, and R. J. Anthony (baptized 30 in this district since our last conference) reported. All had done some labor for the cause. Priests Warren Allen and Thomas Vickery; Teachers J. M. Pickins, Samuel McPherson and J. L. Booker, reported. All had, and still desired to do something for the Master.

The general authorities of the church were sustained; also local, and Elder R. J. Anthony in charge of the mission.

The president, W. J. Booker, and J. G. Vickery, were appointed to set in order the Butler Springs Branch.

Bishop's Agent, J. G. Vickery, reported had received $58.05, paid out $50.05, cash on hand $8.

Bro. R. J. Anthony spoke at night upon the temporal law of the church, to good effect. Preaching at eleven a.m., Sunday morning, by Elder R. J. Anthony. Four were baptized at three p.m. Preaching at night by Elder R. J. Anthony, and confirmation of those that were baptized. The meetings were all well attended.

Adjourned to meet at the Lone Star Branch, Monroe county, Alabama, on the 9th and 10th of February, 1884, at ten a.m.

SPRING RIVER DISTRICT.

Conference was held at the Columbus Branch, Kansas, October 12th, 1883, J. A. Davies president, E. A. Davies clerk.

Branch Reports.—Columbus 33, Mound Valley 40, Center Creek 18.

Elders' Reports.—J. A. Davies, S. Maloney, W. S. Taylor, R. S. Davies, B. Davies, L. N. Ezell and E. A. Davies; Priests C. K. Ryan, C. Randal; Teacher R. Bird; Deacon D. W. Davies, reported.

The authorities of the Church were sustained in righteousness.

Saturday night, preaching by Bro. J. A. Davies. Sunday morning by Bro. Ezell. At two o'clock, prayer and testimony meeting. Preaching at night by Bro. D. S. Crawley.

Adjourned to meet at the Pleasant View Branch, the first Friday before or on the full moon in January, 1884.

Miscellaneous.

MARRIED.

WILKE—POWELL.—At bride's parents, near Easton, Missouri, on the 25th day of October, 1883, by Elder J. M. Terry, Bro. Herman Wilke to Sr. Maggie Powell. A sumptuous dinner was served, and a happy time had by the large circle of relatives and friends present.

MOFFET—ADAIR.—At Shenandoah, Iowa, November 9th, 1883, by Elder S. S. Wilcox, Bro. William Moffet to Sr. Catherine Adair. May peace and prosperity attend their journey through life.

DIED.

LISK.—At Fontanelle, Ia., November 2d, 1883, Sr. Dorothy Lisk. She was a member of the Church in the days of Joseph the Martyr, and was re-baptized in 1878, by Elder Gordon E. Deuel. She adhered to the faith to the end of her life.

GIBBS.—At Warrior Station, Alabama, November 8th, 1883, Bro. Thomas R. Gibbs. Born February 22d, 1842. He died fully believing in Christ. His last words were, "I am going home to Jesus to rest." He united with the Church when only seventeen years old. He leaves a widow and five children. Funeral services by Rev. Andrews, of the Methodist Church.

WILCOX.—In Harlan township, Shelby Co., Iowa, October 26th, 1883, of diphtheria, Samuel Walter, son of Bro. George Walter and sister Stella Wilcox. Aged 2 years, 2 months and 15 days. Funeral sermon on Sunday, November 11th, in the Saints' Chapel, Harlan, by Elder J. W. Chatburn.

ADDRESSES.

John H. Lake, London East, Ontario.
Bishop G. A. Blakeslee, Galien, Berrien Co., Michigan.
E. C. Briggs, box 161, Carson, Pottawattamie Co., Iowa.
T. W. Smith, care M. B. Williams, Excello Mills, via Midletown, Butler Co., Ohio.

MASON & HAMLIN Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

EVERYBODY READ!

JOHNS & ORDWAY'S
NEW-BEST-OF-ALL-OFFER.

WE have secured the management of the PEORIA ART UNION, and want an Agent in every town and city in the United States and Canada to collect Photographs, Tintypes, etc., to be Copied and Enlarged, in all styles of the art, and at prices that Defy Competition. We are aware that the prices usually charged for FINE INDIA INK and WATER COLOR PORTRAITS are such that agents are unable to procure one half as many orders as they could if prices were reasonable.

FINE FINISHED PORTRAITS

Are in demand in every locality. In nearly every home may be found old Photographs, Tintypes, etc.; a large number of these old pictures are the only likenesses of Deceased Persons. The family and friends would gladly prefer a fine life-like picture in place of the poor faded ones, if they could get them at a price within their reach. The prices we have made are for these people.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Agents who handle our work sustain no losses. We refund the full amount paid us for every India Ink, Water Color, Oil and Crayon Portrait, that can be shown to be imperfect. WE FURNISH A COMPLETE OUTFIT for $2.90, and upwards, according to size.

DON'T FAIL WRITE FOR WANT OF CAPITAL.

We still want Agents for our Bed Spring and Iron Heaters in every place where we have none. Our object is and has been to give profitable employment to both sexes, who are out of work, or who are seeking to better their condition, and earn an honest living.

If you will send us your address, we will send you full particulars of the business, and how to go to work. We are yours in bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, PEORIA, ILLS.

1dec

ORGANS! ORGANS!!

THOSE wanting Organs, either for the House, Hall, or Church, will do well to remember that I keep and sell one of the best offered to the public in the west.

The A. B. Chase is the

BEST ORGAN FOR TONE,
FINISH AND DURABILITY,

That I am acquainted with, and will be furnished to buyers at Reasonable Prices. Don't buy a poor one at any price; but get something that you can rely on. I have been twenty-five years in the business, and speak from experience. List Catalogues furnished on application. Address,

NORMAN W. SMITH,

Box 29 LAMONI, Decatur Co., Iowa.

1d3m

S. G. MAYO,

REAL ESTATE AGENT,
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI,

Has for sale one FARM of 153 Acres, six miles from town, at $40 per acre; all good land, and a bargain. Also 40 acres four miles from town, at $44 per acre; good land. ROUGH LAND in eight miles of town, at $10. I have a large list of

TOWN AND COUNTRY PROPERTY.

Am prepared to take parties to any point in Jackson county. S. G. MAYO.

WANTED

A man accustomed to Farm Work, and taking care of Stock and Milking Cows. Good wages and steady employment for a good, faithful hand. A member of the church preferred. Address:

DANIEL JONES,

Webster P. O., Dodge Co., Neb.

10nov4t

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards. JOSEPH SMITH, Agent, Lamoni, Iowa.

25ang

BUTLER & CLAY,
Manufacturers of
COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,

WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,

903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 5 1/2 to 4 1/2 in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.

Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 35
Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m

BUTLER & CLAY.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

A three run Custom and Merchant Mill; one stone on Wheat, one on Middlings, and one on Corn, with all the necessary machinery; and also a Saw Mill attached, driven by a 35 Horse Power Engine. Mill building 40x60 feet, four stories high. Also 50 Acres of Land with the mill.

The above property is situated on Little Blue, eight miles north east of Independence, Mo., in a good wheat country; fuel cheap. This is one of the best opportunities offered, for one desirous of buying.

For particulars, call on or address J. P. JOHNSON, Blue Mills; or SMITH & BRACKENBURY, Independence, Jackson Co., Mo.

8sep3m

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

—) BY THE (—

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in

LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,

And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

This is the official paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is explanatory of the faith of the Church, and promulgates the teachings of original Mormonism in contradistinction to Utah Mormonism. It contains correspondence from different parts of the world, giving accounts of the great progress of the Church, and setting forth the dealings of God with his people. Published every Saturday, sixteen large pages. Price, $2.50 per year. Joseph Smith, Editor.

ZION'S HOPE.

This is a semi-monthly paper for children and Sunday Schools: price Sixty cents per year, Thirty cents per half year, free of postage. Joseph Smith, Editor.

BOOK OF MORMON

Roan, sprinkled edges ..... 1 25
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 1 50

DOCTRINE AND COVENANTS.

Sprinkled Sheep, or Library ..... 1 25
Morocco, ..... 1 75

LIFE OF JOSEPH THE PROPHET, HISTORY OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH, & AUTO-BIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH SMITH.

In cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome ..... 2 30

This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also three very fine steel engravings and a fac simile of the autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, steel engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

HOLY SCRIPTURES.

Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
Sheep, or Library binding ..... 1 50
Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 2 00
New Testament, inspired edition ..... 75

TRACTS.

No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a dozen, per 100 .. 1 50
No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100 .. 40
No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per dozen, 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000 ..... 1 75
No. 5.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Pre-Requisites, and Design; and Who Shall Administer; 16 page; 25c. per dozen, per 100 ..... 1 75
No. 7.—Who Then Can be Saved; 5c. a dozen, 100 .... 40
No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100 ..... 1 75
No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, per 100 ..... 2 25
No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 p.; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100 ..... 2 25
No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a doz., 100 ..... 1 75
No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 75
No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 40
No. 16.—Polygamy: Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 1 40
No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 75
No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 40
No. 21.—Truths by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100 .. 15
No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100 ..... 1 10
No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 1 25
No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 5c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 40
No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a doz., 100 for ..... 1 40
No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for ..... 40
No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15c. a dozen, per 100 ..... 1 10
No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1.00, 1,000 for ..... 1 75
A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 ..... 1 10
Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen ..... 60
Prophecy on the late Rebellion; per 100 ..... 15

An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.

COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.

Bound in limp cloth turned in, 270 pages ..... 75

CERTIFICATES AND REPORTS.

Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen ..... 50
Annual Statistical Reports, two for ..... 10
Branch Financial Reports, per dozen ..... 30
Certificates of Baptism and Membership, per dozen .. 20
Certificate of Removal, per dozen ..... 20
Marriage Certificates, per dozen ..... 25

SONGS OF ZION.

By T. W. Smith, 40 pages, 10 cents each, per dozen 1 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Problem of Human Life, Here and Hereafter, bound in cloth boards, 524 pages ..... 1 50
Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols. .... 4 00
Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols. .... 4 00
Baldwin's Ancient America, cloth, illustrated ..... 1 80
Rollin's Ancient History ..... 4 00
Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible, cloth ..... 1 75
The Koran ..... 1 50
The Bible Text Book ..... 1 00
Apocryphal New Testament ..... 1 65
Brown's Concordance of the Bible ..... 60
Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets ..... 35
Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality ..... 50
Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size ..... 85
Josephus complete, 1 vol., library leather ..... 3 50
Universalism Against Itself; by A. Wilford Hall, Author of the Problem of Human Life ..... 1 00

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.

All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.

"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 552.

Lamoni, Iowa, December 8th, 1883.

No. 49.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 8th, 1883.

BRO. T. W. SMITH sent us the short letter given below, and states that it was received by him while at Springerton, Illinois, accompanying a pair of eye glasses, which Bro. Smith says he will keep till he finds some one needing them.

Springerton Oct 24 1883

Presented by the Springerton Association to T W Smith apostol of god a pair of nose glasses fine which wile help you to Look into eterniy and to comphrent the Futur

Rest

Yours in the Foith.

BRO. WILLIAM H. DEAM, pressman of the HERALD office handed to us the following respecting electricity in printing.

"Last year there was something published in the HERALD about electricity in printing paper. Having worked at the press about twelve years I have had no little annoyance in this matter. Last winter was the worst I ever experienced. As cold weather comes on it begins to show its effects this fall. As I understand it the electricity is not in the paper, but it is susceptible, and in passing around the press and through the air in "flying" from the press, it is charged or magnetized; and some paper seems more susceptible than others. Perhaps paper makers can explain this—what it is that makes it so. Some paper has a great deal of clay in it, and I think they use blue vitriol to whiten it. Paper made from rags does not trouble us.

"As to some of the results of this electricity which I have experienced: Often as the "fly" takes the sheets from the press and deposits them on the table they will cling to it and are carried back; And again in passing down the "fly" they will stick to it before they get half way down causing the sheets to double up, and thus scattering them about; and when we come to straighten them when they are lying flat it is impossible to pull one sheet straight off from the other, seems as though they were glued together, and we have to hold one sheet down and rather peel the other off. Then take two of those magnetized sheets and hold them two feet apart and they draw together like two magnets. And again in lifting a quantity of sheets from the press I have had them cramp my hands and arms so I would have to drop them on my knees till I could take a fresh hold. All of this only occurs in cold or cool weather—cold and dry, the colder the worse, which shows that the electricity must be in the air. You remember the great electric storm of last year which so affected telegraphy was in cold weather.

W. H. DEAM, at the press."

WILL IT BE REBELLION OR REVOLUTION?

The following is from the daily Chicago Tribune, and is a reflex of what is passing in the northren domain of Queen Victoria on the Western Continent.

MANITOBA'S GRIEVANCES.

A DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES SUBMITTED TO THE PEOPLE TO SECURE UNITED ACTION.

The following propositions have been adopted as declaratory of the principles of the Manitoba Rights League. These are submitted to the people of Manitoba and the North-west, solely with a view of securing united action in redressing their grievances and maintaining their rights:

First—The British North America act, which is the charter of our constitution, solemnly guarantees to the people of the province the exclusive right of legislation in respect to the most important class of subjects and untrammelled exercise of this right is a condition essential to the welfare of the people, and the exercise of a veto by the Federal Government in disallowing acts of the local Legislature in dealing with such subjects is arbitrary, unconstitutional, and menacing to the future of the Confederation.

Second—The interests of settlers of the province peremptorily demand that under said act, and in common with every other province of the Dominion chartering companies to build lines of railway within its own bounds should be exercised to its fullest extent. While recognizing the necessity of observing the obligations of the Canadian Pacific Railway contract, we distinctly affirm that nothing in the contract, expressed or implied, can check the old Province of Manitoba in chartering competing lines of railway within its bounds, or to its boundaries. The baneful effects of railway monopoly call loudly for active and persistent exercise of all the power of the people to maintain their rights and to resist to the utmost every act of arbitrary interference with them.

Third—The present Customs tariff, especially the duties on agricultural implements, is extremely unjust and oppressive to settlers of the north-west, and its imposition has aroused an intense feeling of dissatisfaction with our relation to the confederation. It paralyzes what is to us the all important industry of agriculture, while it utterly fails to foster or assist any other. The tariff was adopted entirely in the interests of manufacturers and producers of the east, without any reference to the needs of this country. It discriminates against us in favor of Dakota and Minnesota, and justice to our wants imperatively demands its immediate modification, so far at least as affects Manitoba and the North-west.

Fourth—Public lands are the sacred heritage of the people, to be administered in their interest. While cheerfully assenting to a system of liberal grants to promote construction of public works of a National or provincial character, we maintain that subject to such grants the possession and management of lands, timber, and mines should be placed in the hands of provincial authorities in trust for the people. The policy of withholding from settlement and granting to land companies and private individuals large tracts of the public domain threatens to introduce amongst us the evils that oppress the people of older countries, and merits the most unmeasured condemnation.

Fifth—The natural outlet for the products of Manitoba and the Northwest is through Hudson's Bay and the great rivers and lakes tributary to it, the feasibility of this route having been proved by 200 years of constant navigation by the ships of the Hudson Bay Company and by the voyages of the New England whalers for the last thirty years. The interests of the Northwest demand the construction at an early date of a line of railway connecting the present railway system with a port on Hudson Bay. To obtain this object it is the duty of the Dominion Government to grant the most liberal assistance. To secure united action in effecting a redress of grievances recognized by the people of Manitoba and the Northwest it is desirable that an association be formed untrammelled by ties to any existing political party, with the object and determination of carrying out the above declarations and of obtaining redress of grievances felt to be so unjust and oppressive.

WINNIPEG, MAN., Nov. 25th, 1883.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Bro. J. B. Prettyman wrote from Knox, Stark county, Indiana, that they had held some meetings at their home school house, with good attendance and good liberty in presenting the word.

Bro. E. C. Brand had the school-house at North Ogden for one night only. He reports that he had good liberty. The counselor to the Bishop of the ward, made the boast that he could use Bro. Brand up in ten minutes argument, so at the close of the meeting Bro. Brand read a direct challenge to the counselor, or other champion of the ruling church there for a discussion of the question—but the challenge was not taken.

Bro. Samuel and Mary W. Nield writing from Wilmington, Del., state that they were anxious to be visited by some one of the Elders. Bro. J. A. Stewart has visited them at times, but his duties now so far absorb his time elsewhere that he has not been there for some months.

In the second line of "Letter from Sister Emma," in November 10th Herald, page 721, read "strange" instead of "strong."

Correspondence.

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

CLEAR WATER, Neb.,
November 19th, 1883.

Dear Herald.—It is the natural outgrowth of our spirituality to desire to impart to others the knowledge we have of things divine, to offer some word of comfort and encouragement to the weary and worn travelers on life's road, to extend to others the sense of peace and joy that pervades our own souls. As I write, the peerless orb of day just begins to shed his effulgent rays of light and heat "o'er the prairies of the west." Beautiful sunshine. Typical of the light and glory of God. Contrast its influence with the dark, somber shades of night. Such is the difference between the favor and displeasure of the Lord.

The Sun of Righteousness has arisen in these last days with healing in his wings. The light of a restored gospel now dawns upon the world. "The meek increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men rejoice in the Holy One of Israel. Tyranny is revoked, and the Prince of Peace extends his dominions. Honest and faithful ones are made the happy recipients of the blessings of God. They "who do the Father's will" "know of the doctrine," that it is divine. Weary ones are made glad in the message of peace, and find rest and consolation in the gospel. Joy and gladness swell the hearts of the children of light, and peace, such as the world has not known, thrills with exquisite rapture the very soul.

Who can describe it, that others may know? Ah, 'tis only to be comprehended when realized. "As it is written, eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God."

Why do men oppose the religion of Jesus Christ? Surely it must be because its virtues are hidden from their eyes. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." Paul instructs Timothy thus: "Flee also youthful lusts; but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call upon the Lord out of a pure heart. But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do engender strifes. And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient; in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God will peradventure give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his own will."—2 Tim. 2: 22-26. We notice first, that some "are taken captive by the devil at his own will." Second, that in fighting against the truth they oppose, not only others, but themselves. Third, the servant of the Lord must be meek, humble, gentle, patient; apt to teach the truth in the spirit of love. Fourth, it is in the province of those that hear to "deliver themselves out of the snare of the devil." Peter preached the gospel on Pentecost day, and in order sets the matter before the people thus:—The one they had crucified was the veritable Christ. He had risen from the dead; and exalted at the right hand of the Father, had shed forth the Spirit, that they then saw and heard; upon conditions of obedience this Spirit was promised to all, even those "afar off;" "as many as the Lord our God should call." It remained for them that heard and believed to "repent and be baptized for the remission of sins," and to "save themselves from that untoward generation."

Centuries have passed, but the order of God remains the same. Men have sought for themselves many inventions, but the word of the Lord abideth forever unchanged. The same Lord rules over all. The same gospel is the means by which all may be saved. We feel well in this part of the vineyard. Our meetings are well attended, and the good spirit is with us.

Hopefully,

G. S. HYDE.

GILMORE CITY, Pocahontas Co., Iowa,
November 20th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph, and Herald Readers:—The Herald always brings glad tidings to our hungering and thirsting souls. I listened to a very able discourse last Sabbath afternoon, at Rolfe, by Elder Whiting; from Romans 1: 16, 17. I was very much edified and built up in the most holy faith.

I thank my Heavenly Father for the recovery of my dear boy. He was very sick, almost ready to sleep himself to death. We had the doctor come and look at him. He called it blood poison, the worst case that he ever saw. The faith that he had in the blessed oil, is all that saved his life. He stands as a living witness for the gospel of Christ. O, it is good to be a saint in latter days. Your sister in the one faith,

ANN CHATFIELD.

HAMBURG, IOWA,
Nov. 19th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I have my armor on, and am fighting the enemy as best I can, with the sword of truth. I have preached here eleven times, and as yet have only baptized two, although six more are ready. Will baptize them the coming week. The branch is trying very hard to build a church house here, and I think from all appearances that they will succeed, as they have a very good start. Bro. Taylor has now about two hundred and sixty dollars subscribed for that purpose. They are doing all they can in that direction. They insist upon keeping me here some time longer, as quite an interest has been created. The citizens are awakening, and are beginning to obey. My prayer to God is that this may continue. I shall stay as long as I can do any good. The Saints are very good to me. May God bless them for their kindness.

I am wanted again at Weeping Water, Nebraska, Moroni Branch, and at Mill Creek, or Riverton. I have preached in all, since leaving Independence, twenty-three times. My faith in the work is brighter than ever before, and is increasing daily. I am having better liberty than I ever had before, which is another evidence of God's power to aid us when we are trying to walk uprightly. I want the Saints everywhere to pray for me. As ever,

Your brother in gospel bonds,

CLARENCE STCLAIR.

BEE CAMP, Jefferson Co., Indiana,
November 14th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Our conference at Union closed on Monday the 12th inst. It was well represented, and was in many respects a success; and the Church was well represented in the person of T. W. Smith, whose labors will be appreciated in Southern Indiana.

Leaving Brn. T. W. Smith, H. and James G. Scott at Union, we went to Hall's Ridge; met with the Saints at Bro. Bee's, and had a Saints' meeting, in which all present took part, and expressed a determination to press on; and Wednesday, in company with Bro. Foster and wife, came to this place, and I went to the United Brethren meeting, which is in progress at this place, to announce meeting for to-night, at the house of Sr. Haskell. The preacher warned his flock against Infidelity, Atheism, and Mormonism, which he said were rotten. After I had announced my meeting, he asked me what denomination I belonged to, and I told him. He asked what evidence I had; I told him, and he said "Let me pray for you;" and he prayed that God might bless me and my associates, and I said Amen. He prayed that God would eradicate from me all false doctrine. Some of his audience listening, gave me an opportunity to explain some of the doctrines of the church. I told him that I was aware that the people's minds were prejudiced against us, which was based on rumor and newspaper stories; but our position was well understood by the authorities of our Government, and hence it was only the uninformed that were prejudiced; and that the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Book of Covenants, were the standard works of the Church, and that Brighamism was an offshoot, and that the Reorganization had nothing to do with Brighamism, no more than light has to do with darkness. That it is unwise on the part of any one to judge a system of religion by the acts of its members. That there was no system of religion or politics on earth, but what could be overthrown on such a line of reasoning. The facts are, that the system is not responsible for the acts of its members.

Nov. 18th.—To-day Sr. Fisher's funeral sermon was preached at Union by Bro. H. Scott, to a large audience of friends and relatives. The work in Southern Indiana is in a better condition than it has been for years past.

Yours for truth,

M. R. SCOTT.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI,

Nov. 20th, 1883.

Dear Brother Joseph:—For the past two Sabbaths, I have preached to the people at Montserrat. The best of feeling prevails there, and more so now than ever. The Saints are doing well, and the prospects look good for an ingathering if the Saints do their duty. No doubt they will. On Sunday last I baptized three more, the wife and two children of brother George H. Harris, whom I mentioned in my last letter to you. The gospel of Christ has made them a happy family. Thank the Good Father. On my way home, I called to see the Saints at Holden. Found all well and in the faith. I was made welcome in the house of Mr. Johnson. He is not a member, but says he is going to be. His wife is a Saint indeed. The funeral sermon preached by brother Warnky, of which he made mention a few Heralds back, took good effect on the people at that place. One of their preachers undertook to preach from the text taken by Bro. Warnky, and I was told that he preached several to sleep. It is thought that the Pastor of the Baptist Church at Holden, will break up the Church there, or do a great amount of harm, in preaching in favor of strong drink. I'll be thankful if I can see the day, when the Prohibitory Law can be enforced in the State of Missouri. I shall give my vote in favor of it, and voice against the cursed swill that's ruined thousands of the sons and daughters of Adam. When I know of some of my brethren going into those low, filthy places, and taking a drink, it makes me feel to say, dear brother, you are drinking away your birthright.

Yours truly,

J. C. FOSS.

WYANDOTT, Kansas,

November 16th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I feel good in this glorious work of the latter days, and I am trying to preach the gospel wherever I can get an opening. About one year ago, I went to a small village a few miles west, where I secured the school house and announced preaching. The attendance was fair at first, and good attention. After a little while the attendance became very large for such a small place. I had good liberty. Some became interested and spoke well of what we had to say, while others cast our names out as evil, and wanted to rotten egg the Mormons out of town, while others said, If you do, you will have to rotten egg the other ministers also. So the little village was divided on the Mormon question. One minister of the M. E. Church South, when he found that some of his flock were paying too much attention to what we had to say, went to their houses and told them that we were only

Salt Lake Mormons, and all we wanted was to convert women, and go off to Utah and practice polygamy. I announced publicly that I would reply to what the Rev. Lewis had had said about us. The time appointed came. I took the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Book of Doctrine and Covenants, and proved to a well crowded house, that polygamy never was, is not now, and never can be a tenet of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; and the next time he came to preach at this place, (he only came once a month. He lived three miles off), he had one man and his wife for his congregation, and never was back there to preach since. This happened last spring. However, we made two converts there, Bro. and Sr. Holmes. Good people, who opened their house to us from the first. There are others in that place who are at the door.

We tried to make openings at other places, White Church, Connor, Kansas; and Parksvill, Missouri, but did not have much success. We preached once at White Church to a full house, with good liberty, and the people seemed to be well pleased. Gave out another appointment, but when we came there, we had an empty house. This place is the residence of the Rev. Lewis.

My testimony is, that the gospel is true, and that God is no respecter of persons; for he has given me his Spirit, which has filled my heart with love and joy, and with a desire to bring others to a knowledge of the truth, that they also may receive this love, peace and joy, and the hope of a glorious resurrection. I, like many others, have to meet many things to disappoint and discourage, but I am in hopes of enduring to the end.

Your brother,

RODERICK MAY.

HANCOCK, Pottawattamie Co., Iowa,

November 14th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I have been trying for the last two months to tell the people in public capacity, that the gospel is the same now as as it was when it was declared by the Savior's own lips. There has consequently been quite a change in the minds of those who have attended the meetings, especially those who were educated and honest. They have said in a public capacity that I have given more light than all the ministers that had preceded me. This undoubtedly is true. Still, if we in our weakness, trusting in God while we are endeavoring to tell the people what they must do to get the substantial, true gospel light, should be successful in turning some of the sons and daughters of Adam from darkness to light; then we can say we are unprofitable servants. Now if we feel as we ought, we want true gospel light to be disseminated as much as lies in our power. Some are getting quite anxious to hear me on the gospel in our own district. Where they would not turn out to hear Bro. Brand last Spring, they seem somewhat inclined to hear now. Tomorrow, if the good Lord will favor me with the Spirit, I am to make an effort to instruct them in the first principles of the gospel. Would to God that the truth of the gospel light, could spread a hundred times, yea, a thousand times faster than it does. We see people all around us whom we know are in midnight darkness, still when we talk with them on the gospel principles, they will cleave to the doctrines of uninspired men.

Yours in gospel bonds,

J. GALLUP.

BRENHAM, Texas, Nov. 21st, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I remained at Cook's Point a few days, preaching occasionally to small audiences; and some of the time I felt like I imagine Phillip did when he had only the Eunuch to preach to, that God's ways are not as man's ways. What we may consider time wasted, God may use to bring about wonderful things. Hence I have come to the conclusion that where there is one or two interested listeners, there is as good a chance to accomplish something, as where there is a hundred attentive but not interested hearers. From Cook's Point we went to the Texas Central Branch to attend our quarterly conference, which passed off pleasantly. From the conference I went to Bandera, but finding nothing to encourage us, I left there on the morning of the 4th of November, and went to the Live Oak Branch by their request. Remained there twelve days. Preached seven times, held one prayer, and one testimony and sacrament meeting. Some told me they believed and some said they ought to join.

I am now on my way to Cook's Point. Will remain there four or five days; then I will go to Milano, or Bryan, and to Robertson county to open new fields.

The Littlefield—Smith controversy proved another victory for the Reorganization. It proves the truth of the old saying, that a "drowning man will catch at a straw," only Mr. Littlefield didn't have the straw to catch at.

Yours in bonds,

A. J. CATO.

SOUTH RAWDON, N. S.,

November 20th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Our two days' journey from Tatamagouche to the Straits of Canso, was very rough and disagreeable. Rocky roads, a dark lowering sky, and cold wind. There was every appearance of a storm, that at this season of the year in Eastern Nova Scotia, is any thing but pleasant. Is it presumption to ask, or expect, the Father to withhold or avert a storm at such a time? As I looked at the black threatening clouds, the words would well up from my heart: Oh, thou who hearest the cry of the young ravens, be mindful of thy children, and let not the storm burst upon us in this dismal place. For there was little prospect of finding a shelter for very long. We almost got discouraged seeking a shelter for the night, we were invited on so many times before we found one that would receive us. About two p. m. the next day we were at the straits. It was still very cold, had to stay in a waiting room without any fire four hours, waiting for the ferry boat, being too rough to cross on the scow. The straits are one mile and a half wide, and the charge was seventy-five cents, which reduced our capital to one dollar. It was evening when we landed in Port Hawksbury, a Scotch Catholic settlement, and thinking we could not afford to put up at a hotel, there was nothing left for us but to drive on, with the hope of finding a farm house. But after we left the village, the farm houses were little other than huts. However, we knocked at two or three of them, but they were not prepared to keep strangers. It began to grow late in the evening, and I feared the people would soon all be gone to bed, and we would be left out for the night. We knew there was another village a mile or two ahead. I suggested that we stop at the hotel, we had enough to pay for our horse and a bed, and still have sufficient left to buy oats for the next two days. We could go without our supper and breakfast. The motion was carried, and when the land-lady asked if we would have supper, I answered, no. Of course she thought we had been to supper, seeing it was quite late. But when we did not go in to breakfast the next morning, she came and asked me if we were not going to have breakfast. I answered in the negative, and went on reading the paper. She stood awhile as if not knowing what I meant, unless I was waiting for my husband to come in. When she saw us making ready for a start, she came and asked again, Did you say you were not going to have any breakfast? I did ma-am, because we have not sufficient to pay for it. My husband is a missionary, we have been out among strangers a long time, and have about seventy-five miles to go yet before we get to the end of our journey, and have only money enough to keep our horse two days, after our bill is paid here. Then she said, Call your husband and come to breakfast, we will not charge anything for it. I thanked her, and thought that breakfast tasted a little better than any ever did before. We both felt to thank God and take courage.

The morning was clear and bright, with an invigorating breeze right off the ocean, and though the scenery on one side was rough and rugged, on the other it was beautiful. The waters of the bay or straits were smooth, and the vessels and boats of all rigs and sizes, that had been harbored for a day or two, now shook out their sails and started out, some going one way and some another. On the other side the women were about as thick in the fields reaping as vessels were in the water, but we saw very few men. We learned that nearly all the men had left the place, and gone to the States, (wise). But we found in Cape Breton the women worked in the fields generally. We were very kindly entertained that night by a Catholic family, although the accommodations were not first class. The evening meal for the family consisted of potatoes and milk, nothing else at all. The next day was windy and cold, and frequent squalls of rain. The island is very mountainous, once in a while an interval broad enough for a little settlement. At dark we were at the entrance of Margaree Valley, five miles from the settlement, and O, how dark it was. Part of the time we could not even see the horse, much less the road. There were no friendly "lights in the window" to cheer us by the way, and the rain poured in torrents. We were in constant fear of a collision, for we could neither see nor hear for the noise of the wind and rain. Occasionally the wagon would tip slightly, first on one side then on the other, letting us know we were off the track, but we reached our destination without any accident, and in good time; for that was the beginning of a long, severe storm, first of rain, then snow, till in some parts of the Island the snow fell to a depth of two feet, and that in the first week in October.

Margaree is a very pretty valley in summer, but the summer season is very short. Winter sets in about the middle of October, and lasts till May. The snow falls to a great depth. I was told by one who lives on quite a hill, that often in the mornings, when they opened the door they would have to stand on a chair to commence digging a pathway out.

The people of Margaree have once been pretty well off, or well to do farmers; but mother earth is growing old, and fails to yield her increase, and the constant failure in crops is making many very poor. We were kindly received by many, and notwithstanding the warning sent them through the "Messenger," many came out to hear; and they did hear the word preached with much power, and in the demonstration of the Spirit, and the "old paths" pointed out, they said much plainer than ever they had before. An old lady said to me, If your husband did not have that awful name "Mormon" he would be acknowledged by all as the greatest preacher that ever entered Margaree. We left many rejoicing in the light and knowledge they had received, though none had the courage to obey and stem the opposition alone. The position we were in gave opportunity to test the promises of the Father. We were on an island among strangers, without the means to get away. Winter threatened to hedge us in, the ferry steamer had stopped running, being out of repair. So we must either take the boat from Port Hood to Picton, which would cost about six dollars, or risk staying at the hotel three or four days, waiting for a chance to cross on the scow. So we were entirely dependent on the mercies of our Heavenly Father, and thanks be to him, his promises never fail, if we are diligent according to his commands. While my husband was laboring with all diligence in his calling, I also wrought in mine, and with the blessing of God on my efforts, was enabled to obtain sufficient to pay our passage back to Rawdon, where we were gladly received by the saints.

SISTER EMMA.

GOOD INTENT, Kansas,
November, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Our conference is over, and I believe all can say we had a splendid time. Brn. William Lewis, Isaac Roberts, and J. T. Kinnaman were with us. We feel it is good to have such men visit us. They teach us the ways of life more perfectly than ever we saw them before. God bless those brethren for their instructions, and I do hope every one of us will profit by the same, the Lord being our helper.

I remain your brother in the gospel covenant,
DANIEL MUNNS.

CARROLLTON, Carroll Co., Missouri,
November 18th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I write to inform you of my father's death, which was very sudden, but not unexpected by himself, for he had felt for some time before he departed, that his work was done, and his life for more than one year was a mystery to himself. He felt willing to go, and that he was prepared to meet his Heavenly Father, and those of his brethren that had gone before him, who through life had labored for the upbuilding of the gospel of Christ. Five days before he died he bore a faithful testimony to the work of the Lord, and desired the Elders to administer to him; not that he desired to be healed, but that the will of the Lord might be done. The will of the Lord was to take him to himself. He died on the 17th of August, 1883. He joined the old organization in 1844, emigrated to Utah in 1849, joined the Reorganization in 1866, came back to the States in 1867, and since coming here remained the most of the time in Missouri. He was living in Carrollton at the time of his death. He was a member of the Third Quorum of Elders. We had no funeral sermon preached, there being no Elder here to attend to it. Bro. Martin attended to the funeral services.

Your brother in the gospel,
C. E. BLODGETT.

DEWITT, Nebraska,
November 23d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—The little contest of words at Wilber closed upon the eleventh evening, and yet I am so as to be about. Mr. Braden the last two evenings saw fit to leave the lies of Hulburt, Howe et al, Spaulding Romance, character of Mr. Smith and such like, and got down to work, and matters passed off with more light being thrown upon both sides. The world will have yet to face the music of "He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son;" and it makes no difference whether he came of poor and humble parentage, or from the mean city of Nazareth; whether he has been to school, or "how knoweth" he "letters, having never learned." And this fact I judge the giant of debaters among the Disciples discovered on the ninth evening of the Wilber discussion, if not sooner. Arrangements are already going forward to issue the discussion in book form, and the arguments pro and con may then fairly be criticised by those interested of both sides. I conclude my work at Wilber on Sabbath next and then return to Iowa. Brn. Scott and R. M. Elvin are yet here, standing by the ship with hope. Columbus' health is so much regained, he has been preaching some, and now ventured to extend appointments, and will likely remain in the district giving aid to the cause, till after the holidays. Brn. Elvin and Joshua Armstrong are the only constant laborers here now, and they are urging for help. The field is large and in great need of laborers. This is true, however, of every district I have been in this year, from Maine to Nebraska. Certainly, there has never been in the history of gospel work a more opportune time to preach the word,—"thrust in the sickle and reap," than is now offered to the Reorganized Church; and yet, one half of the members are sitting idly by,—looking wistfully on—and never thinking to ask what is there for me to do. It is greatly discouraging to many of the Elders who are earnestly battling against the evil that comes rolling in like a flood; and if the heart of man can ache, and his eyes be bathed in tears as he comprehends the demands of life's great harvest field, what must be the anxiety and tearful pleading of him, who in all things comprehends the glory and the preciousness of the work. In the past, we prayed for this time to come, and were told that he would move on the hearts of the people, and open the way—"give us favor." This has been fully accomplished; and now, we are called upon by that same patient and instructive Spirit, by its admonitions, promptings and entreaties, to come forward and occupy;—put laborers in the field; send forth the teachers; thrust in and reap; and yet, few give a willing ear to these simple demands. This is the manner Jesus has promised to do his work. Call upon men and invite them to labor. For God speaketh once, yes twice, "though man perceiveth it not." In a dream, in the visions of the night, by his manifest providences in the avocations of life; and by agencies of direct appeal, is this speech made; and the Saints at least, should hear. The five foolish virgins were such because they would not heed these entreaties of the Master. "Had no oil in their vessels with their lamps." Had not retained of that Holy Spirit which entreated them; therefore it was taken from them, and they were left barren, and treated as the one who had buried his talent—that which God gave he takes away, because of slothfulness, and the failure to heed and improve thereon—and this in the evening,—during the preparation,—not after; and they are found desolate when the Master comes.

As a church we could well put five hundred more laborers in the field than those already engaged, and we ought to do it. They are needed; demanded in every part of the country; local and general laborers. Men who neither work for hire nor divine for money, but have the love of God and welfare of their fellow man at heart. A united effort on the part of the Saints will put these men in the field, and glad would all our hearts be to see this done; and how much gladder still to be able to reflect—"and I helped to do it." It can be done, and at once by the contribution of a dollar, ten dollars, hundred dollars, thousand dollars; any number can well give a thousand dollars towards this, and thus move the work forward. It would cause the angels to rejoice and the Master to say, "Well done thou good and faithful servant." For such a commendation as this, Bro. Joseph, I am not only willing to offer a tenth, but all I have, and then think myself an unprofitable servant. So I find many, too, in various places; but why not arise and occupy as Christ desires us, by every one in the family, in the household, in the body, in the Church, equaling the other in his love and sacrifice for the work. The time is but short till the better day will be ushered in, if we shall labor aright.

The Herald is just at hand with the article, "I can not live my religion where I am." Every Latter Day Saint in the Church ought to read it, till he can repeat it from memory.

Your fourth to Littlefield was the "straw that broke the camel's back." If ever I have been ashamed of one thing more than another, it was of that attempt of persons who were once Saints, and professed to be guided by the word of God, to displace this word, and rest their faith upon the statements, affidavits, "fables" of a few old women. And I have wondered if these persons have thought, that when they stand to be judged by the words of Jesus in the time when they shall render their account, they may then beat around the truth by exhibiting the affidavits, statements and follies of Eliza, Emily, et. al. So far as a "failure" to bring evidence produces conviction as to the truth or falsity of a matter claimed, is concerned, I must say that I am fully satisfied that Joseph Smith was not a polygamist. Not one single thing that would be admitted as evidence before any court for the conviction of Smith were he living has been produced by those who have so long claimed to know; and the laws of evidence as relating to deceased persons are much more strict, that fraud be not perpetrated. My opinion is that if our Utah friends can't do better than they have done so far in the contest, they had better quit.

In bonds for truth, yours,

E. L. KELLEY.

Summary of News.

Nov. 22d.—Dispatches from Cairo, Egypt, bring the intelligence that the army of Hicks Pasha, which left Khartoum, in Southern Egypt, in September to punish El Mahdi, the false Prophet, instead of annihilating the forces of that fanatic, as was first reported, has been annihilated by them, only one person escaping to tell the story. The battle took place at El Obeid, a town in Kordofan, about 150 miles southeast of Khartoum, and within Egyptian territory. It is said to have lasted three days. The force of Hicks Pasha, which numbered 25,000 men, there being ten English officers in the command, was well armed, but it was overcome by superior numbers, though armed only with spears and swords. The number of the False Prophet's army is stated at 300,000, which is supposed to be a gross exaggeration.

The catastrophe seems for the moment to have wholly paralyzed the Egyptian Government. Unless very speedy action is taken it is feared Suakin will fall into the hands of the tribes in revolt acting in concert with the Mahdi. The latter is thought to be near Khartoum. If that place should be captured there would be no good defensible position between the Mahdi and Cairo except Minich, which is only six hours distance from Cairo. No one believes the Mahdi will rest contented with the conquest of the Soudan. It is feared Turkey will interfere and insist on reconquering the lost province. Neither the English nor the French wish this. The prospect thus bristles with serious complications.

Obeida or El Obeid the scene of the battle, is the Capital town of Kardofan, Africa, and is situated in a plain 240 miles southwest of Sennaar. It has a population of about 30,000 people, living chiefly in houses built of reeds or straw in the shape of corn stacks, though a few of the better class are of sun-dried bricks. The town contains five mosques, three barracks, a hospital, a busy market, and a rather pretentious dwelling for the use of the Governor. El Obeid, though something of a city as far as population goes, is none the less situated in the midst of a howling wilderness, and strong abattis surrounded the town to keep off the wild beasts, the slumbers of the citizens being often disturbed by the hoarse yells of the leopards and hyenas. Water is scarce in the town, and the few wells have a minimum depth of 100 feet.

A violent anti-German demonstration took place upon the occasion of the opening of the Czech Theatre in Prague last night, and was only suppressed by the united efforts of the police and military.

The French Chamber of Deputies discussed the estimates for worship. The extreme Left attacked the attitude of the clergy, demanded the separation of the church and State, and asked for a reduction of the budget by 6,000,000 francs. Prime Minister Ferry said he hoped the question of separation would shortly be settled, but meanwhile the terms of the Concordat must be carried out.

Capt. Hogue, of the Alaska commercial steamer Dora, reports the discovery of a newly-created volcanic island. Smoke and flames are plainly visible. The island is near Bogaslör, in latitude 53, longitude 167. Capt Anderson, of the whaler Matthew Turner, confirms the fact.

Gov. Crosby, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, urges that polygamous Mormons be not only disfranchised, but debarred from entering Government lands, thereby preventing the spread of Mormonism in the Territory.

Charles Ford, the slayer of Jessie James, is to be put on trial today at Richmond, Mo., for robbery, the charge being preferred by Mrs. Jessie James, the widow of the great bandit. The little son of Jessie James sells pebbles from his father's grave for 10 cents apiece, and has trade enough for a whole graveyard.

John D. Oakland and Co., of Chicago, grocers have failed for $5,353. Jefferson Taylor, agricultural implement dealer, of Indianapolis, Ind., failed for $12,000. N. C. Farr, lumber dealer of Hoboken, N. J., failed for $100,000.

Rev. S. J. McPherson, of the Second Presbyterian Church, of Chicago occupied the pulpit of Professor Swing at the Central Church, last Sunday. The Presbyterian Ministers of Chicago questioned his conduct in so doing and pronounced it an impropriety.

A strike of miners at Iron Mountain, Mich., owing to a disagreement of employers and employees as to length of work hours, is causing much trouble. Bloodshed and destruction of property has been threatened by the strikers, and the miners are guarded by extra policemen, and detectives. The Government has also been appealed to for aid.

Nov. 23.—The story of the defeat of the Egyptian army by the false prophet is confirmed.

Orders have been sent to the British Admiral at the East Indian station to support Egyptian interests in the Red Sea. He will be reinforced by the gunboats of the Mediterranean squadron. Her majesty's gunboat Coquet is ordered to the Red Sea.

The telegrams tonight from Egypt indicate that the news of El Mahdi's great victory has spread throughout the whole of Asia with the astounding rapidity which is characteristic in eastern countries. Preparations for an immediate rising are already completed on the part of the Moslem populations in Arabia. A signal of assent from Mecca, the sacred city, indicating its acceptance of the claims put forth by the false Prophet is all that is now necessary to cause the inauguration of the holy war. At Constantinople it has been known for some time that the strength of the new movement was greatly underestimated, and well formulated rumors of disaster to Hicks Pasha's army have been current there for more than a week.

Information from Ceylon, where Arabi Pasha is interned, indicates that the strength and ambition of El Mahdi have been well understood by him for some time past. Arabi long ago predicted the success of his arms, and even went so far as to say that he would not be surprised to see him knocking at the gates of Cairo before his career can be checked.

The Chinese Ambassador has informed the British Foreign Secretary at Paris, that war is certain between China and France. Private advices say the French Civil Commissioner at Tonquin has disbanded the force of Yellow Flags on account of their barbarity and acts of rapine.

The following is from a man who speaks from his own knowledge: China is far better equipped to go to war than Europeans or Americans generally think. I don't know the number of troops in the Chinese regular army, but I have no doubt that at necessity she could on very short notice place from 500,000 to 1,000,000 well-drilled and finely-equipped men in the field. The standing army of China is drilled on the European plan by European instructors. There are eighteen Viceroy's in China, and each Viceroy has an army of his own, which would be at command of the General Government in case of war. These Viceroy's troops are more than militia. They are regulars. China has for years been supplying herself with improved arms. She has purchased through German merchants doing business in her seaport towns all the needle-guns which Prussia used when she went to war with Austria in 1866; she has fully 200,000 of these besides a large number of Schneider rifles and also some Remington rifles, I think. I have no doubt that China could easily arm 500,000 men with these improved arms. China has also purchased through European houses a number of Krupp and Armstrong cannon.

Premier Gladstone of England, has been petitioned by a large number of British subjects, to interfere against the spread of Mormonism in England; Mr Gladstone said that he extremely regretted that under the circumstances he could not interfere. The missionaries, as far as he knew, resorted to no illegal devices to obtain proselytes, and he had no doubt that the young people, particularly the young women, who followed them did so willingly.

The ill-feeling between the orange and National League factions in Ireland continues to embarrass the authorities and menace the public peace.

The latest number of the Nihilist organ, Will of the People, gives harrowing details of the sufferings of political prisoners at the Peter and Paul fortress, where they are treated like murderers. No distinction is made of men and women, or the sick and healthy. Several prisoners have gone mad and committed suicide. Corporal punishment of prisoners is frequent.

Mr. Leo Datt, the inventor of the electric motor, made a trial of his apparatus Wednesday under the cover of the night on the Mt. McGregor Railroad. The experiment was made over a level piece of track something more than a mile in length. The test established the practical character of the machinery and the susceptibility to control of the energy which is brought into requisition to produce it.

The firm of Fichtenholz of Odessa, Russia, has failed. Liabilities, $1,500,000.

Nov. 25.—Fresh causes of misunderstanding between the French and English, growing out of Madagascar affairs, are reported. The 8th inst., it is said, a French man-of-war without giving warning bombarded Vohemar, an unfortified Madagascar town, killing among others five British subjects.

The news from Cairo to-night shows that the feeling of panic over El Mahdi's success has been intensified by reports just received that the Prophet is rapidly marching towards Lower Egypt.

The Khedive gave an audience to-day to members of the Legislative Council, and made an encouraging speech. A council of Ministers decided to send 2,000 gend-arms and 6,000 Bedouins to Suakin. With that object in view negotiations are progressing with the Bedouin Chiefs of Upper and Lower Egypt. The aim of the expedition will be to keep open the road between Suakin and Berber, and insure an avenue for the retreat of the Arab troops from Khartoum and Senaar. The first 600 start immediately. The defeat of Hicks Pasha occurred the fourth inst.

The attack upon Hai Dzuong continues to be the sensation of the hour in Paris, where it is more vitally important than even the serious problems growing out of El Mahdi's advance toward Lower Egypt. The claim of Marquis Tseng that no Chinese regular troops took part in the attack has been confirmed, and has caused a feeling of relief, which, however, it is hardly hoped may be prolonged, since neither France nor China seems inclined to abate her pretensions in Tonquin. The English Government is now actively interesting itself in the dispute. Earl Granville, British Minister for Foreign Affairs, has directed Lord Lyons, British Ambassador to France, to advise the Marquis Tseng to induce his Government to renounce both Sontag and Bacninh. It is reported that the Chinese Ambassador received this advice with a good deal of indignation. The purport of Tseng's reply having been conveyed to Earl Granville, he has, it is reported, arranged to go himself to Paris for the purpose of influencing M. Ferry to resume negotiations for a peaceful settlement.

It is rumored that a coolness has arisen between the Marquis Tseng and Earl Granville, caused by the latter advising the Chinese Ambassador to talk less to reporters.

As a significant commentary upon Lord Granville's endeavor to have the Marquis Tseng advise the abandonment of Bacninh by China, comes the news that a decree has been issued by the Chinese Emperor ordering not merely that Bacninh be defended against a French attack, but that a large force be pushed forward to oppose any further advance by the French troops toward that place.

In regard to the fight at Hai Dzuong, but for the aid of a passing gunboat the position would have been lost. The French garrison had 150 men killed. The town was completely destroyed.

Haiiphong is threatened by pirates who are encamped within half a mile of the town. Their number increases daily. No advance has been made yet against Bacninh. The troops are lying inactive at Hanoi. It is believed that nothing will be done until the first week in December.

Extensive recruiting is proceeding in the Hankow district, where 30,000 men are already enrolled. The garrison at Hai Dzuong has taken refuge on board the gunboat Lynx, awaiting the arrival of 1,000 men from Hanoi.

The Emperor of China, in instructions to the Viceroy of Nanking to begin hostilities against the French in the event of an attack on Bacninh, says: "The fact that Annam is a vassal of China is widely known, yet France has dared to invade it. Moreover Bacninh constitutes one of the gates of the Celestial realm; yet France has repeatedly sought to encroach there. We therefore command the Prince and Ministers to inform the French Envoy that, if France dares to encroach further on Bacninh, China will forthwith dispatch a large army to fight the French.

The Peruvian flag waves again over the walls of Lima South America.

Representative Cassidy, of Alabama, will introduce a bill early in the forthcoming session providing for a record of marriages in Utah and for the disfranchisement of women in the Territory.

Investigations in the neighborhood of Wichita, Kans., have led to the discovery of over 200 fraudulent entries on public lands.

The report of the Iowa State Mine-Inspector shows that the output of coal for the year has been 3,881,300 against 3,127,700 tons for 1882 and 3,500,000 tons for 1881. Mahaska stands at the head of the list of coal-producing counties, with a product of 927,387 tons. Mining operations are conducted in twenty-six counties.

The Manitobans have set forth their grievances and claims in the form of a "Declaration of Principles," in which the right of the people to legislate for themselves; their exclusive right to public lands; their opposition to the present "Customs Tariff," and the granting of large portions of the public domain to railroad companies, are all forcibly set forth. The object of this "Declaration" as itself states, is to "obtain a redress of grievances," which sounds much like the language of our American Statesmen, used over a hundred years ago.

Nov. 26th.—The official report made by the late Gen. Emory Upton to the War Department gives some reliable figures as to the actual strength of the Chinese army. He fixes the cavalry force at 87,000; infantry in the field, 195,000; infantry in garrison, 320,000; giving a total in these two arms of 602,000, and assumes from this that the maximum of troops in an emergency may be reckoned at 1,000,000 men. This, however, is to a certain extent an organization on paper, and in time of war the ranks have to be filled from the shops and fields, as officers are allowed to give their soldiers indefinite leave.

Further particulars from Hai Dzuong show that in the combat of the 17th inst. the French losses were four auxiliaries killed, two auxiliaries wounded, and eleven regulars of the garrison wounded in addition to those already reported wounded on the Carabeen. The enemy is believed to have lost from two to three hundred killed and wounded. The entire Red River Delta is reported to be revolting against the French occupation, and now that the Black Flags and the pirates—their allies—have assumed the offensive it will become a serious difficulty to occupy the towns already taken and to have sufficient troops in the field to capture Bacninh and Sontag. In the meantime active preparations are being made for the assault of those places.

The British Foreign Office, acting upon the conviction that the contemplated blockade by France of the Chinese ports would never be respected by English ship owners, has caused the strongest possible representations to be made to the French Government to the effect that such a blockade will be almost certain to disturb the peaceful relations of England and France. The French Government has been categorically informed that, should any British ship be captured while running a blockade by a French war vessel, a popular agitation would break out in England that would inevitably compel the active interference of the British Government in such a manner as could not be otherwise than disagreeable to France. In order to avoid the otherwise certain complications with England it was to-day decided at the Quai Dorsay that in no case shall any part of China be either blockaded or bombarded.

Most active negotiations at the instance of England are now going on between China and France, and it is still hoped that hostilities may be confined to the Red River Delta and any official declaration of war avoided, unless—as is deemed very improbable—China herself declares war after the impending combat at Bacninh. English ships of war are being hastily fitted up, and sent to Chinese waters; and work at the Government shipyards is continued night and day.

El Mahdi is sending secret emissaries among the Mohammedan population, urging his recent victory as a reason for their acceptance of his claims.

The Mark Lane Express weekly review of the British grain trade says: The unusually mild weather causes young wheat to maintain a healthy and promising appearance. Trade is dull and lifeless, owing to the superabundant supply of foreign wheat. Flour values are tending downward. English flour and wheat are difficult to sell in London. Malting barleys are very scarce. Foreign wheats are unimproved. Stocks are large and buyers are apathetic and extremely cautious. Flour is in moderate supply and the London trade is depressed. Mixed American maize is against buyers, owing to scarcity. Trade in cargoes off coast is very restricted. There were six arrivals; three were sold, including three cargoes of red winter wheat. For cargoes on passage and for shipment there is scarcely any demand. Values are nominal. Sales of English wheat for the week, 80,102 quarters, at 40s. 5d. a quarter, against 52,159 quarters at 40s. 11d. a quarter the corresponding week last year.

The venerable colored woman, Sojourner Truth, best known of all her race, was gathered to her fathers yesterday at the extraordinary age of 108, having been born a year before the Declaration of American Independence. She died at Battle Creek, Mich., where she has lived for a long time. Few women in this country have been better or longer known. When men who are now old were in pinafores Sojourner Truth was detailing the wrongs of her race with her homely eloquence. She is known in almost every city of the country by her quaint, wise, and witty talks and her oracular utterances, which combined shrewd native wit, old-fashioned sense, and simple unquestioning piety, in about equal parts. The good old dame will not only be missed by her own people, but by large numbers of white people who have gladly welcomed her and delighted to talk with her. She is now free from all her troubles, and has passed on to a country where she will have all her rights and be as good as the best.

Nov. 27th.—Burglars and vandals at Pesth, Hungary, nearly ruined the interior of a church, even burning the archives of the edifice.

Egypt has taken feeble measures to head off the present movements of De Lesseps, the English shipowners, and the British Government looking to a new canal across Suez.

Paris was excited by rumor that Admiral Courbet had been defeated and his communications cut off by the pirates in Tonquin. The boulevards were crowded with people during the evening, and the general uneasiness was strongly reminiscent of days following Sedan.

The Governor of Hong Kong has just returned from Peking, where he saw the principal Ministers of the Chinese Empire. He is of the opinion that China is resolved to fight if forced much further by France in the Tonquin matter. China, he says, has 100,000 trained men available for operations against the French.

All eyes are now turned to Khartoum, and fears are generally felt that El Mahdi is already besieging that city. Measures of relief are everywhere discussed.

Six hundred gendarmes have started for Suakin. It is rumored the Province of Dongola has risen against the Egyptian Government.

The farmers of Manitoba have met, and vigorously asserted their exclusive right to the public domain, and to freedom from an unjust tariff and the oppression of overgrown railroad corporations.

Thirteen hundred men have been thrown out of employment by the failure of Dobic & Co., the Glasgow ship builders.

Roux de Fraissinet, the head of one of the largest banks in Marseilles, France, has failed. He is expected to resume shortly.

Comparative quiet has been restored in the vicinity of the burning well at Murraysville, Pa., where the bloody riot took place Monday. The Weston forces surrendered to the Sheriff, but soon made a break for liberty, fourteen escaping. A strong guard has been mustered to foil any attempt at rescue, and warrants have been issued for the arrest of the rioters still at large.

A convention has been called to meet in Washington, February 5th, 1884, to consider the various plans for the improvement of the Mississippi river and its tributaries. The call is made by the Improvement Committee, and is addressed to the people of the Mississippi Valley and all others interested in the project.

Fifty Western mills devoted to the manufacture of wrapping-paper are arranging to "shut down" for nine weeks—cause, an overstocked market. Wrapping-paper is used all over the civilized world, and freights are low, but American manufacturers are so heavily handicapped by "protection" of everything they use, except raw material, that they can not compete in foreign markets with foreign mills.

Nov. 28.—A semi-official statement has been made that the Japanese Government is anxious to open the interior of the island to foreign trade, on the stipulation that aliens availing themselves of the privileges granted shall be under the jurisdiction of the Japanese courts.

The vast Mohammedan University at Cairo, to which 12,000 pupils are sent from all parts of the Moslem world, and which is the principal seat of learning of that faith, has declared against the claim of El Mahdi to be the representative of the Prophet, and denounced him as an impostor. This action, it is thought, can not fail to greatly lessen the invader's chances of success in his ambitious scheme.

The forthcoming session of the Spanish Cortes, which meets Dec. 15, promises to be one of unusual interest, as the revision of the National Constitution, which has been engaging the attention of the new Posada-Herrera Ministry, will be discussed by it.

A dispatch from Teheran in the London Times indicates that the Russians are not idle in Western Asia. After conquering nearly the whole of Turkestan a treaty was drawn up to regulate the new Perso-Russian frontier, some of the questions of which are still pending.

Great excitement prevails at Newry, Ireland, owing to the hostile feeling between the Orangemen and Nationalists. In consequence of placing Newry under the Peace Preservation act the Nationalists have resolved to meet Sunday outside the town. The Orange placards have been torn down.

The war party is still predominant at Peking, China.

Russia is on the eve of financial bankruptcy. Its troubles of this character are pressing upon it with a weight even greater than its political embarrassments.

Morton & Co., iron merchants of Glasgow, and the Greenock Iron Company have suspended, owing to the failure of Dobic & Co., shipbuilders, of Govan. The liabilities of both are heavy.

J. C. Bronsky of St. Paul, Minn., failed for $30,000. To-day D. S. Wischart, general merchant, of Decatur, Ill., failed for a large amount. He has made an assignment to Ulbrich for the benefit of his creditors. J. B. Kirby & Co., tanners, in Rockcastle county, Ky., have failed. Liabilities $40,000; assets $10,000. W. B. Jarvis & Co., of Greenville, N. C., failed yesterday. They have liabilities of $60,000.

Twenty-five hundred operatives of the Titus Salt Mills at Bradford, England, are thrown out of employment in consequence of the strike of sixty spinners. Seventy-five thousand cotton operatives of North-east Lancashire have determined to resist the proposal to reduce wages 5 per cent. A great strike is feared.

FIRES—STORMS—ACCIDENTS.

Nov. 22.—Loss by fire at Paducah, Ky., $30,000.

Little doubt remains that the steamer Manistee sank in Lake Superior with all on board, about twenty-five sailors. This is the worst calamity since the foundering of the Asia in Georgian Bay.

Two trains came together on one track yesterday in Alabama. A colored porter was killed.

The recent storm at Murphysboro, Ill., lasting forty-eight hours, did immense damage. Some residences were completely destroyed; barns and fences were leveled to the ground; bridges and trestles were washed away, cutting off communication on three railroads; two persons were struck and stunned by lightning, and several injured by a railroad accident caused by a washout. The Big Muddy River rose ten feet inside of an hour, and has overflowed the bottom lands, doing incalculable injury to farmers. The heaviest rain and hail storm ever experienced there, visited Braidwood, Ill. Glass was knocked out of the windows and in several cases whole windows were blown in. In a large portion of southern Illinois the streams are out of their banks, and the crops are greatly damaged by the floods. Near Bedford, Indiana, the storm was terrific, the water pouring down the hillsides in torrents. The Bedford & Bloomfield Railroad has lost eleven miles of track, bridges, and trestles. Several houses in towns on the above line are inundated.

A large iron bridge north of Vincennes, Ind., was washed away; loss $2,500. Three quarters of a mile of railroad was washed out at Purcell Station, Ind. Wabash river rose nine feet last night, at Lafayette, Ind. The dam at Spring Lake burst, and caused a damage of $1,200. At Bloomington, Ind., the rainfall was the heaviest ever known there. The railroad tracks were greatly damaged, and wheat on the low lands was taken out by the roots. A cyclone seventy-five yards wide visited Colmesneil, Tex., last evening. Trees two feet in diameter were blown down. At an early hour Wednesday morning the most terrible cyclone ever known in that section of the country swept through the town of Melbourne, Ark. Just before daybreak the people were awakened by the fearful whistling of the winds, accompanied by heavy hail and rain. The terror-stricken people rushed from their houses, or were forced back only to be injured or killed by their crumbling homes. The storm lasted only a few minutes, but the destruction of property was fearful. The residence of ex-Sheriff John M. Hinkle was blown to atoms, killing him instantly, and seriously injuring his wife and two children. Roy Hinkle, William Sheffield, and the wife of Henry Hinkle, who were in the house, escaped with slight bruises. The court-house, Methodist and Baptist churches, stores, and residences were demoralized. The cyclone came from a south-western and pursued a southern direction.

Additional particulars of yesterday's cyclone in Arkansas continues to come in. The greatest damage appears to have been done in Izard county, where not only Melbourne, the county-seat, was destroyed, but La Crosse, five miles distant therefrom, as well. At La Crosse the stores of J. A. Roney, T. J. Ashley, O. T. Hunt, W. B. Baird, and P. A. Allen were ruined and the contents blown away. Witts' Hotel is also in ruins, and the large academy building, one of the best in North Arkansas, is a total wreck. One of the churches was absolutely blown away. Three persons were killed outright and eleven seriously injured.

A disastrous forest fire is raging on Jach's Mountain, in Pennsylvania. A section nine miles in length has been burned over. Loss by fire at Troy, New York, $55,000.

A terrific hailstorm passed over Will county, Ill., yesterday morning. Window blinds and glass were completely wrecked in the houses for miles. Orchards were blown down and fences demolished. Several barns were blown down. A number of cattle and horses were killed.

Four persons were killed and nine cars demolished by various railway accidents.

Nov. 25th.—The glass-factory of Thomas Evans & Co., at Pittsburg, Pa., was destroyed by fire. The loss was $90,000. Loss by fire at Mt. Pleasant, Michigan, $8,000. Bourbon, Indiana, $2,500. Kerens, Tex., $12,000. Napanee, Ont., $30,000.

An east-bound train on the Southern Pacific was ditched thirteen miles east of Deming, N. M., Saturday evening by five masked men. The engineer, T. C. Webster, was killed, and the express messenger was robbed of from $600 to $1,000. The passengers, with the exception of a man who interfered with the robbers, were not molested. He lost $150.

The late rain storms in Southern Illinois, have proved more disastrous than has been expected. The Mississippi bottom is a great lake, from ten to thirty miles wide; and is backing up its tributary streams, making high water in the interior.

Nov. 26.—Loss by fire at Carbondale, Illinois, $200,000. Port Perry, Ont., $150,000. Wellington, Kas., $23,000. Wenona, Ill., $8,000. Boyne City, Michigan, $8,000. Denton, Texas, $10,000. Navasota, Tex., $35,000. Omaha, Neb., $11,000.

Four men lost their lives in a severe storm near Dubuque, Iowa.

A large portion of the country around Vincennes, Ind., is overflowed for the third time this year. Thousands of acres of corn stand in water from one to three feet deep. The loss is almost incalculable.

The steamer Eclipse was lost off Pine Tree Harbor, Ont., and the crew, with one exception lost. Another terrible gale has swept the Great Lakes; not doing as much damage as the last.

Thursday, Nov. 15th, the rotten little steamer Eclipse left Algoma Mills for Port Sarnia with the barge Etta in tow, John Drew and Capt. Bush were on the barge, but the Captain of the barge soon joined the people on the steamer, who then numbered seven all told. John Drew went to sleep at 10 p. m., and arose at 4 a. m. to find a gale blowing and no steamer near his vessel. He heard the steamer's whistle several times, but at daylight saw himself drifting toward land and no steamer in sight. He had no trouble in getting ashore after his vessel went on the beach. The Eclipse had gone down with all on board. Three of the bodies of her crew were afterward recovered and identified.

One person was killed and much property destroyed near Prairie Du Chien, Wis., last Sunday night, by a cyclone which swept that part of the State. The noise is described as terrific.

Nov. 28th.—At Roubaix, France, Dillies' factory, covering 1,500 square metres, burned this morning. The flames spread to the factory of Motte & Meillason. The whole town was in danger, and the people were in great alarm. The damage by the fire is two million francs. Twelve hundred hands are thrown out of employment.

Between three and four o'clock yesterday fire broke out in the village of St. Paris, Ohio, and owing to the lack of facilities for extinguishing the flames, almost all the business houses in the town were destroyed, entailing a loss of at least a quarter of million of dollars. After the fire had burned all day, a creek running through the town was dammed, and the further spread of the flames was checked.

Loss by fire at Kansas City, Mo., $200,000. Albany, Wis., last Monday night, $62,125. Baltimore, Md., $80,000. Cape Vincent, N. Y., $80,000.

This afternoon a car at the rear end of a passenger-train on the Boston, Barre & Gardner Railroad, near North Worcester, Mass., was precipitated over an embankment a distance of twenty feet. Of the sixty people in the car about forty were injured, several receiving fatal wounds. The cause of the accident is as yet a mystery, no satisfactory theories having been advanced.

One man was killed and several cars burned by an accident near Cleveland, O.

Nov. 27th.—About one o'clock this morning fire broke out in a block of frame buildings at Albany, Wis., and before the flames were checked the entire business portion of the town was destroyed, entailing a loss of fully $100,000. Edward Dodge was instantly killed as the result of a powder explosion, and several were fatally and others seriously injured. The weather is reported as intensely cold, and the refugees are suffering greatly.

Loss by fire at Minneapolis, Minn., $100,000. Waverly, Tenn., $60,000. Eldora, Ia., $15,000. Hillsboro, Tex., $18,000. Amherst, Mass., $2,000.

At Elsdon, a station on the Grand Trunk Railroad, nine miles from Chicago, as an express train was crossing a switch this day morning, the engine jumped the track. Three cars were wrecked. A brakeman was killed, the conductor was probably fatally injured, the engineer and fireman were bruised but not dangerously, and one passenger was severely hurt. The pecuniary loss to the company is $10,000.

One person killed by the cars, near Washington, Pa.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

GOD'S GIFTS TO THE CHURCH.

"AND he gave some apostles, and some prophets, and some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ, till we all come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

Who is this that Paul is speaking of as giving such wonderful gifts to the children of men. If we can ascertain who it is that is to give these gifts to men, we can then tell whether we can place any confidence in the promise. That Paul was not speaking of himself, is evident from the language which he uses. Paul says, "And he gave," from which it is evident that Paul was speaking of some other person. In the 8th, 9th and 10th verses of this same chapter, which immediately precede our text, Paul, speaking of the crucified Lord says: "When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts to men," &c. Now that Christ "ascended" is known by some, and believed by all the Saints. And as Paul was speaking of Christ, we conclude that it is Christ that is to give to the children of men. And as the word of the Lord is "sure and steadfast, making glad the heart of man," we can place entire confidence in whatever he has promised.

Having ascertained the author and the reliability of these gifts, let us examine the design or object for which they are given, and the advantageous effects, or results, to the recipient of them. Paul says they are given "for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." First they are for the perfecting of the saints. This presupposes, that although the saints are not, as yet, in a perfect state, but are to be perfected through means ordained for that end. To prove that the saints are, today imperfect, we need but take a view of the work, as it is exhibited in the different sections of the vineyard. Our text infers that we are to be perfected. John, speaking to the saints of the love of God for the saints, and of their hopes in consequence of this love, makes use of this language: "And every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure." 1st John 3:3. What is it to be pure, but to be perfect; and that which is pure must of necessity be perfect. Hence if we purify ourselves we perfect ourselves. Peter in speaking to this subject says: "But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; because it is written, be ye holy for I am holy." Holy is another word for perfection. Then Peter would have us to be holy (perfect). And why would Peter have us to be perfect, (holy). Because, says Peter, it is written, "Be ye holy, [perfect], for I am holy [perfect]." Moses, in giving the law to the children of Israel, as commanded of the Lord, says: "Ye shall be holy, for I, the Lord, your God, am holy."

We think that we have produced sufficient scriptural proof that to a candid, honest mind, there need be no farther doubt that perfection is a requirement of the law of the Lord, and as such should be sought to be attained unto by all true Latter Day Saints. When and where this perfection is to be acquired, we think, is now and here, in this life of probation, during our time of preparation for the celestial kingdom.

We are well aware that we differ from some of the Saints, and even some of the Elders, in regard to the time and place of acquiring perfection; also as regards the kind, or degree of perfection unto which the Saints may and should attain. But we came to this conclusion first from the fact that all the texts that we have quoted are used in the present tense, having reference to the present time. As they are given in the present tense, we conclude that it was the intention of the Lord that they have a present application.

Again, all the works of preparation, so far as our knowledge goes, for an inheritance in the celestial kingdom of our God, must take place while in our present state; hence this perfecting ourselves while in the flesh. Says one of the ancient servants of God, "there is no no device or knowledge in the grave whither thou goest."

Secondly, that this perfecting ourselves must take place here on earth while in the flesh, we infer from the teachings of Jesus. This idea is taught in what is commonly called the Lord's Prayer. Jesus said, "After this manner ye shall pray: "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name, thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Now we would ask how is the will of our Father done in heaven? The answer comes up from the heart of every true Saint, "The will of our Father in heaven is done perfectly." But we ask, can his will be done perfectly by any, except it be a perfect being. Most assuredly not. But if we pray, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven, do we not pray that his will will be done perfectly on earth; and does this require a perfect being, or beings.

Having satisfied ourselves that the law of the Lord requires the Saints to perfect themselves, and that the time is now, and the place here on earth, it still remains for us to ascertain the nature of that perfection, that is, in what does it consist. That we make no mistake in this matter, we will go to Jesus, the only perfect and infallible teacher that the world ever knew, and see what he says. In the fifth chapter of Matthew, at the fiftieth verse (Inspired Translation) we find the words of Jesus recorded thus: "Ye are therefore commanded, Be ye perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Here Jesus tells us we are to be perfect as our heavenly Father is perfect. If we can find wherein consists the perfection of our heavenly Father, then we may know what we must attain to, that we may be perfect, like unto him. But says one, are you going to require that we become as perfect as God is? If so we shall be Gods, for we shall be equal to God. No, my friend, I am not going to require any degree of perfection of you, much less that ye become Gods. But if God requires that we become perfect, like as he is perfect, all that I have to say to it is, amen. I believe the Lord knows what is best for us, and that he knows what we are capable of attaining unto; and we may rest assured that he will require nothing of us that is impossible. That he does require this perfection, we are forced to admit; else we must ignore the teachings of Jesus. But we, as Latter Day Saints, can do no such thing. We believe that Jesus is the Son of God, and have received him as such. Hence his teachings are authoritative. And as we believe he meant just what he taught, nothing more and nothing less; and as Jesus has said, "Be ye perfect as your Father which is in heaven is perfect," we are forced to the conclusion, that God requires that we become thus perfect. Hence it becomes the imperative duty of every Latter Day Saint to seek to know, and to strive to attain unto the same, by living in strict obedience to the law. And may God always guide by his Holy Spirit in searching after greater wisdom and knowledge in the things that pertain unto the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ, is the earnest prayer of

FIDEI DEFENSOR.

A great deal of wit often makes us wicked, cruel and unjust; it causes tormenting jealousies, deceptions which spoil our triumphs, and a pride which is never satisfied.

SPIRITUAL PHENOMENA AT "DUNGEON ROCK."

ON October 31st, in company with Bro. Joseph Woodward, of Boston, the writer made a trip to "Dungeon Rock," for the purpose of investigation with a view to learn as far as our time and circumstances would permit, something concerning the peculiarities of the place, it having become somewhat notorious, consequent upon the strange Phenomena of Spiritualism, and also an example of the strong and unwavering faith exercised here, by those who consulted and heard the voice of the "Familiar Spirits." On our way thither we passed through the city of Lynn, a thriving city of forty thousand inhabitants, situated about ten miles east of the Hub, (Boston), from which we walked out two miles north of the city, where we came to a most secluded and lonesome spot in the midst of a wood. The sun was just setting behind the great hills of the west, darkness began to gather. There seemed to be a peculiar stillness in the air. A feeling of gloom began to steal o'er us, as we looked about the place, and we were reminded that this was an excellent place. The conditions were favorable for ghosts and hobgoblins to revel, and spirits to manifest and materialize themselves, as it is claimed they have done here, as the sequel will show. But to give every one his due, we wish to say to the ghosts' and spirits' credit, they kept quiet and behaved themselves while we were there, for which we were thankful.

On the top of a steep hill, probably one hundred feet high, is "Dungeon Rock," which, in order to understand the matter better, it may be necessary to state, that there is a legend connected with the history of Lynn; viz., that hundreds of years ago, its coasts were infested by a band of Spanish Pirates, whose rendezvous was on the banks of Saugus River; the place to this day is known as "Pirates' Glen." Subsequently this band of Pirates was hunted down and the band got broken up, some however took refuge in a cave about a mile further inland, supposed to be in the vicinity of "Dungeon Rock," where it was supposed they kept their booty, or the treasures of the gang, which have never yet been found. The printed statement that is framed and hung up in the small waiting room near the rock, informs us that in the year 1843, The Hutchinson, or what is known as the "Singing Brothers," became interested in Spiritualism, and the spirits spoke about the treasures of the Pirates, which were still hidden near the Rock; and they went to work to dig for them. They dug a hole about ten feet deep and ten feet wide, when not finding anything they became discouraged, and filled it up again, and abandoned the project. The matter was then left quiet until the year 1851, when a Mr. Hiram Marble came to reside in the vicinity of the Rock, who also conceived the thought that treasure could be found there, and that he might be the one to find it. He accordingly commenced to dig, taking with him his boy Edwin, a lad then about thirteen years of age, to help him. Mr. Marble was not a Spiritualist at the time he commenced the work of digging, but very shortly afterward he became infatuated with the Spiritual Phenomena, and he zealously sought unto those who had "Familiar Spirits," to divine to him concerning the pirates' treasures concealed at "Dungeon Rock." The result was that the spirits of that gang of dead pirates came in swarms, only too glad to have the opportunity to tell him all about it, and to tell him how to proceed to obtain it. They revealed to him, (through the Mediums of course) how their band had been broken up at Pirates' Glen; how one of their number, by the name of Thomas Veal, and his wife, Catherine, had taken up their abode at this rock where formerly there was a large cave, in which the treasures of the whole band were secreted. That Catherine died, and the robber, not daring to come out and bury her, had buried her in the cave. He himself lived in the cave until the earthquake of 1658, when this great rock rolled up and over the cave, burying him alive, and of course he perished.

In the waiting room there are some oil paintings of the spirits of some of these pirates, painted by a spiritualistic artist, as seen by him at a materialization seance. A picture of this Thomas Veal, a vicious looking, beardless chap, whose wild looking eyes and open mouth, while he is brandishing a club over his head, make him look as though he would be a terror to any quiet neighborhood. There is a picture of his wife Catherine, quite an amiable looking woman to be the wife of such a reckless looking fellow; a picture of the wife of the leader of the pirates' gang, a very beautiful young woman; and one of a Spanish Queen whom these pirates robbed before they left Spain, are also there. There is also a small sheath, (the sword has been stolen, so we were told). A dirk knife and a small pair of scissors of ancient make, which were found in a crevice of the rock, about six feet below the surface, while digging. Up from the house we came to the entrance of the cave. Situated between an immense rock—it looked as though by some mighty convulsion of nature it had been rent asunder, leaving a narrow passage between. Adjacent to the rock is a little rude shed, which contains the forge, the anvil, hammers and tools, just as the men who had toiled their lives away in digging this hole had died and left them. They looked as though they were waiting for their long users to return and resume the work where they left off. The entrance of the cave is now guarded by a small iron gate, which was opened to us by the one in charge, who went in ahead of us to light up the lamps, "lest we should stumble down in the darkness and break our necks." After a while he called to us, "All right." So bracing up, into the hole we went. Proceeding in about six feet we came to a steep place almost perpendicular, where some rude steps had been provided, which we descended a distance of about twelve feet; then walked on through the excavation. First we would go down, then go the right, then to the left, then down again. We made enquiry as to the reason why such an irregular course had been taken; in answer to which we were told, that Mr. Marble was constantly directed by the Spirits which way he should take in digging, and that he was faithful in following their directions.

We went down to the bottom, and discovered the fact that these men, father and son, had succeeded in digging out through a solid rock, not dirt, but rock as hard as flint, a hole of one hundred and seventy-five feet in length, and sixty-five feet in depth. It is about six feet wide and eight feet high all the way down. The manner of digging was very laborious, they having to drill and blast with powder every inch of the way. The stone had then to be broken up into small pieces, and carried out in a basket or bucket. There is a great heap of small pieces of the rock near the entrance of the cave. Mr. Marble had a little money when he commenced the work, which he used up, together with what he could raise by mortgaging his property; all he had or could get he used to keep on with the work. He was continually helped by Spiritualistic people, who wished to see the truth of Spiritualism demonstrated. And visitors occasionally gave him a quarter, or just what they chose, by which they were enabled to barely live. Thus he toiled and labored for fifteen years, when he sickened and died. His son continued the work under the Spirits' directions, until he also passed away from earth, being when he died about forty-one years old, having spent twenty-eight years of his life digging and toiling, until he wore his very life away. Thus for some supposed buried treasure, its place of concealment supposed to have been revealed to them through the phenomena of Spiritualism, these two men, these dupes, spent in the aggregate, thirty-three years of labor to obtain it; but got nothing except "their labor for their pains." What a thought! What strange infatuation must have possessed the minds of these men. Here is a question for Spiritualists to investigate. How blind any one must be to think any good spirit would lead a man to such a task. If the cave was so deep down in which the treasures of the pirates' gang were hidden, why had they not instructed Mr. Marble to start at the foot of the hill, and dig a hole in the side, instead of telling him to dig from the top. How much easier it would have been to have wheeled the broken pieces of rock out at the side, than to have lugged them up that steep declivity, a distance of a hundred and seventy-five feet, which Edwin Marble was doing when he died.

It is true, as the framed printed information says, that the men had "great faith and wonderful tenacity, perseverance and endurance;" but I believe that the Spiritualistic part of the matter was then and is now, a humbug. JOHN GILBERT.

IS REBAPTISM ESSENTIAL.

IN looking over Herald of May 26th, 1883, I saw an article written by Bro. A. Leverton, in answer to a question asked by a brother in Utah, concerning rebaptism. (I have only been baptized about seven months, and the Scriptures say rebuke not an Elder; so I give my views). It is my opinion, should I apostatize or commit sin, not repenting of this sin, and be cut off from the Church, then rebaptism is as essential as is our first. As Jesus is the only begotten son of God, therefore we are sons and daughters by adoption, and by breaking our covenant we become of the world again. Yes, but does not John say in his first epistle, speaking to the Church, "If any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous?" Yes he does; but he does not say, that the people of the world have. When I was in the world I first had faith, secondly repented, thirdly was baptized for the remission of my sins. Should I commit sin and not confess my fault, be cut off from the Church, I would then be in the same standing I was in before I embraced the gospel, with one exception, and that is faith. I would yet know the gospel was true; but being a stranger, and an alien from the common wealth of Israel, to again gain an inheritance therein, I would have to repent, and be baptized for the remission of my sins. Then the man of the world says to the brother, through obedience to the gospel, we become sons of God; and do you believe because a man may turn away from the Lord and commit sin, that he will lose his sonship? If so, a man may be a son of God to-day and a son of the devil to-morrow. The brother says: "If you are a believer in rebaptism; what answer would you make to the above question? You will find our Savior's answer to Peter in the eighteenth chapter, 21st and 22d verses of St Matthew. "Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times, but until seventy times seven." Now, the gospel teaches that our heavenly Father is more merciful unto us than earthly parents are to their children; so if we truly repent, there is a possibility of our being one day the sons of God, and the next the sons of Satan. Then John says, "He that committeth sin is of the devil." If I apostatize, or commit sin, so that I am cast out of the kingdom, I am then of the devil. The only gospel plan I can find by which to get out of Satan's clutches, is obedience to the law, viz., "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins." I do not see what the parable of the prodigal son has to do with baptism, as he was a son, an heir by birth. He could only repent. He could not be again born of woman. But I came in by the door of baptism, and if I am cast out, I must again come in by the door; for "He that climbeth up any other way, the same shall be counted a thief and a robber." These are the words of Jesus.

The brother refers to John's first epistle, 1 chapter and 9th verse. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. Our brother in Utah being baptized into Utah Mormonism, he has left the Church of Christ, has united with a sect that has added to the gospel of Christ. So they are in equal error with those that have done away with a part, and he is outside of the kingdom. If according to the above scripture, he confesses his faults, that is evidence of repentance. What is the next principle? It is baptism.

It is my opinion he had better try the door again. I find no other plan given whereby we can get a remission of our sins and get into the kingdom, but baptism. I join my brother, Arthur Leverton, in praying God to bless us with wisdom and understanding, so we may see eye to eye.

Yours, in the gospel of Christ,

WILLIAM A. SINCLAIR.

MARION, Michigan, May 28th, 1883.

WHY I GO TO CHURCH ON THE LORD'S DAY.

1. Because God has blessed the Lord's Day, and hallowed it, making no exceptions for rainy Sundays.

2. Because I expect my minister to be there. I should be surprised if he were to stay at home on account of the weather, or any thing else except sickness.

3. Because if his hands fall through weakness, I shall have great reason to blame myself, except I sustain them by my presence and my prayers.

4. Because, if I absent myself on the Lord's day, I shall lose a sermon; and the prayers which bring God's blessings; and my influence is lost that would probably do some one good.

5. Because my presence is more needful on the rainy Sabbaths, when the congregations are apt to be small, than on those days when the church is crowded.

6. Because whatever station I hold in the church, my example must more or less influence others; and if I stay away, why not they?

7. Because on any important business during the week, rainy weather does not keep me at home; and church attendance is, in God's sight, very important.

8. Because among the worldly pleasure seekers, I find that no kind of weather keeps them at home; and such weather shows me on what foundation my faith is built.

9. Because those people who absent themselves, because it is too hot, too cold, too rainy, &c., frequently absent themselves on other Sabbath days.

10. Sabbath excuses are apt to satisfy one's self, but they must however go under God's scrutiny, and they must be pretty well grounded to bear that. St. Luke 14: 18-20.

11. Because there is a special promise, "where two or three are gathered together in His name, there he will be in their midst, and that to bless them."

12. Because an avoidable excuse and absence from church, is an infallible evidence of spiritual decay. How many people learn to follow Christ at a distance—and then learn not to know him:

13. My faith is to be known by my works and my self-denying Christian life and walk, not by the rise and fall of the thermometer.

14. Because such a yielding to surmountable difficulties, prepares the Christian to use those imaginary; until thousands of professing Christians never enter the church; and yet they think they have good reasons for such neglect.

15. Because by a little exertion on my part on Saturday, I am able to attend church on the Sabbath day, without exhaustion; otherwise my late work on the Saturday, must tend to unfit me for the Sabbath enjoyment and priveleges.

16. Because I do not know how many more Sabbath days God will give me here on earth; and would it not be a poor preparation for my first Sabbath in heaven, to have slighted my last Sabbath on earth.

CHRISTIAN.

A SUPPRESSED CHAPTER IN THE HISTORY OF LUTHERISM.

Now that the fourth centenary of Luther's birth is being celebrated by his admirers, Protestant and free thinking, and all kinds of panegyrics are being pronounced over him, it would be well for his eulogists to recall his action and that of a number of his prominent followers and co-workers, in sanctioning bigamy in the case of Philip of Hesse. The facts of this transaction are matters of history and incapable of successful denial. Protestant historians uniformly omit to mention them, but the omission is a plain suppression of the truth.

Philip, the Landgrave of Hesse, was one of Luther's warmest friends and supporters. Protestants call him "the pious Philip." He was married to Catherine of Saxony, a beautiful and accomplished Princess.—But he was unfaithful and licentious, and contracted a criminal passion for Margaret de Stael.

He did not dare to resort to Henry the Eighth's method of divorce. The public opinion in Germany had not yet been educated up to accepting that now popular Protestant way of getting rid of uncongenial conjugal ties. Moreover; it would have involved him in difficulties with the Emperor of Germany, and with Catherine's powerful relatives. The easier and simpler method of solving the problem, in the judgment of the "pious" Philip, was to marry Margaret also, without divorcing Catherine.

Accordingly he wrote a letter to Luther, which is a strange mixture of pious cant, lamentations over his own vicious propensities; of arguments from the Old Testament that it was allowable to have more than one wife; of promises on the one hand, if the Reformers would accede to his proposal, and also of threats, indirectly yet plainly suggested, of what he would do, if they refused. He intimates to Luther very plainly that if they (Luther and his fellow "Reformers" would not grant his request, he would break loose from them and from their movement, and adds:—

"Let them grant me, in the name of God, what I ask, so that I may be able to live and die more cheerfully for the cause of the gospel, and to be more ready to defend it. I engage to perform on my part, all that may be required of me in reason whether as regards the property of convents (which Philip had plundered and suppressed, and for a share in which the Reformers were greedy) or matters of a similar description."

Luther hesitated, and tried to escape from personal responsibility by suggesting in his answer to Philip's letter, that the subject should be referred to the Protestant clergy of Hesse for examination and decision. But Philip was haughty as well as licentious. He could not brook the idea that he, Prince of Hesse, and the great defender of Lutheranism in Germany and head of the Protestant Church in his own Principality, should submit his demand for approval to a set of obscure Protestant ministers, who were the slaves of his own caprices, and whose ignorance was despised by the people. He was resolved to obtain the express sanction of Luther and the Wittenberg theologians. Accordingly he wrote to them as follows:—

"I have read in the Old Testament that many holy personages . . . had many wives . . . I have resolved to renounce my licentious habits, but I can not and will not do that unless I get Margaret for my wife. Therefore I ask of Luther and Philip (Melancthon) to grant me what I request."

The "Reformers" were greatly perplexed. On the one hand they dreaded the effect on public opinion if they gave their approval to Philip's proposed bigamy. On the other hand they felt that they could not afford to incur his displeasure and lose his support. They hesitated, and would have delayed replying, but he pressed them for an answer, and they gave it.

It is a curious document, consisting of twenty-four articles or sections, which, with any amount of cant and lamentations over Phillip's weakness and unfortunate proclivities, see-saw between yes and no. In the twenty-first section it declares as follows:—

"If your Highness is resolved to marry a second wife, we judge that it ought to be done privately, as we have said when speaking of a dispensation which you have asked for. There should be no one present but the bride and a few witnesses, who are aware of the circumstance and would be bound to secrecy as if under the seal of confession. Thus all opposition and great scandal will be avoided. . . . Your Highness has then in this writing our approbation, in all the exigencies that may occur, as also all the reflections we have made on them."

The document is signed by Luther and also by Melancthon, Bucer, Corvin, Lenighen, Vinfert and Melanther—all of them prominent supporters of Luther's movement.

The marriage contract between Philip and Margaret de Stael, was duly executed and acknowledged before a notary public, who attached his signature to it. It bears all the ear-marks of having been drawn up by a Lutheran Doctor. It contains a theological defense of the Landgrave's bigamy. His highness declares in it that "He does not take Margaret lightly or through contempt of the civil law, but solely for other considerations; and because without a second wife he could not live godly or merit Heaven."

The bigamous marriage took place on the 3d of March, 1540, in the presence of Melancthon, Bucer, and several other Protestant theologians.

Luther and Melancthon gave their benediction, and said to the Landgrave:—

"Sleep in peace; approach when you wish the eucharistic table" (and adding other expressions too blasphemous to copy).

Means were taken to conceal the transaction, and for a time they were successful. But the vanity of Margaret and her mother were too strong to maintain silence, and they blabbed the hitherto well kept secret.

Then Philip threw aside all sense of shame and regard for the public opinion. He walked with his two wives publicly to church, sat between them at table, and presented them to his courtiers.

Luther, Melancthon, and the other "Reformers" would gladly have suppressed all the official and historical proof, and for a time they were partially successful. But a Protestant hand, that of the Landgrave Ernest, produced the original documents from the archives of Hesse, and allowed them to be published.

A Protestant writer, named Huldrich Neobulus, gave the scandalous affair more wide spread publicity by undertaking to defend it in a printed pamphlet. When the pamphlet had reached Luther's hands, mortified and enraged at the ill-judged "defense," which published his infamy all the more effectually, he became furious, and exclaimed in his characteristic style: "May the devil prepare a bath of fire for you in the lowest depth of hell."

Mormonism is commonly supposed to be a modern doctrine, but here is the proof that it can fall back for support on the act of the "pious," sometimes, too, called the "magnanimous" Philip, Landgrave of Hesse, one of the warmest friends of Luther, and one of the earliest and most powerful champions of his "reformation,"—an act, too, that was expressly and formally approved, sanctioned, and "blessed" by Luther, Melancthon, Bucer, and other prominent "Reformers."

Protestant "historians" do not mention those facts in their "histories," and Protestants generally are entirely ignorant of them. It is more than doubtful that the panegyrics that are now being pronounced over Luther, and will continue for some months hence will take no pains to inform the world of this almost forgotten and unknown chapter in the history of Lutheranism.—Catholic Standard.

THE ONLY AND TRUE GOD.

Book of Mormon, Ether 1: 4.

SINCE mine and Bro. Burts' article, with above heading, was published, there has been a great deal of fault found with it by different writers. I know I did not explain my idea as well as I might have done, therefore these writers have misunderstood me somewhat.

I will first answer Bro. Joseph's editorial of the 15th of June, 1882. He says the Church has taken position on the matter, "that there are two personages in the Godhead." I did not dispute that point; I only said that there was but one person with a body of flesh and bones, and that he is God; that neither Stephen, in Acts, nor Joseph Smith felt (with his hands), those two personages, so as to know whether both had bodies of flesh and bones, or whether one only had such a body. But Bro. Joseph comes to my help, by quoting the fifth lecture on faith: "The Father, being a personage of Spirit," (the Holy Ghost according to Nephi). By reading further in said lecture it says, "that he is called the Son, because of the flesh." As far as the position the Church has taken in the matter at issue is concerned, that appears to me to be like the Apostles at Jerusalem when they would not baptize the Gentiles, because Jesus had told them to "go to the lost sheep of the house of Israel;" but forgetting the last commission "to go out into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." If the Church has taken position according to the Constitution of the Church; (namely the Book of Mormon, the Bible and the Doctrine and Covenants); then the Church is right; but if the Church teaches differently from those books, then the Church must be in the wrong. I should like some one to show me my error, if I do err in this doctrine; in the meantime I shall write as positively as my mind is on this matter. Doctrine and Covenants is full of such statements as: "I am Jesus Christ your Lord and your God." (He does not say, one of your Lords, or Gods). As for the prayer of Jesus, that we should be one in him, etc., I do believe literally, but not to destroy our identity, because every atom of the Holy Spirit is intelligent, hence is responsible to that one it has chosen to be the head. "How do you understand it then?" says one. I can not answer that question without also answering Bro. Gurley's article. Paul says: "In God we live, move, and have our being." (He does not say in God's law we live, move, and have our being, as Bro. Gurley says). If we live in God, then did Jesus live in God; hence he dwelt in the Father, (the Holy Spirit), and the Father, (the Holy Spirit), dwelt in Jesus, because the Holy Ghost, the Spirit of truth, (See Doctrine and Covenants 83 sec., paragraphs 1, 2), the Father was the Spirit of Jesus. As the Spirit of God is the Spirit of Jesus; hence we are in Jesus and Jesus in us. And the Father in us—if so be that we have his Spirit in us. No destruction of identity there, brother.

Brn. McKenzie and Gurley claim, "That Jesus can well be called Father, and his Father is the Father." But scripture says of Jesus, "He is the very Eternal Father." (Not "a" very Eternal Father). See Book of Mormon, Alma 8 chap. 10 par. And they say that this, "The Father," is a personage of spirit and organized. Brethren, I challenge you to prove from reason, or revelation, that God, or the Spirit of Jesus was organized, or our spirits either. You can not do it. If spirits are organized, they have a beginning, and if they have a beginning there must of necessity be a change, or death, as death is change; and then God, as a personage of spirit, must die. Yet scripture says he can not die, because he is eternal. I will prove to you that it is impossible to organize spirits from Doctrine and Covenants. It is this idea of spirits being organized that was the first foundation for marriage for eternity and polygamy, as marriage for eternity would be the means to organize spirit children to people other worlds; and if they had two wives, though one after another in this world, yet in the next they would have two wives; and why not have the two or more here? This was the beginning to polygamy, and if I could swallow the organizing of spirits, I would swallow the whole abomination, polygamy included.

Now, brethren; if it be so that the spiritual personage of the Father be organized, pray tell me who organized him? Which is the greater, the organizer or the organization? In other words, who is the greater, the creature or the Creator? It is this idea of spirit organization, that makes you and me differ in views concerning "The only true God." Therefore let us together study the revelations of God, and see if we can agree on this one thing.

We will now turn to Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 83, par. 4: "And now verily I, (Jesus), say unto you, I was in the beginning with the Father, and am the First Born." (How, organized, or begotten? No, he is "The First-born" through the resurrection from the dead. See Col. 1: 15-18; 1 Cor. 15: 20, 23). "And all those who are begotten (by water and Spirit) through me, are partakers of the glory of the same, and are the Church of the First-Born. Ye were also in the beginning with the Father, that which is spirit, [man's spirit], even the Spirit of truth." [The Holy Spirit that "He breathed into the nostrils of man, the breath of life."] Par. 5: "Man [man's spirit] was also in the beginning with God [The Father] intelligence, [that which is spirit—as above], or the light of truth [even the Spirit of truth—as above] was not created, or made, neither indeed can be." As this revelation says that our spirits were neither created nor made, neither indeed can be, how is it that those brethren say that the Father was organized, or that the spirit of Jesus was organized. As to what they say that Christ advanced to the Godhead, I will quote St. John's Rev. 22: 13. "I (Jesus) am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." If He is "the first," is there one before him. If he is "the last," is there any one after him? Pray tell us brethren! Thus we see Jesus did not advance or be raised into the Godhead, but always was God "from all eternity to all eternity." See Book of Mormon, Mosiah 1 chap., 13 par.

Brethren, you who contend against this doctrine, that Christ is both "the Father and the Son," but believe that the Father and the Son are two distinct personages of glorified flesh and bones, as much so as Joseph Smith and his son, let me ask you, who made, or organized the first body of flesh and bones of the Father? Did even he have a father? Did you ever hear, or read of Jesus having a grandfather and great grandfather, etc.? Jesus is said by Paul to be (Heb. 1: 3) "The express image of his [Father's] person." And this is by some taken as a proof that the Father is a body of flesh and bones like Jesus. I know that my body is the express image of my spirit's person, because some years ago I saw my father's face, after he had been dead and buried for eighteen years; hence it simply means that Jesus (the body) was the express image of his Father (the spiritual person). I will now describe my ideas as to how Jesus is both "the Father and the Son." This Great Spirit (See Book of Mormon, Alma 13: 7, and Doctrine and Covenants 7: 2, 10), that is in heaven and hell, (the grave), who is the light and life of the sun, moon and stars, and the light and life of this earth, with all that is in and on it, is the Holy Spirit,—the Great First Cause,—who existed from all eternity to all eternity; being self-existing. This "Great First Cause," the Holy Spirit, that possesses, nay, is the very essence of the fulness of all light, power, knowledge, wisdom and understanding, and is diffused throughout the entire universe. This spirit assumed the form of man, on the same principle as he assumed the form of a dove at the baptism of Jesus, and cloven tongues of fire on the day of Pentecost; the same spirit assumed the form of man, who is called the Father; he also assumed another form of man, who was called the Son, (even Jesus Christ). Again that same spirit assumed innumerable forms of men, which are the heavenly hosts. They were not organized, but assumed the form. Who heard of organizing the Holy Spirit? Who heard of organizing one element? There must be at least two elements to create or organize anything. Said first two forms (like men) of spirit, are both the Father, (the Holy Spirit), only one is called the Son, because he should come down and take upon himself flesh, or rather become the Son because of the flesh. "But," says one, "how can they both be the Father, and be only one God?" Answer: on the same principle as on the day of Pentecost, when at least the twelve apostles had at least as many cloven tongues of fire, that came and sat on them; therefore there were at least twelve forms of cloven tongues; was there therefore twelve Holy Spirits? No! there was but one Holy Spirit. And so it is with the Father and the Son. Therefore is Jesus both the Father and the Son; two forms, (assumed), but one and the self same spirit. He is called "the" (not "a") Father, and "the" (not "a") Son. And as there is more of the same Holy Spirit, (Spirit of Truth, for Truth is Holy), than that which has assumed the form of man, in the universe that inspires and instructs, therefore he is in that office called the Holy Spirit, (Ghost), but he is really only one Spirit, though officiating as Father, because of creation; and as the Son, because he came down and dwelt in flesh, and as the Holy Spirit, because as an holy, inspiring officer to the children of men. After this Spirit had assumed the form of man, he created man in his likeness or rather, he created man after that likeness that he himself had assumed. Because of this treble officiating nature, we are commanded to act in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost; which should cause us to remember all his acts, his greatness and his goodness towards his creations, yea, his loving kindness to us. Now, in order to get all Scripture to be harmonized on this subject, we must at all times remember that sometimes Jesus, (as well as all of his servants the prophets and apostles), have spoken of Jesus as concerning his Spirit, (as the Father); at other times, as about the body, (the Son); and again at other times, as both spirit and body united. For instance: I, (the writer), live in my house; that means, both my spirit and body. Again, I did live with God in eternity; that means my spirit; and, I was born in 1840; that means my body. And in like manner did also Jesus speak; hence the apparent contradiction in Scripture.

Dear Reader, if you always bear this point in mind, you will see the glorious beauty of the doctrine here set forth, as well as in the article published in the Saints' Herald the 15th of June, 1882. This is one of the principal reasons why the Book of Mormon was kept hidden for ages, and revealed in these latter times. It was for "The convincing of Jew and Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the Eternal God, manifesting himself to all nations." See title page, Book of Mormon written by Moroni. Remember he does not say that "Jesus is the Christ," an "Eternal God;" but he says "The Eternal God." Read Ether 1 chap., 8 par., to the end of chapter. In that great revelation Jesus gave to Jared's brother, he said: And the Lord, (Jesus), said unto him, "Believest thou the words which I shall speak?" And he answered "Yea, Lord,

I know that thou speakest the truth, for thou art a God of truth, and canst not lie." After Jesus had showed himself to Jared's brother, Jesus says: "Behold, I am Jesus Christ. I am the Father and the Son. In me shall all mankind have light, and that eternally, even they who shall believe on my name." And further he says, that they that do not believe this doctrine, shall not receive any greater revelations, (as the sealed part of the Book of Mormon for example), as the following will show, par 11, same chap. "And in that day that they shall exercise faith in me, saith the Lord, (Jesus), even as the brother of Jared did, that they may become sanctified in me, then will I manifest unto them the things which the brother of Jared saw, (he saw that Jesus was both the Father and the son), even to the unfolding unto them all my revelations, saith Jesus Christ, the son of God, the Father of the heavens and of the earth, and all things that in them are. And he that will contend against the word of the Lord, let him be accursed; and he that shall deny these things, let him be accursed; for unto them will I show no greater things, saith Jesus Christ; for I am he who speaketh, and at my command the heavens are open and we are shut; and at my word the earth shall shake." Now see the blessing on those that believe this thing. 12 par. same chapter: "But he that believeth these things which I have spoken, him will I visit with the manifestations of my Spirit, and he shall know and bear record. For because of my Spirit, he shall know that these things are true."

Reader, do you believe as Jared's brother did, that "Jesus is both the Father and the son." And have you received the promised manifestations of the Holy Spirit? "Therefore, condemn not the things of God, that ye may be found spotless at the judgment seat of Christ. See title page Book of Mormon.

CH. E. MALMSTROM.
SPRINGVILLE Utah, March 21st. 1883.

WHEN we read about some person who has amassed a colossal fortune by means which will not in the least bear the light of day, building a church, or endowing a college or a theologic 1 seminary, either in his life time or his will, we are disposed to inquire if the hope of purchasing the gift of God had anything to do with the largess. If so, ought we not to tell him that there are some things which can be bought, such as human applause; but there are some things which can not be bought, such as the favor of God, the peace and purity of Heaven? Is this disposition confined to the outside of the Church? When the church needs spiritual gifts, when it needs the influence and power of the Spirit bestowed on the rising ministry, is there not a tendency to seek these blessings through the giving of money, forgetting that the gifts must be accompanied and made effectual by prayer, by humility, by personal purity, by self denial?

Conference Minutes.

NODAWAY DISTRICT.

Conference convened at the Liberty School-house, Nodaway Co., Missouri, on the 13th day of October, 1883. The president and clerk of the district not being present, Elder I. N. Roberts was chosen president pro tem, and Elder W. Woodhead clerk pro tem.

Branch Reports.—Eureka Branch 15, including 1 Seventy, 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon. Platt 70, including 9 Elders, 2 Priests, 3 Teachers 1 Deacon.

Elders Wm. Woodhead, C. Christensen, A. N. Bergo, Wm. Powel, A. Jacobson, A. Alcutt, and Ole Madison, reported, the latter having baptized 2. Priest Andrew Jensen, and Teachers Jacob Nelson and Carl C. Nelson, Deacon Robert Nelson, reported.

Afternoon session. C. Christensen, Bishop's Agent, reported. Total moneys received since last report, $86.25.

The case of Platt Branch versus A. N. Bergo was continued. Elders Wm. Powel and A. Alcutt to hear the case, and report as soon as practicable. Elders J. Florey, I. Ross were released from the committee, not being present.

Delegates from Eureka Branch asked for the appointment of a two days' meeting in that branch. Elders A. Alcutt and Wm. Woodhead were appointed to attend to it.

The following petition was read: To the Elders, and members assembled in conference at Liberty School-house, October 13th, 1883: I the undersigned, feeling that great injustice was done to me at our late district conference, by the act releasing Andrew Jacobson from making a restoration to me for the injury, or wrong he has done me, I do now ask your honorable body to reconsider the aforesaid act. I am willing to temper justice with mercy, but a right has been taken away from me, and said right has never been restored to me. Yours in truth and righteousness,

A. N. BERGO.

A motion to reconsider the former decision of conference was lost.

The case of Ross Grove Branch versus H. W. Smith having been adjusted, the branch is asked to grant him his letter of membership.

Elder Wm. Hawkins was sustained as president of the district; Joseph Flory clerk.

A vote of thanks was tendered C. Christensen for his services, and Elders Ole Madison and Wm. Woodhead were appointed to audit his books and accounts.

Resolved, That when this conference adjourns, it does so to meet the Saturday before the third Sunday in January, 1884.

Sunday, fourteenth, preaching by Elders A. Alcutt, Wm. Powell, and I. N. Roberts.

KENT AND ELGIN DISTRICT.

Conference convened at the Blenheim Branch in the Saints' chapel, October 6th, 1883. John H. Lake president, R. Coburn clerk. The time was taken up in the forenoon by remarks from the president and others.

Afternoon session: Branch Reports.—Baddertown 30, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 2 Teachers; 3 baptized, 4 received by letter. Wellington 20, including 2 Elders, 1 Priest; 3 removed by letter.

Blenheim 53, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher; 1 baptized, 6 received by letter, 1 died.

James Robb, Bishop's Agent reported. Balance on hand last report $9.30; received since $59.97; expended since, $61.65. Balance on hand $7.62. Brn. A. Leverton, J. N. Simmons and A. McKenzie, were appointed a committee to examine the report, and audit the Bishop's Agent's book.

Elders' Reports.—E. H. Gurley (baptized 3), James N. Simmons (baptized 2), J. H. Lake, Arthur Leverton (baptized 6), Charles Badder, Thomas Badder, James Robb and R. Coburn, reported.

Priests' Reports.—Peter McBrayne (baptized 2), A. McKenzie, John Traxler, reported.

Resolved, That Thomas and Richard Badder be each granted Elders' Licences, and Samuel H. Bacon a Priest's license.

Resolved, That an ordination to the office of an Elder shall hereafter be sanctioned, when so ordered by district conference, upon recommendation of the branch, of which he is a member; except that the president of mission may ordain or direct such ordination, without the vote of the district conference.

Resolved, That should the president of the district deem it wisdom, that he organize a branch of the Church at Ridgetown.

Resolved, That Bro. John H. Lake be sustained as president of the mission.

By separate motions the following brethren were sustained as officers of the district: Arthur Leverton president, James Robb Bishop's Agent, and Richard Coburn clerk.

The committee appointed to examine the Bishop's Agent's report and audit his book, reported that they had done so, and found them correct. The report was received, and the committee discharged.

Preaching by John H. Lake at 7:30. Sabbath morning, prayer and testimony meeting at 8:30, after which the sacrament was administered. Preaching by Arthur Leverton at 10:30. Preaching by E. H. Gurley at 2:30 p.m. Preaching by J. H. Lake at 6:30 p. m.

Adjourned to meet in the Zone Branch, the first Saturday in June, 1884.

Miscellaneous.

BORN.

DILLON.—At Sandwich, DeKalb co., Illinois, November 20th, 1883, to Bro. C. W. and Sr. Ency Dillon, (former Ewing), a daughter; mother and child doing well.

SAVAGE.—Near DeWitt, Nebraska, July 3d, 1883, to Bro. Wilber and Sr. Lydia A. Savage, a son. Blessed at Wilber, Nebraska, November 22d, 1883, by Robt. M. Elvin, and named Robert Monroe.

MARRIED.

PORTER—TRIPP.—At the house of the bride, at Wilber, Nebraska, November 21st, 1883, by Elder Robert M. Elvin, Mr. Charles H. Porter to Sr. Nancy E. Tripp. May their journey be that of peace and happiness.

DIED.

GREEN.—At Lurah, Cass Co., Iowa, October 7th, 1883, of cholera infantum, Orlin Thomas, younger son of Bro. George and Sr. Tilla Green, aged 1 year, 6 months and 17 days. Bro. and Sr. Green removed some two years since from their former residence within the limits of the Greenville Branch, some six miles south-east of Lamoni, of which they were members; and where they resided when the truth in which they rejoiced, and to which they firmly adhere in the midst of affliction, found its way to their glad hearts, partly by the instrumentality of one whose name the little one bore, and whose grief is caused to mingle with theirs by the same stern hand, in the removal of a dear one only six days later. Though one in infancy, the other in riper years called home, there is comfort in the blessed assurance found in the great plan of redemption, that both have gone to the same sweet haven of rest.

THOMAS.—At Llanelly, Wales, August 24th, 1883, Elder Benjamin Thomas, aged 72 years; accidentally killed on a railway crossing. The sweet singer of Llanelly is with us no more.

OWEN.—At George Inn, near New Tredegar, Wales, October 10th, 1883, Elder William Owen, aged 75 years. Faithful unto the end.

PREMO.—November 6th, 1883, in Viola township, Osceola county, Iowa, Ida May, daughter of Bro. Franklin and Sr. Clarasia Premo, aged eight months and 22 days.

"As the sweet flower that scents the morn,
But withers in the rising day:
Thus lovely was this infant's dawn,
Thus swiftly fled its life away."

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent,

25aug Lamoni, Iowa.

ORGANS! ORGANS!!

THOSE wanting Organs, either for the House, Hall, or Church, will do well to remember that I keep and sell one of the best offered to the public in the west.

The A. B. Chase is the

BEST ORGAN FOR TONE,
FINISH AND DURABILITY,

That I am acquainted with, and will be furnished to buyers at Reasonable Prices. Don't buy a poor one at any price; but get something that you can rely on. I have been twenty-five years in the business, and speak from experience. List Catalogues furnished on application. Address,

NORMAN W. SMITH,

1d3m Box 29 LAMONI, Decatur Co., Iowa.

BUTLER & CLAY,

Manufacturers of

COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,

WOOLEN MITS, &c.,

903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

- Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
- Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
- Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

- Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITS.

- Men's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 35
- Ladies' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 25
- Misses' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 20
- Children's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m BUTLER & CLAY.

MASON & HAMLIN
Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN
Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

C. A. WICKES,
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE AGENT,
LAMONI, IOWA.

Prompt attention given to all communications.

I have a fine list of

Lands for Sale, also desirable Village Property.

Conveyance furnished to parties wishing to buy.
 8d9m

EVERYBODY READ!

JOHNS & ORDWAYS'S

NEW-BEST-OF-ALL-OFFER.

WE have secured the management of the PEORIA ART UNION, and want an Agent in every town and city in the United States and Canada to collect Photographs, Tintypes, etc., to be Copied and Enlarged, in all styles of the art, and at prices that Defy Competition. We are aware that the prices usually charged for FINE INK and WATER COLOR PORTRAITS are such that agents are unable to procure one half as many orders as they could if prices were reasonable.

FINE FINISHED PORTRAITS

Are in demand in every locality. In nearly every home may be found old Photographs, Tintypes, etc.; a large number of these old pictures are the only likenesses of Deceased Persons. The family and friends would gladly prefer a fine life-like picture in place of the poor faded ones, if they could get them at a price within their reach. The prices we have made are for these people.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Agents who handle our work sustain no losses. We refund the full amount paid us for every India Ink, Water Color, Oil and Crayon Portrait, that can be shown to be imperfect. WE FURNISH A COMPLETE OUTFIT for $2.90, and upwards, according to size.

DON'T FAIL WRITE FOR WANT OF CAPITAL.

☞ We still want Agents for our Bed Spring and Iron Heaters in every place where we have none. Our object is and has been to give profitable employment to both sexes, who are out of work, or who are seeking to better their condition, and earn an honest living.

☞ If you will send us your address, we will send you full particulars of the business, and how to go to work.

We are yours in bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, PEORIA, ILLS.

1dec

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in

LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,

And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

This is the official paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is explanatory of the faith of the Church; and promulgates the teachings of original Mormonism in contradistinction to Utah Mormonism. It contains correspondence from different parts of the world, giving accounts of the great progress of the Church, and setting forth the dealings of God with his people. Published every Saturday, sixteen large pages. Price, $2.50 per year. Joseph Smith, Editor.

ZION'S HOPE.

This is a semi-monthly paper for children and Sunday Schools: price Sixty cents per year, Thirty cents per half year, free of postage. Joseph Smith, Editor.

TRACTS IN GERMAN.

☞ Tracts in the German Language may be had of Bro. Ad. Richter, Burlington, Iowa: The Baptism, 6 cts.; the Repentance, 5 cts.; the Principles of the Gospel, 6 cts.; the Epitome of Faith, 2c; the Sixth Trumpet, a fifty-four page pamphlet, 25c. These prices include postage.

HOLY SCRIPTURES.
 Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet.
 Sheep or Library binding..... 1 50
 Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 2 00
 New Testament, inspired edition..... 75

BOOK OF MORMON.
 Roan, sprinkled edges..... 1 25
 Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 50

DOCTRINE AND COVENANTS.
 Sprinkled Sheep, or Library..... 1 25
 Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 50

THE SAINTS' HARP—HYMN BOOK.
 Imitation Morocco, marbled edges..... 1 25
 Imitation Morocco, gilt edges..... 1 50

CERTIFICATES AND REPORTS.
 Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen..... 50
 Annual Statistical Reports, two for..... 10
 Branch Financial Reports, per dozen..... 30
 Certificates of Baptism and Membership, per dozen..... 20
 Certificate of Removal, per dozen..... 20
 Marriage Certificates, per dozen..... 25

SONGS OF ZION.
 By T. W. Smith, 40 pages, 10cts each, per dozen..... 1 00

JOSEPH SMITH THE PROPHET, AND HIS PROGENITORS.
 Muslin Boards, 312 pages, by Lucy Smith..... 75
 Leather Binding..... 1 25

HESPERIS.
 Poems by David H. Smith, 202 pages, fancy cloth, gilt edges..... 1 50

VISIONS OF JOSEPH SMITH, THE SEER.
 Discoveries of Ancient American Records and Relics, with the statement of a Converted Jew, and of others; paper covers, 48 pages..... 15

PROPHETIC TRUTH.
 Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon, an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1..... each 25
 ☞ Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity Proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

FORS CUTT AND SHINN DISCUSSION.
 J. Shinn affirms "The Bible Teaches the Coming of Christ to Judge the World is now past." M. H. Forscutt affirms "The Bible Teaches the Literal Resurrection of the Body from the Grave." Paper covers, 194 pages..... 35

VOICE OF WARNING.
 And Instruction to all People, on the Doctrine and History of the Latter Day Work; 135 pages.
 In paper covers, seven for $1..... each 15
 In Limp Cloth turned in..... 35

JOSEPH THE SEER:
 His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers, 230 pages..... 35
 ☞ This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Adventist Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

LIFE OF JOSEPH THE PROPHET, HISTORY OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH, AND AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH SMITH.
 In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome..... 2 25
 This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

BRANCH RECORDS.
 Leather backs and corners, muslin sides; printed headings, and ruled for Record of Names, Blessing of Children, and for Marriages..... 2 00

DISTRICT RECORDS.
 Printed and bound similar to Branch Records..... 3 00

LICENSES, NOTICES, &c.
 Elder's, Priest's, Teacher's, and Deacon's Licenses, each, per dozen..... 12
 Blank Preaching Notices, per hundred, 40c. and..... 50
 Baptism and Confirmation Certificate books, with blank stub, 35 for..... 25

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.
 Sunday School Engineer and Record Book..... 25
 Prompt Attendance Tickets..... 100 for 15c., 1000 for 1 00
 Good Behavior Tickets..... Same price.
 No. 547.—Floral Tickets for Infant Class; 96 for..... 25
 No. 496.—pack of 96 for..... 20
 No. 106.—Fancy Borders, 3x2½; 10 for 5c., 100 for..... 40
 No. 461.—Book Markers, 2x6; 10 for 8c., 100 for..... 70
 No. 281.—Book Markers, 2½x6; 10 for 25c., 100 for..... 2 25
 No. 371.—Flowers and Verses, 2¼x4; 10 for 10c., 100 for 20c., 100 for..... 1 50
 No. 373.—Flowers and Verses, 3x4½; 10 for 15c., 100 for 1 25
 No. 469.—Flowers and Verses, 2¼x4; 10 for 12c., 100 for 1 00
 No. 285.—Autumn Leaves, 3x6; 10 to 25c., 100 for..... 2 25

TRACTS.
 No. 1.—Mountain of the Lord's House, 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 10
 No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100..... 1 50
 No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100..... 40
 No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per dozen, 25c. per 100, 50c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000..... 1 75
 No. 5.—The Gospel;..... price same as No. 4.
 No. 6.—The "One Baptism"; its Mode, Subjects, Pre-Requisites, and Design—and Who Shall Administer; 16 pages; 25c. per dozen, per 100..... 1 75
 No. 7.—Who Then Can Be Saved; 5c. a dozen, 100..... 1 75
 No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100..... 1 75
 No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 20 pages; 30c. per dozen, per 100..... 2 25
 No. 10.—The Narrow Way; 8 p., 15c. a dozen, 100 for 1 10
 No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100..... 2 25
 No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 25c. a doz., 100 1 75
 No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 75
 No. 15.—Brighton Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100..... 40
 No. 16.—Polygamy: Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 25c. a dozen, per 100..... 1 40
 No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 75
 No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a doz., 100 for 1 10
 No. 20.—The "One Body," or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 40
 No. 21.—Truths by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100..... 15
 No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100..... 1 10
 No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 25
 No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40
 No. 25.—Lying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40
 No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100..... 40
 No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a doz., 100 for..... 1 40
 No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for..... 40
 No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100..... 1 10
 No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1000 for..... 1 75
 No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100..... 40
 No. 33.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for..... 1 25
 A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100..... 1 10
 Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen..... 60
 Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100..... 15
 ☞ An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.
COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.
 Bound in Limp Cloth turned in..... 75

RULES OF ORDER AND DEBATE
 For all Deliberative Assemblies of the Church; also, a Chapter on Branch Rules, and one on Reports of Branches and Districts; 128 pages, limp cloth..... 40

CONCORDANCE TO BOOK OF COVENANTS.
 An enlarged new edition; paper covers, 32 pages..... 10

MISCELLANEOUS.
 The Problem of Human Life, Here and Hereafter, by A. Wilford Hall; 324 pages, in cloth boards..... 1 50
 Universalism Against Itself, by A. Wilford Hall; in cloth boards; 336 pages..... 1 00
 Josephus, complete in 1 vol., library leather..... 3 50
 Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, cloth boards, 5 vols..... 4 00
 Mosheim's Church History, cloth boards, 2 vols..... 4 00
 Baldwin's Ancient America, (Illustrated) cloth..... 1 80
 Rollin's Ancient History, 2 vols, in one, leather..... 4 00
 The Koran, library leather..... 2 00
 Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, from A.D. 1 till 1854, cloth boards, 5 vols..... 10 00
 The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, in Palestine, cloth boards..... 2 00
 Cruden's Complete Concordance of the Bible, cloth..... 1 75
 The Bible Text Book..... 1 00
 Apocryphal New Testament..... 1 65
 Brown's Concordance of the Bible..... 60
 Emerson's Ready Binder, Herald size..... 85
 Five Quires of Note Paper, 120 sheets..... 40
 Five Quires of Note Paper, better quality..... 50

THE SAINTS' ADVOCATE.
 Published monthly in the interest of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, and in the special interest of the Utah Mission of said Church. W. W. Blair, Editor.
 Terms 50 cents per year in advance, unless otherwise provided for. Subscriptions earnestly solicited; subscribe for yourself and for friends deceived by the latter day apostasy.
 Remittances may be sent to W. W. Blair, box 417, Salt Lake City, Utah; or to Joseph Smith, Lamoni, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - EDITOR.
 ☞ Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.
 ☞ All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD

E. E. Johnson
29<sup>2</sup>83
box 484

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAve IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 553.

Lamoni, Iowa, December 15th, 1883.

No. 50.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 15th, 1883.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

It will be nothing to be surprized at if there should be a strong effort made by the Utah people to secure the admission of that territory into the sisterhood of states this present session of congress. But it is to be hoped that both houses will have in them, a sufficient number of true and good men, with the requisite amount of farseeing statesmanship to prevent such a consummation.

Bro. George Masters writes from Gilroy, Ohio, where he is mining. He is not very favorably impressed with the advice given by some to seek to make homes in the west. He had a troublesome and sad experience in making a home in Kansas, some few years since, losing his wife by sickness and death, as the crowning disaster. He was compelled to seek labor away from his farm to improve it. Doubtless his experience is that of many. We too often hear the rosy side to the story. Bro. Masters saw the stormy side.

We learn by letter from Bro. M. N. Cole, who writes from Leon, Kansas, (but whose address is Augusta, Butler county), that some of the brethren there feel hurt by our editorial comment on Bro. Cole's letter in a late issue of the HERALD. But these brethren should feel satisfied when we state that Bro. Cole mentioned no names in his letter; and did not even state that the man who had lately come in there was a member of the Church. We did not know who was meant by Bro. Cole; and wrote only on general principles.

Bro. Zenas H. Gurley returned from the east Friday, November 23d, and was at his home Sunday 25th, in fair spirits and health.

Bro. Joseph R. Lambert was to begin meetings at Coral, near Marengo, McHenry county, Illinois; but was not overmuch impressed with the brightness of the prospects.

Bro. T. W. Smith was at Middletown, Ohio, last advices.

Bro. W. H. Kelley was to open the work at Manistee, Michigan.

Bro. M. T. Short was at Burlington, Iowa, November 25th, and Bro. Hyrum C. Bronson was expected there soon.

Bro. L. D. Ullom wrote from Benwood, Marshall county, West Virginia, that there was some demand for the Book of Mormon. He sent five dollars for four volumes, for outside parties, desiring to read and see for themselves. It is a great missionary, is the Book of Mormon; and does its work faithfully.

Bro. C. G. Lanphear wrote from Independence, Missouri, in good spirits. The branch held Thanksgiving services at which the Saints were quite blessed.

Bro. J. L. Boyd wrote from Clitherall, Minnesota, November 26th, that two Utah elders had been there preaching, but had effected nothing. We are waiting for the authorities at Salt Lake City to send a pair of ministers to the heathen and backsliding at Lamoni, whom they profess to love so much.

Bro. W. W. Blair writes that Bro. Hansen was having fair audiences, and was distributing tracts at Heber City; had held six meetings in company with Bro. Wm. Gibson. Bro. E. C. Brand was at Ogden doing the same in distributing Advocates and tracts. Bro. Blair was in the city of Salt Lake doing what he could.

Bro. Clarence St. Clair was still at Hamburg, Iowa, December 4th. He was holding meetings, had baptized two, and was doing as he wrote "the best he could." He must have spoken quite often, for he had filled twenty-seven appointments. He was having good liberty in preaching the word of life.

THE following cut from an alleged interview with Mr. C. W. Penrose, Editor of the Deseret News, Salt Lake City, lately published in the Chronicle, News, and other papers in the west, if true as to Mr. Penrose's statements, is quite significant.

The fact of there being a strong and material difference between the two churches, the Utah, or Brighamite, and the Reorganized, or Josephite Church, is freely admitted. Mr. Penrose does not state in what the difference consists, only that he concedes that there is no polygamy in the Reorganized Church; which is just what we have been a long time trying to get the people everywhere to see and recognize.

"What of the Mormon Church in the East which disavows polygamy?"

"You mean the Smithites? They are not a part of the Mormon Church, but are an entirely separate and distinct organization. They designate themselves as the 'Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints.' The nucleus for this organization was made up of former members of the Mormon Church who were excommunicated for various offenses against the church discipline. That church as it now exists is made up of those excommunicated members and the new accretions which they have since gathered by missionary work and otherwise. After organizing their church they prevailed upon Joseph Smith, son of the original founder of the Mormon church, to become the head of their new creation. There are a few points of similarity in the doctrinal foundation of that church and ours, but in nearly all features they are entirely different. They have no polygamy in connection with their church."

WE clip the following from the President's message, not caring to print the whole of it. This part is of interest to all the Saints. The recommendation of the President seems to be feasible; perhaps the only way in which the Government can properly manage the apparent difficulty. It ought to be remembered that the Territory of Utah is the property of the General Government; the dwellers in that Territory are citizens of the government, in some such sort as the inhabitants of the District of Columbia, and are subject to the direct legislation and control of Congress, as is that district. This puts the matter into the direct power of Congress to so order the administration of affairs out there, that the Territory of Utah may not become the State of Deseret.

The Utah Commission has submitted to the Secretary of the Interior its second annual report as a result of its labors in supervising the recent election in that Territory, pursuant to the act of March 22, 1882. It appears that the persons by that act disqualified, to the number of about 12,000 were excluded from the polls. This fact, however, affords little cause for congratulation, and I fear that it is far from indicating any real and substantial progress toward the extirpation of polygamy. All of the members of the Legislature are Mormons. There is grave reason to believe that they are in sympathy with the practices that this Government is seeking to suppress and that its efforts in that regard will be more likely to encounter their opposition than receive their encouragement and support. Even if this view should happily be erroneous, the law under which the commission have been acting, should be made more effective by the incorporation of some such stringent measures as they recommend, as were included in bill No. 2238 on the Calendar of the Senate, at its last session. I am convinced, however, that polygamy has become so strongly entrenched in the Territory of Utah, that it is profitless to attack it with any but the strongest weapons which constitutional legislation can fashion. I favor, therefore, the repeal of the act upon which the existing Government depends, the assumption by the National legislation of the entire political control of the territory and the establishment of a commission, with such powers and duties as shall be delegated to it by law.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—If an Elder in this Church submits himself to rebaptism, being no transgressor, but having a righteous object in doing so, is it necessary for him to be reordained?

Ans.—Any reason sufficient to require a rebaptism should be sufficient for a reconfirmation of authority to act in the name of the Church. We think a person might renew his covenant without invalidating his right as an officer of the Church.

Q.—Please state if William Miller, the founder of the Second Adventist denomination, was ever connected with the Church of Latter Day Saints in any way whatever, and at what time.

A.—No. So far as we are informed he was not.

BRO. J. W. BRACKENBURY sends us the following in reference to the products of the land of Zion:

"If I remember right, the first notice of your pumpkin was one hundred and thirty pounds, in the next one hundred and thirty-seven pounds; that was the reason I noted yours thirty, ours thirty-seven. Now we mean to keep ahead of you, so here goes. I saw a turkey here (with his dress off ready for the pot), weight forty-six pounds. Also, a Pawpaw in Independence, Jackson county, Missouri, that weighed two hundred and twenty-five pounds."

Yes, we hear. But what is a paw-paw? Is it the fruit of the paw-paw bush; such as the boys used to gather in the paw-paw patches along the Mississippi, and on the Missouri, or is it a play on the word "papa?"

BRO. WM. A. SINCLAIR sends us from the Signs of the Times, the following cut out of the selected miscellany:

Col. Ingersol has his "deciples" as every other prominent teacher of error has. But he will not be likely to get much comfort from their lives and examples. If he had been present at the execution of Gove Johnston, the notorious train robber and murderer in Arkansas, the other week, and had heard the miserable man's confession, it might have opened a question or two in his mind. This is what the condemned criminal is reported to have said: "I have been a fast disciple of Bob Ingersol. His doctrines have failed as a rule of life, and they will not at all serve as a basis of hope in death. Ingersol's doctrines have brought me here." Yet it is doubtful if a man as irreverent and reckless as Ingersol would profit by the lesson if he had heard it. But a theory which so blunts the sensibilities of man stands self-condemned before all considerate and moral people.—Selected.

REV. TALMAGE is not so much of a religious "crank" as some divines, who claim to be sober, clothed and in their right minds would like to make appear. Some parts of the views expressed in the following are assuredly sound.

SERMONS OF THE FUTURE.

The Brooklyn Tabernacle was crowded, as usual yesterday morning. Dr. Talmage gave to an audience of about six thousand his views of what will be the characteristics of the sermon of the future. The Gospel, said the preacher, is to be regnant over all hearts. The kingdom of God is to be a universal kingdom. Just as wide as that will be the realm sermonic. It is a simple fact that everybody knows that the sermon of to-day does not reach the world. Take our own city. Out of our six hundred thousand population not one hundred thousand come into the churches, and of these not twenty thousand carry away with them any practical inspiration. The sermon of to-day carries with it the dead wood of the centuries. What is the matter? Some say the age is the worst of all the ages. It is better.—Some say religion is wearing out, when it is wearing in. There never was an age when there were so many Christians. What is the matter then? It is because our sermon of to-day is not suited to the age. It will have to be shaken out of the old grooves. Jonathan Edwards' sermons to-day would divide an audience into two classes—those sound asleep and those wanting to go home. (Laughter). But there is a coming sermon, and I announce what I think will be its chief characteristics.

First, the coming sermon will be full of a living Christ, in contradistinction to didactic technicalities. The world wants help, and it will come through a sermon in which Christ shall walk right down into the immortal soul and take everlasting possession of it. When that time comes that sermon of the future will not deal in the threadbare illustrations of Jesus Christ. Instances of vicarious suffering will be taken out of everyday life.

Again, that coming sermon will be a short sermon. Condensation is demanded by the day in which we live. In other days men got all their information from the pulpit. People would sit and listen two hours and a half to a discourse, and "seventeenthly" would find them fresh and chipper. But now congregations are full of knowledge from books and newspapers. The minister who can not press what he has to say into forty-five minutes had better adjourn it to some other day. In religious discourses we want locomotive power and propulsion, but we also want stout brakes to let down at the right instant. Paul preached until midnight and Eutyclus got asleep and fell out of the window and broke his neck. That incident is quoted as a warning to those who sleep in church. But Paul made a mistake when he kept on till midnight. If he had stopped at eleven o'clock then there would have been no accident.

The coming sermon will be a popular sermon. The world gets the impression that a sermon is good in proportion as it is stupid. But Christ was the most popular preacher that ever lived. He never preached without making a sensation. We hear much discussion about why people do not go to church. It is because our sermons are not interesting and practical and helpful. There are in our denominations ecclesiastical mummies sitting round to frown upon the fresh young pulpits of America, and crying out, "Tut, tut, tut! Sensational!"

Again, the sermon of the future will be an awakening sermon from the altar rail to front doorstep. Under that sermon an audience will get right up and start for heaven.

Yes, it will be a reported sermon. If you have any idea that the printing press was invented simply to print secular books or news you are mistaken. The printing press is to be the great agency of gospel proclamation. It is high time that good men, instead of denouncing the press, employed it to scatter forth the gospel of Jesus Christ. The vast majority of people in these cities do not go to church, and the printed sermon is the only one they ever see. I can not understand the nervousness of some ministers when a newspaper man comes in. Every reporter is an additional ten, or twenty, or fifty, or one hundred thousand immortal souls included in the gospel call. The time will come when all the newspapers will reproduce the gospel of Jesus Christ, and, some by type and some by voice, all nations will be evangelized.

IS THERE any truth in the presentation of the case as given in this extract.

A Mormon missionary on his way East last spring was explaining in broken English to the passengers in the car the beauties of his religion, and especially the charm of polygamy. At last, addressing a prominent gentleman of this place he asked:—"Are you a married man?"

The gentleman responded in the affirmative, whereupon the Saint continued as follows:—

"If you are married you know some things, and can understand the beauties of polygamy. You know most married people have little misunderstandings, tilts as they are called. If one wife 'puts on,' all that you have to do is to go to the house of another wife, that soon brings the obstreperous wife to her senses, and I tell you that it causes them all to use us mighty well."

"You damnable scoundrel," said the gentleman, "you would tear out a woman's heart and hang it on the wall to minister to your own pleasure, and another, and another as your pleasure was satiated, and you have been selected to preach the Gospel abroad?" It was even so, and from that circumstance alone we can estimate how much of devotion is blended with the marrying of plural wives. The ruling thoughts are simply selfishness and brutal lust, and under the system there can result only women deformed in mind, and with hearts either turned to gall or to stone, and men in whose souls the nobler instincts have been blunted forever.—For the Government of the United States to draw the mantle of protection around this practice and to shield it through a sensitive dread of interfering with anything which is called a religion, is an injustice to the country at large, and a cruelty to the Mormon people themselves. To this country it is what it would be to a seaport to attempt to permit passengers bringing a dreadful epidemic sickness to land without quarantine.—Salt Lake Tribune.

WE offer the following valuable secret to the wives who may read the HERALD; and who value a cheerful husband.

"It is related of Franklin that, from the window of his office in Philadelphia, he noticed a mechanic, among a number of others, at work on a house which was being erected close by, who always appeared to be in a merry humor, and who had a kind and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy or sunless, the happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one day, Franklin requested to know the secret of his constant happy flow of spirits.

"It's no secret, doctor," the man replied. "I've got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work she always gives me a kind word of encouragement and a blessing with a parting kiss; and when I go home she is sure to meet me with a smile and a kiss of welcome; and then tea is sure to be ready; and, as we chat in the evening, I find that she has been doing so many little things during the day to please me, that I can not find it in my heart to speak an unkind word or give an unkind look to anybody."

And Franklin adds:

"What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man, to soften it, and make it the fountain of cheerful emotions. Speak gently, then; a happy smile and kind word of greeting after the toils of the day are over cost nothing, and go far toward making home happy and peaceful."—Independent.

The statistics of the coal products of Illinois for the last year are as follows:

|                                                                           |              |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------|
| Number of counties producing coal.....                                    | 49           |
| Number of mines.....                                                      | 639          |
| Number of acres of coal lands owned or controlled by owners of mines..... | 110,893      |
| Number of acres worked out.....                                           | 12,320       |
| Number of men engaged.....                                                | 23,989       |
| Number of tons produced.....                                              | 10,508,791   |
| Increase over 1882.....                                                   | 1,393,138    |
| Value of same at mines.....                                               | $15,310,529 |
| Amount of capital employed.....                                           | $10,296,540 |
| Estimated capacity of annual production, tons, 21,035,435                 |              |
| Number of casualties, all kinds.....                                      | 360          |
| Number of fatal accidents.....                                            | 134          |

Individual character is in the right that is in strict consistence with itself. Self-contradiction is the only wrong.

Never leave home with unkind words.

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

Correspondence.

17 Arthur Road, Stoke Newington,
LONDON, England,

October 15th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—I read on your pages of questions of Elias and Elijah; are they the same person, &c., and Elder Harvey said in his sermon, that Elias and Elijah were the same person. When persons make statements, they should give some proof, that would be an end to controversy. I would like to ask those who know, or think they do, to read Inspired Translation, John 1: 28. "He it is of whom I bear record. He is the prophet even Elias." John the Baptist makes the Master to be Elias. Is Jesus Elias and Elijah also? Please ye who know, give us some proof on this matter. Then see the vision of April 3d, 1836, in the Kirtland Temple, after the vision of the Master and Moses. Elias appeared, and committed the dispensation of the gospel of Abraham. After this vision closed, another great and glorious vision burst upon us, for Elijah the Prophet, who was taken to heaven without tasting death, stood before us and said: "Behold the time has fully come, which was spoken by Malachi, testifying that he, Elijah, should be sent before the great and dreadful day of the Lord come." In the Temple two persons appeared, Elias and Elijah. I should like to know how they could make one person. In the Inspired Translation, Luke 9: 54, the disciples wanted to bring fire down to consume the people as Elias did, &c. When did Elijah call down fire to consume the people? Elias committing the dispensation of the gospel of Abraham unto Joseph and Oliver, shows that he must have had something to do with the gospel in the days of Abraham; if so, we read of fire in those days coming down on the cities of the plains; and if Elias was the person, and Elijah means the same person, then all I can say is, that Elijah was born several hundred years before his own father.

I hope some one will give us some proof of this mystery; and if they can not, and they want to know how to answer the query, let us all, that are like desirous, seriously ask our Heavenly Father to give through his prophet the desired answer, that will be an end to controversy.

With love to all your readers.

C. DOUGLAS NORTON.

SYRACUSE, Nebraska,

December 2d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—We are only three or four Latter Day Saints in this place, and weak and unworthy at that. We are deprived of preaching, but thank God, we are not altogether deprived of a hope in the first resurrection. The Herald comes regularly every week, and welcome it is to us. From it we derive our spiritual food. From it we learn many things that are good. From it we receive knowledge and light, which will enable us to fight a good fight, in this wicked world, and receive a reward in the kingdom of God. Wishing and praying for the good of the cause I am

Your brother in the one faith,

H. H. JASPERSON.

CUBA, Republic Co., Kansas,

November 28th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Since September 1st, I have been employed almost day and night in hard labor. I have not been idle in the ministry, having held one or more meetings per week, besides a number of written communications for the press, to which I have access, through two papers. Also a defense and advocacy of the faith and doctrines of the Church, in answer to a personal attack of a Free Methodist minister, of my vicinity. You know my record of the past decade, and my promised industry in the Master's work at the commencement of the present decade. Therefore, my mind is at rest as having done the best that could have been done under the circumstances, and with my surroundings. Whether my brethren are all satisfied with my work or not, is the not for me to say. However much I may desire approbation of my fellow man, I can not compromise what I feel to be duty for popular praise. I am willing to risk all in the Master's hands, and abide his pleasure. I hope very shortly to be in the field, stronger and more energetic than ever. To this end I desire such encouragement and prayers as I may be deemed worthy of.

Yours in the gospel bond,

JOHN D. BENNETT.

LAMONI, IOWA,

December 1st, 1883.

Dear Herald:—Nearly one year ago, my husband and myself, with our two little boys, arrived in Lamoni. We were pleased to find that our lot had been cast in so pleasant a place, and among such kind friends. We also appreciated and improved the opportunities offered us for attending meetings and Sabbath School. A few short months as it seemed to us passed quickly and pleasantly away. Our Heavenly Father was very good to us, not withholding any needful blessing. The only thing that seemed to mar our enjoyment, was the recollection of loved ones with whom we had had to part; yet we were looking forward with pleasure to the time when they too might seek a home here. Yes, time was passing swiftly away, when without a moment's warning, as it were, our little Willie was snatched from the home circle, and transplanted into a brighter and happier sphere. It seemed at first almost impossible for us to give him up, although we realized that our loss was his gain. The blow which we received at that time was a severe one, coming as it did so unexpectedly; yet it brought us nearer to our Heavenly Father, and we have felt to say, "Thy will, O God, be done."

The subject of the resurrection of the dead has always been very pleasant for us to contemplate, but now it is doubly so, and it is with pleasure that we look forward to a happy reunion with our loved one and others who have gone before. I would like to answer through your columns a few questions propounded by a friend and worthy Saint.

1st. Are you ever homesick and wish yourself back in Michigan?

No, not to make it my home there, although I would love to see the dear faces, and enjoy the society of loved ones remaining there. Since my arrival in Lamoni, I have felt perfectly at home.

2d. Have you found things as bright there as you expected, or are you disappointed.

Yes; I have found as I expected, a class of people, the majority of whom, are striving with honest hearts and unflinching zeal, to advance the good work in which we are all engaged. Of course we have all learned ere this, that the gospel net gathers both good and bad; and while there may be some here as well as elsewhere, who do not live up to the light which they have received, but walk in forbidden paths, there are also many good, honest, humble Saints, who I feel assured will obtain the great reward. I do not expect to find perfection here where so many are gathered from all quarters of the globe, no more than I would in smaller branches. Hoping that we may all strive to be zealous workers, and co-laborers for the upbuilding of Zion, I remain,

Your sister in the one faith,

SARAH C. BASS.

HAMBURG, IOWA,

November 28th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The church in Hamburg is doing well. They are trying to live to their religion. They are alive in the work. Two have been baptized, and there are more standing ready to obey. We have had preaching in this place two weeks. Many are enquiring the way. The members of this branch do all they can, that they may be ready when the call comes to enter into the straight gate. Bro. StClair has been with us for some time, and has stirred the people up; and there are some inquiring for our books. I think there is a great work to do in this place. The Lord has promised it in visions and dreams. We have been trying to build a church in Hamburg; and I think we will accomplish it, if we do our part. We ask an interest in the prayers of all the Saints. I remain your brother in the bonds of the covenant,

NICHOLAS TAYLOR.

STEWARTSVILLE, Missouri,

November 30th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—We have just closed a very excellent conference held at Delana Branch. Bro. A. H. Smith was with us, and took an active part in the business. Our effort to raise funds to keep an Elder constantly in the field, moves slowly, but I think will finally be accomplished. May God help us,

"Each one to do a little,
Inspired by heavenly love."

The "gifts" were with us to the edifying of the Saints.

Bro. Bozarth is quite bad, but strong hopes are cherished that he will finally recover, and add to his work. Father Craven was present, and is still strong in the faith. The aged veteran like a lamb is being borne, calmly awaiting his change.

The vindictive, vituperative articles from the pen of Rev. C. T. Phillips, still continue to appear from week to week, in our town paper. What the result will be I can not tell; but one thing I feel assured of, and that is, that no harm can come to the cause from the effort, if the Saints will live humble and prayerful. "If God be for us, who can stand against us." We would not be surprised, if like the boomerang, his efforts would return on his own head. The words of Christ, "With whatsoever measure you mete, it shall be measured to you again," were not spoken in vain. May the Saints remember this in their own lives as well as apply it to others.

Bro. Mark has more than ably answered the articles written so far; but I see by his last article that he withdraws from the field, not vanquished by any means, but has grown tired of following his opponent through his swamps of muck and slang, as there were no arguments to meet. He did right. Truth is gaining ground, and I can perceive a decided improvement in the spiritual life of the Saints. Bro. Lewis is trying to keep the tithing question before the Saints. Some are observing it.

Yours for truth,

J. M. TERRY.

GRAHAM, Young Co., Texas,

November 25th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—Every thing is quiet here. An Elder can come, preach, and go without being molested or hindered. Some in the settlement will not go to hear the gospel, but they are few. Bro. H. L. Thompson has been with us, preached five sermons with great liberty. Baptized two, man and wife, both in their seventieth year. The old brother John I. Jackson, had been suffering for a long time with paralysis. Lost the use of his left side. Bro. Thompson by request preached, and the old man said that he saw that he had not gone far enough; and he wanted if he was able to be baptized. They had both been Campbellites for years. The sister's former name was Campbell, and a relative of the founder of the church. We met, carried him in a chair to the wagon, then to the water, carried him in on a chair, and Bro. Thompson baptized him. After he was dressed, with a little assistance he walked to his wagon. Now walks all around, and rejoices in the latter day work. I know whereof I speak, for he is my neighbor.

On the 26th of last November, my little son was very sick. I had Bro. H. C. Smith to administer to him, and he was healed in a few minutes and has not been sick since. My wife before obeying the gospel, was most dreadfully afflicted with a female disease, and had asthma in connection. On coming out of the water she was well, and has been ever since, near eighteen months. I had been afflicted for twenty-nine years with piles in its most aggravated form. About the first of August I had Bro. Geo. Montague to administer to me, and I have not been troubled since. For all these favors from the hands of God, ought we not to praise his holy name.

I had been a member of the Missionary Baptist Church for thirty-five years before joining the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. For ten years I was not satisfied; for I knew I was in the wrong pew, and where to find one that was right I could not tell. I told the members of my own church, that according to the New Testament there was not a Christian in the world. I found this church by accident, was baptized by Elder H. C. Smith, and I thank God I have had no cause to regret. I am thankful that my eyes have been opened in my old age.

We have not organized a branch yet, though we have eight members all married. We need an Elder here the worst way. A great work I think could be done here if we had a preacher. When any of the Elders of the Church can come, we will heartily welcome them. Come brethren and see us. I ask an interest in all your prayers, that we may be guided aright.

Yours in the bonds of love and truth,

W. A. BENNETT.

FREMONT, Nebraska,

November 24th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The two days meeting held in Omaha, on 17th and 18th inst., was a pleasant time to the Saints; and if all enjoyed it as well as the writer, they were well repaid for the time spent. Bro. Caffall preached "to the Saints," and if any were not hit by the grape and canister that he used, they were certainly very fortunate. He adheres with great tenacity to the law of God; which example, if followed by the Saints, would prove a blessing to the Church. Bro. Mintun with his mild, persuasive mode of preaching, did his part to the satisfaction of his hearers.

The temperance lecture in Herald of 24th inst., purporting to be from R. G. Ingersol, is a mistake. He never made the lecture, and he has denied it several times, and he made an affidavit to that effect in the early part of 1882. I think it was made by Dr. Gun.

Yours in bonds,

ED. RANNIE, JR.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

November 23d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—For several weeks, I have been greatly troubled and perplexed in regard to secular affairs, and have sought for guidance and encouragement in reading the word of the Lord, and meditating thereon. On the evening of November 21st, I was reading the Book of Doctrine and Covenants and did not retire until quite late; and after falling asleep I dreamed the following:

I thought I stood upon the side-walk surrounded by the usual noise and bustle of a large city. I have a distinct recollection of seeing a train of steam cars standing at a depot, and there seemed to be preparations making for starting. The train was headed westward. While thus standing I lost all consciousness, or was carried away by the Spirit. The next thing I knew I was standing upon my feet, and looking directly ahead. I saw before me, suspended about five feet above the ground, a large human head, made of the finest gold; and as I beheld, I was told, or impressed with the knowledge, that this represented Christ; and if I would look in the head I would see the celestial kingdom, a place where I was to dwell. As I approached the head, I saw a hole on the left side, and a little above the ear, large enough to put my thumb in. I have no recollection of what I saw. I next found myself at the same spot in the city. The train of cars was standing in same place; nothing seemed changed. Doubts and fears now commenced to take possession of me. I was afraid of being tempted and tried, and falling by the wayside, and thereby losing the reward of the celestial kingdom, which had been promised to me. While in this state of mind, a voice said I was not to fear or doubt, and in order that I might be doubly assured that the Lord would fulfill his word, I was to be carried away to dwell for a little season in the celestial kingdom. I remember ascending for about fifteen or twenty feet. Next I was led through a light cloud, or veil, and I stood in the kingdom of God. I saw several persons in white robes. I remember very distinctly that all my pains, sorrow, cares and troubles had ceased, and I was happy. Again I found myself at the same place on the earth. I think the train of cars had gone. A voice now said to me, You will now remain here on earth for a little while longer, fear not, only remember the Lord, and keep his word. I now beheld for the first time the angel who accompanied me through all my dream. He was ascending slowly, his eyes filled with love were looking directly at me. My heart was filled with sorrow and sadness as I beheld him clothed in a beautiful white robe, his arms extended as though loath to go without me. He continued to rise for several feet. I saw him no more, my dream was ended.

W. L. MILLER.

Brother Joseph:—Wont you say through the Herald, that it seems quite proper that when one member of the Church lodges, visits, or sojourns with another, that it is the privilege of the hostess to call upon that one to return thanks, or lead in prayer, if not duty, especially the ministry. And if strangers present, after this manner we have made it a custom to read a chapter, night and morning, and offer prayer, either or both as the case might be, or without reading. But I would insist on both. After calling the house to order, and reading, say, Brother Jones, will you please to lead us in prayer; when he or she should say, Let us bow to the Lord in prayer, that there might be some order, as there is generally so much confusion. If the parents expect a blessing, why not the children; for it is so often the case, that prayer, or the giving of thanks at meal time, yea and prayer also, is omitted; and when observed, it is in such a "crude awkward way, that it is not often productive of good." Why? Because some of the family may be washing, combing, or dressing, reading, singing, and so on, present and in different rooms. Sometimes entertaining company, or playing musical instruments, &c. All good (as prayer) in their seasons. Without which, how can we expect to obtain favor and enjoy promised blessings. They are for those who diligently seek Him (God).

OBSERVER.

HENDERSON, Mills Co., Iowa,
November 18th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—The Saints here are still trying to live worthy of their calling. The branch here still exists, and although the members are somewhat scattered, we meet as often as circumstances will permit, and an interest is manifested which shows an improvement spiritually, and a desire is expressed by some that have been apparently indifferent in the past, to be more engaged in the future. One lady has been baptized lately that has been a member of the Methodist Church, and we have reasons to believe that she will be a substantial help to the cause. That truth may spread, and the cause we love be advanced, is my desire.

A. BADHAM.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.,
November 22d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—It is with mingled feelings of sorrow and joy that I write. My wife has left husband and a daughter sixteen years old to mourn her loss. We had been married seventeen years, and my wife was a member of the Free-will Baptist Church for nineteen years, and was also engaged there in the committee of visiting the sick and the needy. Four years ago last July, we both and our daughter, became members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. May God help us to be faithful, and to receive the promise, even as the one that has departed from us. It pleases me to give a few thoughts of her life. Many times I remember her saying, in trying to help the poor and the needy, this one or that one was poor, and we were rich because we had our health to labor and to do good. I know she will be rewarded for all the good she has done here. It gives me consolation to think and to know, that she has died in the faith, and has received the promise of the First Resurrection. Therefore, Saints, let us work to the same point, for it is ours and every one's privilege. May God help us to overcome evil for good, that at last we may be saved in God's kingdom.

"Peaceful be thy silent slumber—
Peaceful in the grave so low;
Thou no more wilt join our number,
Thou no more our songs shall know."

I am your brother in Christ,

RUDOLF SIGRIST.

CLINTON, Iowa,
December 2d, 1883.

Dear Brother Joseph:—We are all well, and are having good meetings, the Spirit of God, pervades our midst, and gives us comfort and much joy. Five have been added to the Church here in a short time, and the prospects are good for several more. The latter day work seems to be gaining ground here, as elsewhere, and it gives us cause for much joy, as we hear of its success. We are expecting Bro. H. C. Bronson here before long. Bro. David Holmes gets here once in a while, and cheers us by his explanations of God's word.

With the hope and prayer that success may crown every effort to spread the glorious work we are engaged in, I remain your brother in the bonds of peace,

HARRY E. BRIGGS.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ill.,
November 23d, 1883.

Dear Brother Joseph:—My heart is made glad, and I will write you the cause. I had an appointment to preach at the Hazel Dell Schoolhouse, two and a half miles north-west of Johnsonville, for November 3d. I preached Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Sunday night one embraced the cause of Christ. Monday morning administered the ordinance of baptism, and at the confirmation four more added their names to the Church. On Saturday, Sunday, and Sunday night, November 17th and 18th, preached to quite a large congregation at Chatman Schoolhouse, Garden Prairie. A good feeling exists among the people towards us there. Monday night preached at the Hazel Dell Schoolhouse again, to a large and attentive congregation, and two more gave us their hand; and on Tuesday morning were buried with Christ, and started on their journey towards the New Jerusalem; making seven new converts at that place, all young men and women, young in years, but all married. May God bless them, and help them to do his will. May they all be a shining light to the world, that others seeing their good works may be constrained to follow their example, and place their trust in the Lord Jesus Christ, and become heirs with him in the Kingdom, is my prayer.

We are doing what we can for the cause as circumstances will permit, and there seems to be a general interest manifested among the people in that part of the county. I would say to the Saints in general, pray for us, that we may never swerve from our duty.

With my prayers and best wishes for you, I am as ever your brother in Christ,

T. P. GREEN.

CANAAN, Jefferson Co., Ind.,
December 2d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—We are still alive in this part of the Lord's vineyard. We have been able to keep up our social meetings most of the time. Bro. V. D. Baggerly was with us last week. Held three or four meetings. Had pretty good delivery. People seemed to be interested in the gospel. Prejudice is dying some here. I believe much good could be done here at present, if we had an Elder here. I desire to see God's work prosper here. I feel that God has blessed me time after time. He has promised to bless all who live faithfully.

Yours,

JAMES PORTER.

KEIGHLEY, Kansas,
December 2d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—In reading the letters in the Herald, I noticed that of M. N. Cole. His statement in regard to lands in this country for one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, being limestone rock, and cactus, not being good land at all, but bad land, is a misrepresentation of this country. This land that I stated in my letter in the Herald could be bought for one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, is good land. Some of it has grown forty-five to fifty-eight bushels of corn to the acre this year. That don't look like bad land. His statement about the timber being only brush and poles is also a mistake; for there is plenty of timber for fire wood, and some that will do for saw logs. Of course the timber lands are taken, but there is some good land to be had for one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, that would do for farming purposes. The brother spoken of as coming to this country with family, and living on the prairie three weeks without a home, is a mistake. Bro. and Sr. Madden came here from Iowa, but were not out on the prairie without a house, and have not asked for aid; but as soon as he got settled he went to work for his family, for their board, and is being blest in his labors with the Spirit of the Lord. This I can bear witness to. I don't want the brethren to think that I have misrepresented this country.

As ever, praying for the truth, I am your brother,

MOSES TURPEN,

WM. HARTMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.,
November 27th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—At 2244, Ridge Avenue St., was a mission, but Bro. Gurley turned it into a branch. We are having some very nice meetings. Bro. Gurley preached for us while here. We had our room full. Since he left, Bro. Owen visited us. He left Philadelphia for Brooklyn, his home, November 26th, expecting to return in two weeks. I believe much good is being done, and I advise all Elders to be punctual to their time, and do their duty, for the time is short. My best wishes, and our presiding Elder, Bro. Stone's with me, to you and all the Saints. Amen.

BROTHER GRIST.

Some men have a Sunday soul which they screw on in due time, and take off again every Monday morning.

No Credit for moneys received on subscription will appear on the Colored Address Label of the Herald and Hope for this issue, as no changes have been made, except in case of persons desiring a change in P.O. address.

Summary of News.

Nov. 29th, —A pacific solution of the Tonquin question is now regarded possible. England is exercising her influence with France and China for a peaceable settlement.

The official Gazette a german newspaper contains a communication from the Governor of the Dutch East Indies to the Minister of the Colonies respecting the calamity in the Straits of Sunda. The Governor says the number of victims is not yet ascertained. Many were carried away by the sea. The Resident at Bantam estimates the number for Tjiringin alone at 10,000 and for the whole province 15,000, among them being thirty-two Europeans—viz.: sixteen men, six women, and ten children. In the Lampong districts the number is not yet known, but it undoubtedly reaches several thousands.

An analysis of the Parnell fund shows £30,435, of which Ireland gave £25,820, America £2,541, England $1,054, Scotland £376, and other places £653.

As the Rev. Warren H. Cudworth was leading in prayer at a union service of Thanksgiving in Boston this forenoon, he was seized with apoplexy and fell dead in the pulpit.

Nov. 30.—El Mahdi has been denounced as an impostor by the Ulema of Mecca. The priests, lawyers, and Judges form the Ulema, the word being the plural of alim, Arabian for "wise" or "learned." Three hundred acclimated men who have been employed at the salt lakes have arrived at Cairo and enlisted for service in the Soudan. The services of Ziker Pasha, the well-known conqueror of Darfour, have been accepted for the Soudan. He will go with Baker Pasha. A telegram from Khartoum dated the 29th states the panic is increasing and the garrison is insufficient.

Important news has just been received from Tonquin, and goes far to confirm previous information that the Chinese have evacuated Sontag and Bacinh. One correspondent sends word that the Chinese fled from Bacinh terrified by the appearance of the Turcos from Algeria, whom they took for demons. No soldiers remain to hold the fortress except a few genuine Black Flags.

Another correspondent states that the gunboat La Hache, fifty-two men, Lieut. Manceron commanding, made a reconnoissance toward Sontag the 23d inst. Several shots were fired without reply, and no enemy being visible the gunboat returned unmolested. At the same time three companies of infantry reconnoitered by land, but there was no sign of the enemy. Although an advance was not ordered there was little fear of an ambush. It is generally believed that the enemy will yield the post without a blow. The French have reinforced the principal points of the delta. Admiral Courbet, commanding the French forces in Tonquin, telegraphs the Minister of Marine from Ha Noi, Nov. 23: "I am continuing my preparations for an advance."

At a meeting of the National League in Newry Ireland, resolutions were passed condemning the action of the Government in prohibiting the meeting of the Nationalists Sunday, and deciding that they will assemble Sunday morning, when, after the magistrate shall have read the proclamation, they will proceed to Warren Point and hold a meeting. The Orangemen round about have decided that unless the torchlight procession of Nationalists announced for to morrow is forbidden they will march to Newry to protect the Protestant quarter of the city. There was rioting last evening, and several persons were injured.

Advices from Servia state there are alarming signs of a revival of the recent uprisings.

Loud subterranean rumblings were heard at Ischia Thursday. The temperature of the water in the mineral springs has risen.

Agrarian crimes in the Government of Kief, Russia, are increasing. Much property of landlords has been damaged by acts of incendiarism and pillage.

The Lower House of the Hungarian Diet has passed a bill permitting civil marriages between Jews and Christians, and legalizing the civil marriages contracted abroad.

Last week's failures numbered 232, according to Bradstreet's report. The number is very large, being forty-six in excess of the record for the same week in 1882, and seventy-four in excess of the record for the corresponding week in 1881.

Only 190 miles of new railroad were reported as completed last week, making 5,600 miles in the United States this year, as against 9,171 miles to date last year, 6,649 to date in 1881, and 6,311 to date in 1872. But in all other years of past history, the mileage completed from Jan. 1st, to date was less than it has been this year.

Geo. Ryal of Chicago failed for $15,000. Tracy and Comstock, of Oregon, Wis., failed for $20,000. William Dassler, merchant tailor, Racine, Wis., failed for 2,500. F. L. Fancher, druggist of same place, failed for $9,000. The St. Albans Trust Company, of St. Albans Vt., failed for $82,000.

Both the American and Mexican sides of the Rio Grande have been for the last three or four weeks the scene of murder and outrage. The Rio Grande at El Paso, Tex, is a stream at this season so shallow that a man can wade across, and the desperadoes who kill or rob on this side of the river cross over to the other, and having once passed the middle of the current, are safe. In the same manner desperadoes who commit crime in Mexico come over to this side for safety. The tedious formalities of the extradition treaty leave the citizens of both towns virtually without redress. The matter has been the talk of the people of Paso del Norte and El Paso for weeks, and culminated today in an arrangement by which American officers will be allowed by the authorities on the other side of the river to cross over and take their man where they find him, and Mexican officers will be allowed to do the same on this side. Though this is only a municipal measure, it is warmly approved by all respectable American and Mexican citizens, who feel that it gives them a security which, without it, they could not hope to enjoy.

The situation of affairs in the Dominion at present is anything but settled and harmonious. The revolution which everybody has been expecting now looks as if it were not far distant. The present discontent among the people is not by any means confined to the Northwest Territories. The whole country, from Cape Breton in the middle of the Atlantic to British Columbia in the North Pacific, is involved. The great Province of Ontario is already in arms against the absolutism and unbearable encroachments of the Dominion Government with respect to the Provincial boundary question. Manitoba, the Northwest Territories, and British Columbia are following suit; Nova Scotia is perpetually storming the fortress, while the Province of Quebec, with her million and a quarter hardy Frenchmen at home and half a million in the United States, must either have Canadian independence or annexation before she is satisfied. The only two Provinces left are New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and they are by no means contented with their lot, as that, like the case of Nova Scotia, is more naturally with the United States.

Dec. 2. In the event of a war between China and France England will cooperate with Germany to protect their mutual interests in China. This was the substance of a statement made at Ac-crington Saturday by the Marquis of Hartington.

An imperial ukase has been issued by the Czar of Russia, ordering a loan of 50,000,000 rubles at 6 per cent. The bonds are to be issued at 98 per cent of their face, and are to be redeemable at the option of the Government after ten years. Russian credit apparently is not very high just now in the money markets of the world.

O'Donnell, the slayer of Carey the Irish informer, has been convicted of murder, and sentenced to be hung Dec. 17.

In obedience to the proclamation of the Dublin Executive the project of holding Parnellite meetings at Newry, Ireland, was abandoned. The people were greatly exasperated at the Government prohibition.

The latest despatches from Cairo contain accounts of new and extensive rebellions in the Soudan against the authority of the Khedive. The people of Darfour, one of the largest of the oases, have risen against the local authorities, and have demanded an alliance with El Mahdi. The Governor of Darfour, in an attempt to resist the occupation of El Fusher, the Capital, by the rebels, was defeated and dangerously wounded.

The Governor of Soudan has sent a special to the Khedive stating that there can no longer be any doubt that El Mahdi's soldiers declined to take any prisoners in the fight with the army of Hicks Pasha, and slaughtered his army to a man. The Governor states that a reliable witness of El Mahdi's return to El Obeid after the battle has arrived at Khartoum, and declares that the Prophet's soldiers were laden with booty and drove thousands of captured camels, but brought with them not a single prisoner. It is now stated that of the 22,000 Egyptian soldiers who were stationed at the different garrisons throughout the Soudan prior to the El Obeid battle fully 11,000 deserted and joined the insurgents. This statement is not fully credited, but it is certain that the Soudanese are at present in such general open revolt against the authority of the Khedive, and are flocking in such great numbers to the standard of El Mahdi, that the Khedive is seriously contemplating the entire abandonment of all claims to authority over the Soudan, and confining his jurisdiction entirely to Lower Egypt. It is reported that the Khedive has been encouraged by the British Cabinet to do this, and that English interests in Egypt are arranging themselves in favor of avoiding further menace to Egypt by allowing El Mahdi full suzerainty over the entire Soudan, despite the protests of the Porte. Public feeling in England has cooled down about Egypt. The British troops will remain to keep order and defend Egypt proper if attacked, but will take no part in reconquering the Soudan. Col. Sartorius will start for Suakin Monday with 750 gendarmes, and 200 more will follow Tuesday. Three hundred cavalry will start for the same place during the week. Gobair Pasha has been authorized to enroll 3,000 black troops. The question of their transportation offers the greatest difficulty.

Orange lodges continue to pass resolutions strongly condemning the suspension of Lord Rossmore. Public meetings will be held in various parts of the county of Ulster, Ireland, to pass resolutions of a like tenor. At Newry, Protestants on their way to church were assaulted. Four companies of infantry, with twenty rounds of ammunition per man, were posted about the town, which the police are patrolling. A body of lancers occupy the square, and constabulary forces are stationed at the court-house and on the Warren Point road.

The newest phase of the Franco-Chinese question is, that war is believed to have been averted by reason of Premier Ferry's concession that French troops shall be withdrawn from Bacninh, if it has already been taken; or that, if not, that it only be invested pending the conclusion of the treaty. The Marquis Tseng has telegraphed to the Peking Government and is now waiting a response. Should the negotiations fail there will be no English mediation. If any intervention is invoked it will be that of Prussia. M. Ferry, the French Prime Minister, has informed Lord Lyons that it is his intention to confine the war to Tonquin. Report has it that the French Government has received a warning that England and Germany will adopt a common policy of opposition to the French fleet blockading or attacking treaty ports.

Interest in English home politics is just now concentrated upon the discussion of the assimilation of Irish to English suffrage. A strong section of the Liberals demands that if the franchise is equalized Irish representation shall also be equalized. If this were done it would reduce the entire Irish Parliamentary vote to 94 and that of the Parnellites to 56.

According to the roll prepared by Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the House, there will be in the Forty-eighth Congress 194 Democratic representatives, 110 Republicans, four Independents, two Greenbackers and five Readjusters. This leaves two vacancies, one made by the resignation of Paul (Readjuster), of Virginia, and the other in the Mississippi delegation, in which case the House will have to decide between Manning and Chalmers. The Independents are Finerty of Illinois, Lyman of Massachusetts, York of North Carolina, and Ochiltree of Texas. The Greenbackers are Barnum of Pennsylvania and Weller of Iowa.

The forthcoming report of the New York Chamber of Commerce will show that the foreign business of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1883, amounted to $1,607,330,140, an increase over the previous year of $40,258,340. The exports exceeded the imports $103,989,430. The value of the cotton exported was $247,328,721; of the breadstuffs $208,040,850.

From an analysis made by Mr. Carson, Clerk of the Committee on Ways and Means, it appears that the November debt statement shows a reduction for the month of $1,721,876, and for the four months of the current fiscal year of $41,306,146, against $5,534,143, and $65,959,361 respectively for the two corresponding periods of last year.

Post Master General, Gresham, has reported unfavorably to the adoption of a system of Governmental Telegraphy.

Dec. 3.—A mob last evening attacked the theatre at Wexford, Ireland, in which an evangelical service was being held and attempted to burn the building. The mob took complete possession of the town, broke the windows of the Protestant church and of nearly all the houses occupied by Protestants. The dresses of the ladies who attended the services in the churches and in the theatre were torn off and the gentlemen accompanying them stoned. Several were injured severely. The mob paraded the streets for several hours singing "God Save Ireland." The services at the theatre were being conducted by Maj. Whittle, of Chicago. The mob made a bonfire of the Bibles and hymn books that could be found. One Protestant was attacked and carried down to the harbor, the intention of his assailants being to drown him. Some respectable Catholics interposed and saved him. Another Protestant was chased through the streets and finally sought refuge at police barracks. He was told the police were unable to protect him. He was seriously wounded. The police were confined to the barracks throughout the riot.

It is semi-officially announced that England, Germany, America, Russia, and France, will participate in the joint protection of their subjects and interests in China in the event of war between France and China. The object is to protect the lives and property of Europeans and Americans in the event of the recurrence of incidents similar to the Canton trouble last summer. In order to accomplish this the five Powers would form a flotilla of gunboats on the Canton River, command of which would be given to the Power having the largest naval force in the Chinese waters. At the present time France has the greatest number of vessels there. The Chinese Embassy deny the evacuation of Bacninh and ridicule the story that the Black Flags fled at the sight of the Turcos.

France has reopened negotiations with the Eastern Telegraph Company for a cable to Tonquin, which it is hoped will be completed in two months.

The European population of Khartoum has taken refuge at Berber. The Egyptian Government has ordered the local Chiefs to protect the refugees.

A dispatch from the Austrian Consul at Khartoum says letters received from Kordofan announce that one-third of Hicks Pasha's troops, including the English officers, were killed in the recent battle. The remaining two-thirds are encamped at Rahad, receiving provisions from Takell and asking for reinforcements. Khartoum is reported tranquil. Dara, in Darfoor, has surrendered to El Mahdi. Numerous Europeans, especially Greeks, are enrolling in the corps destined for the Soudan. Baker Pasha bade the gendarmes farewell before they started for Suakin. He trusted they would return victorious. The gendarmes gave cheers for the Khedive.

The Marquis de Noailles, French Ambassador, has been instructed by his Government to inform the Porte that under no conditions will France allow Turkey to intervene in the Soudan.

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British grain trade says: The land is very wet. Wheat is healthy. Trade is dull and prices lower to buyers. Values, except in the case of choice samples, declined about one shilling a quarter. Inferior English is pressed for sale. Flour is cheaper. Maize sells slowly. Barley is very dull for foreign; grinding qualities cheaper. In the offcoast cargo trade almost nothing is done, the only sale made Monday being a sailing vessel's cargo. No. 2 American red winter is 42 shillings 6 pence a quarter, a decline of 9 pence, a quarter from the last sale of a similar cargo. One wheat cargo arrived and one was sold. Two were withdrawn and two remained, the latter being one cargo of red winter and one of California, No. 1 grade. Cargoes on passage and for shipment have been but little attended to. Buyers seem to anticipate a decline all along the line. Sales of English wheat for the week, 73,461 quarters at 40s 2d a quarter, against 54,666 quarters at 41s 5d the corresponding week last year.

An insurrectionary plot has been discovered in the garrison at Barcelona, Spain. Five officers have been sent to Madrid for trial. The officers of the l'Erida garrison sleep in the barracks owing to rumors of a demonstration upon the French frontier.

The Mussulman fanatic, Khaf Seyd, has entered Persia with 2,000 Turcomans, badly armed, however. Two smaller bands have also invaded the country. Seyd is preaching a holy war against Russia. He intends to march against Askabad.

Ghizias attacked Gen. Kennedy's exploring expedition to Tukhta Suliem, Afghanistan, a few days ago. Twenty of the assailants were killed and the expedition suffered no loss.

The German Foreign Office has issued a notification that the port of Foo-Chow, China, is infected with the cholera.

Congress met at noon to-day. In the Senate Mr. Edmunds presided. The new Senators were sworn, a majority of them taking the "ironclad" oath. The Senate adjourned. Mr. Anthony is ill, and for that reason it is not believed the President pro tem. will be displaced. The House organized with a far greater number of members present than usual in the past on such occasions. Mr. Carlisle, Democrat, of Kentucky, was elected Speaker.

To-day is the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the first convention of the Anti-Slavery Society. It was held in Philadelphia and lasted three days. The "declaration of sentiments" was written by William Lloyd Garrison. Forty-three of the sixty signers lived to see slavery abolished. Mr. Robert Purvis, one of them, will preside at a commemoration of the interesting event at Horticultural Hall, Chicago, this evening. John G. Whittier and Elizur Wright were members of the convention.

As a result of the faction fight in the ranks of the Chicago cigarmakers, 250 of the "International" brand were yesterday discharged by their employers because they refused to work in the same shops with the "Progressives." This strike is not one of labor against capital, but of labor against labor.

Business is always dull during Thanksgiving week, and this year the record is much worse than usual. The total exchanges of the country amounted to $750,467,884, a billion dollars less than the figures of some weeks early in 1881, and 45 per cent less than the clearings for the corresponding week last year.

Slater & Proctor, grain-merchants, have failed at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, Eng., owing $800,000. John H. Morrell of New York City, failed for $200,000. Langsdorf & Co. of same place, failed for $70,000. Proctor & Cook, Chicago, for $31,733. Rockford Boiler Works, Rockford, Ill., have suspended. B. Smith & Son, Muncie, Ind., failed for $15,000. Sigmund Vogel, Mobile, Ala., for $30,000.

In Milwaukee, Wis., tramps are having ninety days each at hard labor given them for vagrancy, and are thereby demoralized.

Dec. 4th.—It is stated that there has been a marked decrease of crime in Ireland under the present government policy.

The Austrian Reichsrath met yesterday. The budget for 1884 was submitted. It shows a deficit of 6,000,000 florins.

The conference of delegates of the Australian Legislatures have passed a resolution in favor of the annexation of New Hebrides, New Guinea and other South Sea islands to Australia.

According to advices from Madagascar the French have bombarded Mohambo and Fenerif, on the northeast coast, and two French frigates have gone to bombard Fort Dauphin and other places on the south coast.

President Arthur sent his message to Congress to-day. It contains a recommendation that local letter postage be reduced to one cent; that Utah Mormonism be crushed by the federal Government assuming control of Utah; and the usual talk about enlarging the navy, civil service, etc. The President also takes a stand against postal telegraphy.

Only thirteen of the twenty-six Senators sworn in Monday at Washington had credentials made out in the statutory form.

S. M. Meyenberg & Co., New York, failed for $300,000. John Paret & Co., same place, for $300,000. Cameron & Marean, Chicago, Illinois, $30,000. Coales & Bro., Locust Point, Md., for $75,000. C. M. Ahlquat, Akron, O., for $10,000. Patrick Haran, Lockport, N. Y., for $45,000. L. D. Robinson, same place, for $8,000. John Sullivan, Lafayette, Ind., for $18,000. Chris. Brown, Racine, Wis., for $12,000. Kopperd, Austin, Texas, $25,000.

Dec. 5.—A new German loan of 28,387,080 marks with interest at 4 per cent per annum is authorized.

It is reported that the Zulu Chief Cetewayo will be restored to power over his tribe and lands under the protection of British troops.

At Paris placards notifying the workingmen to attend an anarchist meeting in front of the Bourse Friday are posted in the disorderly quarters of the city.

Ingrain, Kitchen & Williams, Chicago, failed for $1,000. Peck Bros., Chicago, for $3,000. The Exchange Bank of Montreal, Que., has failed. Jacob Kohn, Mattoon, Ill., for $5,000. A. R. Knapp, Clintonville, Wis., $6,000.

FIRES, STORMS, & ACCIDENTS.

Nov. 29th.—The Windsor Theatre, the largest in the City of New York, was burned. Several adjacent structures were burned. Total loss, $500,000.

Fire destroyed the Hotel Clifton, at Boston,

Mass. The guests escaped. The loss is $200,000.

This morning another incendiary fire—the ninth within a few days—was started in a Milwaukee barn. The object of the barn-burners can not be guessed by the authorities, and a widespread state of alarm exists.

Loss by fire at Ocala, Fla., $200,000. Salonville, Mass., $150,000. Groveland, Mass., $40,000. LaSalle, Ill., $20,000. Allegan, Mich., $10,000. Leavenworth, Kas., $40,000. Boston, Mass., $45,000. San Angela, Tex., $41,000. Akron, O., $5,000.

Nov. 30.—Incendiaries are still busy in Milwaukee, and the excitement is intense. The eleventh incendiary fire occurred there this afternoon. Loss slight. Loss by fire at Corning, Mich., $13,700. Freeport, Ill., $2,500. Dallas, Tex., $3,500. Cedar Rapids, Ia., $25,000. Lewis Co., Mo., $14,000. Chicago, Ill., $3,000.

In a railway collision near St. Meen, France, eighteen persons were killed and fifteen seriously wounded. The accident occurred on a line in course of construction. A train filled with workmen collided with an empty train.

A show train was wrecked near Xenia, O., and the excited and roaring animals made wild confusion for a time. Luckily none of them got loose.

Dec. 2d.—The Journal Office, of Chicago, Ill., was destroyed by fire last Saturday night. Loss $200,000. Another Chicago fire on same day, caused a loss of $152,000. Loss by fire at Oshkosh, Wis., $50,000. Metropolis, Ill., $18,000.

Dec. 3d.—Several warehouses in Liverpool, Eng., in which were stored large quantities of cotton, hemp, and sugar burned yesterday. The damage is estimated at £60,000.

The six double frame buildings, four stories high, that run south from No. 314 West Fifty-fourth street, N. Y., caught fire this evening and were in part burned. Three little children—Hattie, Mollie and Edgar Judson—the youngest a baby, who probably caused the fire by upsetting a kerosene lamp in their mother's absence, were burned to death. The loss caused by the fire was about $20,000.

Two more incendiary fires in Milwaukee, Wis., caused a loss of $3,000. Loss by fire at Burlington, Ia., $5,000. Walshville, Ill., $50,000. South Arm, Mich., $4,000. Medicine Lake, Minn., $10,000. Jacksonville, Fla., to steamer Fred Debary, $60,000. Bancroft, Mich., $15,000. Chillicothe, Mo., $20,000. Milano Junction, Tex., $13,000.

The steam-ship, Alaska, of the Guion Line, which reached her pier at New York, from Liverpool twenty-four hours late this morning, ran down a pilot-boat off Fire Island soon after 12 o'clock last night, and sunk her with her crew, all on board perishing.

A terrific storm has been raging off New Foundland, and the Island's shores are strewn with wrecks. Several ships are known to have been engulfed.

A thrilling story of the shipwreck and sufferings of the crews of the barks Freeman Clarke and Dauntless, lost off the coast of South Africa, is told by the survivors, who reached Baltimore, Md., yesterday on the bark Roma. The Freeman Clarke was buried to the water's edge, and the Dauntless wrecked. Both vessels belong to Boston. The Freeman Clarke was burned July 15th. The eighteen men and Captain got into two boats, but the fire having got into the store-room, they could only get a bag of biscuits and one bucket of water. The Captain's boat was better provisioned than the other. During a gale the boats became separated. For a week the twelve men in the large boat were kept continually bailing the water out of the boat, and for four or five days they had nothing to eat. Two of the poor fellows died of exposure and starvation, and their bodies were thrown overboard. Finally they sighted Port Elizabeth. They raised a shirt on an oar, as they were too weak to row, and the signal brought some fishermen to their rescue. Nothing was ever heard of the Captain and the other five men. The Dauntless was wrecked by going ashore in a gale Sept. 27th. All her crew, with the exception of one man, were saved. Both vessels had valuable cargoes and were a total loss.

A vessel was wrecked off Point Prim, N. S., and seven men drowned.

At Cape Race, N. F., a fearful hurricane from the east and north-east prevailed last night. The sea rose higher than ever before known. Much damage was done to shipping, and it is and much distress feared a number of seamen were lost.

Dec. 4th.—The fourteenth incendiary fire occurred at Milwaukee. The chief fireman, Foley, was seriously injured by a falling beam. No clue to the incendiaries has yet been obtained. Loss by fire at Chattanooga, Tenn., $5,000. Incendiary fire at Knoxville, Tenn., $4,000. Nashville, Tenn., $35,000. Milan, Tenn., $40,000. Brunswick, Ga., $40,000. Near Manitowoc, Wis., $8,000. Sadiga, Ala., $75,000. Indian Bay, Ark., $25,000. Winthrop, Me., $30,000.

Dec. 5. The Haskieni quarter, of Constantinople, inhabited by Turks and Jews, has been on fire all day. Hundreds of houses are destroyed prevails.

Last evening a tank connected with the works of the Fairbank Rendering Company at the Stock-Yards, Chicago, exploded, severely injuring four men and two boys and entailing a pecuniary loss of $5,000.

ILL TEMPER.—A single person of sour, sullen temper,—what a dreadful thing it is to have such a one in a house! There is not myrrh and aloes and chloride of lime enough in the world to disinfect a single home of such a nuisance as that; no riches, no elegance of mien, no beauty of face can ever screen such persons from utter vulgarity. Ill temper is the vulgarist thing that the lowest born and illest bred can ever bring to his home. It is one of the worst forms of impiety. Reevishness in a home is not only a sin against the Holy Ghost, but sin against the Holy Ghost in the very temple of love.—Theodore Parker.

You are well off when you are in a healthy neighborhood, with enough to eat and drink, a comfortable well ventilated apartment to sleep in, and you are paying all your expenses, and laying up something, even though slowly, for a rainy day, and in addition to all this, acquiring knowledge and strengthening your character. Young men whose situations combine all the preceding advantages should be very cautious about exchanging such a certainty, unless it be for another certainty. Happiness does not depend upon great wealth, so much as it does upon independence and intellectual and moral culture.

Selected Poetry.

THE JEWS' PRAYER ON "HOLY CROSS DAY."

"UP to a late period, the Jews in Rome were driven on "Holy Cross Day" to attend services in one of the churches, and to hear a sermon from a Bishop directed particularly to themselves. Robert Browning, in his striking poem, "Holy Cross Day," represents one of these compelled hearers as repeating, under breath, the prayer of Rabbi Ben Ezra. Robbi Ben Ezra was one of the most eminent Jewish sages of the Middle Ages, who was born in Toledo, Spain, 1092."

"Rabbi Ben Ezra, the night he died,
Called sons and sons' sons to his side,
And spoke, 'This world has been harsh and strange,
Something is wrong, there needeth a change.
But what, or where, (at the first, or last)
In one point only we sinned, at worst.

"The Lord will have mercy on Jacob yet,
And again in his border see Israel set.
When Judah beholds Jerusalem,
The stranger seed shall be joined to them.
To Jacob's House shall the Gentiles cleave;
So the prophet saith, and his sons believe.

"Ay, the children of the chosen race
Shall carry and bring them to their place;
In the land of the Lord shall lead the same
Bondsmen and handmaids. Who shall blame,
When the slaves enslave, the oppressed ones o'er
The oppressor triumph forever more?

"God spoke, and gave us the word to keep:
Bade never fold the hands, nor sleep
'Mid a faithless world, at watch and ward,
Till Christ at the end relieve our guard.
By his servant Moses the watch was set:
Tho' near upon cock-crow,—we keep it yet.

"Thou! If thou wast He, who at midnight came,
By starlight naming a dubious name!
And if we were too heavy with sleep—too rash
With fear—O Thou, if that martyr-gash
Fell on thee coming to take thine own,
And we gave the Cross, when we owed the throne—

"Thou art the judge. We are bruised thus.
But, the judgment over, join sides with us!
Thine too is the cause! and not more thine
Than ours, is the work of these dogs and swine,
Whose laugh thus and spits at their creed,
Who maintain thee in word, and defy thee in deed!

"We withstood Christ then. Be mindful how
At least we withstand Barabbas now!
Was our outrage sore, but the worst we spared,
To have called these—Christians—had we dared!
Set defiance to them, pay mistrust of thee,
And Rome make amends for Calvary!

"By the torture, prolonged from age to age,
By the infamy, Israel's heritage,
By the Ghetto's plague, by the garb's disgrace,
By the badge of shame, by the felon's place,
By the branding tool, the bloody whip,
And summons to Christian fellowship.

"We boast our proofs, that at least a few
Would wrest Christ's name from the Devil's crew.
Thy face took never so deep a shade,
But we fought them in it, God our aid!
A trophy to bear, as we march, a band
South, east, and on to the pleasant land."

To govern the tongue well is a matter of exceeding difficulty, requiring not only hearty goodness, but great judgment and art, together with much vigilance and circumspection. For since the tongue is a very loose and versatile engine, which the least breath of thought doth stir, and set on going any way, it can not but need much attention to keep it either in a steady rest, or in a right motion.

An indiscreet person is like an unsealed letter, which is seldom worth reading.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

THE TEN TRIBES OF ISRAEL;
WHERE ARE THEY?

THERE is much speculation on this subject by the English nation. There is a Rev. Parson Hine here, who has collated a number of identifications and compiled a book showing that we are anglo-Israel, and he is satisfied that his theory is the end of controversy. If the above be right, it will make all the prophets, both ancient and modern, false. (See Jer. 31: 8, 9). It is here declared "The Lord will bring them (Israel) from the north." And sec. 108, Book of Covenants, par. 6, says: "And they who are in the north countries," &c. If we are Anglo-Israel, the points of the compass would have to be changed; for Jerusalem is east of Greenwich; and therefore Jeremiah and Joseph were wrong in saying north. If Anglo-Israel is right, the prophets should have said from the east. And as the identifications refer to statesmen, bankers, and the nobility of the great city. London is about three and a half miles from Greenwich; and therefore the prophets should have said, (if the ten tribes were to be the English people), "I will bring them from the east." Sec. 108: 6, Book of Covenants. "And they who are in the east countries shall come in remembrance before the Lord." And in this paragraph we are told that they shall bring forth their rich treasures unto the children of Ephraim, my servants, &c. Now, if the ten tribes are in the north country, the history of the Danes settling in Greenland states they found mineral there, that one hundred pounds of oar would yield ninety pounds of pure metal. It would seem by this they would have plenty of treasure to lay at the feet of "Ephraim, my servant." The place of residence of the ten tribes is called Arsareth.

Those are the ten tribes which were carried away captives out of their own land, in the time of Oseas the king, whom Salmanasar the king of the Assyrians took captive, and carried them beyond the river: so were they brought into another land. But they took this counsel to themselves, that they would leave the multitude of heathen, and go forth into a further country where never mankind dwelt, that they might there keep their statutes which they never kept in their own land. And they entered in at the narrow passages of the river Euphrates. For the Most High then showed them signs, and stayed the springs of the flood till they were passed over. For through the country here was a great journey, even of a year and a half, and the same region is called Arsareth. Then dwelt they there until the latter time: and when they come forth again, the Most High shall hold still the springs of the river again, that they may go through: therefore sawest thou the multitude peaceable. But they that be left behind of thy people, are those that be found within my borders. Now when he destroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he shall defend the people that remain.—2 Esdras, 13: 40-50.

"Verily, thus saith the Lord unto you, concerning the Apocrypha, there are many things contained therein that are true, and it is mostly translated correctly; there are many things contained therein that are not true, which are interpolations by the hands of men. Verily I say unto you, that it is not needful that the Apocrypha should be translated. Therefore, whoso readeth it let him understand, for the Spirit manifesteth truth; and whoso is enlightened by the Spirit shall obtain benefit therefrom; and whoso receiveth not by the Spirit, can not be benefitted; therefore, it is not needful that it should be translated." Amen. D. and C. Sec. 83.

By this quotation we see how the Lord held back the waters till they passed over, afterwards going a year and one half's journey; and that he will bring them back that way in the latter days, and hold back the waters again and all in peace. Surely the gospel must have been preached to them. It would seem that John 10: 16, and Matt. 15: 24, had been fulfilled in Arsareth, that when they come they will come in peace at their return. The English people do not fill the bill. We have not very valuable ores here, and the people do not seem that they will give much of it away; for they are gentile or heathens. The light that is reflected from the Apocrypha gives more light than the Anglo-Israelites; but by the by, I forgot they have made it so easy because they have made so many identifications that you have only to pay a bob or one shilling, and then you are Israel at once. This is by reason of the cunning and sleight of men. Eph. 4: 14. But in this chapter we read the real Israelites took counsel among themselves that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go into a country where never man dwelt, that they might there keep their statutes which they never kept in their own land. Now if they had come to this country, they would not be able to do it; for we see that the poor Jews are hunted to death by the gentiles, telling them their statutes are no use, but the penitent form is. By this means they got a few Jews christianized; but it costs the society £30 per year to keep them members. But as Shakespeare has it, "what is in a name."

CHARLES D. NORTON.

17 Arthur Road, Stoke Newington,
LONDON, England, May 21st, 1888.

EPISTOLARY.

DEAR HERALD: Would you please allow me a little space to say something to your readers, particularly those residing in the Northern California District. What I desire to say is suggested by a short editorial paragraph, suggested by a letter from Bro. H. P. Brown.

The work upon the coast looks quite encouraging, and if the interest toward it as seen in this city and Oakland, is an index of public regard for it in the interior, it seems a pity that effort should be neglected there. Without doubt an able Elder would be just the person to send, for through his administering of the word good results might follow.

"Properly supported." We are pleased to find this suggestion accompanying the able Elder, which in our opinion is quite indispensable to his efficient working; for however able and devout he may be, I should think it was sufficient to completely disable him, to find his family has not proper support from the cause in whose interest he is laboring. Properly cared for, or supported, we suppose has reference particularly to the family of the Elder. We can not think it contemplates a salary. Such a thing for spiritual services, I believe, is not known in the cause, neither can it afford to adopt it just now.

At the present time this district is without a traveling representative; but it should have one as suggested, in which case, "it would require a constant supervision by somebody." Just so. And if I mistake not, that somebody is found in the person of the Bishop's Agent. As that person happens to be the writer, he would say that nothing would give him more pleasure than to perform this duty. He is ready to receive the application of such Elder for the ministry who must give information as to how much assistance his family will require during his absence. This obtained, he will at once forward it to the Bishop for his acceptance or refusal.

In connection with the above there seems to be a preliminary work to be done, and without its being done the former will be futile and of no avail. Before the agent can entertain the application of an Elder who desires to be properly cared for, he must have the wherewithal to render him such proper attention; and if he understands the matter correctly, the revenues of the Church are for Church purposes; hence in carrying out the above purpose, the revenue must be forthcoming and without it the agent can not accept an Elder's services for the field, and undertake to properly provide for his family.

The Agent is always ready to receive and record all consecrations proffered by the members of his district, of every name and nature. You may give and call it just what you please; and as you direct, so it shall be entered upon the record.

Tithings, or one tenth of your annual increase, no more, no less, so denominated, is what the Lord asks you to voluntarily consecrate for the purposes of his work. Then your cheerful offerings independent of the former, if you so prefer to give, and your free will gifts and oblations. These are all mediums of supply to the one and only fund now known to the Church, and these all lose their distinctiveness on reaching that fund, and are known only as the aggregate working capital of this fund, from which all legitimate wants must be supplied.

The aim of the present Bishopric is to have a successful financial system, that shall be simplicity simplified, and smooth in its workings; and especially, that every individual who may consecrate any portion of that which God has given him, under any of these means of supply, shall receive full credit upon the records for the same. The common usage of the past, or private individual giving, is discouraged, because funds so given are thereby diverted from the possession and use of those whose calling it is to use them for the purposes of the Church as their wisdom may deem necessary.

To the brethren and sisters of the Northern California District I would say, Remember the present and constantly recurring needs of your district. Your Agent has some poor in his charge, and the preaching of the precious word is sadly neglected, because there are no funds whereby to properly provide for the loved ones of those who may be sent. The cause requires your aid in the way God has provided, that a ministry may be sustained, the worthy poor receive recognition, and that all the varied wants of the Church may be met. Whatever you may do, will be made manifest in the annual reports of the Bishopric; and thus the practical work of each law abiding member of the cause may be fully known.

THOS. J. ANDREWS,

Agent Northern Cal. Dist.

436 Brannan St., San Francisco,
Sept. 18th, 1883.

Those who excel in strength are not most likely to show contempt in weakness. A man does not despise the weakness of a child. The events we most desire do not happen; or, if they do, it is neither in the time, nor in the circumstances, when they would have given us extreme pleasure.

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE FOR THE LATTER DAY SAINTS.

AND SCRAPS FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

THOMPSON ON THE SUCCESSOR.—"The promise to Joseph Smith secures to his seed a lineal right to his priesthood; and the first born of his seed, when found worthy, will succeed to the office which he held in the priesthood organization."—Charles B. Thompson, in Zion's Harbinger, Baneemy's Organ, for July, 1852.

EVIDENCE OF APOSTASY.—In the confession of John D. Lee there is evidence of the apostasy of Brigham Young and the Utah leaders from original Mormonism, as taught by Joseph Smith. In Lee's written confession, as published by Barclay Co., Philadelphia, 1872, in "The Life and Confession of John D. Lee, the Mormon." Lee says: "We were followers of false teachers—(in the days of the Mountain Meadows' Massacre). I have fallen a victim to the arts of foolish and wicked men, that I once believed were divine."—p. 29.

A few minutes before Lee's execution, he said: "I do not believe everything that is now practiced and taught by Brigham Young. I do not agree with him. I believe he is leading his people astray. But I believe in the gospel as taught in its purity by Joseph Smith in former days. I have my reasons for saying this. I used to make this man's will my pleasure, [evidently alluding to Brigham Young], and did so for thirty years. See how and what I have come to this day."—p. 34.

The American Horse, Elephant, Curelom, and Cumom, of the Jaredite Mound Builders:—The Book of Mormon says that the ancient people in America, called Jaredites, who came here from the Tower of Babel, "had horses, and asses, and there were elephants, and cureloms, and cumoms: all of which were useful unto man, and more especially the elephants, and cureloms, and cumoms."—Book of Mormon: Ether 4: 3.

Prof. Wm. Larrabee, A. M., in "Lectures on the Scientific Evidence of Natural and Revealed Religion," says: "The Mastodon was a native of North America. He resembled the elephant, but was much larger."—p. 312.

In the Chicago Times for April 26th, 1882, was the following concerning the elephants of ancient America: "Jumbo wasn't a circumstance to the elephants that used to stamp around this country," said a professor of natural history when asked by a reporter of the New York

Sun whether the beast just landed was of extraordinary size. . . . The American elephant was probably exterminated by the glacial drift. . . . The animals roamed the western part of the United States and Canada and along the entire line of the Andes from five degrees north latitude, to forty degrees south, and remains have been dug up at Quito, nearly two miles above the level of the sea. Their tusks are often plowed up by farmers in St. Catherines, Canada West, Western Ohio, Alabama, Mississippi, and Vermont. In Nebraska there was a smaller species, compared to these animals the elephants of to-day are pigmies. The Newburgh elephant was twenty-five feet in length, and more than twelve feet in height, and its feet were two feet across. So perfectly was it preserved that the remains of spruce and hemlock branches that it had eaten, were found in the position of the stomach. Those elephants rarely ranged further north than the latitude of St. Catherines; but beyond this ranged the hairy elephant, a third larger and nearly three times as heavy as an elephant of to-day. From the end of the trunk to that of the tail it was thirty-five feet in length. The enormous tusks that reached out in great curves were from ten to sixteen feet in length, and thirty inches in circumference at the base. . . . Early in the century a fisherman living near the mouth of the Lena river, in Siberia, discovered one of these monsters protruding from an ice cliff on the shores of the sea. The trunk, tusks, and head were in full view, twenty feet above him. For five successive years he visited the spot, and was finally repaid one spring by finding the huge body on the sands below. It had been partly devoured by bears and wolves, and the flesh was so fresh and well preserved that the meat was cut away and given to the dogs. Even the brain and the eyes were well preserved, although, according to geologists, these animals have been dead hundreds of thousands of years. The skeleton is in the Museum of Natural History at St. Petersburg."

In "The Polar and Tropical Worlds," page 202, is the following: "In North Siberia, along the Obi, the Jenissei, the Lena, and their tributaries, from latitude 58 degrees to 70 degrees, or along the shores of the Polar Ocean as far as the American side of Bhering Strait, the remains of a species of elephants are found imbedded in the frozen soil, or become exposed, by the annual thawing and crumbling of the river-bank. . . . In 1799 the carcass of a mammoth was discovered so fresh that the dogs ate the flesh for two summers. The skeleton is preserved at St. Petersburg, and specimens of the woolly hair—proving that the climate of Siberia, though then no doubt much milder than at present, still required the protection of a warm and shaggy coat—were presented to the chief muzeums of Europe."

S. B. Evans, who was sent out in 1881 by the Chicago Times, on a mound exploring expedition, says of the elephant mound in Wisconsin: "A huge structure, in the form of an elephant, occurs in Grant county, Wisconsin. Its total length is about 135 feet; from hind feet to back, 60 feet; width across forelegs, 21 feet; across the body, 36 feet; general height of the effigy above surrounding lines, five feet. This remarkable structure deserves more than a passing notice. It so closely resembles the elephant in all the details that the observer does not fail to see the resemblance at once, and from any point. Its antiquity is not questioned, and yet it was constructed by a people who, according to our notions, had never seen an elephant. But to have made such an effigy it was absolutely necessary that the designer should have had the form before him, or the idea in his brain. It could not have been a creature of the imagination, or the proportions would not have been so well preserved. These facts lead one to think that the primitive elephant, or the mastodon, existed in America at a later period than has always been supposed."—Chicago Times, March 30th, 1881.

In the Newport (Vt.) Express and Standard, of August 15th, 1882, is the following, copied from the New Orleans Democrat: "In several of the western states, and along the extended valley of the Mississippi, huge pyramids, tumuli, and mounds dot the surface of the country; while in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, hundreds of miles of regularly constructed fortifications have justly claimed the attention of American archaeologists. The presence of these vast monuments proves beyond doubt that ages ago the northern part of this continent was inhabited by a race of beings, who had arrived at a high state of civilization, while the Greeks were yet a rude and savage people, and while the inhabitants of the British Islands and of Northern Europe, sacrificed human beings to their sanguinary gods, and afterwards held cannibal orgies over the remains of their victims, these civilized and enlightened Americans were building temples, raising vast mounds, and worshipping the glorious orb of day, their creator and life-giving God. Numerous of the pyramids and mounds which so often occur in the western states, have been leveled to the surrounding surface by zealous searchers for relics of antiquity. Nor have their efforts been in vain. Copper hatchets, chisels, and various other kinds of tools have been unearthed, together with copper plates covered with inscriptions, and with phonetic signs, which proves conclusively that these people had a written language. Other copper plates have been found, on which were skillfully engraved figures of the mastodon and of the American horse, whose fossil remains are so plentifully found in different localities in this continent. In some of these mounds human remains have also been met with, and with them small copper nuggets and rude shaped hatchets; but these relics undoubtedly belong to a later period, and perhaps to an altogether different race of people. Recent discoveries in the copper mines of Michigan prove to a certainty, that they were worked long ago. . . . The fact is certain, that the northern portion of this continent was thousands of years ago, perhaps, inhabited by a race of beings who were skillful mechanics, astronomers and mathematicians, and who possessed a written language. It is probable they existed anterior to the builders of Palenque in Chiapas, and Papaulta in Vera Cruz, and for long ages before the temples of Thebes and Memphis were raised on the great Egyptian river."

A lover of antiquities, writing in the Youth's Companion of February 9th, 1882, says: "We know them by the name of Mound Builders. Who and what they were; when they flourished and how perished, are wholly matters of conjecture. In the record of human events, what story is stranger than that of this extinct people? Their gigantic earth-works still exist. . . . The traditions of the Indian do not mention them, save a race that had disappeared long before his coming. . . . From data gathered among the Ohio mounds, an age of not less than six thousand years has been assigned this ancient people. . . . The art of arrow making was carried to a high state of perfection among the mound builders. Some of their weapons are delicately and beautifully carved, though by what means we can only guess. Flint is very hard and difficult to work, and their tools, doubtless, were of the most primitive kind. Modern skill would find it difficult to imitate these ancient workmen. . . . The mound builders were evidently a simple people, living in communities.

They cultivated the soil. . . . They were harrassed by foes, as is shown by their fortifications, which are of immense extent, and placed generally upon hill tops, or places difficult of access. . . . Ohio, [which he elsewhere observes was the center of their empire], has not less than twelve thousand mounds, . . . of all shapes and sizes. Some represent birds, turtles, serpents and animals of various species. One in Wisconsin is in the form of an elephant or mastodon, from which it is inferred that the Mound Builders were co-existent with these gigantic animals."

The following account of human foot-prints, found in a sediment between the layers of sandstone in a quarry at Carson, Nevada, I copy from the New York Weekly Herald, of November 18th, 1882. The fact that one of the human foot-prints is obliterated by the foot-prints of an elephant, is conclusive evidence of the truth of the Book of Mormon's statement, that the elephant co-existed here with man. The communication is dated Washington, November 9th, 1882, and is as follows:—"Having occasion to visit the western part of Nevada a few weeks since, for the purpose of prosecuting ethnologic investigation among the Washoe Indians, your correspondent's attention was called to the recently discovered foot-prints, which strangely resemble those of a human being. . . . Extending out from the northern point of this range (of crystalline and primitive rocks) is a low sand stone ridge, at the northern end of which is situated the Nevada State Prison, within the enclosure of which is the quarry. . . . At the time the sand-stone was formed, this valley contained a lake of about three miles in diameter, having an outlet to the east. . . . The quarry was opened a few years ago, but nothing beyond the occasional discovery of mammalian remains, and freshwater shells, appears to have been noted. During the past summer, however, footprints of various forms were discovered upon the floor of the quarry, and to these I desire to call special attention. The quarry at present shows an opening, the floor of which covers an area of about one and a half acres and dips toward the west at an angle of about five degrees. In form the floor is an irregular rectangle, and at a distance of about one third the entire distance from the eastern escarpment, or wall, the stratum is broken, so that the remaining western area appears to be another and a lower horizon. Upon the eastern horizon are found the finest impressions, although others just as fine and more numerous existed upon the western section; but most of these have been greatly injured by the wear of the horses and teams used in removing the stone for building purposes. The floor of the prison yard is about fifteen feet below the surface of the eastern extremity, while at the western the height of the wall is about thirty-two feet. The strata of rock consists of gray sandstone, separated by seams of arenaceous clay. Of the latter one, about eight feet from the upper surface in the the southwestern corner, has yielded tusks and teeth of elephas primigenius; bones of the deer, (cervus); teeth of excellent preservation of equus major, and fresh water shells, two anadonia and also one physa. Portions of the sand-stone strata are literally filled with rootlets and branches of plants and shrubs. The next lower seam of clay has also yielded some bones and teeth. Passing down through the next stratum of sand-stone, we reach a seam of clay which rests upon the bed of sandstone upon which occur beautiful and distinct impressions of the deer, horse, elephant; two species of bird tracks belonging, evidently, to the heron genus, and the wolf, canis indianensis. The most remarkable, however, are the footprints of a biped, which bear wonderful resemblance to those of a human being. The total number of the last named exceed one hundred, and as they occur in different portions of the exposed floor, they have been grouped into six series, according to the six different courses followed by the maker. These tracks were not all made by the same individual, but by two, at least, one being much smaller, and perhaps younger. The first series starts from under the eastern wall of rock and takes a south-western course, until it reaches the broken horizon. The total number of impressions was seventeen, though one of them has been entirely obliterated by fracture. The tracks on the eastern end are the deepest, and they gradually become more shallow toward the western terminus. They appear to have been made in a layer of sediment of perhaps two inches in depth, for below this we find the compact sandstone. In each instance the mud has been raised by the pressure of the foot into a ridge, which entirely surrounds it. The mud is only partially solidified, and is still slaky and easily broken on exposure. These impressions clearly indicate rights and lefts, and deviate to either side from a straight line about as much as the ordinary step of a man. The foot marks measure nineteen inches in length, six inches across the broadest part of the heel, and seven inches at the base of the toes. The hollow under the instep is remarkably prominent, and characteristic of the human foot, as is also the curvature around the front of the toes. The impression is exactly like that of an Indian moccasin pressed into shallow mud. No separate impressions of toes are visible, from the fact that the whole interior of the impression clearly appears as if a sandal had been worn. The sharp line corresponding to the cut edge of a piece of hide is visible every where, and the rounded indentations of the heel and the ball of the foot are also apparent. Where the mud was deepest and rose to the height of an inch and a half, or two inches, the impression of bristles was discovered, and according to their relative position to the mould of the sole, the bristles were rather those of the individual himself than the hair on the piece of hide used as a sandal. In the southeastern corner of the yard is another series of tracks made by a smaller or younger individual, of the same anatomical nature. Here the mud was much deeper, some of the imprints being six inches in depth, and inclined backward, as if the maker struggled under a heavy load. In one of the series one "human" foot print has been entirely obliterated by the subsequent passage of an elephant, the foot mark of the latter showing up beautifully. The great size of these foot prints naturally appears as an obstacle to any theory that they might have been made by primitive man, or an anthropoid ape; but I was shown by Professor Harkness, of San Francisco, the tracing of the sole of a shoe, worn by a sonoran, which measures exactly eighteen and a half inches, just half an inch less than the fossil footprint. . . . The theory gaining the most followers is that "it is the missing link in the chain of human evolution." The distance between the feet of either side, taking the right foot for example, measures on an average two feet nine inches from the toe forward to the heel of the same foot. Other series show differences from two feet three inches, to three feet three inches. The straddle or distance between rights and lefts varies from almost nothing to sixteen inches. Neither of the above measurements is remarkable when we consider the proportions of the individual, as indicated by the size of the feet. . . . The strata somewhat resemble a lake terrace deposit, and the character of the surface of the floor of the prison yard presents indications as if the living forms whose tracks yet remain, had passed to and from the shores of a bed of water. The gradual increase in depth of the footprints toward the eastern and most elevated portion of the stratum, presents evidence of an uplift since its formation."

In The Youth's Companion of March 30th, 1882, is the following article: "THE MASTODON, A RECENT ANIMAL.—It has been common with a class of scientists to class the mastodon among animals which became extinct many ages ago. And as the bones of men and extinct species of animals have been found mingled together, it was inferred that man may have had a remote antiquity, reaching back a hundred thousand years or more. But the following facts from Proff. Collett's Geological Report of Indiana, go to show that the mastodon disappeared at a quite recent period. A skeleton was discovered in excavating the bed of the canal a few miles north of Covington, in wet peat. The teeth are in good preservation, and when the larger bones were cut open, the marrow, still preserved, was utilized by the bog cutters to "grease" their boots. Pieces of sperm-like substance, two and one-half or three inches in diameter, occupied the place of the kidney-fat of the monster. During the Summer of 1880, an almost complete skeleton of a mastodon was found in Illinois, which must have survived until the vegetation of to-day prevailed. The tusks formed each a full quarter of a circle; were nine feet long, twenty-two inches in circumference at the base, and weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds. The lower jaw was well preserved, with a full set of magnificent teeth, and is nearly three feet long. On inspecting the remains closely, a mass of fibrous, bark-like material, was found between the ribs, filling the place of the animal's stomach. When carefully separated, it proved to be a crushed mass of herbs and grasses, similar to those which still grow in the vicinity. In the same bed of miry clay a multitude of small fresh-water and land shells were observed. These mollusks prevail all over the State of Illinois, Indiana, and parts of Michigan, and show conclusively that the animal and vegetable life, and consequently climate, are the same now as when this mastodon sank in his grave of mire and clay."

The dictionary defines "mastodon" as "a genus of pachydermatous animals, resembling the elephant, now extinct." It is from the molar tooth that the mastodon is named; "from two Greek words, mastos and odous, indicating the conical projections which distinguish the molar teeth from those of the elephant, and from all living species."

Sir Charles Lyell, in his "Principles of Geology," says: "So late as 1869-70, an exploring expedition was made by Her Von Maydell, under the direction of the Academy of St. Petersburg, to the river Indigiska, to examine some remains said to have been discovered there. The travelers found the skin and hair as well as the bones of the elephant (elephas primogenus), at two points on the river, and sixty miles from the Arctic sea."—Present Conflict of Science with the Christian Religion, p. 486.

It was this species, elephas primogenus, whose remains (and probably foot marks) are found in the sandstone quarry at Carson, Nevada, according to the reporter to the New York Weekly Herald, as given above. The finding of the skin and hair of this animal shows that it could not have been many thousands of years ago, or even hundreds of years ago that it became extinct.

The Library of Universal Knowledge says that the mastodon is a near ally to the elephant, and that "ten species of fossil elephants have been described, the remains of three of which are found in Europe. The best known of these is the elephas primogenus, or mammoth." The Useful Dictionary says that mammoth is "the Russian name of an extinct species of elephant of enormous size, nearly allied to the elephant of India, but distinct from the mastodon." It was a hairy elephant, and inhabited the northern parts of North America. "Remains of mammoth have been gathered from the cliffs of frozen mud, and from the ice on the east side of Bhering's Strait, in Russian America."—Present Conflict of Science with the Christian Religion, p. 485.

I gather the following information about the mammoth found entire on the shore of lake Oncoul in 1799, and visited by Mr. Adams in 1806, from the above named work, and from Chambers' Cyclopaedia. It fell from a mass of ice on a bank of sand, in 1083, in latitude 70 degrees; and so perfectly had the soft parts of the carcass been preserved, that the flesh, as it lay, was devoured by wolves and bears, and was cut away by Jakutski of the neighborhood to feed their dogs. The skin of the animal, which was of a dark gray color, was covered, first, with black bristles, thicker than horse hair, from twelve to eighteen inches in length; secondly, with hair of a reddish brown color, and four inches long, and thirdly, with wool of the same color as the hair, about an inch in length. The animal was a male, and had a long mane on the neck. Three-fourths of the whole skin were procured, which was so heavy that ten persons found great difficulty in transporting it to the shore, a distance of one hundred and fifty feet. Of the fur, thirty-six pounds' weight were gathered from the wet sand bank, although much of it had been destroyed by the dampness of the place where it had lain for three years. One of the ears was well preserved; it was furnished with a tuft of hairs. The carcass, now preserved in St. Petersburg, measures from the fore part of the skull to the end of the mutilated tail, some of the bones of which are gone, sixteen feet and four inches; the height to the top of the dorsal spines, is nine feet and four inches. The length of the tusks along the curve is nine feet and six inches.

Chambers' Cyclopaedia says: "The existence of the elephant and other genera, whose representatives are now found only in warmer regions of the earth, in the north of Europe and Asia, led to the belief that at the remote period in the world's history when they were its living inhabitants, a tropical temperature existed in the temperate zone, and stretched further north towards the pole; but the discovery of this perfect animal showed that these huge elephants were adapted by their clothing to endure a cold climate, and by the structure of their teeth were able to employ as food the branches and foliage of the northern pines, birches, willows, etc." Of a well preserved extinct species of two-horned rhinoceros, found by Pallas in 1772, in the frozen sand on a tributary of the Lena, in Siberia, a short distance south of where the mammoth was found, and whose carcass, which "was compared to a natural mummy, emitted an odor like putrid flesh, parts of the skin being still covered with short, crisp wool, and with black and gray hairs," Proff. Brandt, of St. Petersburg, says: "I have been so fortunate as to extract from cavities of the molar teeth of the Wiljui rhinoceros, a small quantity of its half-chewed food, among which fragments of pine leaves, one-half of the seed of a polygonaceous plant, and very minute portions of wood with porous cells, were still recognizable. It was also remarkable, on a close investigation of the head, that the blood vessels discovered in the interior of the mass appeared filled, even to the capillary vessels, with a brown mass, (coagulated blood), which in many places still showed the red color of the blood."—Sir Charles Lyell, as quoted in Present Conflict of Science with the Christian Religion.

These facts go to "show that these large mammals survived till comparatively recent times," instead of having become extinct "hundreds of thousands of years ago," as a certain class of (so-called) scientists would have us believe.

I will merely remark in closing, in regard to the large human foot prints reported as found at Carson, Nevada, in connection with the fossil foot prints of the horse and elephant, or mammoth: The Book of Mormon, (which is the sacred record or scriptures of the ancient people of America, just as the Bible is the ancient, sacred record or scriptures of the old world, or rather, of a small part of it), speaks in several places of "large and mighty men," and men "of great stature," among the ancient people of America, who came from the Tower of Babel, at the confounding of the "language of all the earth," when the Lord "scattered them abroad upon the face of all the earth."—Gen. 11:9; with which people here the ancient American elephants, etc., lived cotemporaneous, and "were useful unto man," according to the prophet Moroni's abridged record of the earliest of American people, in the Book of Mormon. And we may reasonably suppose, that the largest men would be employed to load and manage and attend to such monstrous animals, if had in a domesticated state, and used as beasts of burden; just as the largest men are now employed as stevedores, to load and unload vessels. And as a proof that "large and mighty men" "of great stature" walked the earth here in very ancient times, (see Ether 1:1; 6:4-8, Book of Mormon), human skulls and skeletons "of nearly twice the usual size," have been exhumed from many of the mounds in North America, which was the land of the Jaredites, and after their extinction by civil wars, called the land of desolation, by the people who came after. Their works and giant bones are unquestionable evidence that these men of great stature once lived, and in the words of an antiquarian writer, were "raising vast mounds" "long ages before the temples of Thebes and Memphis were raised on the great Egyptian river."

One would think that such an age as is here allotted to the mound builders, might satisfy the demands of geology, or—"any other man," when applied also to the sandstone fossils. Then why are not those large human footmarks immediately associated with, and attributed to, those giants of the mounds, who once walked this land in active life, in the minds of all intelligent writers and investigators, and of all others who know of their existence, as common sense, untrammelled by learned ignorance, should, it seems to me, naturally and at once suggest. Why need any one in this case be led away with the popular (un) scientific mystification of "hundreds of thousands of years," or led astray by the (un)learned infidel nonsense about the "missing link in the chain of human evolution?" What need, with the giant bones of the mounds rising before us, of running off in a quandary in search of evolution's "primitive man, or an anthropoid ape." Is it not partly because "evolution" and science (falsely so-called) have already stuck stakes in the mythical mire of fabulous ages of geology and zoology, and have formulated along the imaginary line, gossamer theories, which must be accommodated and sustained, even at the expense of truth and common sense?

I wish to close this article with the following extract from pp. 490-1 of that excellent work by Herbert W. Morris, A. M., the "Present Conflict of Science with the Christian Religion:" "What though man was the contemporary of the mammoth, cave-bear, cave-lion, woolly rhinoceros, etc., so were many other of the present living species of animals their contemporaries also; and what though these great quadrupeds have become extinct after the advent of man, so have several other animals since their time become extinct. . . . The bear died out in the British Isles in the eleventh century of the Christian era; the Irish elk, whose antlers stood ten feet and a half above the ground, in the beginning of the fourteenth century; the reindeer of Denmark toward the close of the fifteenth century; the urus, first mentioned by Julius Cæsar, in the sixteenth century; the moa of New Zealand, and the epiornis of Madagascar, within the epoch of the traditions of those islands; the dodo and some other birds of Mauritius in the seventh century; the solitaire of the island of Rodrigues disappeared somewhat later; and the last seen of the great auk of the arctic regions was in 1844."

CHAS. W. LAMB.

MAGNOLIA, Iowa, April 11th. 1883.

Conference Minutes.

MASSACHUSETTS DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Providence, R. I., September 1st, 1883, Bro. John Smith chosen president, F. A. Potter and F. M. Sheehy clerks, G. A. Yerrington organist, W. H. W. Marsland chorister. Visiting Saints were invited to participate.

Reports of Elders.—J. Smith, R. Farnsworth, Wm. Bradbury, A. Nickerson, J. Woodward, C. A. Coombs, G. S. Yerrington, C. E. Brown, J. Potts, N. C. Eldredge, S. H. Morse, J. Gilbert, F. M. Sheehy, F. A. Potter, J. Holt, E. N. Webster, J. Whiting, W. Barse, H. H. Thompson, Wm. Owens of Brooklyn, M. H. Bond of Michigan, J. A. Stewart of Philadelphia, also Brn. Blakeslee and E. L. Kelley of the Bishopric reported in person. Elders O. E. Granger, T. Whiting; Priests A. W. Glover, Irwin Perthel, N. R. Nickerson, reported by letter. Teachers J. F. McKenna, C. Holmes, W. H. Blood, A. J. Perry, Wm. Talbot, H. Greeley, H. Arnold, Bro. Steffe, reported in person. Priests J. H. Long, M. P. Berg, E. O. Toombs, J. Chester, Geo. Boswell, reported in person. Deacons, W. W. Green, T. Boyd, Moses Sheehy, T. W. B. Shaw, reported in person.

Brn. J. F. McKenna, G. S. Yerrington, and C. E. Brown were appointed a committee on branch reports. Bro. J. Potts, and J. Woodward as auditors.

Committee on Camp Meeting, reported progress. Report of committee on buying tent received.

A communication from the Providence Branch recommending Bro. E. O. Toombs for ordination to the office of an Elder, was referred to Elders' council, composed of all the Elders of conference.

Branch reports received and referred to committee. A matter concerning Priest C. D. Seelye was received and referred to Elders' council. Cases of appeal by Brn. Potter, Sheehy and Yerrington, were referred to Elders' council.

Bro. H. H. Thompson by his request, was released from his mission to Hebronville, and given one at Hill's Grove.

A matter from Dennisport was received and referred to Elders' council.

Resolved, That we sustain Bro. J. Smith as district president, and F. A. Potter as clerk.

Sunday service. Preaching at 10 a. m. by Elder Wm. Owens; at 2 p. m. by Bishop E. L. Kelley. In the evening several brethren occupied ten minutes each:

At noon two baptized in Long Pond. Confirmed in the evening

The Providence Sabbath School gave a very interesting concert in the evening previous to the preaching service.

Monday, 10:30 a. m. The committee on branch reports reported the following: Providence, Boston, Fall River, New Bedford, Brockton, Douglas, Plainville and North Plymouth, which after some correction were accepted as correct.

Report of Bishop's Agent was read and referred to auditors, also the report of district agent, and bills against the district. Bro. Bradbury was appointed as auditor in consequence of the absence of Bro. Woodward.

Resolved, That when we adjourn, we do so to meet in Dennisport, Mass., the fourth Saturday in January, 1884.

Resolved, That district president procure hall, organ, &c., for next conference.

Report of auditing committee accepted, and bills ordered paid.

Bro. F. A. Potter was continued in his mission to Pawtucket.

Report of committee of Elders: 1st. We recommend that the Dennisport Branch give letters of removal to the members "dropped" by vote, and have the letters sent to the district president, giving him information as to where they live, and their condition as understood by the officers of the Dennisport Branch.

2d. We endorse the recommendation of the Providence Branch, that Bro. E. O. Toombs be ordained to office of Elder.

3. Recommendations from the Douglas Branch be deferred until next conference.

Report of sub-committee, on case of Sr. Barnes : There was no final action taken by the branch. The appeal must be disannulled. That in the other cases the proceedings of the branch were irregular; but as there was no prejudice shown by reason of the action against appellants, and the appeal before us is not by the parties themselves, nor by their sanction or request, the court dismissed the appeals, without approving the branch proceedings.

Bro. Smith as trustee for the district, offered his resignation, which was accepted.

Case of C. D. Seelye was left to the district president.

Resolved, That the money that was in the hands of the district agent, be turned over to the Bishop's Agent.

District agent received $33.36. Expended $8.06. Balance cash $25.30.

Bishop's Agent received $176.60. Expended $136.00. Balance cash $40.60.

SOUTHERN INDIANA DISTRICT.

Conference convened with the Union Branch, in Jefferson county, Indiana, November 10th, 1883, at 10:30 a. m. Harbert Scott president, and W. W. Carmichael secretary. Had a pleasant social meeting.

At 2:30 p. m. assembled for transacting business.

Branch Reports.—Eden 29, including 5 Elders, 1 Priest; baptized 2. New Trenton 15; 1 died. Caanan 18.

Elders' Reports.—James M. Scott reported by letter, James G. Scott, H. Scott, Samuel Rector, Moses R. Scott, and T. W. Smith, reported in person. Priests, V. D. Baggerly, Wm. Foster and W. H. Burton reported.

Bishop's Agent's Report.—On hand last report, $7.10; received since August 1st, 1883, $17.50; paid out $17.13; balance on hand $7.47.

Whereas, the General Conference has declared, that in its judgment members of the Church should unite with the Branch nearest their place of residence; and the wisdom and propriety of such a course being apparent, therefore, be it Resolved, That the members of the Church in Southern Indiana be requested to observe this ruling of the General Conference.

Substitute to motion pending (as per minutes).

Whereas, certain branches in this district have failed to report to the conferences of this district for several sessions; therefore, be it Resolved, That we consider it to be the duty of every branch of the district to observe the rule laid down in paragraph 25, sec. 17, Doc. and Cov. Resolved, further, that the president of the district be required to ascertain the reason or reasons why the branches have failed to honor this rule, and report the result at next conference. Resolved, That the president of the district be requested to visit the various branches in the District and set in order the things that are wanting in every place.

Whereas, it hath pleased the Father of spirits to call from labor to rest our beloved brother, W. H. Chappelow, and while we feel to submit to the will of him who doeth all things well, and believe that it is well with our faithful brother, who had our esteem by an upright life and consistent walk and conversation, yet we can but mourn our loss, yet not with that sorrow that those feel who have no hope; further, we recognize the fact, that the family of our brother feel the weight of the bereavement and need our sympathy and condolence, which as a conference we do hereby tender them; and pray that God the Eternal Father may sustain them in this their hour of affliction, by the presence and power of his Holy Spirit.

Resolved, That we sustain all the General Authorities of the Church in righteousness. Resolved, That we sustain Bro. H. Scott as president, and Bro. W. W. Carmichael as secretary of the Southern Indiana District. Resolved, That when we adjourn we do so to meet with Pleasant Ridge Branch, in Perry county, Ind., on Saturday, February 9th, 1884, at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

Preaching on Saturday evening, Sabbath morning at ten, and Sabbath evening, by Elder T. W. Smith. Thus passed a very pleasant and profitable conference.

WESTERN MAINE DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Brooksville, in the Baptist Church, the 25th of November, 1883. F. M. Sheehy chosen to preside, M. R. Cousins clerk. The business meeting was postponed till after the evening meeting. F. M. Sheehy preached at ten a. m., two p. m., and seven thirty p. m. After the evening meeting, the following business was transacted:

Reports of Officials.—Elder W. G. Pert as district president, reported having visited the different branches and found them in a low state spiritually. Priest L. C. Gray. Teacher G. M. Carter, reported.

Branch Reports.—Brooksville 41. Green's Landing 41.

Resolved, That the clerk be authorized to notify the Elders that have failed to report at the conference, that on farther neglect on their part to report themselves to the conference, that they will be farther dealt with.

Resolved, That when we adjourn, we do so to meet with the Green's Landing Branch, the Saturday and Sunday that will come nearest the full moon in February, 1884.

W. G. Pert was sustained as district president, and M. R. Cousins as clerk. A vote of thanks was tendered to the Baptist brethren for the loan of their church.

Resolved, that we sustain the church authorities by our faith and prayers.

Miscellaneous.

NOTICE OF RECONCILIATION.

To all whom it may concern: We desire to state that the difficulties heretofore existing in reference to granting a letter of removal to Bro. N. A. Baker, of Edenville Branch, as per his application some time since, are now settled. That upon a personal interview between the said applicant and Elder I. N. White, who protested against granting Bro. N. A. Baker a letter under the understanding of the then existing circumstances; and on comparing the correspondencies pro and con concerning the case in which a number of persons had taken part, we learned that the use of unauthorized statements and strong language by them had given grounds for the misunderstanding, and led to the action taken by the Edenville Branch; as also to the views entertained by the Branch and Elder I. N. White, in regard to receiving the letter of confession made and sent to the branch, by the said Bro. N.

A. Baker, concerning all his past offenses and neglect of duty while residing in the Edenville Branch, and Des Moines District. It was also apparent that Bro. N. A. Baker owed to A. White and Brother, the face of one promissory note of thirty-six dollars and eleven cents, which had been given in settlement of their accounts; and that neither had attempted, nor intended wrong or injustice in any matter of deal as to dollars and cents. That we are now satisfied we understand each other, and acknowledge ourselves brethren at peace. That Bro. I. N. White speaks for the firm of A. White and Brother.

N. A. BAKER.

I. N. WHITE.

EDENVILLE, Iowa, Dec. 1st, 1883.

PHILADELPHIA DISTRICT.

The conference of the Philadelphia District will be held at Philadelphia, Pa., on Sunday, December 23d, 1883.

JOSEPH A. STEWART, Pres.

W. H. Brown, Clerk.

MARRIED.

McCORMACK—McKIM.—At Lamoni, Iowa, October 23d, 1883, by Elder Henry A. Stebbins, Mr. Elmer E. McCormack to Sr. Alice E. McKim, daughter of Bro. John and Sr. Rebecca McKim, formerly of Crawford Co., Iowa.

HANSON—LEONARD.—At Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 29th, 1883, by Elder H. A. Stebbins, Bro. John H. Hanson and Sr. Clara A. Leonard, both of Lamoni. Sr. Clara is the daughter of Bro. Franklin and Sr. Harriet Leonard, formerly of Walworth county, Wisconsin.

MATTHEWS—HILL.—At the residence of Bro. W. C. Matthews, Shenandoah, Ia., November 21st, 1883, by Elder S. S. Wilcox, Bro. S. N. Matthews to Sr. Dora Hill, both of Shenandoah, Iowa. May a long and happy life be theirs.

BRIGGS—MALLORY.—At Danvenport, Iowa, November 25th, 1883, by Rev. Frank E. Brush, of the M. E. Church, Bro. Harry E. Briggs (formerly of Peoria) and Miss Eva L. Mallory. The future home of the young couple will be Clinton, Iowa.

DIED.

SHERRARD.—Near Davis City, Iowa, Nov. 17th, 1883, of congestion of the liver, sister Susan, wife of Bro. Hiram P. Sherrard, aged 47 years, 7 months and 10 days, having been born at Cuyahoga county, Ohio, April 7th, 1836. She was baptized June 28th, 1874 in DeKalb county, Missouri, by Bro. J. P. Dillen. Her life was a very faithful one, both to her family and to God. She was the mother of eleven children, nine of whom are living. Although none of her neighbors were members of the Church, yet all of them were her friends, and the most of them traveled the seven miles to Lamoni to attend the services. Funeral sermon by Elder Henry A. Stebbins, and sister Sherrard was laid to rest in the cemetery at Lamoni.

TRUMAN.—At Brooklyn, New York, October 31st, 1883, Thomas J., son of Elder Thos. H. and Sr. Ann Truman, aged 15 years. His death was caused by injuries received in falling from a tree while nutting, the spine being broken, and the lungs fatally injured. In this condition he lingered for sixteen days, being conscious but uncomplaining to the last. He bore his sufferings like a hero and removed from this sphere to develop in a more congenial clime.

LYOD.—At Salt Lake City, Utah, November 22d, 1883, Bro. John Lloyd. He was born at Camarthenshire, South Wales, on the 10th day of May, 1817. Age at his death, 66 years, 6 months, 12 days. His health has been poor for years; but he was very strong in the faith of the latter day work. A few weeks ago, he left for a visit to his children and friends in Salt Lake City, from where the Lord did not permit him to return. The sad news of his death cast a gloom over many hearts. He has left a wife and 7 children to mourn his loss; but all cherish the hope of meeting him in the better world. He was interred in the cemetery at Salt Lake City; but his funeral sermon was preached at the residence of his mourners, at Newton, Iowa, Nov. 25th, by Elder George Walker.

JOHN DAVIS.

C. A. WICKES,
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE AGENT,

LAMONI, IOWA.

Prompt attention given to all communications.

I have a fine list of

Lands for Sale, also desirable Village Property.

Conveyance furnished to parties wishing to buy.
8d3m

ORGANS! ORGANS!!

THOSE wanting Organs, either for the House, Hall, or Church, will do well to remember that I keep and sell one of the best offered to the public in the west.

The A. B. Chase is the

BEST ORGAN FOR TONE, FINISH AND DURABILITY,

That I am acquainted with, and will be furnished to buyers at Reasonable Prices. Don't buy a poor one at any price: but get something that you can rely on. I have been twenty-five years in the business, and speak from experience. List Catalogues furnished on application. Address,

NORMAN W. SMITH,

1d3m Box 29 LAMONI, Decatur Co., Iowa.

BUTLER & CLAY,
Manufacturers of
COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,
WOOLEN MITS, &c.,
903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.
HOSE.

- Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
- Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
- Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

- Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITS.

- Men's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 35
- Ladies' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 25
- Misses' Wool Mits, per pair ..... 20
- Children's Wool Mits, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

22sep6m BUTLER & CLAY.

LAND FOR SALE.

I am prepared to offer a thousand acres of land lying within five miles of Lamoni, in Iowa and Missouri, for sale, either as a whole, or in lots of 40 acres and upwards.

JOSEPH SMITH, Agent,
Lamoni, Iowa.

25aug

MASON & HAMLIN

Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN

Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

EVERYBODY READ!

JOHNS & ORDWAY'S

NEW-BEST-OF-ALL-OFFER.

WE have secured the management of the PEORIA ART UNION, and want an Agent in every town and city in the United States and Canada to collect Photographs, Tintypes, etc., to be Copied and Enlarged, in all styles of the art, and at prices that Defy Competition. We are aware that the prices usually charged for FINE INDIA INK and WATER COLOR PORTRAITS are such that agents are unable to procure one half as many orders as they could if prices were reasonable.

FINE FINISHED PORTRAITS

Are in demand in every locality. In nearly every home may be found old Photographs, Tintypes, etc.; a large number of these old pictures are the only likenesses of Deceased Persons. The family and friends would gladly prefer a fine life-like picture in place of the poor faded ones, if they could get them at a price within their reach. The prices we have made are for these people.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Agents who handle our work sustain no losses. We refund the full amount paid us for every India Ink, Water Color, Oil and Crayon Portrait, that can be shown to be imperfect. WE FURNISH A COMPLETE OUTFIT for $2.90, and upwards, according to size.

DON'T FAIL WRITE FOR WANT OF CAPITAL.

We still want Agents for our Bed Spring and Iron Heaters in every place where we have none. Our object is and has been to give profitable employment to both sexes, who are out of work, or who are seeking to better their condition, and earn an honest living.

If you will send us your address, we will send you full particulars of the business, and how to go to work.

We are yours in bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, PEORIA, ILLS.

1dec

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in

LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,

And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

This is the official paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is explanatory of the faith of the Church, and promulgates the teachings of original Mormonism in contradistinction to Utah Mormonism. It contains correspondence from different parts of the world, giving accounts of the great progress of the Church, and setting forth the dealings of God with his people. Published every Saturday, sixteen large pages. Price, $2.50 per year. Joseph Smith, Editor.

ZION'S HOPE.

This is a semi-monthly paper for children and Sunday Schools: price Sixty cents per year, Thirty cents per half year, free of postage. Joseph Smith, Editor.

LIFE OF JOSEPH THE PROPHET, HISTORY OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH, AND AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH SMITH.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome. This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1880.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - - EDITOR.

Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.

All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 83, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

Abram Reese 1983

"HEARKEN TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAVE IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 554.

Lamoni, Iowa, December 22d, 1883.

No. 51.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Travelling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 22d, 1883.

BRANCH EXPENSES.

THERE are not many branches of the Church, or congregations of people who meet for worship at stated periods, but what are obliged to provide for the running expenses of such meetings. Who is to bear them? This is a yearly question and is not so easily answered as the average reader may suppose. Take as an illustration, the branch in L——, comprising some hundred or more members. The current expenses are for rent of room, fuel, lights, and janitor service, which includes cleaning floors and seats, and keeping the lamps trimmed and burning, lighting of fires and lamps, &c., in all about $125 per year, more or less. Who shall pay these expenses, and how shall the money be raised?

Some among the Saints are opposed to taking collections from the congregations, because they think that the worship and seats alike should be free; no charges at the door, and no plate stuck under the nose of the worshiper during service. Others again, are opposed to taxing of the membership at so much a head, or according to wealth; others again are opposed to the paying of money, or the talking of money matters on the Lord's Day.

Let us suppose that there are some quite liberal members in the branch, as for instance, Bro. Q. paid one twelfth of the whole amount needed, he being but one one hundred and twentieth part of the whole number; Bro. Z. paid one twentieth, and Bro. X. paid one thirtieth; others paid various sums, enough to pay all except a part of the rent for room. In this dilemma the matter is standing at the end of the branch fiscal year; who should pay the amount due on the last year's expenses? How should it be raised?

Suppose the matter to be left to the president of the branch, by vote; how shall he proceed. First, he at the first meeting for business held in the new business year, makes a statement of the matter, corroborated by the report of the money agent of the branch, and asks that something may be done; a few, principally the same who paid the twelfth, twentieth, thirtieth, &c., parts of the expense the last year, again respond to nearly the same amounts; but no further steps are taken, or other advices given the presiding officer. Shall he take collections; it is objected to. Shall he present the case at the Sunday services, it is objected to. Shall he ask that the membership be taxed by order of the branch, it is objected to,—there is no law for that. Shall he pass the hat, it is objected to. What is he to do? The only apparent course left to him is to pay the amount of the expenses himself and call it settled.

"The deacon should do the janitor services," says one. Very well, set that off. "The members should furnish the fuel; a load of wood from this one, and another from that one, &c., would be but a trifle, and ought not to be felt as a burden," says another. Well let that be set off too. "Some who can not furnish wood should furnish the oil for lamps," says another. Well set the oil off too. After these are all set off there remains the rent for the room. "The branch should build a church house, and not have to pay rent," says still another one, two, or three. True, most wise signors, so the branch should; but who are the branch? The same impecunious and unfortunate souls who can not pay the current running expenses, of their meetings, though covering but $125 per year. How can they possibly build a church?

All this is but demonstrative of how not to meet the proper outlay. There is a necessity that the presiding elder should be authorized to request payment in some regular way, by which the membership and their visiting worshipers may meet these essential outlays of money. To expect the elder to pay it out of his own, usually scanty means, is to expect too much. To depend upon those who have paid the larger part is useless, the supposed last year's report proves that. To wait for those who paid nothing last year is likely to get nothing this year.

Aside from any and all sophistry on the subject, we believe that the direct and only sure way to raise the amount needed for current branch expenses is to ask it from the worshipping congregations when present, and at the time when help is needed. And to keep doing this, collect in any way that the varying minds may choose till the necessity is passed, then cease till it recurs again. This sensitiveness to being asked for money to meet current church expenses is foolish and ought to be overcome. Those not willing to pay their proportion of such expense will certainly only be entitled to small blessings, and those to be grudgingly bestowed. Every branch that any part of this screed hits is perfectly welcome to its share in it.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE Sisters of the Zion Sewing Society, of the Providence, Rhode Island, Branch, sent as aid to the Tract Fund of the Herald Office, the sum of fifteen dollars, to be used in furnishing tracts to the Elders in the field where needed. The money was received at this office December 13th and the aid so afforded was very timely. A sister in California, in sending for her HERALD, also enclosed two and a half dollars to be used in a similar way.

Bro. Paul C. Peterson of Nebraska City, Nebraska, states that the late Edward Hunter once told him that he "got his second wife, (first polygamous wife), from the devil." Bro. Peterson used to work for Mr. Hunter, and will certify to time, place and circumstance when this statement was made.

Bro. W. W. Blair was called to Sandwich, Illinois, on business of importance on December 5th, and is now at that place, where he will remain for a few weeks, possibly longer. He reports things working fairly well in Utah. Bro. E. C. Brand will be in the city for Sunday work, until other arrangements are perfected.

Bro. W. W. Blair arrived at Lamoni, from Sandwich, Illinois, Saturday, December 15th.

Bro. J. R. Anderson writes from Girard, Otter Tail county, Minnesota, that if there is an Elder who can spend the winter with them up there, his expenses will be paid to and from. A good opening for preaching will be offered, and it is thought that some will obey the gospel there. If there is a local Elder at liberty to take this short mission, let him write to Pres. Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Iowa, at once informing him of the fact, when the matter will be considered. Two Elders from Utah visited Girard last winter, stayed four months and preached four times.

Bro. Clarence StClair was still at Hamburg, Iowa, December 8th, and had baptized one more. Bro. Henry Kemp had come there and was holding meetings, Bro. StClair assisting him what he could. It was thought that some good would accrue.

Bro. John Wallstrom wrote from Lucas, Iowa, expressing a good desire to help in the spread of the gospel. Bro. Wallstrom bears a good testimony in either Swedish, or English; being a Swede he is anxious for his countrymen to hear the truth.

The copies of the HERALDS and Millennial Stars, offered by Sr. Maggie Kite, of Summitville, Iowa, have been sent to Bro. J. C. Chrestensen, of Lucas, Iowa, at his request. Sr. Kite wishes the readers of the HERALD to notice this, so that none of them will now send for the papers referred to.

Bro. Columbus Scott left Nebraska City, Nebraska, December 10th at six o'clock a. m. for home. He preached a number of times at Wilber and at Nebraska City, where his efforts were well received.

One more well wisher to the cause of Zion's prosperity has written to us stating that he is willing to take from one to five hundred dollars stock in an association to buy lands, and resell to worthy members who wish to become dwellers in Zion; and who need aid. This is only the fourth one, who is next. There ought to be fifty thousand dollars stock taken—some six thousand more than the First United Order of Enoch started with.

Any reader that has volumes of the "Times and Seasons," the "Elder's Journal," the "Morning and Evening Star," the "Missouri Expositor," the "Wasp," the "Expositor," (destroyed at Nauvoo), the "Millennial Star," or any paper published by the Saints before the death of the prophet, or any pamphlets or books published by the Saints before that time, can obtain a good price for them, if they wish to part with them, by notifying the Editor. Any considerable number of separate numbers would be accepted. Also Vols. I and II "Saints' Herald."

The Deseret News, of December 4th, corrects Governor E. H. Murrey of Utah, where he reports the number of church immigrants for the past year to be 28,000, and gives it not quite so many hundreds. The statement by the News is, "The immigration has not, during the present year, amounted to as many hundreds as he has made out thousands."

Mrs. H. L. Clark, living at 511 Fourth street, South East, Washington, District of Columbia, was lately healed of functional disease of the heart, when near to death, by prayer, herself and friends uniting in the prayer. The case is published in the National Republican, Washington, for December 4th, and occurred November 29th.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. George H. Box, clerk of the Brooklyn, New York, Branch, desires to correct the impression that there was trouble in that branch, supposed to have been made by Bro. J. A. Stewart's letter in HERALD for November 24th. The statement of Bro. Stewart referred to is this: "I am happy to say that all is peace in this district, so far as I have heard, except a trifle in Brooklyn Branch, which I believe Bro. Gurley has, or will settle, satisfactorily." There is nothing in this to complain of. Bro. Stewart may have heard of some sort of disaffection at Brooklyn, and not have been advised of its cessation. Bro. Box writes:

"We are small in numbers, but we are at peace with each other and we love each other. And we don't want the Saints who read the Herald, to think that all is peace everywhere, except in Brooklyn Branch, when we know that wherever discord may be, as for us, peace is ours."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ques.—Would it be wrong to hold a Union Sabbath School in our church, we being so few in numbers that it is impracticable for us to hold one alone?

Ans.—No; decidedly, no.

Q.—The trustees have moved away, except one; and he does not like to give leave for such things (he being alone) to be held in our church?

A.—This remaining trustee should feel no hesitancy in letting the house be used for educational, or Sunday services; especially for preaching services and Sunday School uses. Nothing can be lost by refusing the use of the house for such purposes and much may be gained. By all means let the house so be used.

Q.—When the Saints meet for prayer and testimony, their neighbors not of the church meeting with them, is it right to permit those neighbors to speak, relate their experience and tell what God has done for them and how they feel?

A.—Yes, we think so.

Q.—If they should bear testimony that the Saints had more light than others, and ask an interest in the prayers of the Saints, should they be stopped and told that they have no right to speak in the Saints' meetings?

A.—No. We think that they should be borne with patiently and kindly.

Q.—A district conference declares a branch disorganized, (by vote), does the president of the branch have to call the members to gether and tender his resignation? Or does the act of conference release him from his presidency?

A.—The act of conference in disorganizing the branch releases the incumbents by making the offices vacant.

BRO HEMAN C. SMITH, sends us the Temple, Texas, Tribune, containing the following letter from himself:—

AUSTIN, November 23, 1883.

Editor Tribune:—As you have seen proper to make some remarks in regard to my article on polygamy, published in your issue of yesterday, I hope you will give me a short space in your next issue for reply. I fully concur with you in the thought that the abomination of polygamy should be abolished without bloodshed. In favoring legislation I would not desire measures leveled against the "Utah Mormon Church," but only against individuals in the actual practice of crime.

I do not know that polygamy will ever be abolished by legislation; I have some doubts of it, and yet I would give men in Utah and elsewhere to understand that when they violate the sacred obligations of the marriage covenant, they do so in violation of law, and will be held responsible for the crime when convicted before a competent court.

If I have ever given expression to a thought that would lead any one to think that I favor the abolition of polygamy by "fire and sword" I wish to assure them it was not so intended. What I objected to in your article, was the assertion that, "The government can not strike at polygamy but what the thrust will wound the integrity of the constitution."

Your explanation in regard to polygamy being the "corner stone of the Mormon faith," I accept.

I was with principles, not with men. Wishing the Tribune every success, and thanking you for favors received, I am

Respectfully yours,
HEMAN C. SMITH.

Faith that asks no questions kills the soul and stifles the intellect.

The date accompanying your name on the small colored label on each paper shows the time to which your subscription has been paid. When payments are made the date is changed, which answers for a receipt.

Correspondence.

ELKO, Nevada,

December 10th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph.—After parting with you at Council Bluffs, I came directly to this place, and found the good families of brethren Penrod and W. R. Stauts, with whom I found a hearty welcome. After staying a few days I went to Ruby Valley, where I found the excellent family of Bro. Andrew Hays, who became members of the Church in Missouri, through the teachings of Bro. M. T. Short. With them I made my home, and at once began my labors. Things looked rather dark at first; but by visiting, conversing and reading, I awakened a few, and in time got the school-house, where I had attentive hearers, both old and young. After a few meetings, I concluded to leave; but was shown in dream that I was in a fine field of wheat, with other things that were encouraging to me, so I concluded to remain a little longer. I found the good family of W. A. Fausett, old timers, who knew you father well, and also Bro. Wm. Gardner and family. They had left the church through wrong teachings; but were glad to hear of your call, and the stand of the Reorganization. With them, especially Bro. Fausett, I found a home, and kindness long to be remembered. I also made the acquaintance of several others, who all seemed more or less interested.

I crossed the mountains from Ruby to Clover Valley, a fine settlement, and secured two school houses, and in one of them I had a good attendance,—at the other a snow storm prevented. Here again I found a few who had left Utah discouraged; fine people, friendly to us, and among them I think good can be done. I returned to Ruby, and continued my labor until three days ago, when I left for this place. I had to promise to return in the summer, or see that some Elder go, as several wish baptism, and a branch organized there. In the mean time, Bro. Hays will try and get up a Sunday School for the young.

I will here say, that although Ruby Valley has been settled some twelve or fifteen years, no minister of any class had ever preached there till I came. With Ruby for a center, there is now a fine field of labor open for next summer. In the cold and snowy winter, but little can be done. Several ordered Bibles, Books of Mormon, Hymn Books, "Heralds," tracts &c., all showing a good sign of faith. I left with the good wishes of many, and few enemies, if any. My prayers are that God may bless and lead them to the fold of Christ, and a home among the saints in Zion.

Bro. A. B. Johns, president of the church in Nevada, sent me a Post Office Order, the where-with to take me to Carson City, to labor with him in that district. I expect soon to meet him and the good saints in Carson Valley. If I can stand it through the winter there, with good to the work, I will remain, and return to Ruby Valley next summer, if all's well. I hope the work will revive in Nevada, and the saints for the sake of their children, seek a home among the saints, and prepare for what's coming.

The "Herald" and "Advocate" are now doing a good work. Your letters to Littlefield were wisely directed, keen and cutting, but kind, and will be read with interest by thousands, who are now enveloped in clouds of darkness, but will see by and by. May the day of deliverance soon come to all who love the right.

As the "Herald" sometimes deals in pumpkins, I will say a word on turnips. I measured one in Ruby, grown on the farm of Bro. Andrew Hays, thirty-four inches round, hard pan land, seven thousand feet above sea level. Two years ago I assisted Bro. Stephen Penfold to measure a squash, seven and one half feet round, and then on the vine growing. This was on Bro. Penfold's farm, Santa Ana, Los Angeles county, California, and near sea level. A great land, Joseph's Land; so thought Moses (See Deut. 33: 13-18).

GLAUD RODGER.

McDADE, Bastrop Co., Tex.,
December 5th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—Our effort to obtain a place to preach in, in Temple was a failure. I went to Cook's Point, and thence in company with Bro. Sherrill and daughter, and Bro. and Sr. Cato, went to Hearne to conference, where I again met Bro. Montague and some of the local brethren. We missed the departed ones. Both president and secretary have been called away by death, since last I met with the conference of this district. Conference past off smoothly, and was in some sense a success. Our colored brother Ed. White, baptized a colored Baptist Preacher. May he become an instrument of power in God's hands among his race. From Hearne Bro. Cato started for Bandera, and Bro. Montague and I returned to Cook's Point. We spent a few days quite pleasantly with Saints and friends at Cook's Point.

On October 18th, our friend Mr. Aaron Norcross, took us to Caldwell, and gave us the wherewith to purchase tickets to Temple. His wife had previously paid my way from Temple here. May God bless them for their kindness. On October 21st, I preached the funeral sermon of Sr. R. S. McMains, at Elmwood. Notwithstanding the weather was quite unpropitious, there was a large audience present, attesting the universal esteem in which she was held. On the 26th, Bro. Montague took his departure for home. We were sorry to lose him in the field, but as he had been away from his family for over a year, we did not dissuade him from going. I remained at Elmwood and Temple until Nov. 23d, when I came to Page, in this county, met with Live Oak Branch, and spoke for them eight times. Last Saturday Bro. W. G. Allen and I went ten miles south of Live Oak, to Hill's Prairie, and held three meetings. The interest not being very good, we closed and came here, to the home of Bro. M. G. Sherrill, where we arrived yesterday. We have an appointment out for to-night, and will remain as long as the interest will justify, and then move on.

I do not expect much interest now, however, as the country is in a state of excitement. There have been four men murdered within twelve or fifteen miles of this place, in the last few days. Two in a country store, eight or ten miles east, on the night of Nov. 23d; one in Elgin, ten or twelve miles west, Nov. 30th; and one here in McDade, December 1st.

The condition of the work throughout the mission is not very encouraging. Most of the serious difficulties have been, or are in a fair way to be settled; but in some instances in these difficulties, those who were not in actual transgression themselves, have partaken of such a spirit, that I fear the result. May God spare those in the fold, and his spirit feel after, and lead back all erring, wandering ones. I feel well in the work, and have not despaired of a revival in the near future. Bro. Cato is now in Milam county, feeling well in the work, and I trust doing good. I hear Bro. Bays is on his way to Texas, but I have not heard from him directly. Bro. Thompson was recently on a business tour in Wise county, and returned via Young county, where he preached a few times, and baptized a Bro. and Sr. Jackson. Bro. Jackson is said to be a cousin of Alexander Campbell.

Where is Bro. B. V. Springer? I should be glad to hear of his labor in the Arkansas part of his mission; also of Bro. J. T. Davies, and his work in the Indian Territory. I would be pleased to hear from them, at Oenaville, Bell Co., Texas.

In bonds of hope and faith,

HEMAN C. SMITH.

EDENVILLE, IOWA,

December 7th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I am now at Des Moines on my way to our conference. Spoke here the last three nights with good liberty and attention. Saints are quite alive here.

October 28th, Rev. N. Pye, pastor of the M. E. Church at Springville, Linn county, made a violent attack upon our faith, at Viola, where Bro. Etzenhouser and I had been holding a series of meetings. We were present and took notes, and announced an answer for the 29th. Rev. Pye had booked himself for "Mormonism" at Springville, for the evening of the 29th, and we put in an appearance; and learned nothing new from the Viola effort. We attempted to announce our willingness to answer, provided a hall could be secured; but the Rev. gentleman (?) cried out, "No appointment can be announced in my house;" and with vindictive words he spit forth his venom, until the excitement was immense. Their class leader cried out, "Put a rope around their necks," and a dozen more cried, "Eggs," and others, "Tar and feathers." I saw one man making demoniac gestures, and he cried, "Just say the word," and this was repeated three times. Had not God been our refuge and strength, I believe violence would have been used. I had peculiar feelings, such as I never had felt before. I thought of Texas, and the spirit that killed our Savior. In the excitement the minister threw off his overcoat, and cried for the police. In all of this excitement we stood calmly, and mostly held our peace, feeling that it was dangerous to attempt an exit from the house at the time. The scene was forced upon our mind, which occurred when the people shouted: "Great is the God of Diana." However we were permitted to depart unharmed. We carried our petition to God, and he stood by us.

I answered Rev. Pye's argument, (if argument I must call it), in a two hours' effort. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity. The Editor of Springville Era, and many more were over to hear me. The editor spoke highly of our effort. We feel to thank God that others see our light.

The next day I went to Monticello, leaving Bro. Etzenhouser at Viola, where he spoke for two evenings on the Book of Mormon to a crowded house, and it was said his efforts were unanswerable. Bro. Etzenhouser joined me on November second, when we took train for Dubuque. Stopped here over Sunday; but had no opportunity to preach, Bro. Hall having moved away, which seemingly closed the doors at that place for the present. We found Bro. Willy Salker strong in the faith, and believe him to be one among the best young men that we have met in the Church.

On the fifth we started for Waukon, Alamakee county, where we found an old defender of the faith, Bro. David McGoon. Here we spent six days pleasantly, and preached twice in a private house, and once in a large hall. Bro. Etzenhouser baptized Bro. and Sr. Freeman, whom we believe will make good Saints. On the twelfth we parted with these good Saints. May God bless them, and send to them an occasional laborer. We stopped over night at Dubuque, and thence back to Viola, where we found the people anxiously awaiting our return. We spoke here up to the nineteenth to crowded houses. There seemed to be no cessation to the excitement. People flocked in to hear us from every way. We had arranged to train for Marshall county, on the morning of the nineteenth, but the people gathered around us, and plead for one of us to stay. Etzenhouser remained up to December third. Invitations came from Waubeck, a small village eight miles north-west, and Bro. Etzenhouser spoke five times there to crowded houses; and during the time was reviewed by the Baptist Minister of the place. Bro. Etzenhouser made answer and it was said he carried the crowd with him. Some had caught the spirit of mobocracy, we suppose from Springville, and Bro. Etzenhouser was kindly and officially notified of his danger. An officer of the place came to Bro. Etzenhouser after services and said, "I am at your service," and he escorted our brother to his conveyance.

After conference we are billed for Flagler, in Marion county. Thence to What Cheer, Boone, Grove Hill, and then back to Viola.

The last eight weeks' experience has been an auxiliary to our faith. Though our lives may have been in danger, yet we never had more confidence in the final triumph of this work, than at the present time. We were so abundantly blessed with God's Spirit during all of our efforts, and in the times of painful persecution, so that we now praise God for his remembrance of us. I speak for both of us.

Yours in the great work,

I. N. WHITE.

NEBRASKA CITY, Nebraska,
December 6th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—Upon the close of the Kelley—Braden debate, we took a trip into the country to visit, and we held two meetings at the Roperville School-house. There was a large attendance, and considerable interest manifested. Bro. C. Scott went with Bro. Levi Anthony, and they reported good meetings at the Moore School-house. November 25th, Bro. Kelley spoke with excellent liberty upon the temporal law, to a large congregation at the Castor School-house, near Wilber; and in the evening at the Court House. A blizzard kept the people at home, still some thirty or more braved the storm to hear the truth. November 26th, Bro. Scott came here with me, and we held meetings till the 29th. The attendance was good. On the 30th we went to Shenandoah, Iowa, to attend the quarterly conference of the Fremont District. We met Brn. E. C. and E. R. Briggs, Henry and George Kemp, Wm. W. and M. W. Gaylord, E. L. Kelley, R. J. Anthony, John Goode, G. E. Deuel, and a host of other Elders, Saints, and friends. The sessions for public preaching were blessed with the inspiration of the good Father. Bro. James Caffall has been with the branch here, expatiating to them upon the good word of salvation, and dealt some sledge hammer blows in favor of a faithful observance of all the commandments. Bro. M. H. Forscutt also turned the light of divine truth upon the mental reflector of a large congregation. Bro. C. Scott, his health improving, will remain in this district till after the holidays. The outlook in these parts is bright, and big with promise for an increase to the army of the Lord.

For the truth,

ROBT. M. ELVIN.

No. 4729, Jacob-st., WHEELING, W. Va.,
December 10th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The "Herald" is indeed a welcome visitor, and with great pleasure I peruse its pages; I am much pleased with the good and cheering news it brings from all parts of the world. Our conference, which convened at this place, closed on the 2d instant. The district was well represented, and the conference was a success: for the sweet and consoling influence of the Spirit was felt throughout the entire session; therefore, we believe much good was accomplished. Brethren J. Ells, Jos. F. McDowell and H. Robinson, left on the 6th instant for their respective fields of labor. Bro. McDowell has started for the west, and it was with regret we gave him the parting hand. His visit to this mission was not in vain, as the Lord has graciously blessed his labors. His efforts to instruct, cheer and comfort the saints were excellent, and wherever his lot may be cast, we pray the Father to bless him with physical strength, and to crown his ministerial labors with success.

On the 30th of October, I went to Clarksburg, W. Va., where I labored until the 12th of November. Bro. D. L. Shinn obtained the A. M. E. Church, which I used for a time. During my stay I baptized three. I enjoyed my visit with the Saints, whom I found to be good and God-fearing people. Bro. D. L. Shinn is president of this Branch, and at our last conference was elected vice president and secretary of Pittsburg District. He is an able expounder of the truth and is to be sustained in the field by this district.

On the 12th of November I went to Syracuse, O., the scene of my boyhood days, fifteen years having past since I last roamed through the valleys and over the hills, and along the banks of the Ohio River. Many changes have occurred during that period. Nearly all of the old and many of the young people have fallen asleep in death. The town itself has past through a great change. It has increased in population and in many other respects. I had the privilege of preaching the gospel to many with whom I went to school and played. Did the thought ever enter my mind there, that at some future day, I would preach the gospel to them? No, never! Who is able to predict what children may be? No one but him who created their spirits knows their destiny. The Saints of this place are erecting a nice little chapel, which is nearly completed. David Hopkins and Thomas Matthews and others of the brethren, are faithful workers. They are striving to keep the standard of the gospel before the people. On the 16th of November I started for Buchtel, Athens Co., Ohio. Was accompanied by Bro. H. Robinson as far as Nelsonville, where he left me for Marshfield. At Buchtel I found some Saints, Bro. Robert Wiper and family, and a few others. On the subsequent Sunday I preached my first sermon in the K. and L. Hall, one night only, as some of our "kind friends" (?) objected to our having it any longer. But the Lord opened the way in fulfillment of the promise he has made his servants; for the man in charge of the new Opera House, gave us the use of the same until I left. I preached five sermons in succession with excellent liberty, audiences averaging one hundred and fifty to three hundred. On the 24th and 25th of November, I had the pleasure of baptizing six. The Baptist Minister attended all my meetings, and appeared very much interested. I organized a branch there of eleven persons. Bro. S. D. Hannah, who was baptized, was ordained a Priest, and chosen president of the branch. Bro. Hannah is an able young man, and capable of defending the church. I leave here the 11th for Hunter, Ohio, and shall visit Monroe Co., Ohio, the latter part of the month. I expect a little discussion next week in our chapel, with a Spiritualist. Proposition, "Resolved, That spiritualistic doctrine is true." He affirms, and I deny. King James' Translation our standard of evidence. Saints here well and strong in the faith.

As ever yours,

G. T. GRIFFITHS.

MOSELLE, Missouri,
December 6th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—In the minutes of our last district conference, held in St. Louis, October 6th and 7th, as published in the Herald, there appears a preamble and resolution in which my name figures in a manner which is quite annoying to me, on account of the impression that is being made on my brethren and sisters at a distance. I was not aware of the existence of the aforesaid preamble and resolution, until I read them in the Herald. I was not aware then, nor am I now, that I had said, or done, anything that reflected on my standing or honor; neither was I aware that any reports of that character were in circulation. I paid but little attention to the matter, only to ascertain the fact, that those brethren who framed the resolution were good and noble Saints, whom I love and esteem. But what the cause or incentive was for its introduction and passage, I am just as ignorant of as any other reader of the Herald; and would not have written this, were it not that I have received letters from brethren and sisters with whom I am personally acquainted, who being interested in my standing and honor, have asked an explanation. With those who know me best no explanation is needed; and to all others I will say, that I have a conscience toward all men void of offense. That I am willing that my record shall undergo the most rigid scrutiny. It would not be strange if in so large a district, a sore head or two, who live in glass houses, should throw a few stones at me at a safe distance. If so, I can assure them that I have not lost my appetite, nor my usual nap, in consequence thereof. I hold in high esteem all the Saints of the St. Louis District, and am vain enough to believe that they have the fullest confidence in me, as a poor, weak instrument, whose only qualification is his willingness to do the little he is capable of doing, for the advancement of the cause of truth.

If this explanation is not satisfactory to my correspondents, I trust that some one who can will rise and explain. And still I'll try to battle on against the combined powers of evil, fight the good fight, and keep the faith; and help to kill the devil, and put to shame all his emissaries.

Yours for truth, determinedly,

B. V. SPRINGER.

SPRINGVILLE, Utah,

November 23d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I send you a copy of a letter I wrote to a Catholic priest in Salt Lake City. If you think it worth publishing you are at liberty to do so. Some of the Saints here asked me to send it to you for publication. Some of the Brighamites are mad at you for your last letter to Littlefield, but many are anxious to read it, and others think it excellent. The fact is you drove the nail home well, and clinched it so tightly, that L. O. Littlefield could not answer it. That is the reason of the "surfeit." God bless you.

Rev. D. Keily; Dear Sir:—I have read "The Faith of our Fathers" that you so kindly gave me. I am convinced that the all important questions are: 1. Has the Catholic Church authority from Christ? 2. Does she teach the same doctrine, in everything, as Christ did?

I believe that you will agree with me, that if a man was ordained even of Peter himself, and that man should cease to teach "the whole counsel of God," should teach it only in part, or pervert the gospel, then he would become a heretic, and consequently have no authority.

The Catholic Church claims her authority from Peter. That he is the "rock" the church should be built on. Peter, you say, means rock in Syro-Chaldaic. Did not Jesus speak the same tongue as the Jews, namely, Hebrew? The New Testament was written in Greek. If we read the text as it stands, it does not mean that the church should be built on Peter, even if Peter means a rock, because, "And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock," (he does not say that rock). Peter testified that Jesus was the Son of God, the rock of our salvation. Therefore he says "this rock," Jesus meaning himself. Now for the proof: Moses sings in Deut. 32:3, 4: "Because I will publish the name of the Lord; ascribe ye greatness to our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect;" 15th verse: "Then he forsook God which made him and lightly esteemed the rock of his salvation;" 18th verse: "Of the rock (God) that begat thee, thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten God (the rock) that formed thee;" 31st verse: "For their rock (Peter) is not as our rock, (God—Jesus), even our enemies themselves being judges." Jesus is the rock of our salvation, and speaking about himself he says: "And on this rock I will build my church;" because he is the rock "the chief cornerstone, he that buildeth on him shall not be confounded." (1 Peter 2:6). "And the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." He does not say, against her, (the church), but he says, against it, (the rock).

Now let us see if the gates of hell prevailed against this rock, (Jesus). After his body was killed and laid in the grave, (the grave is often called hell), then he went and preached for the spirits in prison. (See 1 Peter 3:18-20,) and "led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. Now that he ascended, and what is it but that he also descended, first into the lower parts of the earth. He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might fill all things." (Eph. 4:8-10). Therefore Jesus spake the truth, "the gates of hell did not prevail against it" (this rock). But "this rock" burst the bands of death and hell, and rose triumphant from the grave, the first born among many brethren, through the resurrection, which none but God, the rock of our salvation could do.

But as for the church, she should flee into the "wilderness." (Rev. 12:1-17). And "the beast" (the Roman Empire) "it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them." (Rev. 13:7).

"And he said unto them, go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." He that is baptized as a child, and believes afterwards? O, no; but "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," (can an infant believe?) but, "but he that believeth not shall be damned. And these signs shall follow them that believe;" then if these signs do not follow, that is proof that they do not believe, and Jesus has not promised to be with the unbeliever "always, even to the end of the world." When any one says these signs are no longer needed, it is with him like the fox said about the grapes, "They were sour," because he could not reach them. "In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." (Mark 16:15-18). "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, (can you teach an infant), baptizing them," etc. "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway," etc.

Do you believe for a moment, that if the Apostles or their successors should cease to teach the nations to observe all things whatsoever Jesus commanded them, that he would be with them? Therefore the promise to be with them to the end of the world, was on the condition that they should teach the nations to "observe all things whatsoever he commanded." How do you, dear sir, observe all things, when you teach to baptize infants, (that can not believe) before they do believe, in opposition to Jesus who says: "He that believeth (1) and is baptized (2) shall be saved?"

That the gifts of the Holy Ghost (prophecy, tongues, etc.), are not longer needed, as the author of "the faith of our fathers" says, is in opposition to what Peter (your rock) says. On the Day of Pentecost the Apostles were endowed with power from on high." And there appeared unto them cloven tongues as of fire. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance." When the multitude were pricked in their hearts, they said to Peter, and the rest of the Apostles: "Men and brethren, what shall we do. Then Peter said unto them, Repent, (can an infant repent?), and be baptized, every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost; for the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." Who will you, dear sir, believe, Peter, or the most Rev. J. Gibbons?

The gifts of the Holy Ghost are enumerated in 1 Cor. 12:7-11. I bear testimony to you, in all soberness, that I have seen, and experienced most of these gifts in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. We deem them faithful, and do enjoy them, according to our faithfulness in serving God. The angel with the everlasting gospel, (Rev. 14:6), had no need to come, if your claim be true that the Catholic Church is the same church that Jesus organized. The argument that said angel did come in St. John's time, will not hold good; for John says in Rev. 1:1: "The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass." If the gospel has been preached pure in all things in the Catholic Church, and will continue so till the end of the world, then there will be no need for said angel to come, and John's revelations would then be false.

Hoping you will keep your promise, to answer this letter, I subscribe myself your friend and wellwisher,

CH. E. MALMSTROM.

No. 322, Second-st., OAKLAND, Cal.,

December 3d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I awoke the other morning about three o'clock, and a passage of Scripture came to my mind very vividly, with some thoughts which were of great benefit to me. The passage you will find in seventh chapter, fifth verse of St. Matthew. "Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye." As I have been confined to the bed most of the time for the last two months, sick, my mind has naturally been drawn to the Scriptures, and to standing myself up by the side of Christ, and the doctrines he taught; and when I compared myself with this passage, I found I did not square just to the line and plummet. I found in my zeal for the good cause, and a little knowledge, that I had been able to see plenty of motes in the eyes of my brethren, especially those who had made some crooked paths in the past, where my confidence had been shaken. Their motes became beams, yes mountains, when they were doing the best they could in many ways. That wonderful zeal, with so little knowledge, covered up their good acts, and blinded me, taking the place of charities that cover sin. So I found that zeal with so little knowledge, (and there might have been a little jealousy in some instances), was not charity. In my zeal for the good cause, and the wellfare of brethren, of course I had to say something about the motes to others who were just as zealous as I in the good cause; instead of going to the brother and taking him alone, in a spirit of love, and taking the matter over, and telling him of his faults, that he might have a chance to confess them. In all this, I was trying to build up the kingdom of God, and perfect others by clearing their eyes of motes; and like many others, could not see the beams in my own eye; for zeal, or some of the graces of the adversary, had blinded me. But when I came to stand myself by the Master, and his examples and precepts, and especially the passage quoted, I saw that I had not the Spirit of Christ; and therefore could not be his. This brought other passages to my mind: "Let a man examine himself;" for if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged. "Charity suffereth long and is kind. Charity envieth not. Charity vaunteth not itself. Is not puffed up. Doth not behave itself unseemly. Seeketh not her own; is not easily provoked; thinketh no evil; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never faileth." When I compared myself with these Scriptures, especially the latter part, I found I was a failure, and would not square, and the beams were still in my eyes. What was worse, I found the ways I had been pursuing, never would remove either motes or beams; but would tend to make the motes beams, and drive those whom I had so zealously tried to save, out of the kingdom and to destruction. Then I said to myself, "Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beams out of thine own eyes," and let charity, the pure love of God, that "never faileth," shine in your eyes; and your own beams will become so many and so great, that you will lose sight of others' motes. Further, I found that my zeal was a good thing, if properly used upon myself in removing the beams from mine own eyes. I said to myself again, If all my brethren would remove the beams from their eyes by being doers of the word, and not hearers only, how soon the motes would all pass away.

Brethren and sisters, in making this open confession, (which is said to be good for the soul), I do not think I am any worse nor any better than many others; but I try to be honest with myself, and also with others, by applying the Scriptures to myself and others, which will judge us at the judgment seat of Christ. I would ask of all, Is it not the safest plan to apply the commands of the Master honestly to ourselves now, and make an open confession, (or in other words judge ourselves that we be not judged.) "And if any man hear my words and believe not, I judge him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world. He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him. The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day."—John 12: 47, 48.

Here we are told by the Master, that the words he hath spoken are to be our judge at the last day. — If this be true, (and I believe that it is), we had better bring ourselves into subjection to the word, instead of depending on the mercy of God, as many are doing at present. Mercy can not rob justice, which demands the utmost farthing; and the mercy of God is offered to us in the word, (the gospel); and if we fail to apply the mercy of God as revealed through the word, (the gospel), can we expect anything but judgment by the word; and if judgment, then a penalty, and we can not come out of the prison until the utmost farthing is paid. If we have to be judged by the word, and pay the penalty in the prison, when and how shall we get into the kingdom of God, and be associates of Jesus Christ and the Father?

Then, brethren, let us lay aside every beam, and our bretheren's motes that so easily beset us; and run with charity to them, the race, and tell them of their faults, and teach them how to do better in the future. And in doing so, manifest the Spirit of Christ; that the same Spirit that raised up Christ, may raise us up in the resurrection of the Just, to dwell with Christ in his kingdom, having sent our beams before us to judgment, and covered our brother's motes with charity.

Your brother in gospel bonds,
A. HAWS.

Summary of News.

Dec. 6th.—Several of the signers of anarchist placards calling upon the working men to meet in front of the Paris Bourse, Tuesday, have been arrested. The dwelling of one of the anarchists arrested contained a large quantity of explosives.

The Pope congratulates Cardinal McCabe upon his pastoral letter denunciatory of secret societies.

Another mob at Canton, China, yesterday, destroyed the chapel that was built at the expense of native Christians. Soldiers dispersed the mob, and 200 men remain on guard at the ruins. The mob seemed to think that Gen. Pang had arrived to drive out the foreigners, and they wanted to assist him. The mob did not attack Shameen. Foreigners there are perfectly safe under cover of the guns of the Juniata and three European gunboats, besides the Viceroy's boats. Canton is in a very excited condition.

The panic at Khartoum is subsiding. It is now believed that Mahdi contemplates an early advance from El Obeid. A Khartoum dispatch says: The Mudir of Sennaar telegraphs that a dervisch entered the bazaar there Wednesday evening, and proclaimed annihilation of Hicks Pasha's army near El Obeid. The dervisch swore on the Koran that not one Egyptian soldier was left alive in Kordofan. Five thousand hearers armed themselves, 500 having Remington rifles, and declared for El Mahdi. The Mudir asks for instructions.

The crisis in the shipbuilding trade on the Clyde, at Glasgow, Scotland, is growing more intense. Three large firms, including Denny, have notified their employees that wages will be reduced in January, and several other firms will follow their example.

The boys in several collieries in South and West Yorkshire, England, have struck for an increase of wages, throwing nearly five thousand men into enforced idleness.

A severe earthquake shock was felt at Roucenden Springs, Ark., Wednesday, which lasted for forty seconds.

The Brandon Sun, the chief paper of Manitoba, has the following in relation to the agitation now going on in that Province: In an article on the political agitation in the Province the Winnipeg Times says: "There is a considerable quantity of smoke out west, but not much fire." With every possible respect for the superior knowledge of our contemporary, we beg to assure it that it does not know exactly what it is talking about. So far as the west is concerned, there is a good deal more fire than smoke. What the people will do we are not prepared to say; but we know that they are deeply in earnest in their discontent, and that is a condition of open rebellion. This is not a pleasant, or hopeful, or satisfactory thing to say of our own countrymen in our own Province, but it is true, and the organ would be more usefully employed in directing the attention of our rulers to the fact than in heaping insults on thousands of honest settlers whose present hope of the future is that they must either starve or leave the country.

The failure is announced of the Dover Silk Company of New Jersey with liabilities of $102,000 and assets of $70,000.

New discoveries in Ohio, warrant the expectation that valuable fields of coal will be found in that State.

Prof. Palisa, of Vienna, Austria, has discovered a new planet of the twelfth magnitude.

The bark William H. Besse and the ship Anahuac arrived at Boston this morning, the former from Manda and the latter from Calcutta. The former had a voyage of 195 and the latter of 139 days. Capt. Baker, of the former, says his bark was directly in the vicinity of Anjier at the time of the terrible disaster which killed thousands and changed the face of the land in and around Sunda Straits. He left Batavia Aug. 26th, and the following morning at daylight those on deck noticed a heavy bank rising from the westward and obscuring the sun. At this time the barometer dropped to 29.40, and again suddenly rose to 30.70. All hands were called and sail taken off as fast as possible. Heavy showers of sand and ashes commenced falling, completely covering the decks, masts, and spars to the depth of several inches. By noon it had grown darker than the darkest night, and commenced to blow a hurricane. But, strange to say, the sea remained perfectly smooth. Heavy rumblings, like distant cannonading, were continually heard, and at intervals the sky was lighted up by lightning flashes, and a strong smell of sulphur permeated the atmosphere and made it difficult to breathe. All hands were terribly affected by this awful scene, and many of the sailors thought the world was coming to an end. Throughout the gale the tide set strongly to the westward, and the bark drove through the water at the rate of fourteen knots per hour. At 3 p. m. the sky commenced to grow a little lighter, but the ashes continued to fall like snow. The following day the bark entered the Straits of Sunda, and the extent of the damage done was plainly to be seen. Whole islands had sunk, and those that remained had changed in form. The north-western part of Krakatoa Island had disappeared, and Verlaten and Lang Islands, heretofore covered with trees, were completely bare. They saw a very large number of dead bodies, and the waters for miles were covered with trees and dead bodies. The sea for 600 miles was a field of lava. They experienced a hurricane from the north-north-east, with a tremendous sea, which lasted three days. During this time the decks and cabin were flooded with water, and a portion of the bulwarks and everything movable on deck was washed away. Capt. Summers, of the Anahuac, says: "Aug. 27th, at 11:30 a. m., while becalmed, my attention was attracted by a loud report to the north-west. Thinking at the time that it was some man-of-war exercising her heavy ordinance. I sent the chief mate aloft to see if there were any vessels in view. While he was aloft four more loud reports followed each other in quick succession, which made the vessel quiver in every beam. I then thought it was a heavy shock of earthquake. Shortly after the reports the sun became obscure and it became quite dark, although it had been a bright, clear, sunny day. The sun was not visible at 3:30 p. m. nor for the rest of the evening. The morning of the 28th I was astonished to find the deck covered with sand and the sea full of pumice stone. The sand continued falling for fully forty-eight hours, and was swept off the decks by shovelfuls."

Dec. 7th.—The note of Marquis Tseng to M. Ferry, Monday, was brief, and stated explicitly that orders had been issued from Peking to the commander of the Chinese troops on the frontier to oppose by force of arms any attempt by the French forces to occupy Bacninh or Sontag. The Marquis further informed the correspondent that the Chinese army was now fully prepared to meet the French, notwithstanding the reinforcements which had recently been sent out by France, and that if the French commenced a general advance they would be met half-way.

The Italian government have ordered two men-of-war from Singapore to Canton to protect Italian interests at that point in the event of war, which now seems to be generally recognized as inevitable.

French politicians are almost unanimously upholding M. Ferry in his operations in Tonquin.

The rumor that Russian troops are being concentrated on the Chinese frontier is denied.

The rebels fire into the town of Suokin nightly, but do no harm. Six hundred black troops made a sally, Sunday, and attacked the rebels, with no definite result. The telegraph line to Jeddah has been cut. An Arab alleges that commander Moncrief, the British Consul, is still alive. This story is not believed. The country toward the south is reported quiet. The Government is subsidizing the people in those parts.

The desirability of annexing Egypt to Great Britain is now freely discussed.

The Porte has informed Great Britain that it intends to dispatch several frigates to the Red Sea.

Another letter written in blood has been printed in a Nihilist paper in Russia. The prisoners' food is described as revolting even to a hungry stomach; and rats are so numerous that women with young babes are obliged to watch over them night and day to keep them from being devoured. The use of combs and soap is forbidden, and the prisoners, especially the women, whose hair is allowed to grow, are literally devoured by vermin. The writer appeals to the civilized world, especially in behalf of the women, whose situation in being exposed to the brutal prison authorities is described as horrible in the extreme.

At Alexandria there have been two deaths from cholera since Nov. 30.

The strike of the colliery boys in the Yorkshire mines, England, has extended. Fourteen thousand workmen are idle in consequence.

The French Anarchists did not hold a meeting in Paris yesterday, as they had intended. The police prevented a demonstration.

During November the British imports increased compared with the same month last year, £1,600,000, and the exports decreased £238,000.

Henry Lund & Co., English exporters, have suspended, with liabilities of $340,000. The assets are $300,000. The failure is due to loss by wheat charters.

The conference of Australian legislative delegates passed a resolution favoring the formation of a Federal Council to deal with all matters in which united action of the colonies may be desirable.

The trial of the members of the Servian Radical Committee arrested during the recent insurrection is proceeding. At present sixteen leading rebels have been shot. A large number of others have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

The Imparcial of Madrid says the memorandum budget for the next fiscal year has been submitted to the Cabinet by the Minister of finance. It estimates the revenues at 802,000,000 pesetas. The Minister of Finance hopes to reduce the difference between the revenues and expenditures to 60,000,000 pesetas.

Last week the business failures throughout this country and Canada rose to the extreme number of 307, the largest weekly figure since the rush to get under cover before the repeal of the Bankruptcy law, and three times as great as was usual two years ago.

The rail department of the Pittsburg Bessemer Steel Works at Homestead shut down tonight, throwing 800 men out of employment. Andrew Carnegie was interviewed, and stated that the Edgar Thomson Works at Braddock, which employs 3,000 men, would follow suit in a week unless arrangements were effected with employes of the works for a small reduction this winter or until trade improves. The loss in running at $35 per ton for steel rails, he said, was greater than the loss of interest on the money invested in case of suspension. McKee, Anderson & Co's mill at Beaver, Pa., closed to-day until after the holidays. The Manchester Iron and Steel Works will suspend operations Monday on account of a scarcity of stock. One hundred and fifty men will be thrown out. The puddling department of Kloman's Superior Mill, which suspended four weeks ago, resumes Monday.

The striking nailers of the Pottstown Iron Company, Pa., have been paid off and discharged.

The Manitobans are talking secession loudly. Inter-State commerce is attracting the attention of the U. S. Congress.

Dec. 8th.—Admiral Peyron, Minister of War, has received a dispatch from Saigon stating that the French forces reconnoitered within two and a half miles of Bacninh. Admiral Courbet reconnoitered the approaches to Sontag, on the Red River, Nov. 23d. The French captured a junk near Harphong laden with combustibles, and seven men on board. The Sub-Governor of Hai Dzuong, having been suspected of collusion with the enemy, has been sent to Saigon for trial. Admiral Courbet, in a private letter to the Governor of Cochinchina, states that operations will shortly begin. He says: "We are eager to march."

There are rumors that skirmishes have taken place in the neighborhood of Sontag and Bacninh.

The dispatches received at Cairo today attribute the failure of El Mahdi to continue his advance on Khartoum to the breaking out of dissension among the hands of the various tribes marching under his banner. Some of these advocate an advance upon Dongola, while others prefer an attack on Khartoum. The two factions cannot agree on a plan of operations. Mudir, at Dongoly, reports to the Egyptian Government, moreover, that a defection of the Kababish tribes to the Mahdi will inevitably occur if that leader's forces continue their advance. The consent given by the English Government that Turkish frigates may be permitted to act in concert with the British is coupled with the stipulation that they shall carry no Turkish forces. The Egyptian Government has renewed its representations to Great Britain that there is a pressing necessity for their assistance in the war. The Khedive lays particular stress on the suppression of the revolt at Senaar, that being the centre of the Nubian dominions, which have in consequence of that outbreak been entirely depopulated.

Things have an ugly look in India, where there has been the unprecedented exhibition of a Viceroy hooted by the English and cheered by the native population.

Rumors are current that an important conference will soon be held between the Emperors of Germany, Russia, and Austria.

Dec. 9th.—It is now believed that war between France and China is inevitable. Both Powers have been making extensive preparations. France, it is said, has chartered several English merchant vessels to take arms and munitions of war to Tonquin. M. Ferry's war measures have been on a very extensive scale, and are said to be such as will unpleasantly surprise the Chinese.

Five hundred Annamites and Chinese made a demonstration at Haiphong the afternoon of the 3d inst. Commandant Carronat made a sortie with a handful of French troops from the garrison and attacked them with such vigor that he dispersed the enemy, killing fifty and wounding over a hundred. Two of Commandant Carronat's men were slightly wounded with lances.

Monday, Dec. 3d, Gen. Pang, arrived with a portion of a body of 4,000 fine soldiers from the north, who came to guard Canton, China, while the others take the field. This arrival was taken advantage of by the secret societies, which are inimical to the Viceroy and to the legitimate Government, otherwise the Chinese Nihilists. They at once began to issue bogus manifestoes purporting to come from Gen. Pang, saying that he came to enforce the imperial edicts and evict all foreigners as well as the Viceroy, who sustains them. These caused immense excitement, and a Chinese mob attacked the chapel. The disturbance was quelled by Chinese troops. China's overtures to Japan for an alliance offensive and defensive, have been declined, Japan promising strict neutrality between France and China. China is said to be making immense preparations for the expected war with France.

Another Egyptian force has been annihilated by the followers of the False Prophet. Eight hundred negroes and Bashi-Bazouks were attacked near Suakin, the 2d inst., by 5,000 Kabbabish Bedouins. The fight lasted but twenty minutes. The Bashi-Bazouks were all put to death, as were all the blacks who refuse to declare for El Mahdi. The artillery of the Egyptian force now belongs to the conquering hordes from Soudan who are swarming into Upper Egypt, where they find ready sympathizers and easily make converts to the principles of the Mahdi. The native Egyptian forces are utterly unable to withstand the advance of the victorious legions of this new Messiah of Islam. The fellaheen are likely to make common cause with the conquerors, and Khedive, is as insecure in his position as he was before Admiral Seymour shelled Alexandria. In the meantime the King of Abyssinia proposes to take advantage of the situation to acquire certain pieces of territory along the seacoast.

The Czar of Russia does not believe that the Russian people are yet sufficiently prepared to successfully assume the responsibility of self-government, and none of the proposed reform measures go so far as to give directly to the masses a voice in the affairs of the nation. The Imperial Council have, however, determined to widen the scope of the responsibility of the Ministers. They will be responsible to a constituency composed of the Zemstvos, who will be intrusted with the power of initiating certain classes of legislation. The Zemstvos are the local assemblies, and are practically elected by a universal suffrage, so that if the proposed reforms are carried to a conclusion the concessions which the Czar seems willing to make, although a great deal short of constitutional government, will be a great advance on anything yet attempted in Russia.

The business developments of the week show that the iron interest is still the greatest sufferer. Several more mills have shut down indefinitely or curtailed production. Many men have been dismissed at St. Louis and vicinity, and a number of mills are arranging to employ only a small force through the winter. The coal operatives have definitely decided on a partial suspension of work, and the scaling of wages has extended to a great variety of interests. As for the conditions of which these reductions are a result, they have not materially changed. The demand for goods has certainly not increased, and in the West it has declined. The cotton and silk interests are especially depressed. The Maryland producers of the coarser cotton fabrics declare that the outlook is worse than ever before. They suffer much from the competition of the new mills in the South. The silk manufacture is adversely affected by the recent failures in Shanghai. California joins the chorus, declaring that traffic has been overdone in that part of the country.

A party of seven desperadoes rode into the town of Bisbee, Ariz., Saturday night. Five of them dismounted, entered the store of A. A. Castanada, deliberately shot J. C. Tappienier, an assayer, and D. T. Smith, a ranchman, who were in the store at the time, took $1,200 out of the cash-box, and mortally wounded Mrs. Roberts, a boarding-house keeper, and A. Notly, a lumberman, who were attracted to the scene of the murder by the report of the rifle-shots. The murderers then deliberately rode off. They are believed to be of the gang which robbed a Southern Pacific train near Gage the 17th ult.

Dec. 10th.—Amid cries of "War!" and "On to Peking!" the French Chamber yesterday passed the Tonquin appropriation. Although there was much noise on the side of the majority, no less than 206 members opposed the bill in a total vote of 521. The Marquis Tseng telegraphed Ferry's speech verbatim to Peking. The tone of the address was positive, declaring that France must have the two towns possession of which is now in question.

Dispatches received tonight from Cairo announce that Baker Pasha will be appointed to the chief command in the Soudan. Mahmoud Taber Pasha, the Egyptian commander at Suakin, has been so unsuccessful in all his recent attempts to hold the hostile Arabs in check that the Khedive's Government have decided to recall him at once and place the Englishman in command. Nothing further will be attempted until Baker's arrival, and the Suakin troops are expected simply to hold their own in the interim. Baker Pasha's delay in starting for Suakin has been caused by the constant receipt of news of fresh disasters and the recognized inutility in dispatching him with an ineffectually small force. Now that it has been decided to give him the sole command of the rescuing contingent, it has also been decided that he shall not go away without good support. He can reach Suakin from Cairo in a week, and the military authorities believe that the present garrison will be able to hold out until re-enforced.

It is now understood that Suakin will be made the base of operations instead of some point on the Nile, as was at first proposed. Khartoum can be reached under ordinary circumstances in two weeks, and Suakin as a base of supplies will always be safe, for it is now known that English men-of-war will protect the port and assist if necessary in preventing the town from falling into the hands of the forces of the Mahdi. Arabs are sick of war, having lost heavily and obtained no plunder, and are returning to their villages. A letter from Suakin says there are only 500 men there fit for service and 800 men are crippled or otherwise disabled. The troops dispatched to Suakin had not arrived when the latest defeat of the Egyptians occurred. Officials at the War Office believe El Mahdi has retired to El Obeid, being unable to advance for want of transportation facilities, and that he is alienating the Arabs by requisitions for forage and supplies. The Egyptians would have defeated the rebels the 5th inst, but for the bad conduct of the Bashi-Bazouks.

There have recently been sixteen deaths from cholera near Assiout.

Nine persons have pleaded guilty of conspiracy to murder Martin Leyden, of Connemara, Ireland. Patrick McKecoun testified that before the murder of Mrs. Smythe the prisoners met in a barn and formed an assassination society, the avowed object of which was the removal of tyrants and bad landlords. Five landlords were condemned to be shot: William Barlow Smythe, W. E. Smythe, Earl Longford, Wm. Keating, and Wilde O'Connor.

A number of seditious placards have been found posted about Vienna, Austria. Several pamphlets bearing the signatures of anarchists have been seized.

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: The weather is frosty, and there is snow in south and in the midlands. There is rather more pressure to sell English wheat, and values are consequently weaker. Flour is steady with a moderate demand. Maize is steady. Mixed American is very scarce at 28 shillings ex-ship. The decline in medium class barley continues. It is more serious than can well be shown on the surface. The off-coast market is bare of a supply of all kinds of grain. There was one arrival Thursday of American red winter in a sailing vessel. Sales of English wheat for the week 74,555 quarters at 40 shillings per quarter, against 53,055 quarters at 41 shillings 8 pence the corresponding week last year.

There was a negro uprising in Greenville, Miss., Saturday night. At a political meeting a number of white men got in a killing humor, and the black men present rose up and ran. This uprising, however, was promptly suppressed by the Mississippians, but not, of course, without some bloodshed. Three negroes were shot—one is dead, one is dying, and one was only slightly wounded. In the careless firing incidental to quick work, Sam Finlay, a white man, was seriously injured. A Coroner's jury found that the dead negro had been killed by the white men who killed him.

Two men entered a dry goods store at Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday morning, bulldozed the proprietor, opened the safe, and rode off with over $10,000.

About 800 bills were introduced in the House of Representatives yesterday, only about half of the States having been called.

Dec. 11th.—The French Deputies have adopted the budget of the Ministry of War. It is believed Admiral Courbet has begun active operations in Tonquin. According to the latest news from China the father of the Emperor, the head of the war party, has assumed direction of Tonquin affairs by virtue of an imperial decree, thus virtually deposing the Viceroy and President of Tsengli Yamen.

The English Parliament will be prorogued until February, 1884.

Mahmoud Taper Pasha, commander of the troops defeated by the hill tribes, has been relieved. Suleiman Pasha Ghazi, a Crimean veteran, succeeds him. There is great excitement at Suakin in consequence of an expected night attack. The English gunboat Ranger is throwing rockets over the town to scare the rebels. Baker Pasha despairs of an advance from Suakin with his present force, and will act entirely on the defensive until he feels strong enough to march across the country. The Government employees at Suakin for some time past have supplied the rebels with arms and provisions. The Government accepts the offer of the Eastern Telegraph Company to connect Suakin with the Suez and Aden cable.

At a largely attended meeting of the Ship-owners' Union, in London, England, to day, resolutions were adopted completely repudiating the terms of all of the propositions which M. de Lesseps has thus far made on the Suez Canal question to the British Government. The sense of the meeting was that England should enter into no agreement which did not give to her the absolute control of the canal. The tonnage which she yearly sent through this waterway was so far in excess of all other nations that she could not afford, now that an opportunity for betterment existed, to place her merchant maride at the mercy of any foreign corporation.

The Anglo-Egyptian Bank has offered the Egyptian Government a loan of £10,000,000 to construct a canal parallel to the present Suez Canal.

Speaker Carlisle yesterday had a severe cold, and Mr. Cox occupied the chair. The bills continued to pour in till over a thousand had been offered. The House adjourned till Friday.

At Winnipeg the business of the Canadian Pacific Railway is at a standstill and the trouble is extending far along the line. No trains are moving and the workshops have been closed. The company reduced its expenditures, the engineers struck, and the company retorted with an order discharging 3,000 workmen.

The Chicago Arms Company failed for $6,000. Chas. M. and Anson B. Taylor, Chicago, for $1,000. H. A. Hazlehurst, Chicago, $1,000. China Bank, Suncook, N. H. for $160,000. H. S. Fattler, St. Louis, Mo., for $75,000. Lesser and Woolzkey, Ishpeming, Mich., for $40,000. C. P. Crawford, Silver City, N. M., for $40,000. Grant County Bank, of same place, has failed. Edward Heald, Philadelphia, Pa. for $45,000.

The iron moulders, of Toledo, O., fifty in number, are on a strike.

Dec. 12th.—The news of the successes of El Mahdi is spreading rapidly throughout Arabia, and the whole country is in a fever of excitement over the possible coming of the new prophet. Bodies of rebels in favor of the cause have appeared in many places, and the Turkish officials express the greatest alarm at the result of the fanaticism which is carrying the Arabs en masse to the support of the Mahdi. Overt acts are being committed by the wandering Arabs in all directions. Roads are cut and already a state of anarchy prevails. The Turkish Governor-General has telegraphed to Constantinople for assistance, his present forces being entirely inadequate to preserve order. It is reported tonight that the road between Jeddah and Mecca has been cut and is in possession of a strong force of rebels who profess to believe that the False Prophet will come directly to Mecca as soon as he has subdued Suakin. At Mecca the greatest alarm prevails. The Shereef is powerless to stem the heretical tide which is sweeping over the country, and has appealed through the Vali of the Hedjaz to the Sultan for protection. Reports reach Aden daily of tremendous religious excitement among the Arabs, and it is believed there that should the Mahdi succeed in crossing the Red Sea a very large force of Turkish troops would be necessary to prevent his triumphal entrance into the Holy City. Baker Pasha starts for Suakin tomorrow. His force consists of 2,000,300 gendarmes (500 mounted), 1,500 black troops, 4,000 Bedouins, with five guns. The force is additional to that at Suakin. Col. Sartorius commands the gendarmes, and Zeb-ehr Pasha commands the blacks and half of the Bedouins. The latter will advance on Berber from Suakin, while the other half of the Bedouins, under Husfein Pasha, will go up the Nile, recruiting Bedouins on the way. The two forces will try to join between Berber and Suakin. Ala-Ed Deen Pasha, Governor of Khartoum, has returned to that place from Duem with the garrison, guns, ammunition, and supplies there. He states that the report is confirmed that El Mahdi, after the battle returned to El Obeid with the ammunition and battery of Krupp guns which were taken from Hicks Pasha. El Mahdi is prepared, to send 10,000 men to the Province of Darparing and another 10,000 to subdue the Kababish tribes near Khartoum.

Every preparation is being made in Canton, China, to place the city in a defensible condition. Yesterday the Viceroy, with the Imperial Commissioner Pang, equipped five gunboats to make a thorough inspection of the forts and torpedo lines. He will return Friday. The Chinese forts look well, but are really weak. They have granite and cement facing which will soon shell off under continued cannonading. The approach to Canton will be barred by sinking junks filled with stones. A large fleet is now ready. Others are being built for this special purpose. Northern troops continue to arrive. Sixteen hundred passed through yesterday. All the high Mandarins express a determination to protect foreigners at all hazards. Last week the French Consul at Canton asked a guard for personal protection. The Viceroy replied that he would protect him as well as all the others. The British Admiral arrived here yesterday, placing the entire fleet on a war footing ready for an emergency.

Admiral Courbet will soon ask China to renew negotiations. If negotiations are declined, the Admiral will seize Bacninh, Sontag, and Hung-Hoa and again appeal for a peaceful settlement. A second refusal will be followed by the seizure of some main port other than Shanghai or Canton owing to the unwillingness of France to offend the other Powers. The French Chamber of Deputies adopted the budget of the Ministry of Marine. During the debate the Minister of Marine stated he would shortly ask for a credit for the maintenance of the troops in Tonquin for six months.

It is stated that Ferry has informed President Grevy that Great Britain has resolved to intervene between France and China only after an agreement on the subject with Germany and America.

Parnell's speech at the Dublin banquet last night, has separated his party from the English radicals.

The estimates of the heads of the National Departments of the United States are $24,250,000 in excess of the expenditures for the last fiscal year.

The National Republican convention will be held in Chicago, Illinois, beginning June 3d, 1884.

Business in Manitoba is likely to be paralyzed by the Canada Pacific lockout. J. P. Billups & Co., N. Y., failed for $400,000. J. Levy, Rock Island, Ill., for $14,000.

Selected Poetry.

FROM A LADY'S ALBUM.

All's for the best! be sanguine and cheerful!
 Trouble and sorrow are friends in disguise!
 Folly alone goes faithless and fearful;
 Courage forever is happy and wise;
 All's for the best—if men would but know it;
 Providence wishes us all to be blest:
 This is no dream of pundit or poet;—
 Heaven is gracious, and—all's for the best.

All for the best! set this on your standard,
 Soldier of sadness or pilgrim of love,
 Who to the shores of despair may have wandered,
 A way-wearied swallow, or heart-stricken dove,
 All for the best! be a man, but confiding,
 Providence tenderly governs the rest;
 The frail bark of His creature He's guiding,
 Wisely and warily, all for the best.

All for the best! then fling away terrors,
 Meet all your foes and your fears in the van;
 In the midst of your dangers or errors,
 Trust like a child, while you strive like a man.
 All's for the best! unbiassed, unbounded,
 Providence reigns from the East to the West,
 And by wisdom and mercy surrounded,
 Hope and be happy, that's all for the best.

Communications.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

STICK OF EPHRAIM.

Dear Herald:—In your issue of July 28th, there appears a communication from E. H. Gurley, advising your readers that in his meanderings he has found that error extensively prevails, respecting the original authorship and character of the Book of Mormon. His reasons therefor are presented in the form of critical examinations of several scriptures hitherto urged as evidences in favor of its authenticity, and the purpose it is intended to serve in its revelation to the world. He specifies he has serious doubts of the Book of Mormon being the Stick of Joseph in the hand of Ephraim, mentioned in Ezekiel, 39th chapter, or that it contains even a part of the great things of the law written to Ephraim, as set forth by Hosea, 8: 12. This latter subject seems to be one regarded by him with peculiar interest; but in looking through his essay, contrary to our expectation, we are left totally unadvised of what he considers the subject matter alluded to by the Prophet Hosea, who makes mention that the great things of the law were written to Ephraim. But this much can be gleaned from his researches, that in order that we may be sure we have obtained the genuine article, it must when it appears, be something that has been obtained from the largest branch, the lost tribes of the house of Israel, "and not from the smallest as the people of the Book of Mormon were."

This last idea, that numbers are essential to the obtaining of special law, to us is a singular one; and yet it is the only one presented in the communication as constituting the subject matter referred to. Therefore, to enable us to have something tangible in considering this subject, we will define our idea of that which we consider constitutes this specialty of law, referred to prophetically by Hosea, in 8: 12. It is understood to be that portion of law, which, in its practical application, will produce the highest standard of moral excellence; viz, knowledge and perfection in the things of God.

This degree of intelligence and moral excellence, the fulness of the gospel of Jesus Christ declares attainable through the observance of the statutes and ordinances therein set forth, even the fulness of God, and an inheritance in the possession of all things; and this law of transforming power and induction into the order of heavenly things, is found in the Bible and the Book of Mormon, and constitutes the great things of the law, the fulness of the glad tidings to all people, and for all people, and is given into the hand of Ephraim to declare to all nations, as a witness, that the end may come.

But it is urged as an objection, that Hosea 8: 12, was written one hundred and sixty years before Lehi left Jerusalem, and as a sequence must apply to Israel as a nation, not to Ephraim as a tribe; and the tense in the structure of the sentence, "I have written," is relied upon as proof in the case.

In reply, there is no evidence in any sacred record known, that any special law to Ephraim as a nation was ever given. They commenced their national career by making calves, and worshiping under that idolatrous form. See 1 Kings, 12: 28. We further learn by the record, see Kings 18th chapter, That the prophets of Baal were four hundred, and the prophets of the grove were like number. From that delusive abomination they were only partially recovered by Elijah, the prophet, calling upon God to answer by fire from heaven upon the sacrifice he had prepared, to be the demonstrative evidence in the case, whether Jehovah or Baal was really God. We learn from their subsequent history, that because Remaliah their king took evil counsel, and joined in confederacy with Syria to dethrone Abaz, king of Judah, at Jerusalem, Isaiah the prophet was instructed to say the confederacy should not succeed in accomplishing its intention, and that before three score and five years, Ephraim should cease to be a people. Isa. 7th chapter. This prediction must apply to Ephraim as a tribe, of whom Hosea said, "They should become wanderers among the nations."—Hosea 9: 17. But regarding Israel as a nation, they were by piecemeal taken out of their land, first by the captivity of the tribes beyond the Jordan, by Tiglath Pileser, king of Assyria, and ten years afterwards Shalmanezar, their succeeding king of Assyria, carried away the entire remaining portion of Israel as a nation from their own land. See 15, 16, 17 chapters of 1 Kings.

Esdras in one of the apocryphal books of the Bible (I have it not at hand to quote) says those Israelites took counsel among themselves, that they would not dwell among the heathen; and they went a year and a half's journey into a country where never man dwelt, and that in their journeying the Lord made signs and opened up their way. Jesus, when he visited the Nephites, said: "Now I go unto the Father, and also to show myself unto the lost tribes of Israel, for they are not lost unto the Father, for he knoweth whither he hath taken them."—3 Nephi 8: 1. This is conclusive that Israel never ceased to be a distinct people, but were hidden by the hand of the Lord, and to me it is unquestionable, that they will keep a record of the dealings of the Lord with them, which, when presented will be additional testimony of the government of God regarding the family of man, but especially as regarding Israel.

But before they are brought forth out of the thickets Ephraim will have accomplished the work assigned him, in having built Zion in conjunction with Manasseh, and be prepared to receive the outcasts, and bless them upon their return from their exile.

"And they who are in the north countries shall come in remembrance before the Lord, and their prophets shall hear his voice, * * * and they shall bring forth their rich treasures unto the children of Ephraim my servants. And the boundaries of the everlasting hills shall tremble at their presence. And then shall they fall down and be crowned with glory, even in Zion, by the hands of the servants of the Lord, even the children of Ephraim; and they shall be filled with songs of everlasting joy. Behold this is the blessing of the everlasting God upon the tribes of Israel, and the richer blessing upon the head of Ephraim and his fellows. And they also of the tribe of Judah, after their pain, shall be sanctified in holiness before the Lord, to dwell in his presence day and night forever and ever."

This proves beyond peradventure of a doubt, that Ephraim was put in possession of the great things of the law, a necessity to enable him to do the work given him to perform.

Regarding the grammatical structure of the sentence, "I have written" to Ephraim the great things, &c., being in the past tense, that is not an unfrequent manner of expression with the Lord. Instance, to Abraham he said, "See, I have made thee the father of many nations, when as yet he had no child." (Rom. 4:17). The history shows it was hundreds of years before his posterity became one nation. Other instances might be given, but a word to the wise is sufficient. The argument based upon the tense in this case, is futile, proves nothing.

Commenting upon the records said to be represented by the Sticks written upon, which the prophet was commanded to use, (Ezek. 37:19), and severally designated as the Stick of Judah and the Stick of Joseph in the hand of Ephraim. It is understood they were emblematical of documentary matter, irrespective of the material used for the purpose. While it is admitted that Judah's records were probably kept upon parchment only, we are told that the application can not be made to the Book of Mormon, as it was kept upon plates. If the writer of the essay had carefully read his Bible, he might have learned that the covenant to Israel in its first and second edition, was written upon tables of stone, and also that Habbakkuk was commanded to write the vision, and make it plain, upon tables. (Hab. 2:2.) And further, if our friend had read even the first chapter of the Book of Mormon, he would have learned that the Jews also used plates upon which to keep their sacred records. Nephi says after he had secured the plates of brass from Laban, that his father searched them, and found they contained the five books of Moses, which gave the account of the creation of the world, also of Adam and Eve, our first parents; also a record of the Jews from the beginning even down to the commencement of the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah. Also many prophecies of the holy prophets, from the beginning, even down to the commencement of the reign of Zedekiah, and also many prophecies which have been spoken by the mouth of Jeremiah. (Book of Mormon, chap. 1, par. 46). The above are not the only instances which prove the Jews kept their sacred records upon plates. We learn from Wolf, the Jewish missionary, who traveled far and wide in search of the lost tribes, in his journal of his tour from Bokhara through India and China, that he discovered a fragment of the Jewish nation, who had their records upon plates of brass. Hence the assumings, that because the Jews at times used parchments, and the Nephte records when obtained were upon plates, therefore Ezekiel's Sticks can not alike compare as representing sacred matter, is found to be futile, false in its premise.

Ephraim's cast off, wandering condition among the Gentile nations, precluded the possibility of his making a record of the dealings of the Lord with him as a tribe. Therefore of necessity, as the first born of the restitution, the records of Judah and of Joseph had to be prepared by other hands than his own; hence the Lord says, "I have written to him the great things of my law." We conclude from our survey of the subject, that so far from the Elders, generally, having been wrong in presenting the authorship of the Book, the critic has certainly made a mistake, and shown himself neither by research nor fact, to discern error, or give any additional light upon the subject he attempted to review and correct.

JOSIAH ELLS.

CENTERTVILLE, Wayne Co., W. Va.,
September 1st, 1883

MEDITATIONS.

I BELIEVE as T. W. Smith wrote in Herald of a few weeks ago, that as it is a command to live by every word of God; and as the Word of Wisdom is a word of God, it is therefore in the line of obedience to the commandments of God for us to consider that the Lord requires us to keep that and the other commands. How can we claim the wisdom, knowledge, health, strength and preservation from the destroyer, if we are not willing to live by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God, inasmuch as we are able to do so? And if one makes the effort to abide, or keep strictly the celestial law, not offending in one point, and finds that, though willing and desirous, yet can not because not able, is there any remedy? If so, what is it?

I belong to a branch of the Church that numbers several hundred. I have been at meetings regularly every Sunday for five weeks, two testimony meetings every week. There is not as much manifestation of the gifts, as in some branches of less than one hundred members. I think the brother was directed rightly, who wrote about the gifts in Herald for December 8th. If the Lord wants us to be pure, holy, or perfect, and the gifts with other means are for the perfection of the Saints, till we all come to the unity of the faith, etc., then why don't we make it a custom to ask the Lord to edify us by these gifts whenever we meet together for prayer and testimony? The Lord is to be inquired of. Jesus said, "Ask the Father in my name for what you need, and he will give it unto you," for "He is more willing to give good gifts to you, than earthly parents are to their children." If we are the children of God, and he requires us to be perfect, and has told us through his righteousness revealed in the gospel law and testimony, that apostles, prophets, teachers, helps, governments, tongues, etc., are for our perfection, why do we not contend and seek for all? If the miraculous gifts were a part of the faith once delivered to the Saints, why don't we unite to pray, fast, etc., to be instructed more from the Lord in his own way, and as he will? If we are worthy to partake of the sacrament every month or week, should we hesitate to ask for these gifts as oft as we meet together? We say other people don't have them because they don't believe in them, and don't ask for them. I think some times that our meetings are not much better than theirs, when we don't have them.

INFERIOR.

POLITICS IN THE HERALD.

IT HAS always seemed to me that politics and partisan statements, should find no place in the Herald, but occasionally we get some news that is so one-sided, that one can not but see that political bias directed it. Upon this point I call attention to the following facts: Pending the Hayes and Tilden campaign, the Herald gravely informed its readers, that several of the southern states were nearly in a state of rebellion, while the only state that showed any sign of rebellion was Kansas, whose Governor offered to furnish forty or sixty thousand troops to seat Hayes.

In 1880, the Herald published partisan articles on the presidential campaign. In the Herald for November 17th, 1883, page 735, we get every republican victory in the elections of November 6th, but not a single line about those states that went Democratic. The article begins by stating that "Ben. Butler, Democrat, was defeated in Massachusetts," but does not publish the important fact that the Mahone-Readjuster Republican-Alliance, was overthrown in Virginia. Next we are told "that the Republicans elected their candidate for Secretary of State in New York, which was the leading officer elected this year, and have carried the Legislature, on joint ballot." But no mention is made of the fact that the Democrats elected every other candidate on the state ticket except the Secretary of State. The article states further, that Pennsylvania went Republican by twenty thousand majority," and ends by saying that "Minnesota, Nebraska and Connecticut went Republican by good majorities." Well, are the states mentioned by the Herald all that voted on November 6th? Why not go on and tell us that Virginia, Mississippi, Maryland, and New Jersey went Democratic "by good majorities?" It is strange that every Republican victory should be published, and not a single Democratic one.

Let me not be understood as opposing the publication of election news. What I oppose is the suppression of the news on one side, and publishing on the other.

JOHN H. HANSEN.

BEEBETOWN, IOWA.

Selections.

CHRIST OUR HEALER.

THE more spiritual of all ages have believed that Christ's work of healing was not limited to his personal ministry when on earth. The interest on this subject has been very great during the past ten years, and is increasing every year. Thousands in both hemispheres are being cured of the most malignant diseases by the Lord, in answer to the prayers of faith. These cures are not confined to any class of diseases, as some affirm, but extend to every kind of disorder. So it may be affirmed now, as it was of Christ when on earth, that he "heals all manner of sicknesses and all manner of diseases among the people."

Tumors, cancers, Bright's disease of the kidneys, consumption, diphtheria, nervous diseases, female weaknesses, deafness, paralysis, heart disease, spinal affections, fevers, etc., etc., are among the well-attested cases of cure by the score and hundred. As well might we deny the genuineness of the healing miracles of our Lord on earth, as to deny the genuineness of these. Personally I know of very many of the clearest cases of healing by the Lord. They are occurring on every hand. My own wife was raised up from the borders of the grave, and cured of malignant and complicated diseases, which the best physicians had for years vainly sought to conquer. This was not done, however, until she abandoned doctors and medicine, and put her body in the hands of Christ alone for healing. She was where, if Christ had not proved true to his word, she would have soon died; but she was immediately relieved, and commenced rapidly to recover. For nearly a year she has not tasted medicine, and has gone to Christ for the cure of every ailment. She has always found prompt relief, and been in good health. She has been wonderfully baptized with the Holy Spirit, Christ honoring her faith, not only in bodily healing, but in strengthening her with might by his Spirit, and filling her with all the fulness of God. So far as my experience goes, the receiving from Christ bodily healing, instead of making fanatics, makes the most evenly balanced, spiritual Christians, full of love and good works.

Lives thus redeemed from the power of disease and the jaws of death are given back to Christ to be temples of the Holy Ghost, and used for his service alone. The time is at hand, when, instead of the question whether believers who put themselves in Christ's hands for healing are not trifling with life, it will be whether those who do not apply to the Great Physician, Jehovah, Rophi (Jehovah, thy healer), who never loses a case he undertakes, will not be deemed recreant to life. If, as the sick usually say, they can't trust Christ to heal them, because it may be the will of God they should be sick, why do they apply to the doctors to defeat the will of God? If God wills you to be sick, why attempt to thwart that will by medicine? As to how Christ cures diseases when he takes them in hand now, whether by the aid of medicine and doctors, or directly by his own power, is seen by the way he healed when on earth in his bodily form. Among all the thousands who came to him afflicted with every form and grade of disease, he never prescribed medicine for one, nor sent them to a doctor, but healed them "with his word." He healed in the same way through the apostles. Christ gave them "power to heal all manner of sicknesses and all manner of diseases;" not by medication, but through the Divine Spirit. They "laid their hands on the sick and they recovered."

For three centuries healing of disease by the Lord alone was common in the Christian church, according to the testimony of such fathers as Justin Martyr, Ireneus, Tertullian, Origen, Clement, and others. They disappeared only when the faith of the church went under a deep and dark eclipse, from which it is now emerging.

As Christ heals the body on the condition of faith alone, just as he pardons and sanctifies a soul, then whatever interferes with the exercise of a perfect faith in Christ alone for bodily healing, will obstruct it. James, in the same epistle in which he gives direction for healing by the Lord in answer to the prayer of faith, defines what the prayer of faith is: "Let him ask in faith, nothing wavering." "Let not that man [that wavereth] think that he shall receive anything of the Lord." When the two blind men came to Jesus for healing, the Savior said: "Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you, and their eyes were opened." Now, does any one believe that if these men had been afraid to trust Jesus to do this work alone, he would have ever done it? As well may one expect to receive sanctification when depending partly on his prayers, and good works, and fastings, as to receive healing directly from God when depending in part or in whole on medicine or doctors. Faith must be perfect. There must be no fear, no shrinking back, no bridge over which we can retreat if God does not fulfill his word.

The father who brought his afflicted son to Jesus said: "If thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us." Jesus threw the responsibility back upon the father, and said, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth." You see, the only obstruction to Christ's doing the work was the father's unbelief. The power vested in him, as man's Redeemer from sickness as well as from sin, guaranteed the healing if the condition of faith was met. Now, if that father had been afraid to trust his son with Jesus alone, would he have seen him cured? Christ heals now, in the same way and on the same conditions as then. We do not say that believers who have not faith to be healed of the Lord should not employ physicians.

But few are living in such union with God as to enable them to have faith for bodily healing, but it is the privilege of all. There is no respect of persons with God, and Christ is the same yesterday, to-day and forever. If Christ is able and willing to cure one person, is he not able and willing to cure all on the same conditions of surrender and perfect faith? If he is willing to cure us once, is he not willing to cure us every time? If it is not safe to trust the Lord Jesus Christ, is it safe to trust the arm of flesh?

We have written this, not to depreciate a most honorable and useful class of men in society, viz., our physicians. They are needed by the great mass of society, and by the majority of Christians until the Church arises to a much higher faith.

Neither do we wish it understood that holiness is necessarily connected with bodily healing. Many eminently holy persons have suffered great bodily pain for many years; but this does not prove that they might not have been delivered from it had their faith and the faith of the Church grasped it. It is not the isolated faith of one, but the united faith of the Church, that is to achieve the mightiest victories over disease as well as sin. The Church is guilty of a great wrong in leaving her sick members to suffer, instead of exercising her priestly office for their recovery. In cold unbelief she resigns them to the care of earthly physicians, whose skill is seldom equal to the necessities of the case, instead of laying hold of the Almighty Healer. If receiving healing from the Lord, and holding it forth as the privilege of God's fully saved ones evinces mental unsoundness or fanaticism now, it did the same in the days of Christ and his apostles and the early Church. It seems strange that men who affect to believe the supernatural record of the New Testament, and that side by side with the preaching of the Gospel by Christ and his apostles and their associates and successors were daily wrought miracles of healing, without in the least impairing the reason and sound judgment of Christians in those days, should now think that the re-enacting of the same supernatural work of mercy in behalf of suffering humanity will lead to fanaticism. Men say the body is of little account; the soul is what Christ came to save. Yet these very ones, when they get sick, spend thousands of dollars in doctoring or traveling for health. The fact is, the soul is not of much account in this world without a sound body in which to live and through which to operate. But soul and body can't be separated here. When the body suffers the soul suffers. Does not Christ have the same compassion now that he had on earth? Has he ceased to be a Savior of love and tenderness? Can he look on the pains and disabilities of his sanctified children with cold indifference.

The fact is, all disease of body as well as disease of soul, is the work of the devil, whatever be the natural causes through which he operates. When the soul is delivered and the body left in the chains of the enemy through disease, we do not realize the full redemption wrought out for us by Christ. If God esteemed the body of enough importance to make it the dwelling-place of our spirit, and to watch over its dust and raise it up to be the companion of the soul forever, does he not think enough of it to deliver it from disease and unchain the soul its fetters for holy service?

Does it not greatly belittle and dishonor Christ to assume that he is lacking either in power or compassion to deliver the soul from the pains and disabilities of a diseased body? A portion of the most learned of the Christian world believe that Christ has no power to deliver a soul from the carnal mind while we live in the body; that we are doomed to drag this "body of death" after us, until we go out of life. They regard those who teach that we may be "cleansed from all sin" and "filled with all the fulness of God" in this life, as the most rank fanatics.

Equally unreasonable and unscriptural is it to assume that the soul must be imprisoned in a body utterly unfit through disease to be its organ and home until death shall come to deliver. The common assertion that Christ wrought his miracles of bodily healing to merely attest his divinity, is not only without scriptural warrant, but positively denied by Christ himself. In Matt. 8: 16-17, it is recorded that Christ healed all that were sick, not to prove his divinity, but "that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying, Himself took our infirmities and bare our sicknesses." Here we see that Christ is not only our sin-bearer, but our sickness-bearer. As he bore our sins that we might not bear them, so he bore our sicknesses that we might not bear them. As he forgave sin by virtue of his mediatorial office, so he healed diseases—the bodily results of sin—by virtue of the same mediatorial work. Hence, while he only now and then wrought a miracle on external nature, healing, like preaching the gospel, was his every-day work. The record reads: "And Jesus went about all Galilee teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people; and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those that were lunatic, and those that had the palsy, and he healed them." It is significant to notice that sickness and demoniacal possessions are so often classed together in the gospels, as though the two were equally at war with Christ and humanity; the one binding the soul, the other the body. Christ was manifested as the conqueror of both. When he gave his commission to the twelve, and also to the seventy, it ran thus: "Preach the gospel, cast out devils, heal the sick." Has Christ's threefold work and threefold commission ever been revoked? In Acts 1: 1, Luke says: "The former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach." Mark the expression "began to do." His three year's ministry while incarnate among men, instead of being the completion, was only the beginning of his work on earth. It is to go right along, the same in nature, to the end of time, under the personal agency of the Holy Ghost. As well might we say that Christ's work of forgiving sins and casting out devils was limited to his own and apostolic times, as to say that the other work of healing the sick was limited to that period. In the Acts of the Apostles we see the Church, as God designed it to exist to the end of time, in active exercise. There we read not only that the sick were cured through the apostles, but Stephen, a layman, having no claims to apostolic powers or prerogatives, "did great wonders and miracles among the people." His only qualification for this work was the one still open to all God's children. He was "full of faith and power." Phillip, too, was a lay evangelist, having no claim to special power, but it is recorded of him: "Phillip went down to the city of Samaria and preached Christ unto them. And the people with one accord gave heed to those things which Phillip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did. For unclean spirits, crying with loud voices came out of many that were possessed with them, and many taken with palsies and that were lame were healed." (If some of our modern divines had lived then they would have made out that these marvels of healing could be accounted for on natural principles, but the people were then simple enough to believe God did it. Praise the Lord, there are many still not so wise but that they can recognize God when he works and speaks).

Do the inspired Epistles contain a revelation for the apostolic church, or the church in all ages? Are we at liberty to take our scissors and clip out what don't come down to our low faith and materialistic apprehensions. We are told in 1 Cor. 12: 28: "And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers." So far, all agree; teachers and prophets, those speaking under divine illumination, all agree are to be permanent; but now comes the following, "After that miracles then gifts of healing." Ah! says the modern expounder, nonsense! Do you think God is going to work miracles in these times? You will notice the Holy Ghost here as elsewhere makes healings distinct from miracles. Why? Not because healings are not miraculous, but miracles on external nature, which were always rare, even with Christ and the Apostles, were especially designed to attest the divinity of God's message or messengers, while healing all kinds of diseases was to follow as the regular work Christ was to perform by virtue of his mediatorial office.

Said Christ: "These signs shall follow them that believe; in my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with other tongues: they shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing, it will not hurt them; they shall lay their hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

Says Rev. J. A. Gordon, D. D., on this passage: "It is important to observe, that this rich cluster of miraculous promises all hangs by a single stem, faith. The same believing to which is attached the promise of salvation, has joined to it also the promise of miraculous workings. Nor is there any ground for limiting this promise to apostolic times and apostolic men, as has been so violently attempted. The links of the covenant are very surely forged, 'He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved' in any and every age of the Christian dispensation. And these signs shall follow them that believe in every generation and period of the church history—so the language compels us to concede. And let us not unbraided this two-fold cord of promise, holding fast to the first strand, because we know how to use it; and flinging the other back to the Apostles because we know not how to use it." The treatment the commentator Stier gives this passage is truly refreshing. He puts the two sayings side by side, and bids us look at them thus: Pistcusas. "He that believeth shall be saved." Pistcusasi. Them that believe these signs shall follow. Then he gives these strong words.

"Both the one and the other apply to ourselves down to the present day, and indeed for all future time. Every one applies the first part of the saying to ourselves; teaching everywhere that faith and baptism are necessary in all ages to salvation, and that unbelief in all ages excludes from it. But what right have any to separate the words that Jesus immediately added from his former words? Where is it said that these former words have reference to all men and all Christians, but that the promised sign which should follow those who believe referred solely to the Christians of the first age? What God hath joined together let not man put asunder."

We have hardly yet touched this great subject, but have written much longer than we intended. We would say in conclusion: First, bodily healing is not essential to holiness, neither should it be given undue prominence in our teachings, so as to divert the mind from the more spiritual work of Christ. It is not an obligation resting on a command, like that to be holy. It is held forth as the privilege of God's holy ones.

2. Faith in Christ as a healer, does not exempt one from obeying the laws of health, in food, labor, the care of the body, and all wise sanitary precautions against disease, any more than holiness relieves one of the necessity of obeying moral and spiritual laws.

3. Being healed once does not insure one against future disease, any more than being pardoned once insures one against sinning and needing pardon again. One must obey God, and daily look to him for physical as well as spiritual health.

4. People who have not the faith to be healed of the Lord should not deny themselves or their children the natural remedies and medical skill which experience has proved to be beneficial. In the absence of the higher healing power, we should not discard the lower.

5. It should be borne in mind, if some should even die trusting the Lord, it is no worse than thousands who die trusting doctors, and thousands more who are sacrificed to medical incompetency.

6. When men and women learn to live as God designed they should, in obedience to both physical and spiritual laws, ninety-nine hundredths of the diseases of society will disappear. It is the part of an enlightened and pure Christianity to teach people how to live so as to have sound souls in sound bodies.—The Pacific Herald of Holiness.

MADE MAD BY TOBACCO.

"YES," said the old physician, "I was in an insane asylum for many years."

"As a patient?"

"Well, hardly, though I confess constant association with insane people nearly set me crazy. I really believe I should have lost my balance if I had remained there. I should either have become insane or turned out a poet."

"How do you make that out? Are insanity and poetry akin to each other?"

"No, but they are only a step apart. One is sublimity, the other ridiculousness. If there is any poetry in a man I know of no other place where it may be developed so certainly as in the company of insane persons. Poetry and insanity both smack of the fantastic and grotesque, and in this are somewhat alike."

"Is it true that tobacco is often a cause of insanity?"

"I have no doubt that tobacco has helped many persons to become insane, though I do not believe it ever served as the single cause of a case of permanent insanity. Tobacco, however, sometimes induces a delirium tremens quite as dangerous as that caused by whisky and even harder to cure. It comes on very gradually and men break down under it before they know it, and you know most of the diseases that come slowly also go slowly. I have a patient now who was just on the verge of 'tobacco insanity,' as it is sometimes called, a few weeks ago. He came to me about the middle of October and said he feared he was becoming insane; that he had some of the most horrible and frightful thoughts and impressions, and felt sure he would sometime do something terrible if he were not cured of them. He was a pale, nervous man, with large, round eyes, and altogether a very intellectual looking face. He looked like a close student. I asked him if he had not been studying too hard, and he said he had once thought so, and had quit all study for several weeks, but found himself growing worse each day. He said he could not get rid of an awful feeling that something terrible was going to happen; it followed him wherever he went, no matter what he did. 'Why,' said he, 'my room is on the fourth floor, and I dare not sit by the window, or look out at it, for fear that I will yield to the awful impulse to jump out. And the horrible things that come to my mind—oh, they will surely drive me crazy, and I shall do some awful thing one of these days! Why only yesterday I was standing behind my mother's chair looking at her, and I thought that if I only had a good sharp ax what sport it would be to cut her head in two right sleek, and let the two halves fall down and hang on each side. And the longer I stood there the stronger became the impulse to do it, so that it finally took about all the strength I had to turn away and think of something else.'

"Then he told me how he saw things double, and sometimes saw himself coming toward himself with a big knife. 'Why,' said he 'I was walking home the other night, and, although I could see no one, I felt a man coming toward me. I thought him away off, several miles, but that he was coming toward me rapidly. All this time I knew nobody was coming,

Conference Minutes.

CENTRAL KANSAS DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Good Intent, Saturday, November 10th, 1883, at 2 p. m., David Williams presiding.

Branch Reports: Netewaka 29, including 5 Elders, 1 Priest; 1 baptized, 4 received by letter. Good Intent 25, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher. Centralia 25, including 2 Elders, 1 Priest. Scranton 35, including 5 Elders, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon; 1 baptized, 2 received by letter.

Elders' Reports: Isaac N. Roberts, Daniel Munns, William Lewis, Griffith George, James Buckley, John D. Jones, J. T. Kinnaman, William Hopkins, David Williams, J. B. Jarvis, Joseph Menzies, Alma Dodd; Priests Hiram Parker, Joseph McDugall; Teacher Watson Thatcher; Deacon Walter Menzies, reported.

Resolved, That we obtain the blank report forms from the office, so that we may give in the reports correctly and in proper order.

Resolved, That all officers give in their reports at the next conference, either in person or by letter.

Resolved, That we recommend Bro. Hiram Parker to the Bishop as his agent for this district.

Bro. William Lewis preached Saturday evening, assisted by Bro. James Buckley. Bro. Isaac N. Roberts preached Sabbath morning. Prayer and testimony meeting Sabbath afternoon. Preaching Sabbath evening by J. T. Kinnaman.

Officers present: Elders 12, Priests 2, Teacher 1, Deacon 1. The authorities of this Church were sustained in righteousness.

Bro. David Williams was sustained as presiding Elder, also Daniel Munns as clerk.

Adjourned to meet at Good Intent, Atchison Co., Kansas, the 9th and 10th days of February, 1884.

ENGLISH MISSION.

Conference was held in Crabbery Hall, Stafford, England May 12th, 13th, and 14th, 1883. Elder Thomas Taylor presiding, Elder C. H. Caton secretary.

The following delegates presented credentials. Birmingham District, Elder G. S. Greenwood. Manchester District, Elder James Baty.

Bro. Taylor reviewed the labors of the past year; and with words of encouragement exhorted the brethren to press onward.

A letter of condolence was by vote ordered to be sent to Sister S. Crump, expressing the sympathy of the conference with them in their loss by death of our brother, Elder H. C. Crump.

District Reports.—Birmingham: The branches, with one exception, in very good condition. The brethren alive to the importance of the work. In the report there are three items worthy of special notice. 1st. The opening of meeting rooms at Burton-on-Trent and Stafford. The one at the former place was built by brother Wm. Potts, and let to the Saints rent free. 2nd. The Sisters' Dorcas Society in connection with the Birmingham Temple Row Branch, besides making six baptismal costumes for the Burton-on-Trent Branch assisting the sick and aged of the Birmingham branches, has donated £4 towards discharging the expenses of the Temple Row Branch, and yet remains in a flourishing condition. The Temple Row Branch has also com-yet I could feel him, and was as sure in my imagination that I should soon see him as I was in my reason that I should not. The feeling grew in spite of me. I tried to fight it off with my reason, but the imagination was the stronger, and with the never-ceasing impression that something terrible was about to happen, I stopped under a street lamp, and sure enough right there before me stood an exact counterpart of myself. I knew I couldn't run away from it. Indeed, I knew there was nothing there to run away from, yet I could see it, and feel its presence. Finally I shut my eyes a moment, and when I opened them again the apparition was gone, and I went on home."

"Oh he told me a long rigmarole of that sort; said he often waked in the night and saw himself lying dead in bed beside himself; that he had, not less than a hundred times, been almost tempted to kill his little sister, just for the sake of seeing how she would look as a corpse; that he had wondered how it would feel to be stabbed through the heart, and had one night gotten out of bed and threw his pocket knife out of the window for fear that he could not resist the temptation to cut his own heart out and eat it, to see if it was sweet."

"What did you do for him, doctor?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I never thought of tobacco until he took out a cigar and lighted it. He seemed very nervous before that, but the cigar seemed to calm him, and he was quite jolly for a talk. Then I thought of the tobacco insanity, and made up my mind he was about to have delirium tremens. Carefully I questioned him and found that he smoked from a dozen to twenty strong cigars a day, and, as he put it, 'They're about the only things that do me any good.'

"The cure was very simple. I shut him up and took tobacco away from him gradually until he got through a day with three cigars and felt so much better that he was convinced his whole trouble was all due to smoking; and, of his own accord, resolved to quit it entirely. Of course I gave him some nerve-tonics and built up his general health, which helped him in his good resolution. He has not had a visit of the 'terrors,' as he calls his old sense of impending danger, or any of the terrible impulses, since he quit tobacco, and I think he is fully cured of smoking. I hope so, at least.—Chicago News.

Always write the Business portion of your Letter on a separate piece of paper, and let it be brief and explicit.

If you have anything to say to the Editor, or something you wish published, do not write it on the back of a business letter. Business is Business, and MUST BE done in a business-like manner.

menced to take up weekly offerings for general church purposes, which will be forwarded to the Bishop at the close of the year. 3d. There has been a change in the office of district president. Bro. John Seville resigned on account of old age; Bro. C. H. Caton was duly appointed to the office.

Manchester District.—The branches are in very fair condition, and the prospects for future results bright. The chief points are: (1st) The brethren of Manchester Branch have secured a hall to meet in, which they have entire control of. At their own expense, and by their own labor, they have fitted it with seats. (2d) A new branch has been organized at Wigan, where prospects for future good are bright.

Sunday morning preaching by brethren James Baty and Henry Greenwood of Manchester, and C. D. Norton of London. Fellowship meeting in the afternoon. This was a most enjoyable time. The Spirit of God was felt by all present, and our hearts were full of love; the time will long be remembered. The evening preaching meeting was conducted by the president. Brn. C. H. Hassall of Farnsworth, and Joseph Dew-nup of Manchester preached. Attendance of strangers throughout the day was very fair. Attention good.

Monday, the Bishop's Agent's report was presented, audited, found correct. Also, the secretary's report. The resolutions on church property passed at conference of 1882 were rescinded, because of impracticability.

By motion, the President and Secretary were requested to publish a periodical in the interests of the English Mission as soon as they found it practicable. A guarantee fund to ensure against loss was opened in the room, when the sum of £8 was promised by brethren present.

The authorities of the Church in America, England, and all the world, were sustained in proper order, in all righteousness.

Adjourned sine die.

MICHIGAN DISTRICT.

Conference convened at the Leitch School-house, Sanilac county, Michigan, October 13th, 1883, at 11 o'clock a. m. Bro. Duncan Campbell was chosen to preside, and Bro. J. J. Cornish as clerk, Bro. W. J. Smith assistant. The address of Bro. W. H. Kelley was read by W. J. Smith, after which the time until noon was spent in prayer and testimony. Afternoon session: 2 o'clock p. m., Bro. Kelley having arrived, by request of Bro. Campbell took charge of meeting.

Branch reports: Hersey 80, including 2 Elders, 3 Priests, 1 Deacon; 2 baptized, 2 received by certificate of baptism. Union 30, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1 Deacon. Clear Lake 62, including 1 Priest; 3 expelled. Black River 11, including 1 Priest. Forester 23, including 2 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Deacon, 1 Teacher; 2 added by baptism. Maple Valley 32, including 1 Priest; 1 baptized, 2 removed by letter, 1 marriage. Vassar 15, including 1 Priest, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon. Mill Creek 24, including 3 Elders, 3 Priests, 2 Teachers, 1 Deacon; 2 baptized, 2 received by certificate of baptism. St. Johns 37, including 1 Priest, 2 Teachers, 1 Deacon; 11 received by letter, 8 by certificate of baptism. Lebanon, 2 added by baptism. Coldwater 58, including 1 Apostle, 2 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher. Galien 76, including 1 High Priest, 1 Elder, 1 Priest, 1

Teacher, 1 Deacon; 2 baptized. Reese 25, including 1 Elder, 1 Priest.

Bishop's Agent reported balance on hand, October 6th, 1883, $7.27.

Official Reports: C. Scott (by letter, baptized 5), W. J. Smith (baptized 1), A. Barr, (baptized 3), J. J. Cornish, (baptized 9), E. DeLong, John Bailey, James Carpenter, Levi Phelps, Bro. Bogue, (baptized 2), D. Campbell, W. H. Kelley, J. Shook, (baptized 2), reported.

The officers and Elders of the district were all sustained by vote. A motion was sustained to take into consideration at the next conference the dividing of the district. The preaching by Kelley, Campbell, Smith and others, was well received by good sized audiences. Prayer and testimony meetings were also good with good attendance, and much of the presence of the Spirit.

Adjourned to meet the second Saturday in June, 1884.

FREMONT DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Shenandoah, Iowa, December 1st, 1883; Bro. Henry Kemp president, and J. M. Stubbart secretary.

Branch Reports.—Hamburg 26; including 2 Elders, 2 Teachers; 2 added by baptism. Mill Creek 18; including 2 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher. Keystone 53; including 2 Elders, 1 Priest, 1 Teacher, 1 Deacon. Elm Creek 34; including 5 Elders, 2 Priests, 2 Teachers, 1 Deacon; 1 added by certificate of baptism. Plum Creek 96; including 1 High Priest, 2 Seventies, 9 Elders, 2 Priests, 3 Teachers, 1 Deacon; 3 baptized, 3 removed by letter. Shenandoah 102; including 1 High Priest, 6 Elders, 2 Priests, 2 Teachers, 1 Deacon; 2 baptized, 2 received by letter, 2 removed by letter, 1 died.

Elders A. T. Mortimore, E. R. Briggs, George Kemp, W. W. Gaylord, G. E. Deuel, C. St Clair, E. C. Briggs, R. J. Anthony, S. S. Wilcox, D. Hougas, R. M. Elvin, H. Kemp, J. M. Stubbart, J. Goode, J. W. Calkins, Wm. Leeka, N. Taylor, Geo. Lush; Priests E. Weed, L. C. Donaldson, M. Stubbart; Teachers A. Hills, H. F. Durfee, J. B. Clines; Deacons Wm. Shick and L. D. Spery, reported.

The Court of Elders on E. F. Hyde's case reported that they found the charges not fully sustained, and recommended that the case be dismissed, and that the Elm Creek Branch be requested to give Bro. E. F. Hyde a Letter of Removal, according to the form and rules of the church. The conference adopted the report.

The Elders and Priests were requested to labor as circumstances permit. Brn. R. M. Elvin and E. C. Briggs were invited to labor in the district. Henry Kemp was sustained as District President for the next three months, and J. M. Stubbart as secretary, and Wm. Leeka as Bishop's Agent. The spiritual and temporal authorities of the church were sustained.

Resolved, That the Bishop's Agent seek to get the names of all the members in the district on his books.

During the conference brethren C. Scott, R. M. Elvin, E. L. Kelley and R. J. Anthony, preached excellent discourses. The prayer meetings were good. Strength of conference: 1 of the Twelve, 1 High Priest, 2 Seventies, 21 Elders, 4 Priests, 3 Teachers, 2 Deacons. Monday, Bro. E. L. Kelley lectured on finance.

Adjourned to meet at Dawsonburg, the 8th and 9th of March, 1884.

FAR WEST DISTRICT.

Conference convened at Delana Branch, November 24th and 25th, 1883, Elder J. T. Kinnaman in the chair, J. M. Terry and J. S. Constance secretaries.

Branch reports were read from Stewartsville City, Stewartsville, German Stewartsville, Pleasant Grove, St. Joseph, Center Prairie, Delana, Breckenridge, reporting a total present membership of branches reported, of 536, including 1 Apostle, 1 High Priest, 3 Seventies, 29 Elders, 16 Priests, 13 Teachers, 10 Deacons; received by letter 15, by vote 2, by baptism 5; removed by letter 24; died 1. Counting the last report of the branches not reporting, (Mount Hope, Starfield and Far West), it would make including known scattered members, a total in district of 536 [?], with 1 Apostle, 1 High Priest, 3 Seventies, 35 Elders, 19 Priests, 17 Teachers, 12 Deacons.

Bishop's Agent reported, which was adopted.

Elders J. M. Terry, A. H. Smith, J. D. Craven, James C. Ritchey, Geo. C. Smith, I. N. Roberts, (baptized 5), W. T. Bozarth, J. D. Flanders, James Drown, Walter Kinney, A. J. Seeley, Henry Hinderks, (baptized one), T. T. Hinderks, (baptized one), J. H. Snyder, (baptized one), and J. T. Kinnaman (baptized 6), reported in person; C. T. Orr by letter. Priests Chas. P. Faul, E. Casto, Fred. Uphoff; Teachers M. F. Beebe, Thos. McKee, reported in person.

The same district officers were sustained.

The district missionary fund not being in a condition to take permanent action upon, it was left in charge of a committee of three, to report to next sitting of conference.

Preaching Saturday night by Brn. I. N. Roberts and J. T. Kinnaman. Prayer meeting Sunday morning at nine, a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m., by Bro. A. H. Smith. Prayer meeting at 2:30 p. m. Preaching at 7 p. m., by Bro. J. T. Kinnaman. The Spirit of God was present, and as a consequence it could be nothing but a "good" conference.

Adjourned to meet at German Stewartsville Branch, on the last Sunday and Monday 24th and 25th of February, 1884.

Miscellaneous.

CONFERENCE NOTICE.

The next conference of the South-Eastern Ohio and West Virginia District will convene with the Liberty Branch, at the "Pine" church, Jackson county, Ohio, December 29th and 30th, 1883, commencing at 10.30 a. m. on Saturday. A full representation and reports from all Elders, and of all Branches, are desired if possible. Come saints and friends, one and all, and bring the Holy Spirit with you.

L. R. DEVORE, Dist. Pres.

BORN.

QUACKENBUSH.—At Rose Hill, Gage county, Nebraska, July 25th, 1883, to Mr. Monroe and Sr. Ludentia Quackenbush, a daughter. Blessed at Roperville, Neb., November 24th, 1883, by Elder Robert M. Elvin, and named Bertha Lillian.

MARRIED.

FOOTE—BRIGGS.—At the house of the bride's father, Nebraska City, Neb., November 29th, 1883, by Elder Robert M. Elvin, Bro. Harman D. Foote to Sr. Eunice L. Briggs. There was a goodly company present, and they all seemed to enjoy the excellent dinner. There was a bestowal of useful presents. May God crown them with a long and happy journey.

WILDEY—HAYER.—By Elder Thomas Hougas, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mission Branch, Illinois, December 6th, 1883, Mr. Charles R. Wildey of Decatur, Illinois, to Sr. Emma J. Hayer, of Mission Branch. May their love never be severed.

OLSON—HOUGAS.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mission Branch, LaSalle county, Illinois, by Elder Thomas Hougas, December 5th, 1883, Bro. Thomas E. Olson to Sr. Nellie M. Hougas. May the blessings of God attend them, and prosperity be theirs to enjoy.

SHEEHY—FRENCH.—In the Saints' Chapel, Fall River, Mass., Nov. 25th, 1883, by Elder John Potts, Bro. Moses Sheehy, of Providence, R. I., to Sr. Susanna French, of Portsmouth R. I.

"Tis done, the great transaction's done,"

Moses and Susie now are one.

And may they ever thus remain,

"Till Christ shall come to earth again."

DIED.

HANSON.—At Chatham Township, county of Kent, Ontario, of old age, May 22d, 1883, Bro. John Hanson. He was born in Pennsylvania, September 28th, 1784; baptized at Louisville, Ontario, August 14th, 1870. Bro. Hanson tried to live up to what he professed, and died, leaving a bright testimony behind. Funeral services by Arthur Leverton, November 21st, 1883.

CARTER.—At Santa Ana, California, September 30th, 1883, of consumption, Sister Mary Ann, wife of Bro. Irvin Carter. Sr. Carter was born in Brown county, Illinois, December 15th, 1830, and at her death was 52 years, 9 months and 15 days old. Funeral services conducted by Elder P. M. Betts.

TEACHING CHILDREN TO THINK.—An address to parents from the Committee on education of the Yearly Meeting of Friends, contains this hint. "As education neither begins nor ends with school, home influence has a most important part in it. Much depends on the readiness and patience with which a child's first questions in the field of knowledge or thought are answered. An encouraging answer will stimulate thought and investigation; and an unsympathizing and indifferent answer will leave the child to choose inferior ways of finding pleasure, and so begin to form the bliss of his life. True Christian tenderness and self denial can not be better exercised often than in trying to understand the mental difficulties of children who are not naturally quick of apprehension. It is in the very early years of life, generally, that the habit is formed of loving to think, or of disliking to think; and no doubt the scale has often turned in favor of disliking, on account of some difficulty which the child might have been helped to master by a sympathizing parent, but failing in its efforts, it becomes discouraged, grows tired of repeated endeavors without the pleasure of success, takes up the depressing belief that it can not think anything out, and goes on through life under this disability; and thus a loss of intellectual pleasure, and a turning to less profitable sources follow, as well as a failure to fill up the intended measure of usefulness."

We can not be too much on our guard against reactions, lest we rush from one into a contrary fault.

MASON & HAMLIN

Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for

QUALITY OF TONE!

BEAUTY OF CASES! and

GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN

Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,

149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

EVERYBODY READ!

JOHNS & ORDWAY'S

NEW-BEST-OF-ALL-OFFER.

WE have secured the management of the PEORIA ART UNION, and want an Agent in every town and city in the United States and Canada to collect Photographs, Tintypes, etc., to be Copied and Enlarged, in all styles of the art, and at prices that Defy Competition. We are aware that the prices usually charged for FINE INDIA INK and WATER COLOR PORTRAITS are such that agents are unable to procure one half as many orders as they could if prices were reasonable.

FINE FINISHED PORTRAITS

Are in demand in every locality. In nearly every home may be found old Photographs, Tintypes, etc.; a large number of these old pictures are the only likenesses of Deceased Persons. The family and friends would gladly prefer a fine life-like picture in place of the poor faded ones, if they could get them at a price within their reach. The prices we have made are for these people.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Agents who handle our work sustain no losses. We refund the full amount paid us for every India Ink, Water Color, Oil and Crayon Portrait, that can be shown to be imperfect. WE FURNISH A COMPLETE OUTFIT for $2.90, and upwards, according to size.

DON'T FAIL WRITE FOR WANT OF CAPITAL.

We still want Agents for our Bed Spring and Iron Heaters in every place where we have none. Our object is and has been to give profitable employment to both sexes, who are out of work, or who are seeking to better their condition, and earn an honest living.

If you will send us your address, we will send you full particulars of the business, and how to go to work.

We are yours in bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, PEORIA, ILLS.

1dec

C. A. WICKES,

REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE AGENT,

LAMONI, IOWA.

Prompt attention given to all communications.

I have a fine list of

Lands for Sale, also desirable Village Property.

Conveyance furnished to parties wishing to buy. 8d3m

BUTLER & CLAY,

Manufacturers of

COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,

WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,

903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

HOSE.

- Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
- Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
- Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
- Children's Wool Socks, 5 1/2 to 4 1/2 in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.

- Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
- Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.

- Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 35
- Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
- Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
- Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.

Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.

A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.

Yours in bonds,

BUTLER & CLAY.

22sep6m

ORGANS! ORGANS!!

THOSE wanting Organs, either for the House, Hall, or Church, will do well to remember that I keep and sell one of the best offered to the public in the west.

The A. B. Chase is the

BEST ORGAN FOR TONE, FINISH AND DURABILITY,

That I am acquainted with, and will be furnished to buyers at Reasonable Prices. Don't buy a poor one at any price; but get something that you can rely on. I have been twenty-five years in the business, and speak from experience. List Catalogues furnished on application. Address,

NORMAN W. SMITH,

1d3m

Box 29 LAMONI, Decatur Co., Iowa.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE

Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church, at their Publishing House in

LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,

And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

HOLY SCRIPTURES.

- Inspired Translation by Joseph Smith the Prophet. Sheep or Library binding ..... 1 50
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 2 00
- New Testament, inspired edition ..... 1 50

BOOK OF MORMON.

- Roan, sprinkled edges ..... 1 50
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 1 50

DOCTRINE AND COVENANTS.

- Sprinkled Sheep, or Library ..... 1 25
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 1 50

THE SAINTS' HARP--HYMN BOOK.

- Imitation Morocco, marbled edges ..... 1 25
- Imitation Morocco, gilt edges ..... 1 50

LIFE OF JOSEPH THE PROPHET, HISTORY OF THE REORGANIZED CHURCH, AND AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH SMITH.

In Cloth, full gilt finished, very handsome. This book contains 827 pages of large, clear reading matter; also, three very fine Steel Engravings, and a fac simile of the Autograph of Joseph the Prophet and Emma, and of Joseph Smith; also, Steel Engraving of Hyrum Smith. A complete history of the Church up to 1886.

CERTIFICATES AND REPORTS.

- Branch Statistical Reports, per dozen ..... 50
- Annual Statistical Reports, two for ..... 10
- Branch Financial Reports, per dozen ..... 30
- Certificates of Baptism and Membership, per dozen ..... 20
- Certificate of Removal, per dozen ..... 20
- Marriage Certificates, per dozen ..... 25

SONGS OF ZION.

By T. W. Smith, 40 pages, 10cts each, per dozen ..... 1 00

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

- Sunday School Engineer and Record Book ..... 35
- Prompt Attendance Tickets, 100 for 15c., 1000 for 1 00
- Good Behavior Tickets ..... Same price.
- No. 547.—Floral Tickets for Infant Class; 98 for ..... 25
- No. 486.—pack of 96 for ..... 20
- No. 106.—Fancy Borders, 2x2 1/2; 10 for 5c., 100 for ..... 40
- No. 461.—Book Markers, 2x6; 10 for 8c., 100 for ..... 70
- No. 281.—Book Markers, 2 1/2 x 6; 10 for 25c., 100 for ..... 2 25
- No. 371.—Flowers and Verses, 2 1/2 x 4; 10 for 10c., 100 for ..... 90
- No. 389.—Bronze Birds and Flowers, 3x5; pack of 10 for 20c., 100 for ..... 1 50
- No. 373.—Flowers and Verses, 3x4 1/2; 10 for 15c., 100 for ..... 1 25
- No. 469.—Flowers and Verses, 2 1/2 x 4; 10 for 13c., 100 for ..... 1 00
- No. 385.—Autumn Leaves, 3x6; 10 for 25c., 100 for ..... 2 25

PROPHETIC TRUTH.

Confirmed in the appearing of the Book of Mormon, an Israelitish Record of a Fallen People; paper covers; five for $1. Being the Subject of an Evening's Conversation Respecting its Origin. Its Divinity proved by the Scriptures and Collateral Evidence. Prefaced with a Brief Sketch of the Life of the Prophet, showing the way and manner of his becoming possessed of the Record.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH EDITOR.

Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.

All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

THE SAINTS' HERALD.

E. E. Johnson
box 484.

"HEarken TO THE WORD OF THE LORD: FOR THERE SHALL NOT ANY MAN AMONG YOU HAVE SAve IT BE ONE WIFE, AND CONCUBINES HE SHALL HAVE NONE."—Page 116, Book of Mormon, chap. 2, par. 6.
"WE BELIEVE THAT ONE MAN SHOULD HAVE ONE WIFE, AND ONE WOMAN BUT ONE HUSBAND: EXCEPT IN CASE OF DEATH, WHEN EITHER IS AT LIBERTY TO MARRY AGAIN."—Page 330, Book of Covenants and Commandments, sec. 109, par. 4.

Vol. 30.—Whole No. 555.

Lamoni, Iowa, December 29th, 1883.

No. 52.

THE SAINTS' HERALD:

Official Paper of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Published at Lamoni, Decatur Co., Iowa,
Every Saturday; price $2.50 per year.

The Traveling Ministry, District and Branch Presidents, and the Bishop's Agents, are requested to solicit new subscribers, and help make the weekly a success.

The Saints' Herald.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 29th, 1883.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BRO. W. W. BLAIR arrived at Lamoni, Saturday, December 15th, from Sandwich, Illinois. He has sold his property in the latter place and will make his home elsewhere, probably at Lamoni, for the future. He is looking in excellent health, and says that he does not think his health has been better for many years. He seems to be satisfied that the cause of the Reorganization is advancing in Utah, notwithstanding the hostility of the leading men of the Utah Church. Things are in motion, and must eventuate in sending the truth to the front.

Bro. J. A. Stromberg, of Healdsburg, California, visited Oakland, October 13th, and was there ordained to the office of Priest, by Elders H. P. Brown and J. B. Price, W. Anderson and D. J. Philips. A lady, seventy years of age, was baptized on the 14th, her birthday, by Elder Brown.

Bro. Alma Kent has kept up an appointment for preaching at Winkler's Mills, Riley county, Kansas, every four weeks for nearly a year. None have obeyed, but like a good soldier, Bro. Kent has kept the fire blazing. Doubtless reaping time will give the harvest. Sr. Fannie Hudson writes the foregoing, and states that her daughter came up from Minden, Kearney county, Nebraska, to visit her, and was baptized by Bro. Kent. Her husband's name is Stephen Smith, and if any of the Elders pass that way, they are requested to call.

We are using the John's and Ordway bed springs for over a year, and cordially recommend them to any who may have need of spring bottoms to their beds. With a good mattress, or a clean, sweet straw tick, they make a far healthier and pleasanter bed for a tired man to rest upon than any feather bed can possibly be. Try them.

Card from Bro. C. StClair, December 13th, gives him still laboring at Hamburg, Iowa. He reports a fair interest.

Sr. Webb, of Taylor Ridge, Illinois, writes, that although eighty-one years of age, she still rejoices in the faith of the gospel.

Sr. F. W. Grady writes from Rockford, Illinois, that she is anxious to see the work spread. She thinks that if they at Rockford would hear the word of truth as readily as they listen to the boy preacher, that great good would be done.

Any reader that has volumes of the "Times and Seasons," the "Elder's Journal," the "Morning and Evening Star," the "Missouri Expositor," the "Wasp," the "Expositor," (destroyed at Nauvoo), the "Millennial Star," or any paper published by the Saints before the death of the prophet, or any pamphlets or books published by the Saints before that time, can obtain a good price for them, if they wish to part with them, by notifying the Editor. Any considerable number of separate numbers would be accepted. Also Vols. I and II "Saints' Herald."

Bro. W. H. Schofield sends us from Hartville, Missouri, a large list of lands in Wright county, that State, which are offered for sale all the way from one dollar per acre to fair priced buildings and residences in town and village. Bro. Schofield will be glad to give information by letter to any one wishing to make inquiries.

THE present issue of the HERALD closes the 30th volume of the HERALD. From a small pamphlet, printed at a general jobbing office once a month, in 1860, the HERALD has grown first to a semi-monthly, then to a weekly of fair dimensions. It has been nobly sustained.

In taking leave of the year 1883, we desire to do so with so much of kindly feeling for all the discordant and disturbing things that have transpired in its passage, as is possible; and with just as little anger or hatred toward those against whose doctrines we have levied warfare, because we believed those doctrines to be erroneous and productive of evil, as is consistent with a Christian profession.

We congratulate the Saints on the spiritual progress of the year, for whatever else may be said of it, this is true, the Church has made improvement during 1883. We believe that one element which has greatly aided this improvement has been the weekly HERALD. We hope that our patrons are of the same opinion, and that they will still aid to continue the HERALD as a weekly by sending in their subscriptions early; and by securing as many additional subscribers as they can. Send them in.

The Elders in the field have greatly helped the HERALD, both by letters and the securing of subscriptions. We hope that they will continue to do this. Wherever the HERALD can do good, it is the desire of the Board of Publication that it shall go there.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Bro. H. C. Bronson, of Kewanee, Illinois, writes, December 14th:

Our conference passed off pleasantly. Bro. Blair was with us; he stopped off as he was on his way to Sandwich. His presence and wise counsel proved a blessing to us all. Bro. M. T. Short is now laboring about ten miles from Kewanee. All is peace and harmony here. I expect soon to visit Rock Creek and Keokuk. I rejoice in the great work of God.

A MR. BROWN, a minister of the Methodist Church, has been conducting a protracted meeting in the M. E. church at Lamoni, for some two or three weeks past, closing Monday evening December 17th. His labors were not very well rewarded by conversions, nor will he have very pleasant memories of his visit at Lamoni, from the fact that on Thursday, December 13th, the pair of horses he was driving in his rounds, were taken sick, and on Saturday the 15th died, at the premises of a Mr. Buck a mile or two east of Lamoni. Some suspicion is excited that the horses had been poisoned by some reckless and evil disposed person; but on a partial examination of the stomachs by Dr. J. J. Stafford, no evidences of mineral poison were found. It is not probable that the death of the horses was the result of poisoning; but should such be the case, we hope that the perpetrator will be speedily found and be punished as such evil deeds should be by law, severely but justly.

Correspondence.

The printed name on the colored label on your paper gives the date to which your subscription has been paid. If it shows you are in arrears, please renew.

Kewanee, Illinois,
December 11th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Our Kewanee District Conference, has just closed; and a more peaceful and spiritual time I have seldom experienced in the Church. We were rejoiced to behold the face of our worthy brother, W. W. Blair, whom we have reason to believe, by the guidance of God's Spirit, was directed to stop off at Kewanee, and attend the conference with us. He, by the request of our district president, presided over the conference with ability such as God giveth to his servants, and his preaching on Saturday evening and Sunday, was with power and in demonstration of the Spirit, while his testimonies were encouraging and strengthening to all present.

Sr. Sellon and Sr. Craig, of Burlington, Iowa, were present, and seemed to rejoice with us in the great work of God. Bro. H. C. Bronson, though urgently asking to be released from the presidency of the district, was by a heavy vote still sustained as district president; thus showing that his labors in the past were highly appreciated by the Saints.

May the God of all consolation and strength be with all Israel, is the prayer of your brother in Christ.

JOHN D. JONES.

SOUTH DURHAM, Maine,
November 22d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—I have been laboring as a missionary constantly since my appointment, associated mostly with Bro. Gilbert; some with Brn. E. L. Kelley and Zenas H. Gurley. The church through Maine was neglected full long enough. When we began work here, the outlook was cheerless indeed, some branches having had no regular meetings for a space of a year or more. In one district the interest had waned so that enough would not congregate to organize a district conference. Men holding priesthood, presumably called of God, some of as much as twelve or more years' experience, doing nothing, apparently trying to live upon the good times "we used to have," forgetful that those times were obtained by the application of the divine law, which has in it the element of perpetuity, and by proper development would "grow brighter and brighter unto the perfect day."

I once heard a vocal piece in Tremont Temple, Boston, descriptive of a Negro prayer meeting, where the opening remarks by the minister were based upon the text "Which way is your musket a pinto to-day?" As the meeting progressed, testimonies were offered. As usual, each one would expatiate upon the good times of yore. The minister would interrupt by exclaiming, "Nebber mind dat brudder. Which way is your musket a pinto to-day?" I have heard old time Saints dilate upon the enjoyment had in the old church, reflecting upon the Reorganization. Yet these same ones, when preaching to the world, inciting them to the blessings of primitive Christianity, argue, "like causes produce like effects."

The present aspect of church matters here is better. Hopeful for a continuance. Branches that were drooping are now reviving as fast as can be expected under the circumstances. There is in the church in Maine, as elsewhere, some of the salt of the earth. Honest hearted, noble minded people, some of whom in the days of early missionary labor here, obeyed the truth in the face of bigoted opposition, and cold, cruel persecution. Having stood the test of time, lived down their prejudicial surroundings, out-rode the storm of social ostracism, they are now enjoying the favor of prophetic fulfillment, "Ye shall find favor in the eyes of the people." We who are later on the stage as missionaries, find friends on every hand, abundant places to preach in. In fact we can calmly take our choice, as to where we preach, the chances are so numerous. Wonderful contrast with our predecessors, who were threatened and sometimes received mobocratic argument. We are not slow we trust to appreciate our privileges, and hope no act of ours will change the state of affairs.

The efforts of the Bishopric in the East have left an excellent impression. The labors of this class of church officials teaching and explaining their part of the work, will undoubtedly result well for the church. As they stand in their place and expound the financial law, the Spirit bearing witness thereto, the effect is genial, also familiar; because this matter of giving from the heart is what the Comforter has taught every one of us, by leading us into all truth. We have neglected to cultivate, and as a consequence other matter foreign thereto, has grown up instead. Now that our minds are stirred up by way of remembrance, it seems like the revival of old friendship. We having been "all taught of God" previously.

The idea of every man standing in his own lot and place, and there developing, is true gospel philosophy. We have the grandest system in our organization in the world, if only operated according to the "pattern." I notice that the Orthodox Churches are agitating the subject of devising some system to promote the work in the church, admitting thereby that they have not now a system adequate.

Among the evidences found in favor of the calling of the founder of the latter day work, is his sagacity as an organizer; for all the essential elements for the "kingdom of God" were given him, although in embryotic state, mustard-seed-like, developing as circumstances called for. But alas, erring mortality has in latter times, as well as in former times, attempted to embellish that, that needed no embellishment or adornment from puny man. The admonition to cease such work, and "return to the former commands" was unheeded. History repeated apostasy. Ambitious minds, whose end was self, are clearly traced, and their impress left. Now that our work seems to be reorganization, may we avoid the shoals on which others were wrecked, profiting by their example, and be ready for all emergencies is my prayer.

Taking everything into consideration, the work in these parts is improving. Send some more of those westerners along. They gave us just enough to whet up our appetite for more.

Bro. Bond is still here, and well appreciated. We are some displeased with Zenas, because he did not stay longer.

December 4th.—Since writing the above, I have attended Western Maine Conference, helping to fulfil a prophecy made by Father Gurley when here many years ago, that a certain church building would be opened for the Saints' use. We held our conference in it, so proved the prediction by the rule.

I forgot to mention that an emmissary from the Utah hierarchy, has been skulking around "down East." I use this harsh term because it is true in this case. He made an attempt to palm himself off among some of our people, but made a miserable failure, and has not since been heard from.

Yours in the great conflict,
FRANK M. SHEEHY.

DECATUR, Nebraska,
December 10th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—We are having some Christian preaching here now, by Rev. Sizemore; but he has not demolished us yet, and I don't think he will soon. He has not gotten so high but he can be reached with the sword of the Almighty. He says that confession is one of the fundamental principles of the doctrine of Christ. I am going to hear him to-morrow night, and if he tramples on our rights much more, I will give him one shot at least; for my prayers are that God may bless his people, and all the seekers of truth; for he has said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." My prayers are, that Israel may look forward to the gathering of Zion that we may be ready to meet our King when he comes "taking vengeance on them that know not God, and have not obeyed his commandments." Let us be up and doing, for now is the day of salvation. In the last Herald I saw Bro. E. L. Kelley's letter. It pleased me very much to hear that he was still alive after his debate with the Rev. Braden.

Yours truly,
WILSON W. WALTER.

PITTSBURG, Pa.,
December 13th, 1883.

Friend Herald:—I will report myself for the past six months, in the region whereunto I was appointed by the last General Conference. As soon as the inclemency of the Spring weather permitted, I left my home in Pittsburg, and attended the district conference, held near Glen Easton, Marshall county, West Virginia. After a short stay in that region, I passed into South Eastern Ohio, and there attended the district conference for that portion of the Church. The meeting was held at Centerville, Wayne county, West Virginia, the extreme South Western portion of the State. The sessions of the conference were well attended, as were the meetings subsequently held. Good interest was manifest throughout. They were profitable and edifying to Saints and other attendants, evinced by the earnest attention given. They accepted the doctrine presented as biblical. To use their own language, "You can certainly give reason for your hope." There were several Elders present who ministered the word of life. The field is a new one. Whether all the seed sown will produce fruit unto eternal life, time, which makes known the future, will unfold. Beyond doubt, impressions favorable to the truth were made, one was baptized, others expressed their intention of uniting with the Church. I remained a short time after conference, and spoke several times in the vicinity, and had liberty given for the occasions. At our partings, pressing invitations were given to return. On the return journey, I stopped and preached again several times, in and near the branches in Jackson county, Ohio. The branches in Jackson and Wayne counties, West Virginia, are the fruit of the labor of L. R. Devore, who has proved himself an efficient laborer and successful defender of the doctrine of Christ, in several instances. When pressed to discussion, his manner is calm and earnest. God has blessed his efforts, and will bless all who rely upon his arm. You are sent out "to teach, and not to be taught," is the word to his servants. "Israel shall never be ashamed, nor confounded, world without end."

During the past year I have traveled about thirteen hundred miles, sometimes feeling somewhat worn, but not really sick. I thank the Father of mercies for his care. Although thus favored, I lack the strength of former days. My memory fails, which is positive evidence of declining faculties.

As you are aware, Bro. G. T. Griffiths has been successful in his ministry in this district, and the labors of J. F. McDowell have been for good, building up the Saints. His labors are appreciated. I often thank God in my heart, for the raising up of our young men to perpetuate his work. It does my soul good to hear them. To me its a pledge of the successful issue of the work begun by the authority of heaven.

JOSIAH ELLS.

LACROSSE, Hancock Co., Ills.,
December 3d, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—We had a good conference at Burlington, December 2d; good meetings and a good time generally. Met with Bro. Short and Bronson, they taking part with the rest of the Saints in the business part of the conference. Bro. Short preached an able discourse Sunday at ten o'clock a. m. Bro. Bronson preaching Sunday night, with great power. Also, thereby convincing the Saints that they are able exponents of the word.

S. J. SALISBURY.

BLENHEIM, Ontario,
December 9th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—The Saints are all in middling fair health in this branch, and I believe are not sorry they are Latter Day Saints. Quite a number have moved away from here, which leaves our number quite small at present. We have two meetings on Sunday, and prayer meeting on Wednesday night. Some of us here take the Herald, and I wish all would; for I esteem it very highly, and think it a grand source to derive much spiritual food from. I do not see how the Saints can do without the Herald. For my part I am always looking for it every Saturday night. I like it very much as a weekly.

I have not seen Bro. Lake since he was here at our conference. He is down in the London District laboring now. There are three Elders laboring in the London District at present under General Conference appointment, but none here.

I believe the president of this district is out somewhere almost every Sunday, trying to blow the gospel-trump to those who will hear. I think your replies to L. O. Littlefield's letters, used him up entirely. That pet doctrine in Utah is getting rather stale. The truth will outshine error, no matter where it is preached, when prejudice is laid aside.

We have a railroad running in to this village now. It crosses the Grand Trunk and Canada Southern. It is finished to Wallacburgh. I believe it is the intention to complete it through to Sarnia next summer.

There are seven churches here, and just that many gospels preached in them; so according to Paul, there must be some perverted ones, for all can not be right.

Pray for us that we may do right. Yours in bonds,
RICHARD COBURN.

SOUTH RAWDON, Hants Co., N. S.,
December 5th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph Smith:—While in north-east Margaree, Cape Breton, where my father was born, and many of my relations still reside, I held meetings with fair congregations, with good liberty. Many in that place are investigating our faith, aided by tracts distributed among them. The expose in the Christian Messenger did us no harm, but tended to expose the ignorance of the Rev. Kempton. The Christian Messenger will not let us say one word in our defense in its columns, so its readers are regaled occasionally with falsehoods respecting our faith, etc.; and no one of its many readers or correspondents will or can tell the truth respecting the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; so they remain in ignorance of our faith so far as it is concerned.

While in Margaree, quite a number told me they were satisfied that our faith was in accordance with the Scriptures. One man told me that twelve years ago he met a stranger on the road, who at once began talking of the churches and said, All the churches are wrong; and by and by there will come here a church just like the New Testament church, teaching all that the old apostles taught. Its officers, gifts, governments and blessings, the same as in the days of St. Paul, and quoted from the scriptures many passages showing the restoration of the gospel before the end of the world. The man then said: "When I heard you I concluded that you was the man. I have been looking for twelve years, and I believe you have the truth; and if the people here had not started the report, that by and by you will teach some dreadful doctrine to us; after you have gotten us to join your church, although now your preaching is all right, you would have the largest following of any one here." He then said: "If you will stay here until next summer, you will have the largest protestant church on the Island." We thought if our preaching was all right, he had better heed it, then he would be prepared to detect and reject any false or dreadful doctrine that I or any one else might introduce. But he was not yet ready to take upon him the reproach of Christ.

We had a pleasant trip on the steamer from Port Hood to Picton; then with our carriage we traveled on to Kentville, scattering tracts by the way. We had the pleasure of meeting Bro. N. W. Best, of Gospel Swamp, California. We were refreshed and encouraged by our visit with him and the saints of Delhaven.

I hope soon after Christmas to visit some in Queen's county, and perhaps farther on to the westward. I expect the pleasure of Bro. John Deniock's company and help on this trip. I probably will not visit any more new places after that, as I will leave here for home the last of March, via Stewartville Conference.

There are many delusions in this land, much superstition, many traditions, and great darkness; but many good, true, honest-hearted people, very kind and hospitable. May God bless them with his Spirit to the discerning of the truth, is my prayer and desire.

Yours in the one faith,
JOS. F. BURTON.

NEW PARK, York Co., Pa.,
December 10th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—I was in Chester county, Pa., a few weeks ago, endeavoring to spread the gospel. I had a private debate with a Brighamite and convinced him and his wife that they were wrong, and they are now of our faith. The grace of God is with us.

Bro. Joseph A. Stewart was with us two weeks and three days, and he preached eighteen times. We went to Deep Run, in Harford county, Md., about thirteen miles from here. The Spirit of God directed Bro. Joseph, and some were convinced. I got a hall in Airville, and paid for the use of it. Bro. Joseph spoke four times there, and when he was done speaking the last time, they said that we might have the hall afterwards without pay. They are much pleased with our doctrine, and want us to come back and preach to them more. They say that it is the best doctrine that they ever heard. Airville is in York county, Pa., twelve miles from here. Bro. Joseph did a good work here also. The Lord is blessing his labors here. The work is spreading fast here, and the Lord is with us always. We are gaining favor with the people. We are getting places that we once could not get. The gospel is rolling on fast. May God bless his labors is my prayer.

Yours in the bonds of love,
M. O. MATTHEWS.

WALNUT CREEK, Macon Co., Mo.,
Decemer 6th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—Bro. George Hicklin has been here, preaching at the Bunce School-house. He has been here twice now. The first time he came was in September last. He was accompanied by my brother, David F. Winn. They spoke three times with good liberty. Also had good attendance and attention. Bro. Hicklin came back again on the fourth Sunday in November, and stayed until yesterday. He preached nine times while here. The third sermon was mostly on baptism, when he met with a little opposition by Mr. Bunce, who took the ground that Jesus did not baptize any one himself. He failed to give satisfactory proof to that effect, so preaching went on smoothly, with seemingly a little prejudice, until Friday night, when by request of a couple of friends, he showed the difference between us and those in Salt Lake City, which gave good satisfaction with very few exceptions. After that there seemed to be more interest taken in the meetings than ever. There was good attendance all the time, and the last night he spoke, the house was crowded, and some out of doors. There were men there from five to six miles away. The people treated Bro. Hicklin very kindly all the time, by their actions and their means also; and Mr. Bunce himself, I am told, said that he had never heard a sermon preached in that school-house until Bro. Hicklin preached it, and he is a Cumberland Presbyterian, and his people have preaching there once a month. Bro. Hicklin left many warm friends here, and they want him to come back again. There were several men in this neighborhood, that heretofore could scarcely ever be seen at meeting. These men are the heads of families, and they have attended our meetings regularly, and are interested, and say they will go to hear Bro. Hicklin, for he can tell something else besides death-bed stories, which they are used to hearing from ministers of other denominations. The prospect is good here for a branch to be started.

Yours truly,
SILAS A. WINN.

DOUGLAS, Massachusetts,
December 7th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I came to this place one week ago yesterday, in company with Bro. Coombs, of Plainville, partly for the purpose of holding meetings, encouraging the handful of struggling Saints, partly to administer to a sister who seemed low with hemorrhages of the lungs, and was pronounced incurable as a consumptive by the physician. We found her unable to walk, but sitting up, her limbs swollen, &c. God gave us the Spirit in power in administration, and our hearts rejoiced. Naturally faithless, I could but believe that God would bless her. I visited her yesterday, and found her walking about, and attending to some of her household duties. I praise God for his goodness. I believe that it is God's will that the sick should be raised up; but the natural law of our being is so constantly and ruthlessly violated, that if blessing is had, it too often must be through the claims of mercy. God has given his Saints a "Word of Wisdom" for temporal salvation, the only mark upon the door posts of modern Israel. I believe it was a revelation given to Joseph Smith by the Spirit of Truth, for the benefit of God's people. I believe it, because the same revelation was made in man's creation, by his wants and his needs. Reason and experience will prove its truth to those who obey. He that believeth shall be saved. Our failure to believe and obey, can no more alter the truth, than can the failure of the whole world to be morally and spiritually saved, and bodily quickened at the last day, by belief in and obedience to the gospel. Man lives, when he lives at his best, "by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God."

Bro. Coombs left Monday morning, and I have been holding meetings with good liberty and good interest manifested. Shall remain over Sunday, but expect to go to Painville next week. Hope and expect to meet Bro. Gilbert there. Thence to Boston, Plymouth, and Dennisport.

The calls are many, laborers few. The need of men who have the courage, wisdom and understanding of the law, sufficient to build for the church, slowly if necessary, but solidly and with a view to permanency, is very great. I sometimes think we have run too fast. Desire for office, something like strife as to who shall be greatest among us—forgetting Christ's lesson, "He that would be greatest among you," &c.; and that a moment's reflection ought to reveal the fact, that the imposition of the hands of all the priesthood of the church, from Joseph Smith down,—can not supply, or take the place of wisdom, experience, careful, prayerful, persistent study of the books of the church, or natural gifts or callings of God. Hasty ordination is an evil that perpetuates itself, and spreads abroad in hasty baptisms; and we hear of great revivals, numerous baptisms, and when we go around after a while, we hear something else that's not so agreeable. We can't do anything, people say, because we have so many unruly members. Some persistently stay away from meetings, are no support in any sense. The conduct and lives of some are such that we can not feel that they are even making a trial to do right; and sometimes the aggregate of the ignorant concerning the law, the careless and the wilful, outvotes the law abiding ministry, and it is impossible to successfully deal with an unruly member." Sometimes charity is made to "cover a multitude of sins;" but this is the mistaken mantle, which proves a covering so thin, that it fails long to hide persistent moral failures. We all need, and all should be ready to dispense mercy, and be always ready to remember, that as we fail here to render righteous judgment, so must we not complain, if here or hereafter our hearts are grieved, and our lives burdened, because people may have "judged according to appearances," which sometimes may be the worst and most cruel thing people are permitted to do. But the charity which I wish to have exercised towards myself and all, is that which prevents, not covers. Persistent, wilful violators of the law of this church, can neither help nor be helped by the church. But, "how oft if my brother offend me shall I forgive him? Till seventy times seven." Yes, if he confess, and make restitution. But I believe I may question the sincerity of the man, who does not make some effort to render this necessity less frequent than this. The Book of Doctrine and Covenants says in explanation, "By this ye shall know if they repent, when they forsake their sins, and do them no more."

But then there is the more pleasant side of the picture. The rich and the noble won't come into the feast; and if some of us are lame, halt, or blind, it only shows that the Master was a mighty prophet, who could look through eighteen centuries of unborn time, and indicate to us our position. Thanks be to God, it is as guests to the great feast, and members and heirs of the kingdom of God, if we have on the wedding garment. Yes, why should I murmur, as night after night God stands by me in the presentation of the gospel, which reveals the righteousness and mercy of God, in contradistinction to the unrighteousness and cruelty which the doctrines of men reveal. The evidences by which we appeal to the reason and hearts of men, that life and immortality are brought to light through the gospel, by appeal to prophecy fulfilled, to the grandeur of the moral character of Jesus, the purity of his commands, and last of all, the high, pure, spiritual test which we are enabled to boldly present, through the power of the Spirit, and offer to the willing-to-be obedient believer. "It is written in the Scripture," said Jesus, "and they shall be all taught of God." I find honest, pure hearted Saints everywhere, of whom this can be said in truth. "As it is written, the just shall live by faith." The unjust live upon what the senses can grasp; but the things which are seen we know are temporal, and perish with using.

"The righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith." By faith we walk onward and upward "the narrow way." The clouds dim our natural eyes, and obstacles rise before the natural man. Through faith we walk steadily on, in an unknown country, as did Abraham, "not knowing whither he went." Our pathway lies through rough and thorny roads, places our feet have never trodden before, trials we thought we never could endure are passed; the clouds part, and the glory and testimony of God for the moment are revealed, and we rise to higher heights. Again we press on, again the clouds hang over—envelop us, and cover our pathway. Again and again are we called to "endure as seeing him who is invisible." But we can not shut our eyes, nor close our reason to the fact that we have risen, that the path though thorny and rough is pure; and so we are trying to span this little stretch of time, three score and ten at longest, probably much shorter; for us, abiding in the faith that temporal present loss, is eternal and abiding gain.

Yours in the faith,
MYRON H. BOND.

DAVID CITY, Nebraska,
December 4th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph:—I never expect to live without the Herald. I'm without the society of the Saints, and very seldom see an Elder; therefore, how could I survive without that soul-cheering, improving, encouraging, and preaching paper.

I have been anxiously waiting for an Elder to come and deliver a course of lectures. I think there would be no trouble in securing a place to preach in. By the way, a church lot is standing waiting for some one to claim it, by building on it. I have hoped that we might be the favored ones, and that God's standard might be planted here; but it seems that the Elders are busy everywhere else. Perhaps the time has not come yet. I hope it soon will. I believe there is many an honest heart here.

Your sister in Christ,
JENNIE KRAHL.

INDIAN RIVER, Maine,
December 12th, 1883.

Dear Herald:—No department of the Herald is read with more interest by me, than the correspondence; so by the principle of the Golden Rule, all parts of the "One Body" should add their testimonies, confirming, strengthening, blessing the whole.

Here in Eastern Maine, there are some faithful Saints, and some live branches. Some have gone out from us, become indifferent to their covenant vows, and seem to take more pleasure in the things of the world than in striving to fear and serve God. But with all that can be brought to bear against the truth, it is the testimony of your sister, and of many others of my brethren and sisters, that we know the Spirit of God witnesses with our spirits, to the truth. We know, inasmuch as we are faithful, we receive; "if we seek we find, if we knock it is opened unto us."

We have been much encouraged and strengthened by the labors of Bro. Gilbert and Sheehy; also Bro. E. L. Kelley and Z. H. Gurley. Our duties financially have been plainly taught us by Bro. Kelley, and I think in the future we will be able better to understand and do our duty in that direction, than we have been in the past. The faithful members in all this Eastern Maine District, would gladly by their freewill offerings, their mites' sewing circles, and in all righteous ways, sustain the preaching of the word among us. We hope we won't be left out in the cold in this regard. No doubt an earnest, efficient laborer; one who lived his religion would gather many souls into the fold of Christ; and reclaim those who are out of the way.

My sympathy and love have been much drawn out towards Sr. Emma Burton. I read letters from her pen with much interest. God bless you, sister, in your labor of love. Could it not be so arranged that Bro. and Sr. Burton could make a visit to the branches in Maine, after their mission in Nova Scotia has ended? We would be glad to welcome them here. With desire for the prayers of all Saints, I remain your sister in the gospel of Christ,

S. H. JOHNSON.

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss.,

December 2d, 1883.

Dear Bro. Joseph.—I saw in your Herald where Bro. Heman C. Smith talks on tobacco using, which is sensible. I have been using it more than fifteen years, which father and mother were opposed to; but by being in company with others that used it, I could not forbear tasting and smoking, until I look for it all the time, and I am a real tobacco destroyer; I use too much. It costs me at least forty-five to fifty cents per week for tobacco, which will be twenty-three to twenty-five dollars per year for tobacco. What an amount of money is burnt up every year. If it was put to good use it would certainly do some good. From this day on, I will quit the use of tobacco of every kind, and give my money to the church, which will be some benefit.

Brethren and sisters, let me through the Herald hear of some more quitting the use of tobacco, which is poison to man's system. I hope by talking through the Herald, several will quit. It is a slow way of killing any person. I have spent several dollars on its account. Please study the matter for your own benefit, and make a resolution to quit, and give that part of your money to the church, which will help roll on the good Master's work. Then we can have some hope of seeing the good of our money; please let me hear of some more quitting its use.

I remain your brother in bonds of love,

JOHN W. F. LIVINGS.

NEBRASKA CITY, Nebraska,

December 10th, 1883.

Dear Brother Joseph.—We had at the dedication of our little church a blessed time, quite a feast, which we will call to our minds many times with love and thankfulness to God. We felt so good in having you present with us. It was a sacred joy to our hearts to behold the face, listen to the voice of our beloved prophet.

When I was a child about twelve years old, in reading of our Savior, the apostles and prophets of old, I was moved to tears to think of how blessed I should have been had I lived in those good days. I could already at that age understand that the preachers and teachers did not preach and teach according to the pattern of the Savior and his apostles. I could see that what they called the gospel was not at all like it was taught in those days; and the preaching I heard discouraged me. But no more than four or five years later in the City of Copenhagen, Denmark, in the year 1860, I was permitted to hear the longed for word preached by the Mormon Elders sent out from Utah; their words went right to my heart with a sudden joy, as if I had found again a precious jewel once lost. Their preaching was about the first principles of gospel, and was as plain and true as the preaching of our own Elders of to-day. Nothing was said of polygamy publicly, as early as 1860, in those far off countries. I received and obeyed the word, was baptized and confirmed, and I considered myself among the most blessed of humanity. Felt as if I had come into a sacred nearness with God and the holy angels. In 1866 I came to this place, where I still live; was re-baptized the same year, together with my husband, James Thomson, by Bro R. C. Elvin. The love of the gospel has always been aglow in my heart, first kindled there by the good Spirit from on high. That same Spirit has been a faithful guide to my mind, to lead me safe past danger and temptation thus far; and I shall continually strive after it, rely upon it, and with thankfulness listen to its gentle voice. It is peace and contentment to the soul.

We have lately had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of another soldier of the Lord, a noble, high-minded, true-hearted man, Bro. Columbus Scott. Thanksgiving day he preached to us twice, and we have heard and seen so much of him, that we will henceforth remember him in love to God. Our two days' meeting the 2d and 3d of December was presided over by our esteemed brother, J. Caffall. Was well attended, and we consider that much good has been done in this place of late. Many strangers attended our meetings. Our branch is in a good condition, and the Saints are united in the sweet bonds of love, peace and good will.

Your sister,

NICOLINE THOMPSON.

BARNARD, Missouri,

December 6th, 1883.

Bro. Joseph.—I have not done much work in the cause. I labored in Iowa some before I came to Missouri. I intend to labor some this winter. There is a large branch of the church here. We have meetings every Sunday. They are well attended. There are also many honest hearted people here, who will, I trust, in time unite with us. I intend to do all I can to help the good cause on. I desire the prayers of the Saints, that I may become an instrument in the hand of God to bring many souls to Christ.

I remain your brother in bonds,

GEO. W. WALTERS.

Summary of News.

Dec. 13.—The latest advices from Hue, the Capital of Annam, confirm the correctness of of the report that Hiephma, the King of Annam, is dead, and that he was murdered by secret enemies acting in the capacity of servants in the royal household. He was poisoned, the drugs having been placed in his food. It is understood that the poison administered was of foreign manufacture, and suspicion points to French treachery. Hiephma was a younger brother to Tu Duc, who also died by poison soon after signing the enforced treaty with the French, giving the latter the right of occupying Hue. The death of Hiephma has caused a tremendous sensation in China, and has aroused the Anamese and Tonquinese to indignation. The Mandarins of Annam have publicly resolved to ignore the treaty forced by the French from Tu Duc recognizing the French occupation of Annam. The Mandarins of Annam have proclaimed war against France. Admiral Courbet, commanding the French squadron in China, has notified the French Government that it is imperatively necessary to immediately reenforce the French army in Hue. Three thousand fresh troops have been ordered to proceed at once to Tonquin from France. Haipong is strongly fortified by the French. Palisades and block houses have been erected. The French Senate has voted urgency upon the Tonquin Credits bill. The Marquis Tseng says an amicable settlement is still possible.

The British War Office is daily issuing orders in reference to the shipment of supplies and war material to British ship stations in China. The steamer Hankow, under orders to sail next Wednesday, is shipping heavy guns and howitzers.

The French continue marauding expeditions along the coast of Madagascar. They bombarded Mahombo and some small ports in Antongil Bay and Vohemar, British Sound. Landing at Vohemar, they burned the town and destroyed a quantity of British property over which the British flag was flying. The Hovas retired from the town.

The subject of the education of the colored people, is receiving attention from that race in Georgia.

More than sixty steamers and sailing vessels are overdue at Philadelphia, Pa. The schooner Joseph Hilton, from Darien, Ga., Sept. 4, with 400,000 feet of lumber, has been given up by her owners. She was commanded by Capt. O. H. P. Roberts, and was valued at $50,000. The Norwegian bark Proctor sailed from Hamburg July 27th, and was last seen at Eddystone, Aug. 27th. The bark Fannie Loring, valued at $25,000, with Capt. Soul and ten men, left Nov. 7th for Portland Me. The schooner Earl H. Potter left Pensacola, Aug. 22d, for New York with 350,000 feet of lumber and ten men. She was valued at $30,000. The above vessels are reported as lost.

Dec. 15.—A religious war has broken out between the Mussulmans and Christians in Cairo, and it is feared that bloodshed may follow almost any moment.

It is stated that, owing to the revolution in Hue and the death of King Hiephma, the Government has ordered Admiral Courbet to remain upon the defensive until further reenforced. An uneasy feeling is again apparent here, owing to the silence of the Government in regard to affairs in the East. The bourse is agitated and prices are drooping.

A strong shock of earthquake was felt in Konia, in Asiatic Turkey.

Five of the cases brought against the Utah Commissioners for illegally depriving certain citizens of the elective franchise, which were submitted in October last to the Third District Court, were to-day decided by Judge John A. Hunter in favor of the Commissioners.

Dec. 17.—An important movement looking toward the solution of the land question in Ireland has been begun by the Earl of Devon. His Lordship was for many years connected with the administration of the poor laws, and is the owner of many acres of farm lands in County

Limerick, Ireland. He recently proposed to his Irish tenantry that they should buy their holdings and thus become proprietors in fee and independent of landlords and landlordism. While the tenants were considering this proposal Mr. Parnell wrote a letter which he sent to each of the tenants advising them not to pay more than the amount of sixteen years' rent as the purchase price of their farms, and not to offer to pay more than they could afford in view of the probable prospective yield of the land. The Earl's proffer and the agitator's letter have formed the principal topics of discussion in Limerick lately, and a general meeting of the Devon tenantry was held in that city this afternoon. After a long and temperate discussion of the situation the assembled tenantry decided to abide by a valuation of their lands, to be fixed in each case by two arbiters, one of whom is to be appointed by the landlord and the other by the tenant. This action seems to promise a peaceful and equitable solution of the land question as far as the Devon estate is concerned, and it is expected that other landlords will follow the Earl's example.

A well-known native with Hicks Pasha's army has returned from El Obeid, whence he was enabled to escape because of his black color, and because he wore no uniform. He says Hicks Pasha fought like a lion and was the last of the officers to fall. The members of his staff fell in one group. After the battle 150 soldiers were found wounded. El Mahdi gave orders that none of the wounded should be ill treated. The bodies of the Egyptian and English officers were decapitated and the heads hung over the gate of El Obeid.

The Arabs have determined to erect a monument for Hicks Pasha on account of his great bravery. El Mahdi has forbidden that Vizitely, the Graphic artist, be ill-used. El Mahdi has threatened to punish Zargallas because he failed to join him. The Sheik has sent a defiance, saying he has 15,000 warriors and seven years' provisions.

Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says: All branches of trade are depressed. Trade in foreign wheat off stands is very dull. The large and increasing visible supply in America is regarded with growing mistrust. Foreign flour is in small supply. Mixed American maize has maintained its value. Oats steady. There is very little trade in wheat off coast. Eight cargoes have arrived, two were sold and three remained unsold. Sales of English wheat for the week were 70,130 quarters at 39 shillings 5 pence a quarter, against 48,833 quarters at 41 shillings 6 pence a quarter the corresponding week last year.

James A. Miller, the Attorney-General of Manitoba, passed through Chicago to-day. To a representative of the Tribune he gave his views of the present dissatisfaction of the people of his province. That dissatisfaction, according to Mr. Miller, is rapidly dying out, and has existed at best only as a minimum quantity.

The Legislature of Washington Territory has adopted woman suffrage, and a large meeting of the settlers has petitioned President Arthur to appoint a woman Governor of the Territory.

Dec. 18th.—The London police are closely watching the houses of the leading Irish Nationalists. It is reported that the Lord Mayor has received anonymous letters threatening to blow up London Bridge and Newgate. The detectives who were withdrawn from the prison after O'Donnell was hanged have been returned there. Extra police on and about the bridge watch the arches and examine all craft passing and scrutinize all persons crossing. In consequence of threats to avenge O'Donnell armed policemen guard Hawarden Castle, the residence of Gladstone.

A special corps of police has been detailed to guard the Parliament building, Westminster Abbey, the Government offices, National Gallery, German Embassy, Stock Exchange, and Bank of England. The luggage of all passengers landing from the Atlantic steamers is carefully scrutinized.

Baker Pasha has started for Suakin, Egypt, and will reach Suez to-night. He will have supreme command of the Soudan. The Khedive has instructed him to endeavor to conciliate the tribes before resorting to force, the object of the expedition being to pacify the country between Suakin and Berber. Toka is holding out well, although short of ammunition. The town has been twice attacked. Sincat is short of provisions and in a precarious situation. An expedition is preparing to relieve the latter town. One hundred and fifty artillerymen have gone from England to Egypt.

Great excitement prevailed in Canton, China, yesterday on the arrival of the American Presbyterian missionaries, Mr. Henry and Mr. White, with a native Christian preacher, from Shek-loong, about sixty miles east of Canton. During a riot in that town the chapels were destroyed and many worshippers seriously injured. The native preacher was also severely hurt. A Roman Catholic priest arrived later under military escort. The Canton Nihilists are causing excitement by the circulation of rumors that large quantities of powder are concealed in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Canton, and they threaten to blow the edifice down. It is a splendid building, of imposing height, and has ever been an eyesore to the Chinese. Quiet has been only maintained by the presence of gunboats and of the military in the city.

The French Chamber of Deputies voted the supplementary Tonquin credit of 20,000,000 francs for the first six months of 1884. A Saigon dispatch states that the French Resident at Hue will not recognize the new Annam Government and has broken off relations. Gen Millot will start for Tonquin Wednesday to take command of the French troops.

Dec. 19th.—At the weekly meeting of the Irish National League to-day the financial affairs of the body were stated to be flourishing, the receipts for the week being £1,094, which includes the sum of £1,000 from Australia. The general condition of the agitation was reported as favorable.

Frequent skirmishes have occurred recently between the Austrian troops and marauding bands. The former have suffered serious losses. It is feared that one company of Austrians have been captured and massacred.

It is reported that the Chinese forces are concentrated at Hung Hoa, twenty miles above Sontag, on Red River, and at Bacninh.

Some of the papers published rumors that Admiral Courbet has occupied Sontag without resistance, the Chinese evacuating the place upon the French advance.

FIRES—STORMS—ACCIDENTS.

Dec. 6th.—The premises of A. Ransom & Co., sawmill engines and woodcutting machines, King's Road, Chelsea, has burned.

A fire in the Hasskeui quarter Constantinople, inhabited by Turks and Jews, raged for eight hours yesterday. Hundreds of houses were destroyed. Much distress prevailed. The Government is relieving the sufferers. Six hundred houses, a Greek church, and four synagogues were destroyed. A snow storm was prevailing at the time, which added greatly to the sufferings of the homeless people.

A fire raged this afternoon and evening in the old national Palace at Brussels, Belgium which has caused a loss it will probably be impossible ever to repair. Many records have been destroyed which were invaluable, and the destruction of the building itself, which was built by Maria Theresa, is regarded in the light of a national calamity.

Snow and frost are reported from various parts of England today. Severe storms on the coast for a day or two past have caused many wrecks.

Loss by fire at Kalamazoo, Mich., $25,000. Marietta, Pa., $20,000. Anderson, Ind., $7,000. Fargo, Dak., $4,000. Near Missouri Valley Ia., $5,000.

A snow and wind storm visited Denver, Colo., last night which in its disastrous effects is without parallel in the history of Colorado. Snow commenced falling about noon and continued all night. The weather being warm the snow attached itself to telephone wires until they were two inches in diameter. At four this morning the wind blew almost a gale, and in about half an hour 300 poles eighteen inches in diameter were blown down, carrying the mass of wire along. Fifteenth, Eighteenth, and Lawrence streets for a dozen squares were blocked. All trains were delayed, and until this evening outside communication was completely cut off. The telephone companies will probably lose $15,000. The damage to the railroad, telegraph, electric light, and district messenger companies is heavy.

The three fishing schooners Sultana, Rufe Groves, and Maud S. Leighton have been given up by their owners as lost during the gale of Nov. 12. This makes a total of sixty-eight fishermen reported lost during that gale.

The firemen continue to play upon the ruins of the burned portion of the palace of Legislative Chambers at Brussels, Belgium. Nearly all the documents connected with the foundation of Belgian Independence, including the original constitutional charter, were destroyed. The damage by the fire is 12,000,000 francs.

The Sultan has given £1,000 sterling toward the relief of the sufferers by the fire in the Hasskeui quarter at Constantinople. The homeless people have been temporarily lodged in immense barracks near the scene of the fire.

Loss by fire at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, yesterday, $100,000. Williamston, N. C., the entire business portion of the town. Crystall Falls Mich., $10,000. Plymouth, Ind., $7,000. Plainfield, Ind., incendiary, $7,000. Evansburg, Ind., $3,500. New Richmond, O., $30,000.

Dec. 9.—Loss by fire at Erie, Pa., $500,000. Rockport, Mass., $500,000. Newburg, O., $100,000. Neoga, Ill., $8,000. Indianapolis, Ind., $15,000. The first of these fires was in a rolling mill, the second a cotton mill, the third a rolling mill, the fourth a grist mill, and the fifth a lounge factory and ware house.

Dec. 10.—Tonight the police succeeded in capturing the firebugs of Milwaukee, Wis., although it has been held that it could not be possible that the fires were the work of irresponsible boys, as the detectives would be sure to catch them. It turns out that all of the firebugs are little fellows, none of them being over 15 years old and what is most surprising is that all of the boys are sons of men of considerable prominence in business and social circles.

Some months ago part of these boys, in company with others, fired by dime novels and stories in boy's papers, organized themselves as a gang of freebooters. They secured a limited outfit and prepared to start for the plains of the West, where they intended to emulate the deeds of noted cowboys. They intended to start at midnight, but their failure to return home at a seasonable hour in the evening led to a search which resulted in the frustration of their plans. They then set about plans for fires in different parts of the city. The West boy took part in only one of the incendiary attempts—that at the Fourth Ward public-school building, the first of the series. The other three did the rest of the work.

Loss by fire at Pine Bluff, Ark., $125,000. Baltimore, Md., $8,000. One woman was fatally and another seriously injured in this fire. Dallas, Tex., $6,000. Hillsdale, Mich., $13,000. St. Joseph, Mich., $5,000.

The steam barge, Enterprise sank on Lake Huron, and eight lives were lost. Five men were drowned by the capsizing of a boat in the St. Lawrence River.

About ten o'clock this morning a boiler in the sawmill of Shipley Bros., at Claypool Ind., exploded with terrific force, tearing the mill into fragments, killing the engineer, and so badly wounding two workmen that they cannot recover.

The snow is four inches deep at Saultillo, Mexico, this evening. The occurrence is unprecedented, and greatly alarms the more superstitious and ignorant Mexicans. It is reported to be four feet deep in the mountain gorges of Monterey.

Dec. 11th.—The Court House was burned at Butler, Pa., loss $50,000. Loss by fire at Carrington, Dak., $27,000. Oskaloosa, Ia., $37,000. St. Paul, Minn., $100,000. Near Dayton, Ind., $3,000. Buffalo, Ia., $3,500. McBride's, Mich., $10,000. South Norwalk, Conn., $25,000. Georgetown, Mich., $47,000.

An oyster sloop capsized in a recent storm on Chesapeake Bay, and the entire crew of nine persons perished.

Dec. 12th.—Violent gales prevailed through England last evening, and caused much damage in London and in the provinces. At Wolverhampton, the Exhibition Building, which was only partially completed, was destroyed. Huge trees were torn up and carried away. The low-lying districts of Birmingham were flooded. A portion of the roof of a church at St. Chad, Derby, was demolished. The Congregational Church there was also injured. The parish church at Rotherham was much injured. The chimney shafts were thrown down at Manchester, Leeds, etc. A large gas holder near Bradford capsized and the chemical works at Widnes were damaged. The Leicester carriage works were destroyed. At Birkenhead great damage was done. The chief officer of a steamer just arrived from Glasgow was killed. At Pool, cabs were overturned and many buildings damaged. At Lincoln the parapet of the tower of the cathedral was blown down. A ship was blown from her moorings at Belfast harbor. At South Shields vessels broke adrift and three wharves were sunk. The British ship Liverpool, from Quebec to Greenock, is a total wreck near Stranraer, Scotland. Only a man and boy were saved of the crew. Two persons were killed at Hull and several injured. A portion of Portsmouth is flooded. At Hartlepool many ships were damaged. At Birmingham two persons were killed and a number injured. Three were killed at Manchester. At Dewsbury three were killed. At Chester a man was blown down into the street and killed. Two persons were killed at Liversedge. A portion of the roof of St. Mary's Church at Berwick was destroyed and several houses in the suburbs of Nottingham were blown down. At Kildwich a gasometer was demolished. The Postal-Telegraph Inspector was cut in halves at Leeds. At Bradford the monuments at Undercliff Cemetery and a portion of the depot of the Midland railway were blown down. Several vessels docked in the Mersey were damaged. Two vessels were wrecked at Dunure, Scotland, and two men drowned. The lowlands of West Lancashire and the Garstang district were flooded. At Glasgow the damage to property was very great.

Dec. 13th.—Loss by fire at Hartland, Wis., $8,000. Manhattan, Ill., $4,000. Van Alstyne, Tex., $18,000. Paduka, Ky., $50,000. New York City, a ferry boat valued at $10,000. At Rochester, New York an old lady was burned to death by a fire, which was started by her using coal oil to kindle a fire.

A collision between two trains near Savannah,

Ga., killed one man, and severely injured four others.

A hurricane in the Province of Alicante Spain uprooted 400 olive trees. At Denia an immense sea demolished the quays, inundated the town, and wrecked fourteen vessels. The flood in the Scheldt has subsided. Considerable damage was done.

Dec. 14th.—The cotten mill of Jones & Co., at Leigh, Eng., burned yesterday morning. Loss, £30,000.

At Reeve's Landing, Tenn., a river steamer was burned to the water's edge. Loss $30,000. Loss by fire at Lowell Mass., $50,000. Minneapolis, Minn., $20,000. Chicago Ill., $500. Benton Harbor, Mich., $20,000. Holmburg Pa., $60,000.

In Tuesday's gale off the English coast the freight-steamer Duke was wrecked and her crew of twenty-one all drowned. The clipper ship Albertine was driven out of sight while being towed into the harbor of Greenock.

Dec. 15th.—Loss by fire at Winona, Minn., $123,250. Franklin, Ia., $200,000. Moorhead, Minn., $2,100. Five persons were seriously injured. Near St. Louis, Mo., $17,000. Kansas City, Mo., $12,000. Waterbury, Vt., $25,000.

The greater part of the temporary buildings erected in the great square at Alexandria Egypt, after the bombardment by the British fleet have been burned.

Dec. 17th.—Loss by fire at Candelaria, Nev., $80,000. Milwaukee, Wis., $7,000.

Last Wednesday night the Mary Ann Hulbert, a small schooner plying along the north shore of Lake Superior, went down with no less than twenty souls on board. A tug was towing the vessel. The commander of the tug, it is alleged, cut his tow-line in a gale and abandoned the schooner's crew to their watery fate.

Dec. 18th.—At Lisbon, Portugal, the Government dock-yard, general warehouses, and the training-brig Cameocus have burned. Damage $100,000. No lives were lost.

Loss by fire at Lyons, Ia., $10,500. Tama City, Ia., $4,000. Ishpeming, Mich., $2,000. Muncie, Ind., $2,000. Farmland, Ind., $17,000. McLean, Ill., $7,000. St. Louis, Mo., $5,000.

A great storm has caused much damage to houses in the Town of Abadia, Turkey. Six large ships and fifteen coasting vessels were lost and the crews drowned.

The bursting of two boilers, at Pittsburg, Pa., severely injured six persons, three of them probably fatally.

Dec. 19.—Loss by fire at Baltimore, Maryland, $375,000. Eau Claire, Wis., $15,000. Minneapolis, Minn., $16,000. Medford, Minn., $7,000. Near Fremont, O., $20,000. Salisbury, Conn., $19,000. Port Chester, N. Y., $30,000. Cheshire, Conn., $30,000.

At Gibraltar, Spain, a fearful easterly gale last night did great damage to the town and shipping.

CROP REPORTS.

The latest reports show, as a whole, that new corn in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa is in a condition anything but satisfactory. Much of the crop was reported soft some weeks ago, and the continuance of warm whataer has prevented its hardening to any appreciable degree. In many cases it has been found necessary to empty the cribs to dry the corn, which, in several localities, is being fed to stock. Very few counties in the three States mentioned have furnished reports of a more encouraging tenor, although there are some notable exceptions. In some portions of Indiana and on a few bottom lands in Illinois recent floods have worked great injury to the crops still in the fields. Corn from Kansas and Nebraska seed is very generally reported in a bad condition. While the yield in Kansas and Nebraska is fully up to the average, there appear to be good grounds for the belief that the quality is not so good as at first reported, and that there will be a shortage in the higher grades in those States. Corn in Dakota is as yet much of an experiment, being generally grown on the sod, and the results are uneven. In any event, there is too little in the Territory to affect the corn crop materially. The general tenor of the dispatches from the entire belt is of a gloomy character, and many farmers appear to be justified in holding fast to all the good corn in their possession for the purpose of preventing a scarcity of seed in the spring.

Season for cotton-picking since the occurrence of frosts, as in gathering the bottom crop, has been quite favorable. Local estimates of the aggregate product have not diminished, and the tone of general comment is comparatively hopeful. Indications for December favor a reduction of about 13 per cent from the crop of last year. The percentage of that crop now indicated for harvest is 83, as follows: Virginia 75, North Carolina 87, South Carolina 76, Florida 95, Georgia 82, Alabama 84, Mississippi 88, Louisiana 92, Texas 90, Arkansas 83, Tennessee 102. This report points to a crop of about 6,000,000 bales. It is possible that the cotton movement of the year may pass that limit.

The returns of corn production are more conservative than those of October and November from injury to soft corn by warm, moist weather north of the fortieth parallel. Corn that has been cribbed is in worse condition than for many years. The proportion of unmerchantable corn is therefore large. The final estimate of the quantity produced will fall a few million short of the indications of previous returns, or twenty-three bushels per acre. This estimate relates only to quantity, and makes no discount for inferior quality, which seriously increases the practical shortage.

Of wheat, the aggregate slightly exceeds 400,000,000 bushels.

The oats crop is about 4 per cent larger than last year, and exceeds 500,000,000 bushels.

The yield of rye and barley is a little less than 82, and buckwheat is reduced more than one-third.

The total value of the forest products of the United States per year is estimated at $700,000,000. In other words, forest products exceed the value of our crops of hay, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat, potatoes, and tobacco taken together. They amount to ten times the value of gold and silver, of which we make so much account, and to more than three times the value of precious minerals, coals, and other mineral combined."

BUSINESS AND FINANCE.

The deficit of the Egyptian budget for 1883 is £2,000,000.

Abbot, Page & Co., stock brokers, of London, Eng., have failed. Liabilities, £165,000.

Etta Orchard, Chicago, failed for $1,076. C. A. Damon, Madison, Wis., for $10,000. Tyler & Frost, Lynn, Mass., failed.

The rail-mills of the Albany (N. Y.) and Rensselaer Iron & Steel Works, which employ 400 men when busy, have shut down. Gen. Marvin says the condition of the labor market does not admit of the running of the mills. The Iron & Merchants' Steel Works are running, though not at full capacity, 3,000 hands. Less than half this number are now at work.

Slack & Gaville, Rushville, Ill., failed for $60,000. Blumenthal Bros., Palestine, Tex., for $35,000. P. Sullivan, Cincinnati O., for 35,000. Cashet, Davis, Cincinnati, O., $24,000. B. C. Wickam & Co., Tioga, Pa., for $80,000. Clay Oldham, Terrel, Tex., $25,000.

Dec. 15th.—The standard coal & iron Company, of Columbus, O., made an assignment for $200,000.

Last week Chicago led Philadelphia in the amount of bank clearings, but dropped a little further behind Boston than has been the case many times of late. The total clearings of the country were $1,145,148,333—over $250,000,000 less than were recorded the week before Christmas last year. Business in the West was good. The loss was mainly in the East.

D. M. & E. G. Halbert, of Binghamton, N. Y., dry goods, failed yesterday for nearly $400,000; assets, $100,000. Lane & Son, of New York, grain Brokers, failed for between $300,000 and $400,000. Sattler Bros., St. Paul, Minn., failed for $80,000. W. P. & A. M. Parsons, N. Y., for $500,000. Cross Wood Printing Company, Chicago, Ill., for $2,000.

The Goodwille—Wyman Company, N. Y. failed for $50,600. Beaver Lumber Company, Gamachiche, Ia., for $108,000. Chicago Furniture Company, for $16,000.

ARTICLES under this head do not necessarily receive the endorsement of the Editor: writers are responsible for their own views. Contributions solicited.

Communications.

JESUS CHRIST—WAS HE THE SON OF GOD?

"John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. * * * I saw the spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him, * * * and I saw and bear record that this is the Son of God." John 1:29-34.

This is John's testimony concerning Christ, that he was "the Son of God," and realizing the great importance of knowing whether John's testimony was true or not, we thought we would examine some of the evidences which bear upon the subject—knowing that the whole fabric of the Christian religion is built upon that assertion.

Let us see what is said concerning him. St. Luke informs us that there was in Nazareth, a city of Galilee, a virgin named Mary, espoused to a man named Joseph, a descendant of the house of David. That the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto her, to inform her that she should conceive "and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus." "He shall be great, and shall be called the son of the Highest, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David, and he shall reign over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end." St. Luke 1:31-33. Mary questioned this, she could not understand how she could be the instrument in bringing into the world "the son of the Highest," especially as she was unmarried. But the angel said unto her: "The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee; therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."—v. 35.

Here we have the declaration of the angel that the child was to be called the "Son of God." Shortly after this, Mary went to see her cousin Elizabeth, who, when she saw Mary, was filled with the Holy Ghost and she blessed Mary, and said, "Whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me." By the power of the Holy Ghost, she testified that Mary should be the mother of her Lord.

Joseph, who was espoused to Mary, when he found her with child, wished to put her away privately, and not bring her to a public trial or have her punished. "But while he thought on these things, behold the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife; for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost, and she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins."—Matthew 1:20, 21.

The angel here informs Joseph, as he did Mary, that the child should be called Jesus, and should be "of the Holy Ghost." Now the claim that Jesus should be born of a virgin, harmonizes with what Isaiah prophesied concerning him, 740 years before. "The Lord himself shall give you a sign: Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Emanuel."—(God with us.)—Isaiah 7:14.

Although there seems to be some dispute concerning how many of the prophecies of Isaiah really came through him, still the divinity of this quotation can not be questioned, as it does not come under the "disputed prophecies." Encyclopedia Britannica, IX edition, volume 13, page 389. Even if it did, it must have been inspired, no matter by whom it was written. Let us give it the benefit of a doubt, and read the following.

"We therefore simply chronicle the fact that the older critics appeal to Ezra 1-2 to the Septuagint version of the Book,—(produced between 260 and 130 B. C.) in which the disputed prophecies are already found."

From this we learn, that even those disputed were uttered at least 130 years B. C. and were made canonical at that time. We also read that:

"The individual who first gave public sanction to a portion of the national Jewish literature was Ezra, who laid the foundation of a canon. * * * The public authority he conferred on the law is the first step in the formation of the canon." Ibid, volume 5: 3.

This is why the "early critics" appealed to Ezra, because he was the first compiler of Jewish literature. Nehemiah was the second.

"This collection * * * was not completed before the close of the fourth century B. C. * * * Besides the historical books which preceded, there were in it four prophetic ones, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Isaiah, the twelve minor prophets. * * * Definite allusions to this prophetic collection do not occur till the second century B. C." Ibid, page 4.

We here see that the book of Isaiah was in the second canon, in the second century B. C., and let it be borne in mind, that the last prophet who wrote concerning Christ, (Malachi), died 400 years B. C., and that his writings were in the second canon as well as those of the other fourteen prophets.

Just previous to the birth of Christ, Cæsar Augustus sent forth a decree "that all the world (all Judea) should be taxed," and in order to comply, every one went to his own native city. So Joseph left Nazareth in Galilee, and taking Mary with him, went up to Bethlehem of Judea, the city of David, "because he was of the house of David." There being a large gathering in the city, on account of the taxing, "there was no room for them in the inn," so they took refuge in a stable, and there Mary brought forth her first son, who was Jesus the Son of God, "and they wrapped him in swaddling cloths and laid him in a manger." In that country there were shepherds in the field watching their flocks at night. "And, lo! the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and the angel said unto them, Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord; and this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling cloths, lying in a manger. The shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which has come to pass, which the Lord has made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger."—Luke 2:9-16.

Here we have more testimony from an angel concerning the child, that he was to be "a Savior, which is Christ the Lord," also certain signs were given them, and they went and found them true, and they found the child as the angel had told them, and they returned "glorifying and praising God, for all the things they had heard and seen." This is good evidence but we have more. When Jesus was born, wise men came "from the East to Jerusalem, saying, where is he that is born king of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the East, and are come to worship him. When Herod, the king, heard these things he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born, and they said unto him, in Bethlehem, of Judea. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared; and he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king they departed; and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy, and when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary, his mother, and fell down and worshiped him; and being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way."—Matthew 2: 1-12.

In the foregoing we have many important testimonies. First—the wise men coming from the East, with the knowledge that the "king of the Jews" had been born, they having seen his star which directed them to Jerusalem, where they came seeking him. They knew from the study of the stars that he was born. Second, Herod called the "chief priests and scribes, and learned from them that Christ was to be born at Bethlehem, at Judea, (a small town about six miles from Jerusalem on the main road to Hebron.) They knew from the prophecies, that it was there he should be born. And there he was born. Third, The wise men informed Herod concerning "what time the star appeared," and he accepted that as an indication of the time of the birth of Jesus.

Rev. F. W. Farrar speaking of the star which the wise men saw, says:

"That they (the magi, Persian or Chaldean astrologers) should have been deeply interested in any sidereal phenomenon, is in accordance with what we know of their studies, and that was a sidereal phenomenon of the rarest kind, [The conjunction of the three planets in the same constellation of the same trigon only occurs once in 794 years], and one which by the recognized rules of astrology was of stupendous significance, actually did occur at this very epoch we know by the independent and so to speak, accidental investigations of the great Kepler. [He found that the three planets, Jupiter, Mars and Saturn had been conjoined in pisces in A. U. C., in the year from the building of the city, i. e. Rome 748.]"

According to the Chinese astronomical tablets, if Wieseler's account of them can be relied on, a new star actually did appear in the heavens at this very epoch.

"That such an astrological event would naturally turn the thoughts of these Chaldeans to some great birth, and that its occurrence in the sign of the Zodiac which astrology connected with the fortunes of Judea should turn their inquiries thitherward, is again in accordance with the tension of Messianic expectations in those days, which especially affected the East."—Encyclopedia Britannica, volume XIII, page 671.

When the child was eight days old "his name was called Jesus, which was so named of the angel," before he was born.

Soon after this Joseph and Mary went to Jerusalem, and took the child to the temple to present him to the Lord, and to offer sacrifice. "And, behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel; and the Holy Ghost was upon him, and it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ. And he came by the Spirit into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus * * * then took he him up in his arms and blessed God, and said, Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people, a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people, Israel."—Luke 2: 25-32.

We are here told that Simeon had a revelation given him of the Lord, through the Holy Ghost, that he should not die until Christ came. By this power he knew the child, and testified concerning him, and having seen him, he then expressed his willingness to die—knowing that he had seen the Son of God, the Spirit having led him there for that purpose. And further: "There was one Anna, a prophetess, * * * of about four score and four years, which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day. And she coming in at that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."—Ibid, v. 36-38.

Soon after this, Herod, who had waited in vain for the wise men to return, when he saw that he was mocked of them, was exceeding wroth, "and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently inquired of the wise men."—Matthew, 2: 16. But the Lord had sent the angel unto Joseph, and he had appeared unto him in a dream, telling him to take Mary and the child into Egypt, and remain there until he came for him, as Herod would attempt to destroy the young child. So Jesus was saved from his hands.

After the death of Herod, the angel again visited Joseph, telling him in a dream to leave Egypt and go into the land of Israel. Now the fact of his being called out of Egypt was foretold 740 years before, the Lord speaking through the prophet, saying, I "called my son out of Egypt." Hosea 11: 1. Joseph started on his return, but hearing that Herod's son, Archelaus, reigned in Judea, he turned aside and went and dwelt in the city called Nazareth. When Jesus was twelve years old his parents took him to Jerusalem, to the feast of the passover, and while returning found they had left him behind. They, therefore, went back to seek him, and found him sitting in the temple "in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them and asking them questions, and all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers. And when they saw him they were amazed, and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? Behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing. And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business? And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them."—Luke, 2: 46-50.

Comment here seems unnecessary as to who his "Father" was. Joseph was his step-father, but here was Jesus in the temple instructing the doctors, doing his father's (God's) business.

When Jesus was thirty years old, John the Baptist, a prophet of God, came preaching and baptizing in the wilderness of Judea, saying, "I indeed baptize you with water, but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire." "And it came to pass in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove, descending upon him. And there came a voice from heaven saying, Thou art my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased."—Mark 1: 9-11.

We here have God speaking from the heavens, and acknowledging him as his "beloved son." This is the highest authority we can find, the voice of God himself. That God here claimed him as his son, is stated by three different persons—Matthew, Mark and Luke. Three good witnesses.

The next day John saw Jesus, and said: "This is he of whom I said after me cometh a man who is preferred before me . . . and I knew him not, but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, 'Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.' And I saw and bear record that this is the son of God."—John 1:30-34.

John had prophesied concerning one coming after him, and he here testifies that it was Jesus concerning whom he had spoken. Soon after this Jesus returned to Nazareth in Galilee, and on the Sabbath day he went into the synagogue, and the book of Isaiah was handed to him; he stood up and opened the book, and finding the place where it was written, read: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and of recovering of sight to the blind, . . . and he closed the book and gave it again to the minister, . . . and he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears."—Luke 4:18-21.

This scripture was spoken by Isaiah seven hundred years before, and Jesus testified that it was fulfilled in him that day, saying he "was sent" to do those works, and he then went forth and did them. He went about doing good, preaching the gospel, healing the sick, cleansing the lepers, restoring sight to the blind and hearing to the deaf, forgiving sins, casting out devils, raising the dead. He walked upon the water as upon dry land, stilled the tempest at a word, fed thousands from a few loaves and fishes, turned water into wine, etc.

When John the Baptist was in prison, his faith in Jesus seemed to weaken, although he had borne such strong testimony concerning him, so he sent two of his disciples to ask him, "Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another," as much as to say, are you the Savior that is to come, or do you look for him in some other person; but Jesus answered, "Go and show John again those things which ye do hear and see. The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them."—Matthew 11:4-6. Jesus sent them back to tell John "again" concerning the miracles he performed, and the gospel he preached, considering them evidence enough to convince him that he really was "he that should come," and that these evidences would drive all doubts from his mind, because this was fulfilling the prophecy which Jesus had read concerning himself. If this was evidence enough to convince John anew that Jesus was the Son of God, it should be enough to convince all.

But did Jesus really perform these miracles, or is the account of them only a legend; and was there ever such a person as Jesus Christ, or is the story of him only a myth? Leaving the many testimonies in the New Testament, we find that all believers in him claim that he did live. We also find the same corroborated by unbelievers. In fact it does not seem to be questioned by writers of any note. Instead of denying his existence, he is held up as an exemplary man, a wise teacher of morality in its highest degree.

"Even the most advanced sceptics do him homage. Spinoza spoke of him as the truest symbol of heavenly wisdom. The beauty and grandeur of his life overawed even the flippant soul of Voltaire. 'Between him and whoever else in the world,' said Napoleon I, at St Helena 'there is no possible terms of comparison.' 'If the life and death of Socrates are those of a sage,' said Rousseau, 'the life and death of Jesus are those of a God.' 'He is,' says Strauss, 'the highest object we can possibly imagine with respect to religion, the being without whose presence in the mind perfect piety is impossible.' 'The Christ of the gospel,' says Renan, 'is the most beautiful incarnation of God in the most beautiful of forms. His beauty is eternal; his reign will never end.' John Stuart Mill spoke of him as 'a man charged with a special express and unique commission from God, to lead mankind to truth and virtue.'"—Encyclo. Brit., vol. 13, 680.

Celsus, the first writer against Christianity (150-180 A. D.) says:

"Mary was divorced from her husband, and wandering about fell in with a Roman soldier, Panthera, who was the father of Jesus. Jesus being needy went down to Egypt and there learned all the tricks by which he could work apparent miracles, and on the strength of this knowledge he claimed to be God when he returned to Judea."—Ibid., vol. 5, 257.

This proves scripture statements, before quoted, that Jesus came out of Egypt, and that he was a worker of miracles—either by the power of God, or by magic. Was it by magic? By what power of magic could he give sight to the blind? It could not be done, unless those cured were his confederates and were only assuming blindness; but Christ cured those who were strangers to him, and who were known to have been blind for years, and even those who had been born blind. The same in regard to his healing the sick. He cured them by his touch: there was no magic in connection with it. He even healed them by his word, in commanding them to be whole. He healed a woman who had been afflicted eighteen years (Luke, 13:11). He cured the Centurion's servant, who was far away from him at the time of healing (Matthew 8:5). This must have been by some supernatural power—it could not have been magic. It must have been by the power of God, which was with him. As also in the case of the woman who touched the hem of his garment and was healed, although he was heedless of her at the time there was no opportunity for magic there, neither was she a confederate, for she had been sick and under the physician's care for twelve years, and could not be healed of any. (Luke 8:43). By what power of magic could he cause the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak, both of which he did; neither could he cast out devils by magic. The Jews knew he did it by some power not common to man, and said it was by the power of the devil. Christ did not appear unto Paul, on his way to Damascus, by magic, but by the power of God. Not only so, but this same power he gave unto his apostles, and in his name they did many wonderful works, by the power of God, through the Holy Ghost.

It was not by magic that the apostles spoke in sixteen different languages on the day of Pentecost, (Acts 2:4-11), neither is there any trace of magic in the following: "And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul; so that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them." (Acts 19:11, 12). These few citations should be enough to silence the story of Christ's working by magic.

But was he the son of Panthera, or the Son of God? Not only do men and women testify to the latter, but also angels and devils have proclaimed him the Son of God. When Jesus was in the country of the Gergesenes, two men possessed with devils met him. They were exceeding fierce, but when they saw Jesus "they cried out, saying, What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God." (Matthew 8:29). Again, in Caparneum, there was a man with an unclean spirit in the synagogue, and when Jesus entered he cried out, saying, "Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God." (Mark 1:24). Again, in the country of the Gadarenes, another with an unclean spirit met him, "And when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshiped him. And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the Most High God?" (Mark 5:6, 7). Devils and unclean spirits here confess and testify that he was the Son of God.

Jesus asked his disciples who men said that he was; they replied that some said he was John the Baptist, some Elias, others Jeremiah, or one of the prophets. He then asked "But whom say ye that I am? Simon Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God, and Jesus answered, blessed art thou, Simon Barjona; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it (the knowledge of his being the Son of God) unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven." (Matthew 16: 16, 17). We here have the testimony of both Peter and the Savior himself.

All the prophets spoke of him. It had been foretold hundreds of years before concerning his being of the seed of David; his coming at a set time; being preceded by John; being a prophet like unto Moses; being a priest after the order of Melchisedec; his entering on his public ministry; coming out of Galilee; entering publicly into Jerusalem; coming into the temple; being without guile; his preaching in parables; being a stone of stumbling to the Jews; being hated of them; being rejected of the Jewish rulers; that Jews and Gentiles should combine against him; his being betrayed by a friend; all of which were fulfilled in him; the latter by Judas, who went to the chief-priests, asking what they would give him if he would deliver Jesus into their hands. "And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver," which were afterward given for the potter's field, both of which events were foretold by Zechariah 587 years before. "So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver. And the Lord said unto me, cast it to the potter; a goodly price that I was prized at of them."—Zech. 11: 12.

The high priest said unto Jesus, "I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus saith unto him "Thou hast said," (i. e., it is as thou sayest, a Hebrew expression, found also in Greek and Latin, equal to "yes"). The chief priest and elders then presented their accusations against him, to Pilate, but "when he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him saying, "Have thou nothing to do with that just man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him." (Matt. 27: 19). Pilate then wished to release Jesus, but they all cried "let him be crucified!" He then asked what evil he had done, they still cried, "let him be crucified." "He then took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person; see ye to it." He then delivered Jesus into their hands. They took him and put a crown of thorns upon his head, marking his visage, and spat upon him, and scourged him; all three of which deeds were foretold by Isaiah 712 years before. They smote him on the head and face with a reed, prophesied by Micah 710 years before. They crucified him between two thieves and nailed his hands and feet to the cross, gave him gall and vinegar to drink, which events David foretold over one thousand years before; also the very words which Jesus spake upon the cross, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" (22d psalm); also the words of those who mocked him had been foretold. "He saved others (testifying of his miracles) himself he can not save." Reviling him they said, "He trusted in God; let him deliver him now; if he will have him, for he said, I am the Son of God."—Matt. 27: 43. We now have the testimony of the chief priests and elders that Jesus said he was the Son of God, and that was one of the reasons why they crucified him. "Then the soldiers took his garments and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat; now the coat was without seams, woven from the top throughout. They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be."—John 19: 23-24. And they did cast lots for it, fulfilling another of the prophecies of David. (Psalms 22-18.)

While Jesus was upon the cross, there was darkness over the land for three hours, and at the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice and died, and the veil of the temple was rent from top to bottom, the earth did quake, rocks rent, and graves opened. When the Centurion and they that were with him saw these things, they feared greatly, saying, "Truly this was the Son of God." (Matt. 27: 54). Isaiah also prophesied concerning his death; his being numbered with the transgressors; his intercession for his murderers; his being buried with the rich, (Isaiah 53), all of which were fulfilled.

The Romans and others left the bodies of all they crucified upon the cross until they died, although they sometimes lived from six to nine days, and were often devoured alive by ravenous birds and beasts of prey, but the law among the Jews forbade the bodies to hang after sunset, and those who were not dead were killed, hence the Jews were desirous of killing Jesus and the two thieves crucified with him, and they "besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away." Then the soldiers broke the legs of the two thieves, but when they came to Jesus, he was already dead, "so they broke not his legs," fulfilling the scripture, "He keepeth all his bones; not one of them shall be broken," (Psalms 34: 20), and typified in the passover (Exodus 12: 46), 1491 years before. To make sure that Jesus was dead, one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, as predicted by Zechariah (12: 10) 587 years before.

After he had been taken down from the cross and buried by Joseph of Arimathea, and had lain in the tomb three days, he was resurrected by the power of God, as he himself had foretold, saying that he must "be killed, and be raised again the third day." (Matt. 16: 21). Also spoken of in Psalms 16: 10, "For thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption." An angel testified to the women who visited his tomb that he had risen, saying, "Ye seek Jesus which was crucified. He is not here; for he is risen as he said." (Matt. 28: 6). After this he appeared unto many as is plainly stated by the four writers of the gospels. Mark tells us that "he appeared first unto Mary Magdalene;" after that unto two of the disciples on their way to Emmaus, then unto the eleven as they sat at meat. Luke says, "He showed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them (his disciples) forty days."

But we will produce another witness:

"It is not the gospels alone on which we have to depend. We have four works of which the authenticity has never even been assailed by any serious writer, namely; St. Paul's four epistles to the Galatians, Romans and Corinthians.—Encyclopedia Britanica, volume XIII, page 670.

Paul says, "Christ died for our sins, was buried, and then he rose again the third day; he was seen of Cephas, then of the Twelve. After that he was seen of about five hundred brethren at once; after that he was seen of James; then of all the Apostles. And last of all he was seen of me also." (1 Cor. 15: 3-8). He further states that he was taught the gospel "by the revelation of Jesus Christ," (Gal. 1: 12). But does he speak the truth in these statements? Let him answer. "Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not." (Gal. 1: 20).

As Paul is such a good witness, let us listen to his testimony. He says, "Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort." (2 Cor. 1: 13). And he further states that "it pleased God, who called me by his grace, to reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the brethren." (Gal. 1: 15-16).

David foretold Christ's ascension, (Psa. 68: 18), and Luke says that Jesus was "carried up into heaven." That he really ascended there, two angels testify, (Acts 1: 10). Also Stephen who "looked up steadfastly into heaven and saw the glory of God, and said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God."—Acts 7: 55, 56.

This is a brief outline of the account as we find it in the New Testament and as to the authenticity of the Books therein, we offer the following: "When Marcion came from Pontus to Rome (144 A. D.) he brought with him a scripture collection consisting of ten Pauline epistles. The Clementine Homilies (161-180 A. D.) used the four canonical gospels. In the second half of the second century there was a canon of the New Testament, consisting of two parts called the gospel and the apostle. The first was complete, containing the four gospels alone; the second was incomplete, contained the Acts of the Apostles and the epistles, i. e., thirteen letters of Paul, one of Peter, one of John, and the Revelation."—Encyclopedia Britannica, volume 5, pages 7, 8, 9. Space will not allow following the completion of the New Testament, but we will refer the reader to the article "Canon," Encyclopedia Britannica. Only adding that Cyril of Jerusalem, who died 386 A. D., gives a list of "the divine scriptures," in which "all the New Testament books are given except the Apocalypse."

That Jesus Christ was the Son of God, we have the direct testimony of Matthew, Mark, Luke and St. John, also Peter, John and Paul, and through their writings we have the same of God the Father, Jesus Christ, John the Baptist, Simeon, the Centurion, also angels, devils and unclean spirits. That he was the Son of God, is necessary for all to believe, "for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." And the time will come, when "every knee shall bow, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH.

"THE GREAT PHYSICIAN."

"A SMALL drop of ink falling like the dews of heaven upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions, think."

I lately treated of the wonderful wisdom of God from an astronomical standpoint. In this paper I will attempt to demonstrate the wisdom of God from the standpoint of chemistry. And I take as an axiom, the following: That if a man knew how to regulate his diet so as to adapt it to each month's need, sickness and disease would be comparatively unknown, life would be greatly lengthened, death would be the result of a grand old age, and man, in the possession of all his faculties, would pass away, "Like one who calmly wraps his mantle around him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

That this is a fact is evident from the great variety of herbs, fruits and vegetables, produced in the different months of the year. All of which when judiciously used, are conducive to health and longevity. Question. Was there ever a time, and if there was will it again return, when man's food was so regulated as to preserve him from decay, sickness and death? When Deity spoke Adam's physical organization into existence, and breathed into it the "breath of lives," all the different organs started into action, the lungs to inhale and exhale the breath of all lives, the heart to expand and contract, the arteries to carry the blood from the heart, the veins to return it, the liver to secrete bile, the stomach to secrete the gastric juice, etc. We see a fac simile of the commencement of Adam's physical life in the means used when a child is born asphyxiated, and in the resuscitation of the apparently drowned. The M. D. will breathe into the mouth of the asphyxiated infant, in order to inflate the lungs; will gently work the arms from the sides to a point above the head in order to expand and contract the chest; will gently knead, and press upward the abdomen in order to cause the diaphragm to rise and fall; and these means if carefully and rightly conducted, will succeed nine times out of ten. And all these things must have taken place in the body of Adam. Not perhaps by such manipulation, though we read that God did breathe into man's nostrils. And the ancient prophet employed them in resuscitating the dead child; for he put his mouth upon the child's mouth, evidently to inflate the lungs, and stretched himself upon his body, to impart animal heat. In these days we employ the warm bath. But whichever way Adam's body was vivified, the organs must have commenced action in precisely the same way as do those of the asphyxiated, or of the apparently drowned, with this difference, the one is lengthened and laborious, the other was instantaneous.

Adam was emphatically a child of God, born not of the flesh nor of the powers of the flesh, but through the power of God. He was consequently the child of an incorruptible parent; and being so was not subject to death's power, though at the same time that exemption was attained by natural means. The Lord having created this organization and bestowed upon it an independent viability, gave it into the keeping of an immortal spirit, in which to tabernacle. He then blessed it and gave it two commands, or laws to obey. The first was, "Increase and multiply and plenish the earth." The second was "Of every fruit that grows in the garden thou mayest freely eat, save of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge (which brings decay and death) of good and evil," and the penalty attached to the breaking of the second commandment was at the same time made known to him. "In the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die," more correctly, dying, thou shalt die, or decaying thou shalt decay; "for of the dust [elements] thou art, and unto it [the elements] shalt thou return." Now, if a literal death of the body be not meant by these words, then a literal resurrection of the body is not meant by the words, "He was buried and rose again."

The command, "Increase and multiply" being given to the first pair, when they were sinless and consequently free from the power of death, it follows that their children and their children's children would also have been free from it; for a sweet fount can not send forth bitter waters, neither do we gather thorns from grapes in spirituals any more than in temporals. It also follows that death could not enter amongst the children of Adam unless some of them transgressed, when they and their seed would be placed on a level with the brute creation, so far as decay and death are concerned, while their brothers and sisters who kept their first estate would remain on the same plane as the angels, but they having transgressed, became lower than them, for the suffering of death. That this was the design of God, namely: the replenishing of the earth with a deathless race, is evident from Genesis to Revelations; and in order to restore man to the estate from which he has fallen, the plan of salvation was given, the atonement effected, and the re-embodiment of the spirit promised.

The idea that the brute creation was endowed with eternal endurance of the body at the beginning, and that through man's disobedience death passed upon them, thus inflicting punishment upon the irrational creation because of sin committed by the rational, is utterly overthrown by that wonderful unwritten gospel, the testimony of the rocks. For it tells a very different story indeed, and demonstrates to a mathematical certainty, that life and death are the two prime factors in the history of the brute creation. That they commenced with the protozoans, and have continued through the æons of geology without break up to the present time.

A question naturally arises here. Why should the Almighty grant to the animals of the Adamic era exemption from death, and permit all those of pre-Adamite times to die? All of those in their forms displayed the same amount of wonderful skill in their adaptation to their modes of life, as do those of our own age. Each one alike proclaimed in constitution and build, "The hand that formed us is divine." Some of them were of monstrous size. All of them were worthy of eternal endurance, as much as those of our own times. All of them lived and died. And yet we are gravely told, "Death was not in the world until Adam fell." Our earth is one vast sepulchre of extinct races of pre-Adamite animals. And it does seem as if it was also the lunatic asylum of our solar system, with the very necessary article of keepers left out.

The general idea is that prior to Adam's transgression it was not blood but spirit that permeated his body, and that blood permeating it is the result of the fall and the cause of death. But blood is the life of the flesh. Moreover the idea is generally entertained, that at the re-incarnation spirit will again permeate the system in place of blood, thus constituting a spiritual body. Now the idea that the liver will then secrete a spiritual bile, the stomach secrete a spiritual gastric juice, the pores excrete a spiritual exhalation, etc., for remember that every organ and membrane of the body will be there, not a hair of the head will be lacking; and it is evident that these organs are there, not to lie idle, but to perform each its own part in the physical economy. The idea of a spiritual body having a spirit ether flowing through its veins is founded upon Paul's words, "Flesh and blood can not inherit the kingdom of God." But when we analyze the chapter, we find that the whole gist of the argument is, that "That which is born of flesh and blood can not inherit the celestial kingdom of God." It can inherit the temporal kingdom of God, through the adoption by water. But to inherit the immortal kingdom, it must be born of immortality. A spirit hath not flesh and bones. But a spiritual i. e. immortal body, hath both, and flesh is blood in a solidified condition. The French call blood "chair coulante," flowing, liquid flesh. A spiritual body eats and drinks, and performs all the varied functions of life; Christ after his re-embodiment ate and drank; and we have an account of two different kinds of food which he partook of, fish and honeycomb, and he is to drink of the juice of the vine anew with his disciples in the Father's kingdom; and of course they will also drink along with him, and they immortal! "There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body." The one becomes a child of God by adoption, and can dwell in his temporal kingdom. The other becomes a child of God by birthright, and dwells in his celestial, immortal kingdom. "Neither can they die any more; for they are equal to the angels." Just as Adam was when created, "and are the children of God being the children of the resurrection." The adopted child of God is of the church militant, the child of God by birthright is of the church triumphant. The one is born of flesh and blood by power of flesh and blood. The other is born of the grave by the power of God.

Retournous. What then was it that constituted Adam a creature of eternal duration? We read that God placed him in a garden to till and attend it. This demanded physical labor, muscular exertion. Now with each motion a certain amount of life's force is expended, and in order to maintain this life (muscular force) something had to be done. Accordingly we find that Adam was to eat of every fruit which grew in the garden, save one. Now the fact of his eating establishes another one; viz. that the processes of digestion, assimilation, absorption, circulation and excretion were going on in his body, ere he became mortal. Just as they were going on in Christ's body after he became immortal. We have heard some declare that Christ only made believe to eat, but did not really do so. Well, not wishing to place the Redeemer upon the plane of a mountebank, on the level of a slight of hand performer, I believe that he did eat and drink as stated, and will again do so, and is now doing so. If the food eaten by Adam while in Eden, its nutritive portions after undergoing the different processes mentioned would be appropriated to the needs of the body, the production of muscular force, etc., also the keeping in repair of the osseous system, in short to build up the whole system according to its needs, while the non nutrient portions of it would be carried off through the bowels, kidneys and pores, this again establishes a third fact; namely, that decay and corruption were in active operation in Adam's system, prior to his fall. But though he was provided with the food necessary for keeping the physical force in equilibrium, he, like all animal organizations, was liable to decay, and through decay sickness, and through sickness death, unless some means were provided which would regulate the functions of the different organs of the body, and cause them to act in harmony with the varying conditions of the physical system and of the seasons: And accordingly we read that God placed the Tree of Life in the midst of Eden. Moreover we find that it bore twelve manner of fruits, changing its fruits every month; and then through eating of these different fruits, each in its season, the organs of the physical structure were replenished according to their needs. The whole physical economy carried on with the greatest regularity, and in a manner calculated to eternally maintain it in the highest condition of physical perfection and robust health and strength.

Adam forfeited his right to this wonderful tree, and was shut out from the place wherein it flourished, and though the other fruits would preserve him for a time from death; yet being deprived of the wonderfully recuperating fruits of the tree of life, his system must gradually decay, and decaying it must finally die, and return to the elements. Verily, in the day that he ate of the forbidden fruit, decaying he commenced to die.

The wise man hath said: "The Lord hath made medicines to grow out of the earth, and he that is wise will not despise them." All of these in their times and seasons are valuable in the treatment of disease, when their properties are fully known, and their noxious portions eliminated. Every M. D. knows, or should know, the properties of these, and understand the process of eliminating the noxious portions of them, and of preserving the beneficial ones. The process is laborious and tedious, and only attained by a costly and complex apparatus, to say nothing of the work of gathering the medicines from far and distant regions; and all this toil, trouble and expense, to try and ameliorate the condition of the weak and ailing, and to preserve life. Man's laboratory is complex, costly, and fallible, yet is the means of incalculable good to mankind. But, lo, instead of all this complex, costly and cumbrous machinery, God has established a wonderful laboratory in the trunk of a tree. A miracle of miracles, and far surpassing the highest thoughts of man, and which is continually preparing the "Elixir of Life" for his children's use. And wonderful to relate this glorious tree so changes and modifies its productions that they meet all of man's needs through the ever-varying changes of the year, and are to him the source of eternal duration.

Truly the chemistry of God is wonderful. I am aware that the doctrine of atmospheric changes in the Adamic era will clash, more or less, with the ideas entertained by many, who hold that the atmosphere of that time was a genial, balmy, all-bracing, life-giving one; and such it may have been, possibly was, within limitations. Nevertheless, reasoning from holy writ, and using the two powerful weapons, science of logic and the inductive mode of reasoning, against which all forms of error must inevitably fall, it is certain that the times and seasons changed in very much the same way that they now do. True we read that no rain fell. But admitting this to be true, and we believe it is, there is no authority for saying that it was so in Adam's days; for the text says, "That the Lord had not caused it to rain upon the earth, (garden presumably) and there was not a man to till the ground," (pre-Adamic evidently). However, admitting that no rain fell in Eden, yet we read that a river ran through it, watering it, and then dividing into four branches. Now it is evident that the main river was a very large one; from the fact of the four large branches which it divided into; and this great river must have originated and been maintained in exactly the same manner as all other rivers are; namely by water from sea, lake and pond, being carried by the clouds and breaking upon the place where it originated. Rain then fell at the head waters of the river of Eden, (presumably in the Tauranian Mountain, for that is the geographical point from whence the before named heads are maintained, and falling these would undoubtedly cause variations of temperature) and density in the atmosphere, and as cause produces effect, and effect becomes cause and so on, ad infinitum. The whole of the earth must have felt, very sensibly felt, the effects of the rain-fall on the head waters of the river of Eden. Again, it is evident that this rain fall occurred at certain seasons, consequently there would be two atmospheric conditions, a wet one and a dry one. Like in Peru, no rain may have fallen in Eden. Nevertheless, a dew must have been present at all seasons, and during the rainy season upon the mountains, the atmosphere below must have been a great deal more humid than during the dry season. Again, Adam's cultivating and tilling the ground, establishes the fact of the growth, ripening and decay of the fruits. This again establishes the fact of the summer and winter solstices, or the sun's declination north and south, and all these positively declare the fall of the leaf, at which times there must have been an accumulation of decaying vegetable debris, along with its peculiar and particular effects upon living organism. In fact, from what we can gather from the Mosaic account, nature must have then presented exactly the same phenomena that she does now.

Moses wrote the facts revealed to him in plain language, unembellished by any of the gorgeous imagery that afterward became incorporated with the Hebrew language. He lived in the dawn of an alphabetical language. Ezekiel, Daniel, Isaiah made use of the grand imagery with which the bards of their age clothed their thoughts, that vivid word painting, so peculiar to the Hebraic poets; and it is quite probable that our ideas of things connected with the fall and expulsion of man, are largely formed from that very word painting, from the metaphorical, rather than from the actual. There is no doubt in my mind, but that almost the whole of the ancient mythologies are derived from traditions handed down from the days of Enoch at least. As the Garden of the Hesperides, (eastern lands), the fruits of which preserved those who ate of them in the bloom of eternal youth, evidently a relic of the story of Eden.

Also the account of Achilles, plunged by his mother in the celebrated river, thus rendering him invulnerable to any weapon, save in his heel by which she held him while in the water. Evidently this is from a tradition concerning the river of life. To which is strangely enough, added the remnant of the tradition "thou shalt bruise his heel, but he shall bruise thy head." And strangely enough Achilles is said to have been slain by a wound in this his only vulnerable part. However this may be, one thing is certain; viz., logic and the inductive mode of reasoning are powerful weapons, and their sequences are to the foolish scarecrows, but to the wise beacons.

J. J. STAFFORD.

Miscellaneous.

BISHOP'S AGENT APPOINTED.

Having been duly notified by Bro. Daniel Munns, of the Central Kansas District, of the recommendation of Hiram Parker as Bishop's Agent for said district, I therefore appoint him as such, ever praying that the Spirit of the Master may be with him in the discharge of all his duties.

G. A. BLAKESLEE,

Presiding Bishop.

BORN.

GRIFFITHS.—At Wheeling, W. Va., September 29th, 1883, to Bro. G. T. and Sr. H. R. Griffiths, a daughter. Blessed by brethren Josiah Ells and J. F. McDowell, and named Martha Lucretia.

DIED.

THOMAS.—At Lamoni, Iowa, October 13th, 1883, of dyspepsia, Sr. Carrie A., wife of Bro. O. B. Thomas. She was born September 7th, 1839, at Mantua, Portage county, Ohio. Her parents, Bro. and Sr. Horace Church, heard the gospel preached in 1844, by Elder Justus Morse; did not then obey, but continued to investigate until they believed; but as they had no opportunity to obey, they cherished the faith for years, teaching it to their children, and with them longed for an opportunity to obey. In the summer of 1866, she saw an article in the Detroit Tribune, stating that the saints were reorganizing, with their head quarters at Plano, Illinois, and that Joseph Smith, son of Joseph the martyr, was "prophet, priest and king," and that they rejected polygamy. This article, although written in derision, was received by her with tears of joy, and correspondence was at once commenced with the saints at Plano. An Elder was soon sent for, and with others she was baptized by Bro. E. C. Briggs, at Hopkins, Allegan county, Michigan, February 17th, 1867. Sr. Thomas was soon active with her pen, and ere one year had passed, had by its use assisted Bro. Charles N. Brown, a distant relative, of Providence, R. I., to see the truth, thus opening the way for the good work that has since been done in that place. She has also written and arranged several hymns and other poetry, some of which has been greatly admired,—"In the light" being used by the saints in every part of our land. Funeral services conducted by Bro. Joseph Smith, assisted by Bro. H. A. Stebbins.

BROWN.—At the home of his mother, about ten miles north-east of Stewartville, Mo., on the 14th of November, 1883, Zenas H. Brown, aged 21 years, 9 months, 6 days. Though not a member of the church, he led a good, consistent, moral life; and has now passed into the hands of a just God, without any warning of his death. He passed away very suddenly, falling dead on the porch while in the act of carrying in wood—heart disease was the cause. His father, Elder Chas. Brown, died of the same disease some years ago. Funeral sermon by Elder J. T. Kinnaman.

In life prepare for death;
And being prepared will give.
When death does come, though soon or late,
A guarantee to live. J. M. T.

SUMMERFIELD.—Near Plattsburg, Clinton Co., Missouri, on the 24th day of October, 1883, sister Sarah Ann Summerfield, aged 23 years, 2 months and 11 days. She lived a devoted and earnest saint since uniting with the church, in 1869. She had a premonition of her death, and was prepared and willing to go to meet her reward. Funeral sermon was preached by Bro. William Lewis, at Saints' Church north of Stewartville, where she was buried by her own request.

'Tis sweet to die, when one can go
To rest from troubles here below. J. M. T.

HEADRICK.—At Cross Creek, California, December 4th, 1883, of croup, Emily Alice, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Headrick, aged 4 years, 8 months, 14 days.

Prosperity is a nice and squeamish thing, and it is hard to find anything able to please men of a full and prosperous state: whereas a poor estate is easily comforted by the accession of many things which it wanteth: a good meal, a small gift, a little gain, or good success of his labor, doth greatly please a poor man with a very solid pleasure.

BUTLER & CLAY,
Manufacturers of
COTTON & WOOLEN HOSIERY,
WOOLEN MITTS, &c.,
903 North Third-st., St. Joseph, Mo.

Ladies' Seamless Wool Hose, two pairs ..... $1 00
Men's Seamless Wool Socks, three pairs ..... 1 00
Men's Cotton and Wool Socks, four pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 8 to 6 in., three pairs ..... 1 00
Children's Wool Socks, 5½ to 4½ in., four pairs ..... 1 00

CARDIGAN JACKETS.
Men's Cardigan Jackets, first grade, each ..... 3 00
Men's Cardigan Jackets, second grade, each ..... 2 50
Men's Cardigan Jackets, third grade, each ..... 2 00

WOOL MITTS.
Men's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 35
Ladies' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 25
Misses' Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 20
Children's Wool Mitts, per pair ..... 15

☞ Price of Ladies' Jackets given on application.
Goods sent free of postage on receipt of money.
A liberal Discount to Store Keepers.
Yours in bonds,
22sep6m BUTLER & CLAY.

C. A. WICKES,
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE AGENT,
LAMONI, IOWA.

Prompt attention given to all communications
I have a fine list of
Lands for Sale, also desirable Village Property.
Conveyance furnished to parties wishing to buy.
8d3m

EVERYBODY READ!
JOHNS & ORDWAY'S
NEW-BEST-OF-ALL-OFFER.

WE have secured the management of the PEORIA ART UNION, and want an Agent in every town and city in the United States and Canada to collect Photographs, Tintypes, etc., to be Copied and Enlarged, in all styles of the art, and at prices that Defy Competition. We are aware that the prices usually charged for FINE INDIA INK and WATER COLOR PORTRAITS are such that agents are unable to procure one half as many orders as they could if prices were reasonable.

FINE FINISHED PORTRAITS
Are in demand in every locality. In nearly every home may be found old Photographs, Tintypes, etc.; a large number of these old pictures are the only likenesses of Deceased Persons. The family and friends would gladly prefer a fine life-like picture in place of the poor faded ones, if they could get them at a price within their reach. The prices we have made are for these people.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
Agents who handle our work sustain no losses. We refund the full amount paid us for every India Ink, Water Color, Oil and Crayon Portrait, that can be shown to be imperfect. WE FURNISH A COMPLETE OUTFIT for $2.90, and upwards, according to size.

DON'T FAIL WRITE FOR WANT OF CAPITAL.
☞ We still want Agents for our Bed Spring and Iron Heaters in every place where we have none. Our object is and has been to give profitable employment to both sexes, who are out of work, or who are seeking to better their condition, and earn an honest living.
☞ If you will send us your address, we will send you full particulars of the business, and how to go to work.
We are yours in bonds,

JOHNS & ORDWAY, PEORIA, ILLS.
1dec

MASON & HAMLIN
Cabinet Organs.

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Winners of Highest Honors at all World's Expositions for Sixteen years. The only American Organ so distinguished at any.

Unrivalled for
QUALITY OF TONE!
BEAUTY OF CASES! and
GREAT DURABILITY!

Over one hundred styles, in great variety, suitable for Parlors, Churches, Schools, Halls, Lodges, etc., at all prices for Cash, from $22.00 upwards.

Every Mason & Hamlin Organ at whatever price is fully warranted, and may be relied on to be the best instrument of the kind in the world.

This is the testimony of all great Artists and Musicians in this country and Europe.

It is the Best Investment you can make for permanent enjoyment in your home.

Sold also on Easy Payments, or Rented until Rent pays for the Organ.

MASON & HAMLIN
Upright Pianos.

Introducing new and important improvements, adding to beauty of tone, power and durability.

CATALOGUES WITH PRICE-LISTS AND FULL DESCRIPTION FREE.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
149 WABASH AVE., CHICAGO.

ORGANS! ORGANS!!

THOSE wanting Organs, either for the House, Hall, or Church, will do well to remember that I keep and sell one of the best offered to the public in the west.

The A. B. Chase is the
BEST ORGAN FOR TONE,
FINISH AND DURABILITY,

That I am acquainted with, and will be furnished to buyers at Reasonable Prices. ☞ Don't buy a poor one at any price; but get something that you can rely on. I have been twenty-five years in the business, and speak from experience. ☞ List Catalogues furnished on application. Address,

NORMAN W. SMITH,
1d3m Box 29 LAMONI, Decatur Co., Iowa.

PUBLICATIONS ISSUED AND FOR SALE

BY THE (—)
Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church,
at their Publishing House in
LAMONI, DECATUR CO., IOWA,
And sent Free of Postage at prices named.

TRACTS.

|                                                                                                                                                                             |      |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| No. 1.—Mountain of the Lord's House, 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                    | 1 10 |
| No. 2.—Truth Made Manifest; 20c. a doz., per 100.....                                                                                                                       | 1 50 |
| No. 3.—Voice of the Good Shepherd; 5c. a doz., 100.....                                                                                                                     | 40   |
| No. 4.—Epitome of Faith and Doctrine of the Church and the Kirtland Temple Suit; 5c. per dozen, 25c. per 100, 10c. for 250, $1 for 500, per 1,000.....                     | 1 75 |
| No. 5.—The Gospel; price same as No. 4.                                                                                                                                     |      |
| No. 6.—The "One Baptism;" its Mode, Subjects, Pre-Requisites, and Design,—and Who Shall Administer; 16 page; 25c. per dozen, per 100.....                                   | 1 75 |
| No. 7.—Who Then Can Be Saved; 5c. a dozen, 100.....                                                                                                                         | 1 75 |
| No. 8.—Fulness of the Atonement; 25c. a doz., 100.....                                                                                                                      | 1 75 |
| No. 9.—Spiritualism Viewed from a Scriptural Standpoint; 30 pages; 30c. per dozen, per 100.....                                                                             | 2 25 |
| No. 10.—The Arrow Way; 8 p.; 15c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                                     | 1 10 |
| No. 11.—The Plan of Salvation; 30c. a dozen, 100.....                                                                                                                       | 2 25 |
| No. 12.—The Bible versus Polygamy; 2c. a doz., 100 1 75                                                                                                                     |      |
| No. 14.—Reply to Orson Pratt; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                                    | 1 75 |
| No. 15.—Brighamite Idolatry; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....                                                                                                                      | 40   |
| No. 16.—Polygamy: Was it an Original Tenet of the Church; 20c. a dozen, per 100.....                                                                                        | 1 40 |
| No. 17.—The Successor in the Prophetic Office and Presidency of the Church; 25c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                      | 1 75 |
| No. 18.—Rejection of the Church; 15c. a doz., 100 for.....                                                                                                                  | 1 10 |
| No. 20.—The "One Body;" or the Church of Christ under the Apostleship and under the Apostasy; 12 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                          | 1 40 |
| No. 21.—Truths by Three Witnesses; 3c. a doz., 100.....                                                                                                                     | 15   |
| No. 22.—Faith and Repentance; 15c. a dozen, 100.....                                                                                                                        | 1 10 |
| No. 23.—Baptism; 10 pages; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                                       | 1 25 |
| No. 24.—The Kingdom of God; 3c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                                       | 40   |
| No. 25.—Laying on of Hands; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                                       | 40   |
| No. 26.—Mountain of the Lord's House; 4 pages; 5c. a dozen, per 100.....                                                                                                    | 40   |
| No. 27.—The Sabbath Question; 20c. a doz., 100 for.....                                                                                                                     | 1 40 |
| No. 29.—A Vision of the Resurrection, from the Doctrine and Covenants; 5c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                            | 40   |
| No. 30.—Origin of the Book of Mormon; 15 cents a dozen, per 100.....                                                                                                        | 1 10 |
| No. 31.—What is Truth? and True Orthodoxy? and an Evangelical Church? Also, the Kirtland Temple Suit. Per dozen 5c., 100 for 25c., 250 for 50c., 500 for $1, 1000 for..... | 1 75 |
| No. 32.—Which is the Church? 5c. a dozen, 100.....                                                                                                                          | 40   |
| No. 33.—The Spaulding Story Re-Examined; 20c. a dozen, 100 for.....                                                                                                         | 1 25 |
| A Memorial to Congress; 8 pages; 15c. a dozen, 100.....                                                                                                                     | 1 10 |
| Trial of the Witnesses to the Resurrection; 32 pages; 6c. each, per dozen.....                                                                                              | 60   |
| Prophecy on the Rebellion; per 100.....                                                                                                                                     | 15   |
| ☞ An assortment of Tracts, 35 cents.                                                                                                                                        |      |
| COMPLETE SET OF TRACTS.                                                                                                                                              |      |
| Found in Timb Clorb turned in.....                                                                                                                                          | 75   |

JOSEPH THE SEER:
His Prophetic Mission Vindicated, and the Divine Origin of the Book of Mormon Defended and Maintained. Paper covers, 200 pages..... 35
☞ This is a reply by Elder W. W. Blair to Elder William Sheldon of the Second Adventist Society, and is an important work to be in the hands of the ministry of the Church, especially; and it is a most excellent one to be circulated both in the Church and among those without, abounding in proofs never before presented in defense of Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon.

THE SAINTS' HERALD is published every Saturday, at Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; Price, $2.50 per year.

JOSEPH SMITH - - - EDITOR.
☞ Money may be sent by Draft on Chicago; or by Post Office Order on Chicago; by Registered Letter to Lamoni; or by Express to Lamoni, Iowa. There is very little risk in sending small sums in an ordinary letter, though silver ought not to be sent in that manner.
☞ All remittances, orders, and business communications; also, matter intended for the office of publication, should be addressed: Joseph Smith, Box 82, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

INDEX TO VOLUME XXX.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| A Action of Baptism, The ..... 248 Adam ..... 59 Alcoholic Stimulants as Medicine ..... 219 America Settled by the Welsh Answered at Last ..... 453 Answers by Bishop Blakeslee Atonement, The ..... 106 B Baptism of John, The ..... 463 Baptism of the Holy Ghost ..... 753 Bearing Testimony of Christ Believer's Privilege, The ..... 739 Book of Mormon is the Stick of Ephraim ..... 565 Born Again ..... 74 "Born of the Spirit, and of the Spirit" ..... 60 Brigham Young's Disciple ..... 692 C Certificate of Character ..... 513 Character of Christ ..... 415 Charity ..... 498 Christian Religion, The Christ in Intermediate State ..... 433 Christ our Healer ..... 819 Churchy Churlishness ..... 254 Commendatory ..... 533 Conceptions of God ..... 311 Conference Items ..... 355 Corroborative Evidence for Latter Day Saints ..... 802 Counterfeit Coins ..... 238 Cutleries ..... 501 CONFERENCES. Alabama ..... 175, 518, 775 Birmingham, England 63, 485, 711 Central California ..... 726 Central Kansas ..... 647, 822 Central Nebraska 22, 255, 502, 615 Central Missouri 46, 302 Central Texas ..... 111 Des Moines, Iowa 22, 207, 455, 647 Decatur, Iowa 127, 222, 549, 615 Eastern Iowa ..... 127, 694 Eastern Maine 62, 255, 454, 727 Eastern Wales ..... 455 English Mission ..... 822 Fremont, Iowa 14, 127, 266, 438, 823 Far West, Mo. 14, 206, 614, 823 Florida ..... 63, 190, 391 Galland's Grove, Iowa 62, 329, 518 General Conference 257, 279 Independence, Mo. 191, 535, 662, 758 Kent and Legun ..... 790 Kewanee, Illinois 78, 428, 694 Little Sioux, Iowa 14, 206, 406, 662 London, Ontario, 46, 438 Manchester, England ..... 421 Massachusetts ..... 143, 500 Michigan ..... 484, 822 Montana ..... 239, 454, 679 Nauvoo and String Prairie 78, 319, 567, 679 Nevada ..... 630 Nodaway, Missouri 14, 174, 502, 790 North Central Kansas ..... 22 North-East Kansas ..... 407 North-East Missouri 158, 374, 759 Northern California 190, 723 Northern Illinois 158, 455, 711 Northern Nebraska 62, 302, 502 North-West Kansas 95, 239, 518 Philadelphia, Pa. 46, 518 Pittsburg, Pa. 46, 422, 646 Pittsfield, Illinois 223, 630 Pottawattamie, Iowa 95, 287, 454, 679 Saint Louis 79, 302, 486, 711 Salt Lake, Utah ..... 535 South-East Missouri ..... 759 South Eastern Illinois 62, 302, 647 South Eastern Ohio and West Virginia ..... 615 Southern California 22, 222, 662 Southern Indiana 78, 693, 807 Southern Nebraska 78, 319, 501, 710 Spring River, Kansas 46, 518, 775 Texas Central 319, 454, 743 Utah ..... 693 Welsh Mission, Wales 159, 255, 67 Western Maine ..... 679, 807 Western Wisconsin 287, 530 Wyoming Valley 22, 175, 454, 662 D Declaration of Independence, A new ..... 566 Defense and an Incident, A ..... 141 Description of Christ ..... 582 Differences of Opinion ..... 391 Dishonesty Begun at Home ..... 253 Divorce of Church and State ..... 389 Doctrine and Covenants ..... 344 DEATHS OVER TEN YEARS OF AGE. Achen, Anne ..... 391 Agner, Jacob ..... 663 Ames, Betsey ..... 63 Amy, Levira ..... 95 Babbitt, Loren W. .... 694 Bass, Etta M. .... 759 Bassett, Mary ..... 95 Belcher, W. W. .... 488 Berrier, Mark ..... 647 Bond, Charlotte, W. .... 47 Bowers, Nancy A. .... 175 Boyd, Annie ..... 112 Boydston, B. F. .... 712 Browning, Sarah ..... 112 Bronson, Amanda ..... 680 Bronson, Amos A. .... 407 Bronson, Amos W. .... 551 Brown, Charles N. .... 503 Brown, Zenas H. .... 588 Burt, Anne ..... 583 Butrick, Enos ..... 95 Carver, Robert ..... 303 Carrico, Betsy ..... 335 Carter, Mary Ann ..... 823 Caselman, Edward ..... 15 Cattell, Catharine ..... 503 Cook, Abiel ..... 143 Crake, B. M. .... 335 Croke, Beatrice ..... 335 Crouch, Jane ..... 648 Davidson, George N. .... 64 Devore, Elizabeth A. .... 335 Dillion, Calvin ..... 48 Eberling, Frederick ..... 127 Edmonds, Joel ..... 488 Edwards, Edward T. .... 223 Erickson, Henrietta L. .... 391 Evans, Mattie ..... 615 Ewing, Deborah ..... 303 Ewing, George ..... 303 Farrar, P. J. .... 471 Foss, Charles ..... 728 Fulks, Clara ..... 159 Fulton, Acksa ..... 63 Gaither, Sussia H. .... 695 Gallic, Nancy ..... 583 Garner, James ..... 503 Gheist, Sarah J. .... 648 Gibbs, Thomas E. .... 775 Green, A. J. .... 695 Griffith, Hiram ..... 63 Hall, Elizabeth ..... 159 Hall, John B. .... 407 Halliday, Henry ..... 550 Hansen, Elizabeth ..... 112 Hanson, John ..... 823 Hartshorn, Charlotte ..... 439 Hawkins, Elizabeth ..... 223 Hewitt, Isabella ..... 95 Hodge, John ..... 471 Holmes, Joseph H. .... 144 Holman, Susan T. .... 240 Hughes, Elizabeth ..... 455 Hull, Abi ..... 144 Humphrey, David ..... 175 Humphrey, Hannah ..... 503 Hutcheron, Mary E. .... 47 Jaques, William G. .... 503 Johnson, Magretha ..... 615 Jones, Daniel ..... 159 Jones, Eliza J. .... 529 Jones, Louisa S. .... 64 Jones, Melvina E. .... 191 Jones, William H. .... 175, 191 Karr, Thomas ..... 127 Keeton, Calvin ..... 619 Kemp, Alfred ..... 183 Lamb, John ..... 551 Lane, Sarah Ann ..... 759 Leavins, Martha ..... 303 Lewis, Silas ..... 47 Lisk, Dorothy ..... 775 Lloyd, John ..... 808 Lock, Catharine M. .... 303 Look, Stillman ..... 63 Loyd, Thomas ..... 551 Luff, Agnes ..... 439 Mabin, Emma ..... 488 Matthews, Catharine ..... 64 Matthews, David, Sen. .... 487 Matthews, Maria H. .... 695 McCaleb, Andrew D. .... 488 McKenzie, Mary Ann ..... 503 McMains, Roana S. .... 743 Miller, Lewis E. .... 15 Millikin, Lucy ..... 23 Morgan, Hannah ..... 439 Morton, Eloise ..... 63 Nash, Carissa ..... 391 Newman, Stephen F. .... 694 Oatley, James T. .... 79 Oman, George W. .... 95 Oman, William ..... 791 Owens, Hannah ..... 455 Patterson, William ..... 519 Paul, Leopold D ..... 255 Peterson, Dorthea ..... 695 Robert, Anne ..... 439 Riggs, Catharine ..... 391 Roberts, Mary A. .... 694 Roberts, Nancy ..... 695 Roby, Annie E. .... 15 Rogers, David ..... 743 Roundy, Annie ..... 47 Roush, O. L. .... 63 Runyan, Nicholas V. .... 127 Segrist, Emily ..... 728 Sherrard, Susan ..... 807 Short, C. W. .... 47 Smith, Chester ..... 439 Southwick, Ida B. .... 663 Stawert, Henry ..... 240 Stevenson, James ..... 127 Stone, Experience ..... 47 Strack, Michael ..... 47 Summerfield, Sarah Ann ..... 838 Sutton, Jane ..... 307 Sutton, Mary E. .... 79 Swarts, James ..... 112 Taylor, Ann B. .... 95 Taylor, Magdaline C. .... 64 Thomas, Benjamin ..... 791 Thomas, Carrie A. .... 835 Thomas, George ..... 240 Thomas, Jane ..... 455 Thomas, Mary ..... 23 Thomas, Mary Ann ..... 159 Thomas, Richard ..... 599 Thomson, Bertha ..... 288 Thorn, Elizabeth M. .... 375 Truman, Thomas J. .... 807 Twitchell, Irene ..... 300 Waldsmith, Leslie ..... 579 Walker, Harriet A. .... 445 Waterman, Sarah ..... 471 Webb, E. H. .... 408 Weston, Maria ..... 15 Wheeler, Lucy E. .... 728 White, George W. .... 48 Wickes, Elizabeth G. .... 207 Wildner, Levi B. .... 663 Williams, Daniel M. .... 329 Williams, Jane ..... 407 Young, Zilpha ..... 631 Zenor, Francis J. .... 631 E Electricity in the Press Room ..... 142 Epistolary ..... 689, 710, 739, 802 Evils of Sects ..... 238 Evolution ..... 678 Examine ..... 372 Explanatory ..... 43 EDITORIALS. Bishop Hunter ..... 713 Branch Expenses ..... 809 Bourbonism, The Last of ..... 489 Chamberlain's Speech ..... 442 Christian Era, The ..... 436 Dedication at Montrose "Deseret News" Reviewed ..... 393 Discourse by John Taylor, Extracts from ..... 537 Embezzlement ..... 145 Existence of God, The ..... 347 Extracts from Sermon ..... 506 Faith Cures ..... 34 Fatal Admission, A ..... 553 From Home ..... 129 General Conference ..... 242 Greeting ..... 1 Historical Reminiscence, A ..... 146 Home Again ..... 161 I can not Live my Religion Where I am ..... 745 Latter Day Saints ..... 165, 615 Let the Light Shine ..... 198 Letter from R. Patterson to R. Patterson 162, 177, 194 ..... 290 Matzos ..... 131 Mohammedanism ..... 17 Priest and Deacon ..... 361 Quakerism ..... 361 Questions and Answers 3, 18, 34, 50, 66, 82, 321, 347, 361, 410, 475, 490, 522, 539, 618, 650, 665, 746, 794, 810. Reported Discovery of Noah's Ark ..... 570 Reunion ..... 693 Reunion Meeting ..... 445 Revised Version, The ..... 225 Seeking for the Truth Self Government ..... 617 Separate and Hostile Sect, A ..... 226 Surfeited ..... 697 The How Of It ..... 729 To-day ..... 1 Un-American Methods of Romish Church ..... 522 Unprofitable ..... 273 Wants to be Cut Off Which is Right ..... 130 World Moves, The ..... 681 F Faith, Hope and Charity ..... 582 False Gods ..... 434 Fault Finding ..... 236 Fault Finding Article by Devil Killer ..... 482 Finance and Education ..... 420 Foolishness of Preaching, The Fourth at Minersville, Kan. .... 549 From Elder Gurley ..... 483 From the Region ..... 738 Future of Judaism ..... 499 G Gems ..... 583 General Assembly, That God is Love ..... 327 God's Gifts to the Church ..... 784 God's Infinite Love ..... 219 Gospel Antiquity ..... 301 Government of Children, The Good Resolutions ..... 662 Grafting in of Gentiles, The Great Speech by Castelar ..... 121 606 H Handwriting of Famous Men. "Herald" a Weekly, The He Shall Know "Holy Bible" Holy Ghost, The "I am the Vine, Ye Are the Branches" I Don't Want To Immortal Mortal Immortality of the Gospel Indian News Infant Baptism Infant Resurrection Infidel and Believer Infidelity Ingersoll Reviewed Inspiration Iowa to Nebraska Is the Age of Miracles Past? .. 40 | J Jesus Christ—Was He the Son of God ..... 832 Jewish Problem, The ..... 295 John's Baptism ..... 236, 516 Joseph Smith's First Reply to L. O. Littlefield ..... 530       Ditto Second Reply ..... 576       Ditto Third Reply ..... 628       Ditto Fourth Reply ..... 705 Judge Hunter on Polygamy ..... 708 K Krishna and Christ, Parallels Between ..... 722 L Latter Day Saints ..... 169 Latter Day Saints and Disciples in Western Ohio ..... 624, 640 Letter from Elder Caffall ..... 332       " " " J. D. Pegg ..... 141       " " " Kelley ..... 465       " " " Mills ..... 659       " " " Sr. Emma ..... 721 Littlefield's Second Letter ..... 545       Third Letter ..... 595       Fourth Letter ..... 644 M Meditations ..... 13, 142, 238, 253 Men's Hearts Failing Them for Fear ..... 388 Midnight Cry of Matt. XXV ..... 74 Ministerial Catechisms ..... 154 Moral Courage ..... 301 Mormon Question, The ..... 367 Mormons and Polygamy ..... 330 Mormonism vs. Mormonism ..... 293 Mosaic Records ..... 459 My Religion ..... 563 MARRIAGES. Bowen—Farrow ..... 288 Brayton—Leather ..... 694 Briggs—Mallory ..... 807 Brunson—Whiteaker ..... 175 Bullard—Gorcham ..... 240 Christianson—Green ..... 391 Clark—Weston ..... 407 Cole—Tyler ..... 375 Domonoske—Price ..... 95 Dove—Hatt ..... 529 Enfson—Gunderson ..... 23 Fleming—Davis ..... 407 Foote—Briggs ..... 823 Gibson—Ghriest ..... 615 Hall—Coppise ..... 63 Hanson—Leonard ..... 807 Hawkins—Clapp ..... 712 Hongas—Simonds ..... 143 Howard—Reams ..... 95 Hutchings—Dinsdale ..... 15 King—Brown ..... 663 Lapworth—Harding ..... 375 Lockway—Erb ..... 63 Mathews—Hill ..... 807 McCormack—McKim ..... 807 McEwen—Lake ..... 455 McKee—Chase ..... 743 McMillen—Hardy ..... 63 McReynolds—Dawson ..... 47 Messick—Cole ..... 23 Moffet—Adair ..... 775 Olson—Hongas ..... 823 Parish—Swift ..... 137 Peters—Haberjan ..... 303 Porter—Tripp ..... 709 Powell—Graff ..... 272 Rainbolt—Weeks ..... 303 Roberts—Kemp ..... 743 Ryan—Hart ..... 759 Salyards—Smith ..... 423 Scariff—Coster ..... 63 Shaw—Cottam ..... 175 Sheehy—French ..... 823 Shorts—Henry ..... 455 Smith—Bowers ..... 503 Taylor—Morton ..... 47 Valentine—Woodman ..... 15 Vredenburg—Myers ..... 127 Whiteaker—Orick ..... 63 White—Pierce ..... 303 Wickes—Lewis ..... 615 Willey—Hayer ..... 823 Wilke—Powell ..... 775 Wilfong—Davis ..... 680 Woolcot—Beecher ..... 423 Yarwood—McKee ..... 175 MISCELLANEOUS. Bishop's Report ..... 329 Notice to the Elders ..... 486 Order of Enoch Report ..... 79 Report of Committee on Kirtland Temple ..... 560 Report of Nebraska City Building Committee ..... 727 Report of Reunion Meeting Committee ..... 727 Western Maine District ..... 519 N Nature Made Them ..... 216 Neglect Not to Assemble ..... 594 Negroes, The ..... 327 Not Born in Sin ..... 140 O Only and True God, The Open Letter, An ..... 513 P Parents' First Lesson, The Past, The Peace Peculiar Briefs Persecution ..... 301, 470, 500, 565, 72 | Plain Words to Plain People ..... 496 Polar Sea, The ..... 76 Polygamy Condemned by J. J. Strang ..... 124 Polygamy Is Not Mormonism, Prayer ..... 76 Pray for Forgiveness ..... 385 Precious Metals, The Prehistoric Cemetery, A Prophecy Fulfilling ..... 498, 499, 661 POETRY. Curiosity, a Literary Dream of Heaven, My Dream, Pilate's Wife's Exhortation ..... 72, 657, 535, 328 Homeward Bound ..... 295 Hour and Work, The In Memoriam ..... 59, 240 January ..... 8 Jew's Prayer, The Kewanee Conference Meeting Letter in Verse, A Life Beyond the Tomb Lines to an Elder in the Field Memorial to F. G. Smith, A Minister's Daughter, The Old Year, The O, The Angel Bright Has Come Resignation ..... 801, 448, 774, 152, 216, 721, 386, 137, 496 Sermon in Rhyme, A Thoughts on Conference Morning Thrust in Your Sickle Truth Immortal Virgin, The Foolish Voices of the Blest What's the News Who Will Go and Work To-day ..... 248, 367, 169, 24, 673, 493, 465 Q Questions Answered ..... 534 Questions Answered by Bishop Blakeslee ..... 533 R Re-Baptism is Essential Re-Baptism, Is it Essential Redemption of Zion Rejection of the Church, The Reply to Bob Elvin's Lies Resurrection, The Reunion Meeting Running in Debt ..... 771, 532, 204, 400, 435, 593, 479, 390 S Sacrament, The Scripture Illustrated Sermons out of Church Short Sermon on Grace Signs of Reform in Utah Situation, The Sketches of Conference Sermons Some Curious Statistics Something for Consideration Something in it Spirit of Truth and God of Saints Spring-time Again Stick of Ephraim Suicides in 1829 ..... 435, 218, 468, 836, 125, 109, 676, 371, 386, 404, 75, 581, 217, 368, 310, 817, 76 SERMONS BY Blair, W. W. .... 673 Blakeslee, G. A. .... 56 Campbell, Duncan ..... 137 Gillen, J. W. .... 313 Gurley, E. H. .... 184 Harvey, J. M. .... 448 Kelley, E. L. .... 24, 342 Lambert, J. R. .... 8, 607 Smith, Heman C. .... 430 Smith, Joseph ..... 88 Springer, B. V. .... 352 Stebbins, H. A. .... 415 T Talmage on Evolution Temporal Law, The Terrible Plagues of History The Seventh Day Adventists The Two Gates and Ways The Year and the Calendar Thief in the Kingdom, The Thoughts Suggested by Viewing a Locomotive Three Important Questions Tornado Season, The To Sisters of Lamoni Branch Triple Testimony, or Does God Change Truth—Acceptable Wherever Found Truth Confirmed Truth Seekers Truth the Way, The Unconscious Influence Warm Milk as a Health Restorer Warning to Blasphemers Watch and Pray What is Death? What Shall I do? What's In a Name? Why Do It? Who Am I? Who is from Heaven? Will Power Woman's Work Wonderful Land, A Writers, a Few Words to Year's Disasters, A ..... 123, 13, 329, 204, 594, 688, 218, 44, 331, 582, 318, 239, 126 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|